POLL 5 TO 1 ANTI-VOLSTEAD

...SIDE BUILDING TO RISE BESIDE TRIBUNE TOWER

Expansion Brings It; Work Is Begun.

Passing years, marking full forward strides in the growth of THE TRIBUNE, have found it outgrowing its workshop, and again and again new structures have risen and been extended so that its new needs might be met.

And so it is today. Less than a year ago THE TRIBUNE moved into its home, Tribune Tower, and the spacious newspaper factory then set up in conjunction with the plant occupied five years earlier was thought adequate to meet the pace of at least a few future years. Today that equipment is burdened mightily to send forth its product, and THE TRIBUNE must build new workrooms. So laborers are tearing down the old garage building just north of the Tower, and in its place will rise a structure which will greatly expand its present capacity and output. The site of the ground occupied by the old garage and shop structure is 100x300 feet and between that and the Tower is an old alley, 20x300 feet, purchased by THE TRIBUNE from the city.

Will Cover Tribune Square.

The building now in immediate contemplation will mark the first step in a series of construction operations which when completed will cover Tribune square with a great newspaper publishing office building 220x300 feet in area, the whole blending architecturally with the beauty of the mother structure, the Tower.

The building to be immediately constructed, at a cost of approximately $1,000,000, will consist of three basements and a presswork floor, the temporary roof to be level with the upper driveway of Michigan avenue. It will be 118 feet wide on Michigan avenue by 122 feet deep on Illinois street. Its foundations will extend to bed rock, and will be planned to support the towering superstructure of the near future.

The problem of assembling the great presses, almost human in their function of taking in great rolls of newsprint, and releasing a few seconds later a complete, neatly folded newspaper, must be met as fast as the need is apparent.

Twenty More Press Units.

Twenty new press units have been planned for the new building, which will make eighty units in all, and materially increase the output of the present equipment. The eighty units will be sufficient to have papers up to 64 pages rushing forth from ten press centers constantly during the publishing hours.

Or, to put it another way, the new equipment would produce, every week night, one million TRIBUNES of the present size, as compared with the practical limit capacity at present of 750,000 daily copies. It might send out 500,000 of 96-page newspapers, or 500,000 of 64 pages.

THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE capacity will be increased by the new presses from its present 1,250,000 to 1,400,000 copies.

Plan for the Future.

But the plans do not cease here. Tribune engineers, looking forward to meeting great capacity ahead, have prepared plans for 170 press units when the building program for the whole of Tribune Square is complete. With 150 press units, and with other necessary machinery for paper handling and conveying, all of which has been planned, THE TRIBUNE will be able to send out to its readers a total of 1,200,000 copies every week day, and 1,500,000 each Sunday.

Newspapers grow—or decay—in two ways. That is in circulation and advertising patronage. Both growths require increases in mechanical equipment, and to demonstrate how the growing needs of THE TRIBUNE have repeatedly exceeded its equipment, two tables are given below, one showing the increase in TRIBUNE circulation, the other in columns of advertising.

In ten years the circulation of THE TRIBUNE, both daily and Sunday, has almost doubled, as shown by the first table, which indicates the net paid circulation at annual periods beginning with and ending Sept. 30:

	Daily avge.	Sunday avge.

THE ARTFUL DODGERS

JUDGE REVEALS CLOTHES OFTEN CAUSE DIVORCES

Clothes help make mighty divorce statistics, Judge William Nelson Gemmill of the Criminal court points out in his book, "The Kingdom of Hearts," published yesterday as a resumé of some of his experiences of twenty-two years on the bench.

"It is the duty of the dressmaker," the judge writes, "to fit the filmy garments to the airy fairy Lillian, but it is the duty of her husband to fit them to his pocketbook. When he fails and throws up the sponge, it is the duty of the judge."

Extravagance, Judge Gemmill recalls, is a familiar word in his court, but a difficult one to evaluate.

"How many new hats ought a good wife to buy per annum?" the chapter on "Clothes" queries. "And what ought she to pay for each when her husband's income is $1,000 a year?

"When you have solved that, increase his income all the way up to $10,000, and decrease it down to $400 per year, and guess again.

"All these must be judicially answered, or the strike won't be settled."

Other reflections include articles on "The Law of Love and Love as Law," "Alienation of Affections," and "Genius and Eugenics."

DEATH CLAIMS DAUGHTER AND MOTHER IN DAY

A mother and daughter who died the same day within a few moments of each other, will be buried together Tuesday.

The mother, Mrs. Jane Kirk, 65 years old, died Friday afternono at 942 North Homan avenue, and her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Wegner, 32 years old, passed away at 4803 North Cicero avenue, a quarter of an hour later. In both cases the cause of death was influenza. Neither of the women had been ill more than a week. Mrs. Kirk is survived by one son and three daughters. Mrs. Wegner left her husband Charles, and two young daughters.

A joint funeral for the two will be conducted from Hursen's chapel, 2346 W. Madison street, on Tuesday at 9 a. m. Interment will be at Oakridge cemetery.

Alleged Annoyer of Girl Saved from Mob; In Cell

Saved from an angry crowd by the police after he is alleged to have made advances to Miss Hazel Nielson, 23 year old waitress in a restaurant at 516 North Wells street, George Cramer, colored, 1241 South Peoria street, was sentenced to sixty days in the Bridewell by Judge Francis Borrelli yesterday.

Rob Ex-C. P. R. Official's Wife of Gems at Nice

NICE, France, March 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Walter Baker, wife of a former official of the Canadian Pacific Railway company, reported today that she had been robbed in her hotel of jewelry valued at 200,000 francs (more than $10,000).

Insull Denies, by Radio, Talk of Separation

New York, March 20.—(AP)—Rumors of a separation current when Samuel Insull, Chicago public utility magnate, and his actress wife sailed on different steamers today, were said to be "without the slightest foundation" in a wireless message tonight from Mr. Insull on the Aquitania to the Associated Press. The message added:

"Mrs. Insull will join me in Paris or London and return with me early in May."

MRS. INSULL "IN TEARS."

Samuel Insull, public utilities magnate, sailed from New York for London early yesterday on the liner Aquitania. A few hours later Mrs. Insull sailed on the S. S. Conte Rosso for Italy. It was then explained that they went on different ships because Mrs. Insull had been unable to obtain passage on the same ship with her husband.

The separate sailings precipitated rumors that there was a separation. Mrs. Insull declined to discuss these as she sailed, saying only, "I am very much indisposed."

Mrs. Insull Ill with Cold.

Associated Press dispatches from New York stated Mrs. Insull was weeping as she went aboard, and that she declined to give any explanation for her tears. She was said to be suffering from a severe cold.

Mrs. Insull, known as "Gladys Wallis" before she forsook the stage twenty-five years ago to marry the public utilities genius, went back on the stage a year ago. She appeared in Chicago in a revival of Sheridan's "A School for Scandal" for the benefit of charity—a venture in which her husband and her son, Samuel Jr., gave her enthusiastic support.

Some months after her Chicago appearance Mrs. Insull and her company went to New York, and there again her Lady Teazle was played for a considerable time.

Brother Scouts Separation Story.

Martin Insull, brother of Mr. Insull, returned from New York yesterday to deny vigorously any rumors of a separation.

"That's all bunk," said Martin Insull bluntly. "Mrs. Insull is to join her husband in England and both of them plan to be gone until May. They went on separate boats simply because Mrs. Insull could not obtain passage on the Aquitania, a fact which distressed her exceedingly.

"I dined with my brother and Mrs. Insull only night before last, and I have just arrived back from New York."

Bernard J. Mullaney, vice president of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, and other business associates of Mr. Insull also denied the reports of a separation or of any such intention. Mr. Mullaney said Mr. and Mrs. Insull had been planning their trip abroad for some time.

MIDNIGHT FIRE IN WABASH AVE. LIGHTS UP LOOP

Thousands of homeward bound theatergoers gathered last night to view a spectacular 4-11 fire which broke out in a five story building at 159-161 North Wabash avenue at 11:30 o'clock.

Most of the damage was confined to the fourth and fifth floors, occupied by the Reliance Hat company and the Proskauer-Cone company, makers of women's millinery. The flames licked through the roof shortly after the firemen arrived, and the entire loop was illuminated.

Firemen fought the blaze from the elevated structure. Considerable damage was done by water to the firms on the lower floor. These include the Richard Grossman company, Monarch Hat works, the Charm Hat company, and the Almo Hat company. A restaurant and a barber shop occupy the first floor.

MOLTEN METAL KILLS 21 IN IRON FOUNDRY BLAST

Birmingham, Ala., March 20.—[U. P.]—Five deaths were added tonight to the toll of the furnace explosion in the Woodward Iron company plant here today, which now has taken a total of 21 lives.

Four of the six men in hospitals suffering from the terrible burns of molten metal are not expected to live.

The men were trapped in a stream of sizzling, flowing white hot iron in the plant today when an 80 foot steel furnace toppled and fell, and from a huge crater in its top sent rivulets of the molten iron about the room, trapping the fleeing workers.

SOUTH AMERICA URGED TO FORM ITS OWN LEAGUE

Europe Aroused by Brazil Veto.

Sees League Dying

BLACKBURN, Lancashire, England, March 20.—(AP)—Former Premier Ramsay MacDonald, referring in a speech here today to the league of nations meetings at Geneva, said, "We have just witnessed one of the most tragic failures British diplomacy has ever met. It is doubtful now whether the league will survive."

He said Sir Austen Chamberlain, the foreign secretary, has tried his "free hand" and had committed suicide by it.

"It was not long since," he continued, "that Great Britain stood well in the forefront of European councils. Where are we today?"

He declared the present position of the league was not due to Brazil refusing to vote for Germany, but to the fact that five or six gentlemen forgot the league and tried to create "a triumvirate," with disastrous results. He asked what would happen if the same men were going to try to reform the league's council.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, March 20.—Whatever Brazil's motive in breaking up the league of nations meeting at Geneva, it may have done a service both to America and the league of nations, for it has raised the question of what is South America doing in the league, anyhow, in acute form.

This query was voiced publicly for the first time last night by L. S. Amery, British colonial secretary, in a speech in which he said it was his personal opinion that the South American countries would do much better to have a league of their own to attend to their own affairs instead of interfering in European affairs, in which they have not the remotest interest.

Upset Plans of Europe.

British opinion is hearkening in this direction, and I am told the same idea is gaining ground on the continent. A leading diplomat told me today that in the opinion of many leading Europeans the position of the South American states in the league of nations is altogether anomalous.

They may, by their votes, upset the plans of Europe, and even plunge Europe into war.

In addition to this consideration, they add no strength to the league, but really are a weakness, for, divorced as they are from European responsibilities, they are liable to play purely a selfish game and become the centers of intrigue and bargaining.

May Be Kicked Off Council.

In the recent case it is generally accepted as a fact that Brazil acted as a catspaw for Premier Mussolini, who wishes to smash the league and substitute his world Latin bloc, which he hopes to dominate. There is a strong report here that he was aided in gaining the Brazilian support by the Vatican, which sees in the world Latin bloc a world Catholic bloc, with which its influence would be most powerful.

It is not likely that any open effort will be made to purge the league of the South Americans, but it is quite likely when commissions are appointed to consider the reorganization of the league machinery the South Americans will be left out. If the reorganization means full reconstruction of the council, and the present league temper continues, Brazil certainly, and probably all the South American states, will be omitted from the new council.

PLAN SUPERCOUNCIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, March 20.—Places will be reserved for the United States and Russia on a "supercouncil" composed of seven members and with powers superior to those of the regular league council, which the reorganization committee will recommend to the assembly of the league of nations in September as a solution to the difficulties which permitted Brazil to bar Germany from entering the league. THE TRIBUNE is informed from the most reliable source that the French, British, and Japanese are already behind the plan and Italy is expected to accept it.

This "supercouncil" will be made up of Great Britain, France, Italy, and Germany as a starter.

With such a council the big powers

3,500,000 Vote on Issue of Wet-Dry

[Copyright: 1926: By United Press.]

New York, March 20.—Newspaper polls on prohibition, taken in various parts of the country, were compiled tonight with returns from various groups of papers. The results purported to show a 5 to 1 public sentiment in favor of some change in the prohibition laws.

The wets are jubilant and the drys are aloof. Anti-Saloon league officials maintain that the straw ballots were the work of liquor propagandists and that the drys, being satisfied with existing conditions, could not have been expected to vote.

3,500,000 Votes Cast.

On the basis of returns compiled by the United Press tonight it seems that some 3,500,000 votes have been cast.

The total may exceed considerably even that figure since some newspapers did not join with the 425 which in three separate groups coöperated in printing prohibition ballots. Then, too, some of the final figures will not be available until next week.

Outstanding in interest to nonpartisan observers is the support accorded prohibition in the smaller towns. While most localities with a population of under 10,000 joined with their neighboring cities in asking either for modification or repeal of prohibition, there were many such towns voting strongly for the existing laws.

On the other hand, no city of more than 100,000 population favored the reign of Volsteadism.

New York Strongly Wet.

New York, represented in three polls, was "wet" by a wide majority. Among the nation's larger cities, Boston and Atlanta were the two in which prohibition made the best showing.

The polls did not show as much geographical variance as was expected. Kansas and the Carolinas are believed to be the only states which this poll puts assuredly in the dry column.

The polls already have occasioned comment in congress and in the opinion of wet leaders are to be used in backing various bills seeking modification.

Result of Three Polls.

Results of the three nation-wide polls as printed in coöperating newspapers follow:

Newspaper Enterprise association, 375 newspapers coöperating:

For prohibition	397,376
For repeal	499,178
For modification	777,753

New York Daily News and others coöperating:

For wine and beer	340,401
Against wine and beer	35,939

Hearst newspapers and others coöperating:

For prohibition	187,201
Against prohibition	885,200
For wine and beer	1,010,224
Against wine and beer	178,785

The grand total of these are:

For prohibition	511,981
Against prohibition	2,427,679

Papers participating in one or another of the three polls represented twenty-nine states, covering all geographical sections of the country.

The largest poll reported by any individual paper among those taking the vote was that by the New York World—112,198 for repeal or modification and 2,141 against. The Daily News, New York's picture paper, received 101,124 votes for repeal or modification to 2,035 dry. The Los Angeles Examiner had 88,329 votes for repeal or amendment to 10,072 for Volstead.

TRAIN HITS AUTO; ONE MAN KILLED AND TWO INJURED

One man was killed and another seriously injured when the automobile in which they were riding was struck at 155th and Halsted streets, Harvey, early this morning by a Grand Trunk passenger train. A third man in the party, James Vincent of 331 South Trumbull avenue, was slightly injured.

The man killed was Thomas Pintozzi, also known as Tom Nolan. The one more seriously injured is Ernest Ross of 732 West Madison street, owner of the car. Neither he nor Vincent could give the address of Pintozzi. Both said they were on their way to Chicago from Cincinnati. All three were carrying large sums of money.

The injured men were taken to the Ingalls Memorial hospital in Harvey.

Pintozzi's death, with that of another man killed when a truck crashed into a surface car at Cicero avenue and Palmer street, raised the county total for the year to 158.

Police said that Anton Christ, 5624 Higgins road, the truck driver, had been drinking. The truck, swerving from side to side of the street, suddenly rammed the street car. Johning from side to side of the street, suddenly rammed the street car. John Liddy, 23 years old, 5328 West Kinzie street, who had been standing on the front platform of the street car, was crushed to death. Christ received a fractured skull.

PRESIDENT ON WAY TO CAPITAL AFTER FUNERAL

Father Buried with Simple Rites.

BULLETIN.

New York, March 21.—(Special.)—The special train carrying President Coolidge and his wife from Vermont to Washington passed through here at 2 a. m. today. The train stopped six minutes at the Pennsylvania station. The President had gone to bed when the train left New Haven.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Plymouth, Vt., March 20.—[Special.]—"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help."

With those words of the Psalmist-King, the preacher voiced the long farewell of venerable John Coolidge, father of the President of the United States, to the hills and the neighbors he loved.

The body was lowered into the grave at 2:40 o'clock this afternoon. Two hours and twenty minutes later the President reached his special train waiting at Woodstock, the shire town, fifteen miles distant, and started on his way back to the cares of state. He will reach Washington between 6 and 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

Family at Graveside.

With him at the graveside in the burying ground at Plymouth where he was born and where his father lived out his 81 years, stood his wife, his son, John, his aunt, Mrs. Grace Wilder, her husband John, and one representative of his official family, Attorney General John Garibaldi Sargent. Vermont was officially represented by Gov. Billings and former Gov. Stickney, who, a quarter of a century ago, gave John Coolidge his title of colonel.

A scene of strange and unearthly beauty brought to a close the last chapter of a life that was essentially simple and forthright. All the morning light snow had been falling, and as it fell it clung to the vivid pine trees on the mountain side at whose base John Coolidge today was borne to his everlasting rest.

With soft enchantment the green pines vanished and, as the awed beholders looked up from the grave, ranks upon ranks of white plumes, motionless in the still air, decked with glory the scarred face of the mountain, and the cloud dimmed light of the westering sun touched the tips of the plumes with silver.

Murmur from Streams.

The icy tinkle of woodland streams, breaking their bonds at this first spring thaw, and Pastor John White's voice blessing the Coolidge kin and neighbors who stood before him, were the only sounds that touched the solemn stillness of the hills.

"Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust," read Pastor White from the book of Common Prayer, and reaching down as he spoke, he grasped a handful of earth and let it fall upon the coffin which six officers of the Vermont National Guard had lowered into the grave.

"Looking," the voice continued, "for the general resurrection in the last day and the life of the world to come, through our Lord, Jesus Christ." Blending into a silence so serene that it was in itself a benediction the reading ended.

Pines Keep Vigil.

President and people went their ways, and the white plumes crowning the tired kind countenance of the mountain were left to keep the vigil over the man who so loved his mountain home that he never could feel truly contented away from it—even when he was a guest at the stately mansion which now is his son's, Calvin Coolidge's, home.

The burial was preceded by a fifteen minutes service from the book of Common Prayer at the Coolidge homestead, a quarter of a mile away. It began at 2 o'clock.

Here, also, young Pastor White of Sherburne, a Vermont town of 15 miles away, was the only officiating clergyman. There was no pomp save in the silent pomp of enormous wreaths from officialdom. Those tributes reached Plymouth in an auto van at noon and were arranged in the tiny parlor of John Coolidge's home by the President's wife and her son, John. They were so numerous that some of the wreaths had to be hung on the walls of the little room.

On the coffin, which was covered with gray broadcloth and lined with pale blue silk, lay the President and Mrs. Coolidge's wreath of calla lilies and pink roses. Around the coffin masses of flowers were banked.

Nearly half an hour before the service began the low ceilinged sitting room opening off the parlor by a double doorway was close packed with Col. John's Plymouth neighbors.

By the President's instructions his naval aide, Capt. Adolphus Andrews, commander of the presidential yacht Mayflower, gave scrupulous preference to the neighbors when he received the men and women attending the service.

At 2 o'clock the President, Mrs. Coolidge, and young John came from an inner room and seated themselves close beside the coffin. In the adjoining sitting room, which is the room in which Col. John administered the presidential oath of office to his son, sixty men and women were standing. Among them were Col. John's housekeeper, Aunt Aurora Pierce, his nurse in his last illness; Mrs. Johnson, and Attorney General Sargent.

Hundreds of thousands of farmhouse rooms in our country are like the two rooms at the double doorway, between which the vested young Protestant Episcopal clergyman took his stand, and millions of American farm people are like, pathetically like, the farm people to whom he read the prayers for the dead and the consolations for the afflicted from the church's ancient book of worship.

Take Path to Grave.

Those passages having been uttered and the people having lifted their voices with the clergyman's in repeating the apostle's creed, the rooms slowly emptied and the progress to the hillside grave began.

At the grave there happened a curious action which bespeaks, more piteously than any words possibly could, the deep yearning which filled the heart of our President at the parting he this day has had to make.

At a softly spoken instruction from him, the undertaker bent over the coffin just before it was lowered into the grave and drew back a side panel. Thus was the face of the dead man revealed to his son for the last time.

Gazes Upon Dead.

The President, who had removed his silk hat, gazed tenderly upon the face and in five seconds the panel was slowly closed at another subdued word from him.

The body was borne to the burying ground on a sledge hearse, which was followed by half a dozen sleighs occupied by the chief mourners. In the last sleigh rode, with her husband, aged Aunt Grace Wilder, sister of the President's deceased mother. The sudden thaw, which had rendered the already difficult road well nigh impossible, required that neighborly hands should steady the sleigh lest the old lady be thrown from it as it lurched along.

Today's thaw that set all the mountain torrents of this region rushing to the White and the Ottaquechee rivers is called by the natives the sugar thaw because it comes with the change in temperature which starts the sap running in the maple trees.

Chill in the Air.

Nevertheless there still is a searching chill in the air and Pastor White wore at the graveside an old fashioned buffalo skin coat over his vestments.

It became evident today that the President intends to keep the Coolidge mountain homestead in his family. During the two hours which elapsed between his arrival at Plymouth from the temporary White House at Woodstock and the funeral he went carefully over the Plymouth house and barn with Angus Macaviay, a local builder, and made note of repairs that must be made to keep the place in condition.

The fact that ample space has been left between his father's grave and the grave of his son, Calvin Jr., who died in 1924, for graves for himself and his wife, is also taken to indicate that among the hills that bore him he intends to sleep the long sleep.

Attorney General Sargent was wandering with the President over the homestead this noon and making suggestions as to what needed rehabilitation.

Perfumed Letters Result in Suit Against Realty Man

Perfumed missives, written in a woman's hand, and containing veiled references to alleged escapades of Louis G. Zavadil, wealthy real estate operator at 843 South Dearborn street, caused his wife, Mrs. Marie Zavadil, 730 South Wesley avenue, Oak Park, to file suit for separate maintenance yesterday.

POLICE SWEEP WEST SIDE IN NEW ALIEN RAIDS

Sicilian Haunts Visited; Fifteen Are Arrested.

Detective bureau squads led by Chief Schoemaker and his deputy, Capt. John Stege, swept through the west and south sides last night in a series of raids similar to those of several weeks ago, when a score of criminals eligible for deportation were seized.

Fifteen men were taken into custody and eight revolvers were confiscated. The men arrested will be questioned today in regard to their citizenship and their possible knowledge of recent shootings in the bad lands.

The raiders carried tear bombs and in two of the places the crowds were cowed by these. Only four men with criminal records were found in the thirty places inspected and Chief Shoemaker said that most of the gangsters have left Chicago for Cicero.

Annex Café Raided.

One of the first places visited was the Annex café at 522 South Halsted street, conducted by Lawrence Mangano, otherwise known as Dago Lawrence. Orazio Tropea, slain collector for a band of Sicilian desperadoes, formerly was part owner of this restaurant. But last night all was quiet there, the few patrons being unarmed and orderly. No arrests were made.

The raiders then proceeded upstairs to a so called athletic club conducted by Nick Kapallaris. Ecola Baldelli, "The Eagle," whose body was found a few days after the Tropea killing in a north side alley, was a member of this organization. Twenty men were in the place.

Find Two in Hiding.

Eighteen smiled on the police and insisted that everything was all right. But an exploring raider found the other two, clutching their revolvers, hiding under a tarpaulin. They were dragged out and taken into custody. They gave the names of Christ Gikos of Argo and Tony Andrews.

Amato's café, at 914 South Halsted street, from which Henry Spingola, a brother-in-law of the Genna brothers, of alcohol fame, stepped a moment before he was riddled with assassins' bullets, was visited, but no arrests were made. At Citro's restaurant, 1014 South Halsted, a large Saturday night crowd was thrown into a panic by the entrance of the squads, but there were no arrests there.

At Charles Zingelli's restaurant, 814 Taylor street, fourteen men were seized. Six who were carrying revolvers were kept in custody. This place was formerly a hangout of Samoots Amatuna, who went to his death when he aspired to the alcohol leadership.

In the west side barber shop, 804 West Roosevelt road, in which the Samoots killing occurred, the raiders took into custody Edward Smith, who was arrested once while he was carrying Louis Alterie's artillery in the federal building. He was carrying a revolver again last night.

Other places visited were Anthony Filicia's restaurant at 802 South Morgan street; Gold's restaurant at 812 West Roosevelt road, a favorite hangout of bootleggers, and Cozzi's eating house at 1139 Taylor street. Here Alfred Raso, owner of the Mannheim inn, a roadhouse which was recently closed, was picked up, as was Mickey McDermott, said to have a record.

The Friars' inn and the Frolics, centers of night life on the near south side, were inspected. Capt. Stege remarked that there seemed to be a large number of 14 or 15 year old girls in these places, but made no arrests.

FEDERAL PRISON GATES CLOSE ON CHARLEY FORBES

Ex-Veteran Bureau Chief Begins Serving Term.

Leavenworth, Kas., March 20.—(AP)—Charles R. Forbes, former head of the Veteran's bureau, today became a prisoner at the United States penitentiary. The man who was once intrusted with $33,000,000 to spend in salvaging the human wreckage of the world war, began a two year sentence for conspiring to defraud the government.

Although only 47 years old, Col. Forbes appeared to Warden W. I. Biddle to be a much older man. He limped as he walked slowly through the prison gate. A stroke of paralysis a year ago has stopped the lively step with which Forbes once marched as a drummer boy in the marines and later led a signal batallion in France.

After physicians report next week about the state of the prisoner's health, the warden will decide what kind of work he will assign to him. He weighed only 150 pounds, while his normal weight was around 225.

Forbes had little to say except to assure his keeper that he will "make the best of it." He said his nearest relative is his 90 year old mother, who lives in Plymouth, Mass.

"She's my only care in this world," he remarked.

AUTHOR TAKES POISON; RECOVERS.

Because the stories he had written would not sell, Arthur C. Mosely, 53 years old, attempted to commit suicide last night by swallowing poison in his flat at 4532 Malden avenue. At the Lakeview hospital it was said Mosely would probably recover.

PREACHER DEFIES BOTTLE BARRAGE; FLOCK PINCHED

At Dutch's Place, Thornton, Ill., Scene of Battle.

BY RUTH RUSSELL.

Two brown bottles whizzed through the night air and crashed into a prayer meeting in session on the front steps of a dive place on the busiest corner of Thornton, Ill. But Brother Bill Taylor, reformed convict and drunkard, prayed on, even louder. For prayer is Bill's specialty.

"Get out of here and stay out," shrieked Joe's wife from an upstairs window, as, with sleeves rolled and fists gleaming, she poised a third bottle.

They Pray and Sing.

Suddenly the praying gave way to bursts of song. "Onward Christian Soldiers" swelled from over sixty sealion throats.

From the family entrance at the rear, Joe himself looked out, and then took counsel with various and sundry other white aproned gentlemen.

"Cut out the rough stuff. Tell 'em your kid's sick," advised one of them.

Strikes Note of Sympathy.

So Joe marched out, tapped Brother Bill on the shoulder and told him about his suffering child, and begged the churchmen with tears to "can the noise" and let his family go to sleep. At Dutch's Place, Forest Gardens, at Glen-inn, and the Lighthouse it was much the same. Prayer has closed the road houses along the Ridge road from Lansing to Munster, all right. They were closed tight against vigilance committees, evangelists, and anti-vice leagues.

Preacher's Flock Pinched.

At Steve's place in Lansing the police force was waiting for the reformers. As two automobiles drew up to the curb police seized the whole prayer party and escorted it to the town station.

This morning a petition signed by all the church members of the five towns is being sent to enlist the aid of government agents in closing the road houses. Brother Ike Williams and the Rev. Benjamin Jones have packed up and departed for parts unknown.

HOBO COLLEGE TO RELAUNCH 164 ON LIFE'S SEA TODAY

In the graduating class at Hobo college, 641 West Washington street, at 4 o'clock this afternoon will be 164 derelicts, men who have tasted the dregs of life but who still believe with the Salvation Army poster than "a man may be down but he is never out."

They will be the ones who, among the sheer drifters, have attended faithfully all the lectures and clinics and discussions—who have heard psychiatrists, college professors, and other learned men (who have never been hoboes) tell them how they got that way, and why, and how to come back.

And as the class gathered last night for final instructions a pallid one, with something of the scholar still in his face, was asked, "What do you think of it?" To which he replied with a strange smile:

"Coelum, non animum, mutant, qui trans mare currunt!" (They change their sky, not their affections, who cross the sea.)

WATERMAN SUED FOR ACCOUNTING IN BIG ESTATE

New York, March 20.—(AP)—Frank D. Waterman, fountain pen manufacturer and unsuccessful Republican candidate for mayor of New York last fall, is being sued by his son, E. H. Waterman, for an accounting of the $3,000,000 estate left by the late Lewis Edson Waterman, founder of the L. E. Waterman company. Associated with Frank D. Waterman as defendants in the suit are his cousin, L. E. Waterman Jr., and his other son, Frank D. Waterman Jr.

Young Waterman charges that in a will the late L. E. Waterman, who was his father's uncle, named Frank D. Waterman as trustee of the estate, providing that after the latter's death the estate should go to E. H. Waterman.

Frank D. Waterman is in Florida, but a statement was issued at his office declaring there was not the slightest basis for the charges."

HUSBAND KILLS ESTRANGED WIFE; WOUNDS WOMAN

Paul Paliferro, 26 year old painter, infuriated because his 19 year old wife, Josephine, went to him and demanded money after she had refused to live with him, shot and killed her late last night in front of a house at 802 South California avenue, where he roomed.

Mrs. Rose Albanese, 44 years old, living at the same address, was seriously wounded by the husband when she ran out after hearing the three shots fired at the youthful wife. She was taken to the county hospital. Paliferro escaped.

According to Dominic Albanese, husband of the wounded woman, the Paliferros were married eighteen months ago. The girl was an orphan and accepted an offer of marriage merely to have a home. She admitted that she did not love Paliferro. Sunday night they quarreled and slept in separate rooms, with the husband pleading for reconciliation. Monday night Josephine left the house.

MAKES PUMPING UP TIRES UNNECESSARY.

Chicago, Ill.—F. E. Hughes, Suite 3126, 224 N. Homan-av., of this city, has perfected a new air-tight valve cap that enables auto owners to pump up tires once and never touch them again until punctured or worn out. Leading tire manufacturers, after thorough tests, have approved Mr. Hughes' invention and banished the old theory that air escapes through rubber. One cap lasts the life of a tire, and tire mileage is doubled. These caps retail at $1.25 for set of five. The inventor wants agents and will send proof and sample Free. Write him today.—Adv.

PRESIDENT'S FATHER IS LAID TO REST

Scene in the snow covered cemetery at Plymouth, Vt., yesterday when Col. John Coolidge was borne to his final resting place with simple rites. At the extreme right is the President's son, John, a few steps behind his father and mother, the nation's chief executive and first lady. In front of the President is his naval aid and at the left are Vermont guardsmen carrying the body to its grave.

VERMONT SOLON PRAISES LIFE OF COL. COOLIDGE

Served with Him in Vermont Senate.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—Incidents in the life of Col. John C. Coolidge, the President's father, were related to the senate today by Senator Dale [Rep., Vt.], who served with him as a member of the Vermont senate and knew him intimately for many years.

"A remarkable condition is brought to attention by the passing of the venerable John C. Coolidge," said Senator Dale. "He never sought public notice where he lived in a farm community several miles from the main highways, and yet events have made him so well known that the announcement that he is gone affects all the people of this country. He was a singular man—fit subject for a character study. Public interest will inspire many attempts to interpret his qualities. Because the nation is concerned about him, whatever is truly related of him is of consequence.

His Public Life.

"Colonel Coolidge lived in his native town of Plymouth all his life and held official positions in it repeatedly. His military title came by appointment to the staff of Gov. Stickney. For many years he was a notary public. Plymouth sent him three times to the state house of representatives and the county of Windsor elected him to the state senate in 1910.

"It was my privilege to serve with him in the senate. While from the senate chamber of the state of Vermont, the public gets the effect of generations of stanch legislative conduct, those who have been in service there carry with them the influence of rare good fellowship.

"I met Col. Coolidge many times in the peaceful quiet of Plymouth places," said Senator Dale. "I saw him there at mid-day and at midnight, two occasions, each of dramatic interest. The sunlit fields were thronged with people. All Vermont seemed to have turned out in joy and pride. His son had been nominated for Vice President of the United States. Down the dusty road came the band of music, the American flag borne ahead by Col. Coolidge.

"Again, no one was in the fields and only lamp light shone through the darkness. His son had by strange providence become President of the United States. In the little sitting room of the old homestead the oath was administered by Col. Coolidge. The attention of the world was turned toward the Plymouth homestead.

Greeted with Applause.

"I saw him at other places than Plymouth and the occasions brought to him expressions of esteem and affection. He went one evening when Harry Cabot Lodge addressed a great political rally in the city hall at Montpelier. They had to urge him to go to the platform. The vast audience rose to greet him with prolonged applause. He was on a brief visit to the White House and he came one day to my home. A group of young people kept him as long as he could stay with them in the rose garden. In public place and home he was welcome and by old and young he was received with genuine affection."

Coroner's Jury Frees Host of Girl Who Took Her Life

Elwood Bell, in whose apartment at 6247 Blackstone avenue Miss Hope Bliton, 23 year old telegraph operator, drank the poison that ended her life Friday morning after an all night party, was released by a coroner's jury which yesterday returned a verdict of suicidal death.

DUTIES ENDED FOR WOMAN AUTOCRAT AT COOLIDGE FARM

Plymouth, Vt., March 20.—(AP)—For thirty years Miss Aurora Pierce had been housekeeper at the home of Col. John C. Coolidge. Today Miss Pierce did not know what her future would be.

For three decades, excepting one short break, she has been the autocrat of the Coolidge household. Her system was inflexible, but Col. Coolidge bowed good-naturedly to her dicta. Not even for the President of the United States on his visits to his boyhood home would Miss Pierce change her routine. With no living relatives, her only home has been the Coolidge farmhouse. She rarely left the house except to go for the mail or to drive to the polls with the colonel on election day.

She will remain at the farmhouse until the President decides what will be done with the homestead.

ERRING HUBBY CAUGHT BY WIFE IN WRONG FLAT

Mrs. Ethel Wetmore, 23 years old, wife of a Danville, Ill., bond salesman, and Charles E. Noonan, 43 years old, a clerk who admits that he deserted his wife, were attacked on an Evanston street yesterday by Mrs. Theodora Noonan.

"Leave me for her and her two kids, will you," shouted Mrs. Noonan as she scratched her husband's face. "And you—why didn't you stay with your own husband?" she added as she swung at Mrs. Wetmore.

Two policemen whom the irate wife had taken with her to raid Mrs. Wetmore's flat at 1039 Chicago avenue interfered at this point. The couple, who had left the apartment and were getting into Noonan's automobile when the wife arrived, were taken into custody. The three, with the Wetmore children, one 3 years old and the other an infant of 1 year, were taken before Magistrate Samuel Harrison. In court the salesman's errant wife and her middle aged lover asserted that they intended to stay together. They were fined $25 each, which fine Noonan paid.

FOOT TRAFFIC TO OBEY LIGHTS, BOWLER ASSERTS

The city ordinance proposed by Ald. Thomas J. Bowler [41st] compelling loop pedestrians to obey stop and go lights, is not likely to be passed for at least a year. Ald. Bowler announced yesterday that he would withhold action on the ordinance until the completion of the traffic survey by the Association of Commerce.

"I am convinced that within a month or so the pedestrians themselves will be demanding the law," he predicted. "But we do not want to take any premature action that may embarrass plans of the traffic experts conducting the survey."

Ald. Bowler, who is chairman of the mayor's safety commission, Chief of Police Collins, George W. Dixon, Dr. William E. Buehler, representing the Chicago Motor club, and Si Mayer, secretary of the police department, will leave for Washington today to attend the Hoover conference on unification of traffic laws March 22, 23, and 24.

Shift of 58 Police 'at Own Requests'

Four lieutenants, five sergeants and forty-nine patrolmen were transferred to other stations in an order issued by Chief Collins yesterday. The changes were in answer to requests of those transferred, according to the chief's secretary, Capt. John Prendergast. The lieutenants, Jos. J. Dubach, Woodlawn to Burnside; George A. Tieling, Burnside to Woodlawn; Emil Anderson, Shakespeare to Austin, and Samuel Peterson, Austin and Shakespeare.

Dainty 18K white gold mounting, milgrained design; especially selected blue white diamond. Wonderful ring.

CREDIT AT CASH PRICES

WE REALIZE that there are others who sell good diamonds besides ourselves.

But, please get this point: We make up a complete diamond ring unit, whereas many others do not. We buy the loose diamonds and the mountings separately. In most cases we have the ring mountings made according to our design and exacting specifications. That assures hand-made rings which are much superior to die-struck rings. By our method every effort is made to produce harmony, taking size of stone and size of ring into due consideration.

This complete, superior unit value is made possible through long experience and co-operation afforded to us by manufacturers. Being large users, and because of our 18 stores, we have a very superior buying power that enables us to buy at bed-rock prices, which are always reflected in our very reasonable selling prices.

SPRING HERE ON TIME; WEATHER MAN ADMITS IT

And Winter, It Seems, Was Just Ordinary.

Spring has come, if that means anything to you.

And the robin season being upon us, the weather man has demonstrated a daring willingness to speak of winter in the past tense in unfolding a few statistics.

Summed up, the winter of 1925-'26 was just a winter, affording nothing but a perfunctory chapter for the record books. Some folks say it was a tough season, others say it was delightfully open. Both groups are wrong, the figures show.

Those who say their coal bills were higher than ever before may point with pride to the fact that on Dec. 12 it was 8 degrees below zero—one degree colder than on Dec. 26. Then there were Jan. 23, when it was 7 degrees below, Jan. 25, when it was 5 below, and Jan. 12, when it was 3 below.

Only Five Subzero Days.

There were five days below zero—only five—and the average is nine sub zero days a winter, with several years when there were as many zero days in a row as last winter had altogether.

Numbers of the critics who are picking on the winter just passed are basing their grouches on March alone, it is suspected. March has been a tough month, the weather bureau admits, with the temperature 7 degrees below the daily average, and but six days on which the city had neither rain nor snow. These were the 3d, 4th, 9th, 17th, 18th, and yesterday.

Today may add a day to the record, the forecast being for clear weather with rising temperature.

Last Friday, when the mercury mounted to 63 degrees, Chicago experienced the warmest day since Oct. 4. But the peak of that day was by no means a record for March 19. The record was set five years ago when the maximum reading was 78 degrees.

No Snowfall Records Touched.

No records for snowfall were approached during the season the heaviest fall having been 4.1 inches on Feb. 18.

The usual reticence regarding too detailed prophesies on what spring is to be prevailed at the weather bureau.

Henry J. Cox and his staff don't take much stock in the behavior of robins, ducks, swallows, angle worms and such like, preferring to sit back and watch the capers of their scientific instruments, combined with telegraphic reports received from other points in the area and from other forecast areas.

With the reading of 63 on Friday, followed by a maximum of 39 yesterday afternoon, however, some hope was held out that the violets will be out on schedule this year.

OAK PARK MAN IS BILKED OF $25,000 ON OLD BET GAME

John A. Mullen, retired board of trade broker of 604 Clarence avenue, Oak Park, yesterday started the Chicago, Baltimore, Cleveland, and Daytona, Fla., police looking for the big racing commissioner of Daytona to whom he gave $25,000 on Feb. 22. The $25,000 still remains posted, it seems, with the commissioner to show John's good faith.

Mr. Mullen, with Mrs. Mullen, and their son, James, recently went to Florida for a rest. While sitting in the park in Daytona he fell in with a couple of those affable strangers. And thus he met the "big commissioner of racing."

Well, the strangers made a bet for Mr. Mullen—inside stuff from the "commissioner." He won some $200,000 and when he went to collect it was the old, old story: Could he show the $25,000 he originally bet to prove that he could have paid if he had lost?

Mr. Mullen would show them. He came to Chicago and got the money, and, though warned, gave it to them.

NEW BOOK AIDS COLLEGE WOMEN TO PLAN LIVES

How can a woman keep alive her best intellectual powers, participate in civic and social activities, and yet be a mother and homemaker? What will become of the family as a result of woman's activities outside the home? What has brought about her present unrest?

These are among the questions brought home to the college girl in a new book, "Social and Vocational Orientation for College Women," by Dr. Iva L. Peters of Groucher college, published jointly by the college and the Chicago branch of the Southern Woman's Educational alliance, of which Mrs. Eugene J. Buffington is president.

"Intended to aid the college woman in finding herself, the book will help young women to become social forces through self-discovery," says Dr. Peters in the introduction.

.75 BEER FITS ROHIBITION ACT, R. HENIUS SAYS

...n Scientific Board to Pass on Intoxication.

...United States can have 2.75 ... beer without repeal of the ...olstead act if congress will accept a ...ntific definition of what constitutes ...toxicating beverage.

...is the opinion of Dr. Max ...enius, head of the Wahl-Henius in...stitute, consulting chemists, and a na...tionally known brewing expert, as ex...pressed yesterday in an interview with ...Tribune.

...committee of leading chemists and ...alcohol experts, Dr. Henius believes, ...ould hold that a beverage with less ...than 2.75 to 3 per cent of alcohol ...should not be considered intoxicating. ...Armed with such a scientific definition ...congress could then modify the Vol...stead act and give the country a beer ...that would not be intoxicating.

Tells Plan for Committee.

Dr. Henius suggests that congress ...ask the American Chemical society and ...the American Medical association to ...appoint ten members from each or...ganization, who, with the President ...and one member from the house and ...senate, would constitute a committee ...to pass on 2.75 beer.

Dr. Henius, basing his opinion upon ...reports of scientific committees of ...other lands, believes that the twenty-...three members would recommend that ...all beverages containing less than 3 ...per cent alcohol by volume should be ...classed as nonintoxicating.

Dr. Henius declared that the present ...definition of intoxicating liquors in the ...Volstead act is an arbitrary one and ...the result of war hysteria.

"The one-half of 1 per cent alcohol ...limit was arbitrarily fixed for the pur...pose of taxation without regard for ...the beverages' intoxicating effects," ...he said.

"Congress, which has the right to ...define what constituted an intoxicat...ing beverage, proclaimed in the act ...the alcohol limit of an intoxicating ...beverage to be one-half of 1 per cent. ...The nervous tension of the war made ...it possible for congress to accept a ...definition of this kind, which had no ...foundation in fact.

Would Not Fight Amendment.

"Despite the overwhelming majority ...of votes cast for the repeal or modifica...tion of the amendment or law in recent ...polls conducted by newspapers all over the country, Dr. Henius is of the opinion that the amendment cannot be removed.

"A repeal of the eighteenth amendment would require the vote of the legislatures of thirty-seven states," he said. "Since eleven of the smaller states have a population of about 12,000,000, a small minority of the country's 110,000,000 inhabitants could keep the amendment in the constitution.

Faced with such a situation, Dr. Henius believes that congress should be urged to determine scientifically what is an intoxicating beverage and amend the Volstead act so as to give the country a cereal beverage practically equivalent to "war beer."

Such a beverage could be sold to the extent of 100,000,000 barrels yearly in the United States, and with a revenue tax of $5 a barrel the government would find its treasury amply filled, Dr. Henius said.

BRITISH ENVOY VISITS TRIBUNE TOWER

Sir Esme, Visiting in Chicago, Mourns for Col. Coolidge

Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, who is visiting in Chicago, yesterday, in behalf of his country and himself, issued a statement of condolence over the death of Col. John Coolidge, the President's father.

"On this day of sorrow for the President of the United States, a sorrow which all the people of this country share," said Sir Esme's statement, issued while the envoy was visiting at The Tribune Tower, "I wish, in the first place, in behalf of Great Britain and the British commonwealth of nations, to express our deep sympathy for the President and his family and for all Americans who mourn with him.

Greetings to City.

"Secondly, speaking from the home of the greatest paper of the fourth greatest city of the world, I wish to send out, on behalf of Great Britain and all the other members of our English speaking commonwealth, a hearty greeting to all citizens of this other great English speaking country whose hospitality I have the honor to enjoy.

"It is impossible for an Englishman not to respect and admire the marvelous growth and development of your country's resources and the astonishing organizing power with which the complicated problems of production, transport, and distribution are handled for the benefit of the public.

Delighted with Visit.

"Here in Chicago we can learn probably better than anywhere else in the world how these things can be done on a scale hitherto undreamed of. After spending four most interesting days in Chicago I shall leave this city with an ever heightened respect and admiration for the great qualities of the American people."

VISITS TRIBUNE PLANT

Beginning with a touch of old England, the stone from Westminster abbey set into the wall at the entrance of The Tribune tower, the British ambassador and his wife, Sir Esme and Lady Isabella Howard, found much to admire and as much more to wonder at in their tour of the plant of the W. G. N. yesterday afternoon, under the guidance of Col. R. R. McCormick.

Every step in the composition of the paper was shown the visitors. They were conducted from the dizzy heights of the tower, where they got a splendid view of Chicago, through the editorial, composing and press rooms, and down even to the loading platform, where they watched the huge trucks start off with the first cargo of freshly printed TRIBUNES. A buffet luncheon was served to the guests in the directors' room on the 24th floor of The Tribune Tower.

Former Judge and Mrs. Clarence N. Goodwin entertained the following guests at a dinner last night at their home in Lake Forest in compliment to Sir Esme and Lady Isabella: British Consul General and Mrs. H. A. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Morse Ely, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus McCormick Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Poole, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rinaker, Mrs. Joseph Medill Patterson, Miss Mabel Linn, Charles H. Schweppe, and Leander McCormick-Goodhart.

Attend Mass This Morning.

This morning the ambassador and his wife will attend 9 o'clock mass at St. Mary of the Lake seminary at Mundelein, Ill.

Officers from Fort Sheridan will accompany Sir Esme and his host, Judge Goodwin, on a horseback ride at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Lake Forest.

The ambassador will leave tomorrow morning for Springfield, returning to Chicago Tuesday to rejoin Lady Isabella, who will remain at the Goodwin home. They will leave Tuesday for Washington.

"Y" GIRLS GIVE MAN BACK SEAT IN THEIR PLAY

Man gets all the worst of it in the Young Woman's Christian association play "Y Certainly," to be presented March 26 and 27, at the Central branch of the young woman's organization. In the first place he is portrayed by girls, and in the second place, even in the feminine portrayal, he is condemned to minor roles.

Between 75 and 100 "Y" girls will take part, and the play will be an exposition of health.

Miss Lorraine Olle will take the leading role of Patty; Miss Pussy Henderson will play "Elsie," the typical "Y" girl; Miss Buddy Wisher will be "Violet" of the baby stare.

LOST CITY OF BIBLE LAND IS BELIEVED FOUND

Prof. Stephen Langdon, leader of the Field museum-Oxford university Mesopotamian expedition, believes that through chance he has stumbled on the "lost city of Opis," according to his report received by D. C. Davies, director of the museum, yesterday.

The discovery of perfect specimens of painted pottery some sixteen miles from the expedition's excavations in Kish, in the biblical Plain of Shinar, by wandering Arabs, led Prof. Langdon to three ruined Sumerian cities. From the pottery and inscriptions found on clay tablets he believes the site may be that of Opis.

"If the group of ruins really covers the ancient city of Opis, we have recovered material which goes far in explaining the origin of human history," said Prof. Langdon's message.

GET OWN LEAGUE, SOUTH AMERICA POLITELY TOLD

Brazil's Veto of Allies' Plans Stirs Europe.

would be indifferent to how many nations are granted elective seats in the regular council. A subcommittee is examining a proposal to allot nonpermanent seats to representatives from each continent.

The British support this scheme, hoping to obtain a place for Canada, representing North America, which would be unchanged if the United States joined the league, as the Washington government would have a seat in the supercouncil. One of the British colonies also is expected to represent Africa, as London considers it absurd that Liberia and Abyssinia should represent the dark continent.

China is expected to represent Asia, with Japan holding the position of a seat among the big seven. Europe probably would be allocated two seats, one for the little entente and another for the neutrals—the Scandinavians, Spain, and Greece.

ASK REICHSTAG'S O. K.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, March 20.—The German cabinet under President Hindenburg today prepared an outline of the report of Foreign Minister Stresemann and Chancellor Luther to the reichstag Monday, when they will ask for parliament's official approval of their actions in connection with the league of nations squabble. They will solemnly declare Germany's right to consider the Locarno treaties in effect politically because of the Locarniens' signed formal statement of closer mutual collaboration. Juridically, the Locarno treaties are not in effect.

As proof that Germany is "morally a member of the league," the foreign minister will point out the fact that it is scheduled to take part in the deliberations of the committee for the enlargement of the league council.

Want to Stick to League.

The nationalists and communists have brought in a motion demanding that the government withdraw its application for entry into the league. Dr. Stresemann and Dr. Luther will oppose it. They are confident that in September the obstacles to Germany's admission will be removed. However, they will not advocate a return to Geneva until a seat in the council is officially reserved for Germany in order to avoid a repitition of the embarassing scenes which characterized the recent session of the league.

Wilhelmstrasse does not share with Alan Houghton, U. S. ambassador to London, the fears that the Geneva deadlock foretells a return of the old system of alliances which divided Europe and led to the world war.

Dr. Luther and Dr. Stresemann will declare before the reichstag that since the Locarno treaties were saved from the debacle at Geneva and since they represent the ideals of a nonaggression policy, and a return of the old aggressive system of alliance has been avoided, the government looks forward to a vote of confidence. They expect the support of the German people's party, the democrats, centrists and socialists on their attitude on the Locarno treaty and believe the cabinet crisis which the nationalists and communists are trying to stage will be avoided.

BOY IS DROWNED, TWO RESCUED, AS ICE BREAKS

Joseph Sweeney, 14 years old, 6527 South Marshfield avenue, was drowned yesterday afternoon when he and another boy crashed through the soft ice on a pond in Ogden park, near 64th and Loomis streets. Another youth who was with him and a man who went to their aid were rescued by Jack Antonucci, a cab driver.

The two boys had been to the public library branch in the park and were on their way home when they decided to cross the ice. Their screams attracted the attention of a passerby, who fell through into the chill waters and only the prompt action of Antonucci saved him. He held on to the second boy, and both were dragged to shore. The man and the lad disappeared before their names were learned.

Antonucci notified the police. Firemen, commanded by Battalion Chief John P. Moynihan, constructed rafts and after an hour's work recovered the body of the Sweeney boy.

Bears Kill and Eat Five Huntsmen; Sixth Escapes

MOSCOW, March 20.—(AP)—A dispatch from Nooya, in the valley of the Lena river in Siberia, says that five huntsmen in that district have been killed and eaten by bears. A sixth hunter, who was also attacked by the animals, returned so mauled and lacerated that he could scarcely tell of the fate of his companions.

Note All This Car Offers at Its Price

Squarely behind the fast-increasing demand for this Nash model—the lowest-priced Nash Sedan—is the remarkable character of its brilliantly smooth and responsive performance.

For Nash engineers have developed the Special Six motor and chassis to a point of surpassing efficiency.

The "twin fly-wheel," one of the motor's most advanced features, permits the balancing of crankshaft, main and secondary fly-wheel as an integral construction, thus assuring infinitely greater precision and a smoother, quieter flow of power.

Full-force feed lubrication likewise contributes to this greater smoothness by continuously immersing in a bath of oil all main bearings, connecting rod bearings and camshaft bearings.

As standard equipment at no extra cost, are Nash-type four-wheel brakes—absolutely permanent of adjustment, impervious to extremes of heat and cold, the simplest and most practical four-wheel brake system the industry has ever known.

Gasoline filter, air cleaner, oil purifier, full balloon tires and five disc wheels are also included in the price.

State Department Hits Back at Critics.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—Aroused by agitation stirred up at home and abroad by attacks on world court irreconcilables and the alleged pessimistic report on European conditions made to the president by Ambassador Houghton, state department officials replied today to their critics.

ALANSON B. HOUGHTON.

Regarding Mr. Houghton and the storm created in Europe by publication of his views on the insincerity of the disarmament moves on the part of European nations, it was stated that while the state department did not know what Mr. Houghton had actually said to the press, it was certain that American foreign policy was interpreted for this government by President Coolidge or Secretary of State Hughes.

Only Official Sources.

The inference was plain that an interpretation of America's foreign policy could not be drawn from unofficial statements made by officials other than the President or his secretary of state. Department officials denied that there was any intention to send delegates to Geneva to explain or interpret our world court reservations to either the world court powers or the council of the league. Touching on the invitation extended by the league council to send a representative to Geneva to explain our reservations, the state department said that it did not understand that the league intended to interfere in any way except by calling the meeting.

Sharp issue was taken with the charges of opponents of the world court who have agreed that the invitation was simply a move on the part of the league to involve this country in league of nations affairs.

Claims No Jurisdiction.

"I do not understand that the league claims any power or jurisdiction to pass upon our reservations relating to the world court," a high official said today. "Our information is simply that the council of the league has suggested that the nations adhering to the court should each select representatives to discuss these reservations. It will not be an action by the league, but action by the forty-eight member states of the league who must pass upon our reservations before we are admitted."

All the league has done thus far, in the department's opinion, is to take the initiative in suggesting a conference. Thus far no invitation to Geneva has been received by the state department.

FRENCH PRESS ANGRY

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, March 20.—The nationalistic newspaper Intransigent today bitterly hammers Ambassador Alanson Houghton for his reported statements to President Coolidge concerning France's policy and the Paris delegates' attitude on the league of nations.

"Regarding Ambassador Houghton's report," the paper says, "we will not attempt to refute it, it is so bitter, peremptory, and unjust. It does not permit us even to make a discussion. It attempts to ruin whatever sympathy remains for France in America and is based on the most erroneous affirmations. How can an ambassador write that the efforts of France and England at Locarno and Geneva were only a subterfuge and a barricade behind which is the restoration system of alliances of the type of 1815? How can he think the disarmament conference to be held May 17 can systematically be sabotaged by us, who, he says, will not seriously disarm?"

Ambassador Herrick issued the text of a cablegram from the government in Washington saying, 'The state department of the United States states that neither Mr. Houghton nor Mr. Hugh Gibson has communicated to nonofficial persons then ature of their reports to President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg."

Calls Houghton's Language Rude.

The nationalist organ Liberté, in a signed front page editorial entitled "The Man Who Sees Things Black," finds Mr. Houghton's language "rather rude."

"If the league of nations can assure peace until 1966 it is an admirable institution and doing better than the holy alliance of 1815, of which Mr. Houghton speaks without apparently understanding just what it was.

"We do not say Mr. Houghton is exactly wrong in the picture he paints of Europe. Today the United States is rich and prosperous, but we still find little spots like Mexico and the Tacna-Arica row threatening war between Peru and Chile. Mr. Houghton, nevertheless, is correct if he put his finger on the real difference between America and Europe. The unhappy European countries are poisoned by socialism, a disease unknown in the United States."

"SNIPER BANDIT" OF OMAHA GIVEN DEATH SENTENCE

Omaha, Neb., March 20—(AP)—Frank Carter, "sniper bandit," was given the death penalty today by a jury which found him guilty of first degree murder while attempting to rob Dr. A. D. Searles, Feb. 17. The jury deliberated two hours, taking only three ballots.

Carter heard the sentence and a poll of the jury without showing emotion except for a slight twitching of the lips. After the jury had been dismissed and John Baldwin, public defender, had given notice of filing motion for a new trial, Carter said to the defender, "well, I'm sorry that you lost."

Judge Goss said he would defer sentence until he had heard the motion, but if it were overruled, the sentence probably would be imposed Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

Carter still faces charges of first degree murder and murder while attempting to rob for the shooting of William McDevitt, Feb. 14, in the first crime he committed in the week-long series of promiscuous shootings which brought him the name of "sniper bandit."

The state during his trial this week withdrew the separate charges of first degree murder of Dr. Searles, leaving only the charge of murder while attempting to rob.

Besides slaying Dr. Searles and McDevitt, Carter critically wounded Ross Johnson, Wabash detective, in the Council Bluff yards the night of Feb. 19 while attempting to get away from Omaha. This led the hunt for him into Iowa. Feb. 22 he was seen by railroad section men near Bartlett, Ia. A posse was formed and he was taken without a fight.

His trial started Monday morning, with the defense maintaining a plea of insanity.

ROBBERS FRIGHTENED AWAY.

Budget Buying Plan

But the Big Thing Is That Its Efficiency Has Made Possible This Season "Still Finer Qualities at Still Lower Prices"

WHEN we first announced this revolutionary plan we were subjected to criticism here and there. Some few said it would reflect on the character of our business, a few others thought it would make our prices higher, and still a few more believed that Fine Clothing should not be purchased in the same manner as Automobiles, Radios, Household Furnishings, Real Estate and even Investment Securities. But all that has changed now. The criticism has faded out—and has been replaced by commendation on every hand. Thousands have already enjoyed its convenience. It has permitted men to wear better clothing than they would ordinarily be able to—and the tremendous increase in our volume has made it possible for us to offer "Still Finer Qualities at Still Lower Prices." So The Lytton Budget Buying Plan has in reality benefited every Hub patron whether he uses this Plan, the regular Charge Account or pays cash. Your Spring Clothes are here waiting for you. City of Happiness

THERE is a note of happiness in the air at Pensacola.

It's in the rays of a glorious sunshine that kiss the oranges to a golden yellow—in the rippling crystal waters of the harbor that play with the silvery beams of a Southern moon—in the invigorating caresses of salt-laden Gulf breezes, fragrant with the rich perfume of pine and magnolia.

You can see it reflected in beautiful homes—in the laughing faces of children at play—in the stimulating youthfulness of men at work.

But, happiness in Pensacola is not dependent alone upon natural beauties—the atmosphere of its environment. Here, too, exists both the opportunity and the incentive to achieve worthwhile things.

For, here, are long established industries—a profitable agriculture—a thriving commerce by land and sea—two great trunk line railways—the finest natural deep-water harbor on the Gulf.

These bespeak the sound basis for permanency and prosperity in Pensacola—a city set upon gently rising slopes, flanked by beautiful expanses of water—a modern city of homes, schools, parks, broad streets and beautiful drives.

And every palm tree and great live oak whisper that note of contented happiness. People who come to Pensacola are intrigued by it.

That is why many come back to Pensacola-on-the-Bay to call it home.

If you have never been to Pensacola, you should have our illustrated booklets which give a true statement of facts about Pensacola and West Florida. Write to D. A. Morrow, Sec'y.

if you would realize how beautiful piano tone can be

AS long ago as 1889, Dr. Hans von Bulow, a great musician and the greatest critic of his time, exclaimed, "The sound and touch of the Knabe pianos are more sympathetic to my ears and hands than the sound and touch of any other pianos in the United States!"

Today, 37 years later, the Knabe stands as high in the estimation of hundreds of world famous musicians. Among them are Rosenthal, Godowsky, Ornstein, Munz, Schnabel, Leginska, Cadman, and many renowned singers and violinists.

ON THE MAKING OF WILLS.

Trustees have been appointed to sell the Kansas City Star as required in the will of Col. William R. Nelson, who founded the paper. The money which the Star and its sister publication, the Kansas City Times, will bring is to be spent for works of art for Kansas City. The pictures and statues will be housed in a building for which $750,000 is now available under the will of Col. Nelson's widow. The museum will fall heir, under his daughter's will, to $2,000,000 more upon the death of her husband, Col. Nelson's son-in-law. Thus, in one way or another, most of the Nelson fortune is to be devoted to furthering art in Kansas City.

Victor Lawson left most of his property, including his newspaper, to his church and the Y. M. C. A. The bank which he made trustee of his estate lost no time in selling the paper. Frank Munsey left his newspapers to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, which he seldom, if ever, visited. The Munsey papers have not yet been sold, but sooner or later they will be.

The Kansas City Star, like the Daily News here, has been a force for righteousness in its community. Its men have been trained to observe a high code of journalistic honor. Fortunately for Chicago, Lawson's men remained in control of the Daily News, but that is to the credit of the banker-trustee who sold it to them. Kansas City may be less fortunate. The Star today is an asset to Kansas City the value of which cannot be appraised. Tomorrow the Star and its men may be sold down the river. That would be a bitter experience for the men who helped Col. Nelson make the Star what it is, but it would be a far greater misfortune to the community which the Star serves.

Col. Nelson, after providing for his family, sought some means of serving his city and, incidentally, of keeping his memory alive. Like Lawson, he did not realize that the high character of his newspaper was his great contribution to the community. The best service he could have rendered his city was to assure the permanence of his journalistic ideals. Had he done so, he would at the same time have achieved for himself a genuine immortality. Though he was dust, his spirit would have lived in full vigor in the Star. In service to the community and to his own memory that would have outweighed a dozen art museums. Like Lawson and Munsey, he lacked imagination. He wanted to do good, but he didn't know how best to do it.

If Col. Nelson had left the management of the Star in the hands of the men he trained he would have assured its permanence and incidentally he would have repaid the men to whom he was chiefly indebted for his success. As it is, their future is uncertain. A change in management may well involve important changes in personnel. Some of his men may suffer.

What has been said here about newspapers applies with only less force to other enterprises. A man who has made a fortune in a business enterprise will serve his memory and his community best if he endows his own business.

CAPTURED GERMAN CANNON.

Bloomington has secured its captured German cannon, one of four such trophies awarded to the state of Illinois. It will be placed in one of the city's parks. Chicago has no such souvenir of the war. A move was on foot two or three years ago to install a captured gun or two in one of the forest preserve reservations named after battles in which Americans took part. The pacifists, however, succeeded in sidetracking the proposal.

Those captured cannon stand for the courage it took on the part of American soldiers to win them from the enemy. Granted that it is right that the spirit of hatred engendered by the war should be put away, is that a reason for forgetting the heroisms and the victorious deeds of bravery that the war brought forth?

What the pacifists who object to German cannon would like to do is to forget that America ever took part in a war at all. They would like to blot out the memory of every ideal for which we fought. America's part in the war and her ideals are a proud portion of the nation's heritage. The captured cannon symbolize courage and victory. Chicago should have her due share of such memorials.

GENEVA LOOKS US OVER.

The council of the league of nations decided at Geneva last Friday to call a special conference of the signatories of the world court protocol for Sept. 1 to consider America's reservations in connection with its adherence to the court. This was done after Europe's leaders decided that at least one reservation infringed upon the council's rights.

League leaders let it be known that the council will invite a representative of the United States to interpret the reservations, and it is proposed to reach an agreement which will amount practically to an amendment to the court's statutes.

As a revelation of the relation of the court to the league the council's action was not needed. Both the opponents and proponents of the world court here know and concede that the court is the creature of the league, and it properly follows that if the American reservations are not acceptable to the league they ought not to be accepted by the nations of the court.

Otherwise the United States in the court might do things the league did not like. There is a hope if not a conviction over here that the United States has stated its case in the reservations and that there will not be any concessions. The league probably will take what it can get.

PANAMA—THE SEABOARD'S SOFT THING.

The earnings of the Panama canal in March, it is forecast, will be the largest in any month in the canal's history. In the first fifteen days the tolls from commercial ships amounted in all to $1,074,000. For the first eight and one-half months of the fiscal year the revenues have totaled $15,972,000.

The canal cost the United States $500,000,000. It is not paying even its interest charges, to pay nothing of providing operating costs and a sinking fund to pay off the bonds at maturity. The canal is a charitable institution.

The beneficiaries are the seaboard communities. The cheap transportation that the canal provides is building up the seaports at the expense of the interior. The interior is dependent entirely upon railroad transportation, and the railroads are not charitable enterprises. The government insists that railroad rates be high enough to earn a reasonable profit on the investment over and above fixed charges, which include heavy taxes.

The Panama tolls ought to be increased until they provide enough revenue to pay for construction and operation. When the tolls have been raised the interior of the country, which paid its share of the cost of building the canal, will still be at a disadvantage in competition with the coast, but the disadvantage will have been lessened.

The new revenue act provides that liquor illegally sold for beverage purposes shall be taxed $6.40 a gallon. Gen. Andrews, prohibition enforcer of the treasury department, says this will be added as a penalty to punishment and he hopes it will do two things, raise the price of bootleg to the consumer and raise revenue for enforcement to keep the consumer from getting it.

The department takes two views of the present day liquor traffic. One is that it is a source of revenue. The other is that it is a source of evil. The bootlegger must pay his income tax and Mr. Mellon's bureau which receives his income tax schedule and his check will protect him from Mr. Mellon's other bureau, of prohibition enforcement, which is after him to keep him from selling any liquor, making any money, having any taxable revenue, and paying any tax.

Even a rum dealer must admit that it is a perfect system. Gen. Andrews says that the traffic ought to pay for enforcement. The logic of that is undeniable. If there were no enforcement there would not be any bootleggers. The enforcement makes the business and the business supports the enforcement. The bootlegger pays to maintain the conditions which in turn make his profits available.

The internal revenue department regards a rum dealer who comes in with his schedule and who does not try to hide his profits in a safty deposit box as a very honorable citizen. The collector does not press the button for the United States marshal, having first taken the check, but is glad that the bootlegger is honestly doing his duty to his country and is obeying its tax laws.

If he doesn't do so the revenue agents will hunt him down and go through his transactions with a thoroughness which Mr. Mellon's other bureau of prohibition enforcement cannot approach. The bootlegger seems to have much respect for the money sleuths and not much for the rum sleuths.

He can preserve his status as a law abiding citizen by coming clean with the record of what he made as a lawless citizen. The government receives him with approval in one capacity and regards him as an enemy of society in the other. It might confuse a bootlegger's moral perception and even affect his moral standards if he had much time to give it thought. He probably hasn't. His only worry is over the possibility of what he knows as the "mortification of the Volstead act."

So long as that does not happen he will remain the best buyer of pearls, grand pianos, and early American furniture.

THE IMPROVEMENT BONDS.

The city council has approved the borrowing of more than $19,000,000 for various civic improvements, including street widening and lighting and the construction of sorely needed bridges and fire stations. The voters will be asked to indorse the projects at the April primary.

The proposal to erect a fire engine house in the middle of Wacker drive at Wabash avenue was eliminated at the request of the mayor and the finance committee of the council. The entire bond issue might have been defeated had this item been retained to focus the opposition.

The bond issues proposed are worthy of approval. The lack of the improvements is more costly than the improvements themselves will be.

Editorial of the Day

UP TO THE VOTERS.

[Peoria (Ill.) Transcript.]

As this is written, the latest killing reported from Chicago occurred in a political ward club headquarters, the dead man being one of the boosters for a candidate for the state senate.

While the thoughtful will reject the methods adopted by the Better Government association to improve the moral tone of Chicago, it must be confessed that there is every reason to believe crime and politics are in a close hookup in the city by the lake. The man who was found dead was supposed to have been shot during a gunfight. Gunfights in political headquarters have more significance than in saloons. If a man who is known to be interested in the "booze racket" is killed in a saloon, it is safe to assume there was a bootlegging row in the background. But when a paroled burglar is killed in a political clubroom, where he was a worker and member, it must be assumed that politics or burglary played a prominent part.

Divorcing politics and crime can only be accomplished by the voters. It is up to them.

THE PLACE OF JESUS IN THE LIFE OF A BUSINESS MAN

BY WILLIAM F. PELHAM.

Head of the William F. Pelham company, dealers in mortgages and bonds. He is on the National Council of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew and active as a layman in the Protestant Episcopal church, Chicago.

The circumstances which led to the writing of this article grew out of my desire to help young men attending the University of Illinois in their religious thinking.

I noticed that manufacturing firms offer prizes for the best essays concerning their special products; that restaurants conduct contests with money rewards for the selection of an apt name; that newspapers sometimes throw out the challenge to their readers in various tests of ingenuity for the stimulation of popular interest; that the university itself from time to time suggests questions in agriculture, commerce, economics and world relations on which they ask students to write either in contest for money prizes or simply as a means of mental quickening and discipline.

These considerations led me to offer prizes for the best essays on the question, "Should the life and teachings of Jesus Christ have a constant place in the thought and life of students?"

The response has justified the expense. Students have written in thanking me for arousing their thought upon this question. Some have said that until the question was put to them they had never given any thought to the relation of Jesus to their own living. Moreover, the discussion has opened up the possibility of a national interest. I received a letter of inquiry as to whether such a contest might not be held at Yale university. I replied that of course it could be, if some donor were found who would give the prizes, as I did not feel able to finance a national undertaking. But the very fact that the question was asked me has led me to think that the contest might be carried to many colleges and universities and thus help in bringing the student body of our nation to face squarely the question of whether our spiritual conceptions of Christianity are myths or realities.

The question, I believe, has a still wider application. It concerns not only students in their university days, but men in the business and professional world. In other words, have the life and teachings of Jesus Christ a practical bearing on men in all relationships?

We are bound to be influenced by whatever we come in contact with, whether material or spiritual. A small shrub measuring only a few inches in height found growing in the arctic regions, transplanted into central Illinois, becomes a tree fifty or sixty feet high. This has been made possible by change of climate and soil. What happens to the plant happens to us in our spiritual life. We are influenced by our environment, our companionships and by the ideas we accept.

The most tangible, concrete and understandable conceptions of religion center in Jesus Christ. We have his words, which we can study; his example, which we can follow; his conversations with many commonplace people, such as we meet today, and his spirit as revealed in the world's greatest tragedy when, hanging on the cross, he uttered the words so appealing to every one, although so difficult to follow, "Father, forgive them; they know not what they do!"

Speculations about God, except as he is revealed in Jesus Christ, tend to take on the form of philosophy. They lack personality, so much so that many wonder when they see the God of nature as manifested in the earthquake, the cyclone, the lightning stroke and the tidal wave sweeping away the innocent, the helpless, the good as well as the evil, whether he can be a God of justice, mercy and love. But when they see Christ as the revelation of God, in which exists every quality we call great in character, strength combined with gentleness, courage united to mercy, scathing denunciation of sin tempered by forgiveness to the sinner, men can discover the humanness as well as the transcendent majesty of God.

The man today who inspires the most confidence is the one who is known to have best grasped the understanding of the life and teachings of Jesus and is honestly trying to carry them out.

We wonder sometimes why men are indifferent to the teachings of Jesus, which are manifestly so wonderful and so helpful in their practical implications. We cease to wonder when we ask ourselves why are men so careless of their physical welfare, ruining their health by habits and practices they know are injuring them; why men are so indifferent to business success, neglecting opportunities within their knowledge and reach; and why men are so neglectful of the welfare of our city and our nation politically, refusing to go to the polls and vote.

If you can answer these questions, you can answer that paramount query why men neglect to study and practice the teachings of Jesus Christ. Following the example of Christ would lead us to safeguard our health. Many a lesson of practical wisdom in politics, business and domestic life can be learned from his sayings. His entire life was devoted to making homes happy, politics clean, business honest and social life moral.

"Bring me a penny," Jesus said. "Whose superscription is this?" They answered, "Cæsar's." "Render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's, and to God the things that are God's," was Jesus' reply.

Jesus drove out the money changers from the temple, declaring, "My house shall be called a house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of thieves," thus forever protecting the sanctuary of God from commercialism and dishonesty. He rebuked the mob that would have stoned the woman taken in adultery with the scathing words, "Let him that is without sin among you cast the first stone." To the lonely he brought comfort with the words, "Not a sparrow falleth to the ground without your Father's notice," and to the bearers of burdens he said, "Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavily laden and I will give you rest."

These revelations of the character of God have revolutionized the thought of the world.

We have much to say these days about self-expression on the part of our youth. More nearly is it the truth to say they express their environment, the leadership of the men with whom they are surrounded. If their elders are indifferent to the claims of religion, youth is indifferent; if men are slothful, they are slothful; if their leaders are materialistic, youth becomes materialistic and probably intensifies the faults which they copy. It is equally true that if leaders among men devote themselves to the cultivation of the spiritual life, youth will do the same. We sometimes speak of bad habits as though they alone could be catching. Good habits are just as contagious.

America is fast approaching the turning point at which Rome was heading at the time of Christ's coming to earth. Can Americans grasp the truth the Romans refused to accept before it is too late?

WHEN IS ONE DRUNK?

ENGLAND is all torn up over a great question. It is: "When is a man drunk?" It is the automobile that has rent the sober calm of the imperturbable. When old Dobbin was the propeller, the highways were safe, for old Dobbin protected himself and his charges with superhuman intelligence. He saw, he heard, and he sensed danger, and he never drank moonshine. He could ease around collisions, or he could halt on the brink. But a one hundred horse power gasoline driven mass of insensate, brainless machinery was a different matter. When the foot on the power and the hand at the wheel were dominated by alcohol, let all others beware or take the consequences. All this is recognized, but how to make the proof is the question.

One party holds that the policeman is the best judge of when a man is drunk. Others say he may be, but a policeman does not often tell all he knows. Another party says the signs by which a policeman diagnoses drunkenness are "no good."

One party, refusing to accept the policeman as a diagnostician, gave the following as the clinical signs of drunkenness: (1) Disturbance of poise; (2) staggering gait; (3) flushed face; (4) congestion of the outer corners of the eye; (5) dilated pupils, and (6) rapid pulse.

Another party then shot holes in these as signs of drunkenness. There were many drinkers who did not show these signs and there were people who were not drunk who showed them.

Then came Dr. Southgate with some laboratory tests. He found that when a person drank liquor on an empty stomach it began getting into his blood almost at once. It was there as alcohol. The next maximum concentration of alcohol in the blood occurred about one hour after the drug was consumed. The organs commenced throwing it off as alcohol almost at once. It was thrown off by the lungs, the skin and the kidneys. In fact, it got out of the body by every possible route. But the great organ of elimination for alcohol was the kidney.

In about 12 hours, if no more liquor was consumed, the blood had got rid of all of it.

The best test of drunkenness was the concentration of alcohol in the blood. But since it was not often feasible to draw blood for a blood test, a urine test was devised. It was found that a urine test was fairly reliable. If in 100 ccm of urine (a little over 3 ounces) as much as 150 milligrams (about 2 or 3 minims) of alcohol were found, the man was drunk. They checked this by other signs of drunkenness.

It was found that drinking whisky was more apt to make a man drunk than did drinking stout. One ounce of alcohol in whisky was more intoxicating than the same amount of alcohol in stout.

Drinking whisky on an empty stomach was worse than drinking and eating. The food seemed to soak up the drink and hold it in its meshes and give it up more slowly. Drinking in the morning was more intoxicating than drinking later in the day. "Soaks" could stand more alcohol without getting drunk than tenderfeet could.

One is left with the impression that the laboratory test is still far from perfect. As it now stands it is not much superior to the police test. But it gives promise of improvement, whereas the policemah's test will never be any better than it now is. Probably Capt. Fitzwallen of the Town Hall station in the year 2000 may not know a whisky drunk from a case of nerves.

CEREBRAL HEMORRHAGE.

T. J. S. writes: Kindly let me know what is the cause of a cerebral hemorrhage.

REPLY.

The most frequent cause is a broken blood vessel in the brain. The causes which make brain vessels break are: Excitement, anger, straining at stool, overeating, great exertion, high blood pressure, diseased arteries, lead poisoning, syphilis, infections, and a few others.

WHEN THERE IS NO LEASE.

Chicago, March 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Do you have an article telling that tenants must give a landlord sixty days' notice of their intention of moving if they have no lease?
2. After notice has been given must they continue to pay rent?
3. If it is necessary for them to pay but they do not do it, who would be the best person to consult? M. J.

1. We understand that Municipal court judges hold that the tenant is not obliged to give more than thirty days' notice.
2. Yes.
3. Employ an attorney.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

RELATIVES AS WITNESSES.

Chicago, March 15.—[Friend of the People.]—A few weeks ago a friend of mine served as a witness for his brother-in-law when he became naturalized. Can my aunt by marriage serve as witness for me? A. M. A.

Relatives, whether by blood or law, are not acceptable as witnesses in naturalization cases. If the friend to whom you refer served as a witness for his brother-in-law in a naturalization case, that fact evidently was not brought out at the examination.
FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Naturalization.

PERSHING ROAD STAYS NARROW.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 21, 1861.

CHICAGO—[Editorial].—The Democrat and the Post are having a quarrel over the mighty question whether the latter sheet was bribed to support the charter amendments. We do not believe the Post was bribed at all. Nobody throws away cash these tight times.

WASHINGTON.—The commissioners from the southern confederacy expect no reply to their note on the attitude of the United States toward the seceded states for ten or twelve days. They feel confident, meanwhile, that there will be no collision or change in the military status in their states. They have telegraphic assurance from Montgomery that ample arrangements have been made to avoid trouble at Fort Pickens.

ST. LOUIS.—A dispatch from Little Rock says the state convention voted down the secession ordinance. At Van Buren, Ark., the people fired thirty-nine guns from a cannon dug up on the battlefield of Trenton in honor of the thirty-nine members of the convention who voted down the proposal to secede.

RICHMOND, Va.—In the state convention Mr. Holcomb of Albemarle made a strong speech favoring withdrawal from the Union.

NEW ORLEANS.—The governor has signed a bill to transfer the troops and arms in the possession of Louisiana to the confederate government.

WASHINGTON.—Orders have been forwarded to Maj. Anderson to evacuate Fort Sumter. The New York Herald's Charleston disptach says: "Paymaster Hutton visited Fort Sumter under a flag of truce and paid off fifty government soldiers under Maj. Anderson, and the command will leave on March 23.

WASHINGTON.—The senate took up Senator Douglas' resolution calling for information concerning the forts, arsenals, navy yards, and other public property in the seceded states. Senator Bayard, in talking on the resolution, indicated he will offer a proposition authorizing the President to conclude a treaty with the confederate states and acknowledge their independence as a separate nation. Otherwise, he said, the alternative—civil war—would occur, which should be averted.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 21, 1901.

LONDON.—Gen. Wogack, the Russian commander at Tientsin, has demanded not only the withdrawal of the British troops from the disputed territory at the railroad siding but an apology for the removal of the Russian flag. Gen. Barrow, the British commander, refuses either to withdraw or apologize. Barrow is backed by his government and reinforcements are being sent.

CHICAGO.—"Fat Jack" Flaherty, a Halsted street saloonkeeper, who lost $500 through the defeat of Sharkey by James J. Jeffries, encountered the latter in Dennis Foley's saloon, 79 Halsted street. Flaherty told Jeffries he owed him the $500. Jeffries couldn't see it that way and Flaherty hit him in the jaw, knocking him against a table. Jeffries was prevented from striking back.

CHICAGO.—The Rev. Arthur Edwards, editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate, a seaman by birth, a soldier by chance, a minister by education, and an editor by choice, died at his home, 2518 Indiana avenue, at the age of 76. He was one of the great old time Methodist leaders and did much toward shaping the policy of the church in the middle west, being particularly aggressive in his fights for laymen's rights.

LONDON.—The Daily Mail's correspondent in Kobe declares that Russian aggression in Corea has caused Japan to mobilize its fleet following the sailing of all Russian warships in Japanese waters to the Corean coast.

WASHINGTON.—President McKinley signed the commission of F. E. Coyne as postmaster at Chicago. Albert W. Wishard was appointed United States district attorney and H. C. Pettit United States marshal for Indiana.

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Richard Clawson, famous jockey, was taken to a hospital here dying with consumption.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 21, 1916.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Francisco Villa may be forced into a fight with the United States troops within the next 36 hours if reports coming to Gen. Funston's headquarters and from Mexican sources are correct. Gen. Pershing reported that Villa was said to have been defeated by Mexican government troops at Cruces and that he was marching northward in retreat. However, this was followed by an unofficial report that Villa was still fighting at Namiquipa, south of Cruces.

GEN. PERSHING'S HEADQUARTERS IN MEXICO.—[By Wireless.]—Six biplanes of the First Aero squadron, under command of Capt. B. D. Foulois, arrived to scout in the mountains for Villa. Additional troops arrived to take the place of the 1,000 men sent from the temporary base to pursue Villa.

CHICAGO.—The climax of the fight on Dr. Theodore B. Sachs which has been conducted ever since Mayor Thompson and Dr. John Dill Robertson entered the city hall came when Dr. Sachs resigned as president of the Chicago Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium. His resignation is likely to stir the anti-Thompson forces in the city to white heat, as it was only after every possible pressure had been brought to bear that the mayor reappointed him last fall. Clubwomen immediately began taking steps to arouse their organizations to action and several protest meetings may be held today.

CHICAGO.—James R. Mann of Chicago, Republican leader in the house of representatives, is likely to be chosen by the subcommittee of the national committee which meets here today as temporary chairman of the Republican national convention in June.

DANGERS FROM ABOVE.

Chicago, March 15.—As a salesman covering the loop district of Chicago only, I see the loop at its best and at its worst. I dodge daily in and out of traffic; I have witnessed some of the many accidents which have occurred. But still I love the hustle and bustle of it all—it keeps me keyed up and on my toes.

To a great many the loop spells danger, but to me the loop never held fear of danger until just a few day ago when I came to the sudden realization that, heretofore, I had been concerned only with what took place on the ground. As a matter of fact every one going into the loop is in danger, not so much from what goes on about him as from what goes on above him.

I was walking along Wells street, about in the center of the sidewalk, when something whizzed by my ear, struck a glancing blow on my arm and crashed to the sidewalk. The missile had, evidently, been a good sized block of ice, as the sidewalk was covered with small pieces for some distance. Where it came from I do not know, but I feel sure that the sun beating down on the coping of the building I was passing had dislodged it and sent it crashing downward. Had it struck 6 inches closer, my friends would probably now be saying, "Doesn't he look natural?"

Despite this close call, I thought little of it until the following day when I happened to be on one of the top floors of a building on Wabash avenue. Glancing out of the window I noticed an old four story building which has a sheet metal coping. The coping had, undoubtedly, been torn loose by the wind, and instead of properly repaired had merely been weighted down with loose building bricks. I could not help but think that a good wind storm would send these bricks hurling to the street below where thousands pass daily, and that I might be below the spot at that time.

I dare say there are hundreds of similar cases throughout the loop. Might not the city turn a little of the attention given to safety in the streets to what is above the streets? An inspection of all copings and projections of any kind on all buildings in the loop district should be made regularly by city officials. Must we wait for a catastrophe to obtain action? LOOP SALESMAN.

PROOF OF BEAUTY.

Chicago, March 17.—Any one who has anything to say against our Chicago girls is all wet. Don't our girls always come out with honors in any kind of a contest? Haven't they always won honors in the National Beauty contests? That is proof enough that we have the goods and can deliver. JAYCE.

GREEN TO ORANGE TO RED.

Chicago, March 16.—There is no question that the installation of the signal lights in the various parts of the city has tended to speed up the traffic, and in that respect can be said to be a distinct success. However, it has occurred to the writer that a still further improvement could be made in the lighting signals that would make for the same a still greater success in that the number of accidents occurring at street intersections could be lessened.

As the lights now operate, at least on the north and south sides of the city, the orange light follows both the green and the red lights. My understanding is that the orange light is merely a "get ready" signal, telling those who are moving to slow down, and those who are at a standstill to prepare to move forward. I presume that is the purpose for which the orange light is designed. What actually happens in the majority of cases every day, whether the pavements are dry or wet, is that those who are moving, upon showing the orange light seek to beat the signal if they can by rushing through the light, and those who are at a standstill immediately move forward. The result is that in cases where each party is not exercising the utmost caution, right angle collisions often occur.

It would seem that a simple remedy would be to give the advantage of the orange light to the moving vehicle since between the two the greater difficulty in complying with the rule falls upon the vehicle in motion and, moreover, the temptation to violate this rule of the orange light would show only after the green and not after the red. In other words, the lights would go from green to orange to red to green, and the motorist who would be at a standstill would not start his car forward until the green light actually comes up. There is no need for an intervening orange light to tell him to get ready. This would probably require a mechanical modification in the operation of the lights but there is no doubt a great many preventable accidents would be eliminated by reason thereof. MORRIS LEVENBERG.

HEAVY HITTERS FOR THE CUBS.

Chicago, March 16.—I have been a Cub fan for many years and always will be. The Cubs made a poor showing last year because they were minus heavy hitters.

However, they managed to secure the services of Art John, the only "real" hitter in the outfield. I observed in this morning's TRIBUNE that he has been turned over to the Los Angeles club on the coast as payment for two new players. I am inclined to believe that Mr. Wrigley is trying his best to make Los Angeles stronger than the Cubs.

Follow the Giants' and Pirates' policy of securing heavy hitters, and we will have a ball team. EDWARD R. O'CONNELL.

GROUND HOG A FLAT TIRE.

Chicago, March 15.—Ground hog philosophy went wrong this year, as he did not see his shadow Feb. 2, and we have not had more than six weeks of bad weather. Even granting that he did see his shadow as some claim, how are we to account for the extra day of winter? Or is it possible that ground hogs have adopted a new schedule by their present "daylight saving" plan? This thing should be settled right now as it is the most important question before the American people today. Have we a ground hog law or not? If we have such a law it should be enforced, or the public mind should be switched to the goose hens or some other unfailing standard. INDIGNANT CITIZEN.

MR. CROWE'S SENSIBILITIES.

Chicago, March 16.—State's Attorney Crowe claims to have been sitting in his home listening to his radio when he heard the announcer declare that Mr. Crowe, and his associate, Mr. Barrett, were enjoying the night life of Chicago at the Moulin Rouge cafe. After hearing this announcement Mr. Crowe assembled a squad from the detective bureau and personally led a raid on the place mentioned, arresting the manager, threatening and embarrassing the patrons, and jailing the chief offender, Mr. Friedlander.

If the simple announcement of a person's presence in a public place constitutes slander, then I suppose that any one attending a place of this kind is either a criminal or a moron. My opinion is that Mr. Friedlander is more sinned against than sinning.

Mr. Crowe claims that this announcement caused him great embarrassment and chagrin, although he apparently has no scruples against attending a private banquet with notorious gunmen. If Mr. Crowe expects this action to create sympathy in his favor in the coming election I feel sure that he will be a sadder but wiser man after the votes are counted. SCOTTSAY.

WARNING UNHEEDED; GIRL KILLED.

Chicago, March 11.—On the first day of March I wrote the city officials what advantage would result from installing traffic lights at the corners of 35th and Wallace streets. There is a school at this corner that many children attend and since lights have been installed at 35th and Halsted streets the bulk of the heavy traffic, such as oil and milk tank trucks, use Wallace street. The Chicago surface lines also cross this corner, besides many automobiles in the summer going to and from the White Sox baseball park. Yesterday, March 10, one little school girl, age 14 years, was killed and two little girls, 10 and 12 years, were crippled for life at this corner by a heavy truck at recess time. TAX PAYER.

DOWAGER QUEEN OF DENMARK IS DEAD, AGED 74

Took Throne in 1906; Loved for Democracy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 20.—Dowager Queen Louise of Denmark died at the age of 74 today. Death was due to pneumonia. Her son, King Christian, and Queen Alexandra were at her bedside when she died.

A SWEDISH PRINCESS.

Queen Louise was the daughter of King Charles XV. of Sweden and Norway. She became queen of Denmark in 1906 after the death of King Christian IX., who was the father of her husband, Crown Prince Frederick. Queen Louise and King Frederick were the most popular reigning monarchs in Europe for many years.

Son Took Throne.

Queen Louise became the dowager queen when her eldest son, Crown Prince Christian, the present king of Denmark, became king on the sudden death of his father in 1912. Another of her sons is King Haakon of Norway.

She had eight children—four sons and four daughters.

Queen Louise had suffered many serious illnesses during the last few years. In 1922 she contracted pneumonia and in 1924 suffered a recurrence of the same disease. Her chances for recovery in both these instances were considered very small, but her indomitable spirit and constitution saved her.

Descendant of Marshal.

Queen Louise's grandmother was the famous Desiree Clary, daughter of a French merchant, who captivated Napoleon Bonaparte and later married Marshal Bernadotte, who became king of Sweden and Norway.

Louise's second son, Prince Charles, stirred her wrath by marrying Princess Maud, youngest daughter of King Edward VII. of England. She kept up virulent attacks on Princess Maud for many years. The cause for this was her desire that the prince marry the queen of Holland, who had fallen in love with him.

Queen Louise was conspicuous for her great height—she was more than six feet tall. She was noted as the wealthiest royal princess in Europe. Her fortune was estimated at $15,000,000 at the time she became queen of Denmark.

GANG CONFESSES IT KILLED AND STOLE $300,000

300 Detectives Trace Clews Disclosed.

New York, March 20.—(AP)—Activities of 300 detectives under the direction of Police Commissioner McLaughlin today resulted in confessions to jewel robberies totaling $300,000 in loot and other crimes by members of a gang of seven men and one woman, rounded up following a lucky arrest on suspicion early yesterday.

Some of the Robberies.

Richard Reese Whittemore, called the gang leader; Leon Kraemer and his brother Jack, both of Philadelphia, and Anthony Paladino of Brooklyn, admitted their parts, the police said, in a $200,000 robbery at 48th street and Fifth avenue last January.

Paladino also confessed to helping rob the Stanley Jewelry company of $50,000 in gems, and Whittemore admitted that he and "the mob" robbed the store of J. Ross in Grand street of $80,000 in jewels last November.

Set Aside Defense Fund.

Morris Goldberg, another member of the gang, was said to have been found with two watches in his possession that were taken from the Lindhauer Jewelry company shop in Sixth avenue, last fall, by robbers who escaped with $75,000 in jewelry.

Whittemore is wanted in Baltimore for killing a prison guard when he escaped from the Maryland penitentiary last February.

Two other murders were credited to this gang by detectives.

Paladino said that $30,000 of the diamond loot had been cashed and set aside for a "defense fund" in case any of its members were apprehended, according to the police.

French Franc Again Slips as Tax Bills Face Delay

PARIS, March 20.—(AP)—The prospect that parliament will adjourn for the Easter vacation without having solved the nation's financial problem caused such uneasiness in business circles today that the franc declined to a new low record for the Paris exchange market. It was quoted at 28.33 to the dollar and 137.35 to the pound sterling as importers rushed to buy American and British exchange to cover payments coming due in the next few weeks.

SISTER BUILDING TO RISE BESIDE TRIBUNE TOWER

Work Begun to Increase Plant's Capacity.

the most recent monthly averages, which follow:

Month.	Daily Avgs.	Sunday. Avgs.
October, 1925	680,993	1,050,786
November, 1925	686,946	1,078,135
December, 1925	690,529	1,077,271
January, 1926	709,075	1,101,723
February, 1926	717,071	1,113,277

Advertising Gains Keep Pace.

The onward strides taken by THE TRIBUNE in advertising lineage have been equally swift, as is shown in the following table:

	Advertising columns.		Advertising columns.
1916	54,974	1921	76,762
1917	54,891	1922	87,878
1918	51,888	1923	93,471
1920	85,753	1925	103,561

To accommodate these growths it has been necessary for the engineers to design especially adapted presses. THE TRIBUNE is the only newspaper in the world which prints simultaneously three definitely worked out sections, so that at the breakfast table the father may have the news section, the mother the feature section, and the son the sport section—or however else they may desire—without disrupting the orderliness of the newspaper. So are the three sections conducive to the best interests of advertisers.

Huge Color Press in Prospect.

The new addition will also house a new color press for the comic section, to have a capacity of 2,000,000 copies weekly.

The north wing, when completed, will rise seventeen stories, and will face on Michigan avenue, Illinois street, and St. Clair street. Tribune square then will be covered overall with the great stone building.

So that the plan of THE TRIBUNE owners to have the most beautiful building in the world, irrespective of cost or profit, may be fulfilled, four renting floors which might have been planned for the new addition have been sacrificed, that the whole might blend into a structure of harmony and beauty. The ultimate cost of this north wing is estimated at $6,000,000.

Guard Beauty of Tower.

The first four stories of the completed building will be unbroken by courts or ledges, thus providing large, open floor spaces for TRIBUNE mailing room, composing room, etching room and editorial offices. The remaining twelve floors of the north building will be set back forty feet from Michigan avenue to permit uninterrupted view from the north of the majestic lines of the Tower and will be joined to the east wall of the present tower, a court area insuring light and air for both sections.

That portion of the Tower not used by THE TRIBUNE itself—about 35 per cent—is now 95 per cent rented, and the swiftly growing needs of the new north central business district are constantly creating new demands for office space.

Capped with pinnacles like those which now pierce the sky on the Tower, the architecture of the new building will follow that of the present structure. The plans are made by Messrs. Howells and Hood, the architects who won the $50,000 award by THE TRIBUNE in its contest for the most beautiful design for the Tower.

RALLY TO OPEN GIRLS' WEEK IN CHICAGO TODAY

Ohio Woman Judge Will Make Address.

Effectively to remind the rest of the world of their importance in the general scheme of things, girls of Chicago will put their best foot forward in the observance of Girls' week, beginning with a grand rally this afternoon at the Great Northern theater, under auspices of the Girls' Week federation. A week of activities of interest to young women will follow.

Florence E. Allen, Ohio Supreme court justice, has come from her home at Cleveland to start off the week's celebration by addressing the hundreds of girls who will gather at the theater on their present and future opportunities, privileges and duties. She will be introduced by a woman jurist as well known as herself—Judge Mary Bartelme of the Chicago Juvenile court.

Pageant to Be Presented.

Under direction of Bertha M. Iles and Mary Courtenay, a large cast will present the pageant, "The Holy Grail," at the conclusion of Justice Allen's talk.

A silver cup, donated the federation, will be presented to the winner of the competitive health contests which have been in progress for some time. Dr. Effa Davis will make the presentation.

The program will be repeated again in the evening at Orchestra hall to accommodate all the girls wishing to attend the celebration.

Monday will be observed as Recreation day, under the direction of Flora J. Wolfson, at the Musicians' club. Tuesday will be Job day. Wednesday, Art day, will be made the occasion of a tour through the Art institute, under direction of Dudley Crafts Watson. Thursday has been named Home day.

Friday will be Civics day, when representatives of the Girls' Week federation will take their posts as aids to Mayor Dever, Judge Bartelme, Mrs. Mabel Reinecke, collector of internal revenue, and other city executives.

Saturday's celebration will consist primarily of tours to places of interest in the city, including loop stores and hotels, public buildings, the stockyards and parks.

Probably the largest individual celebration of the week will be held at the Hawthorne plant of the Western Electric company, where 8,000 of the 25,000 employes are girls.

Tribune Comics' Characters to Live at Children's Show

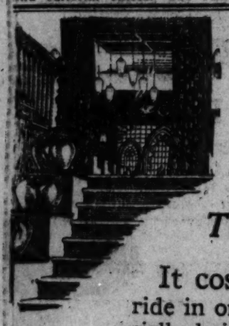
Uncle Walt, Skeeix, Phyllis Blossom, Andy and Min Gump, Ma and Pa Winkle, Daddy Warbucks and Orphan Annie—in fact, the entire family group of THE TRIBUNE cartoon strips, will be present at the entertainment to be given Wednesday evening at the Harriet Beecher Stowe school, Ballou street and Wabansia avenue, by the "L. C." girls of Bethel church. Proceeds of the benefit performance will go to the Lutheran Children's home at Edison Park. THE TRIBUNE characters will be introduced in the minstrel show which is to begin at 8:15 o'clock.

PNEUMONIA KILLS 15 BABIES IN DAY; DEATHS INCREASE

Pneumonia took the highest toll among babies yesterday that the health department has recorded for several months. Out of thirty-six infant deaths, Health Commissioner H. N. Bundesen reported, fifteen were caused by pneumonia.

A slight increase also was shown in the total number of flu-pneumonia deaths in the last twenty-four hours. Fifty deaths were reported yesterday, six more than the day before. The week's total reached 193.

Dr. Bundesen repeated his warning to adults with colds to keep away from babies. He also recommended the feeding of cod liver oil as a preventive, both to children and adults, even if they are considered in good health. At the first sign of infection, he said, persons should go to bed until completely recovered.



"Hursen" Funeral Autos

The Finest in America

It costs not a cent more to ride in one of Hursen's superb, specially designed, private, noiseless funeral-limousines than it does to ride in any of the usual unlovely public funeral conveyances. Hursen's automobiles are recognized as the most beautiful in America.

Each has been specially designed by Hursen himself. Each required a small fortune to build. Each possesses those traits of unusual beauty, comfort and always appropriate loveliness which distinguish all things "Hursen."

The interior of "Hursen" cars is perfection in drawing-room elegance, and in arrangement for roomy comfort. The exterior in contour, in finish and in equipment represents a development far in advance of many of the highest-priced automobiles of the day.

"Hursen" cars are noiseless, vibrationless. Each rides like a Pullman coach. Each is under the supervision of a Hursen-trained, always correct, liveried driver. It is small wonder that a fleet of "Hursen" cars, wherever seen, always excites such universal admiration.

The new "Hursen" idea, the "limousine-hearse," is also something entirely new to Chicagoans. It is a revolution in hearses. It does away with the much overdone and gloomy ornamentation always heretofore used on hearses. Hursen "limousine-hearses" follow the same general lines of elegance and simplicity which have the "Hursen" funeral autos for passengers famous in America.

The elegance of "Hursen" funerals to the last detail is unsurpassed. Yet the charge for "Hursen" funerals is from one-third to one-half the charges usually asked elsewhere. It is this policy that has made "Hursen's" the greatest undertaking establishment in America.

WHERE TO BUY

Mallory Soft Hats and Derbies in guardedly exclusive shapes and shades are on sale today at the better Hat Shops and Hat Departments throughout the city and nearby. If you don't find Mallory Hats, phone Dearborn 4238, and you will be referred to a store near you.

MANY eyes go no farther than your hat. It, more than any other article of wear, is eloquent of quality and personality, or silent about them. A Mallory creates an instantly favorable impression by its fine, firm, lustrous felt; by its flattering becomingness of shape; by its highbred elegance of workmanship; by its assured authenticity of style.

A CHEAP hat looks cheap. The wearer feels it. The observer knows it. Self esteem and the approbation of others demand a fine hat. Mallory Hats are worn by men who will not put a "bargain" price upon their heads to put a trivial saving into their pockets. Mallory Hats give back every penny of their cost in extension of wear and preservation of looks.

FIND THE LABEL

Mallory Soft Hats and Derbies always bear the Mallory Label stamped in the crown and upon the sweat-leather. Be sure that you are getting what you're paying for. It is important, for your sake and ours, that you find the Mallory Label in the Soft Hat or Derby you buy.

SLAPSTICK JOKE SEEN IN LOCAL CAMPAIGN ISSUES

World Court Help Puzzles Back Room Boys.

BY THE SENATOR.

The world court may not be a local issue but it is a knockout as a vocal issue. There's the explanation of some of the slapstick comedy that makes the Cook county campaign a prolonged guffaw. A bunch of intellectual giants from the county building were in deep deliberation yesterday when I pulled up to the round table.

"It's a scream," says one of the intelligentsia, "the way George Harding and John Devine are panning each other over the county treasurership."

"Yes," says I, "but it strikes me Devine was too precipitant. He didn't give the professional reformers a show. Here Barney Snow gets emotional in the Sunday prints and exalts Harding as an amateur reformer. But Harding hadn't any more than pinned the Order of Uplift in his buttonhole and started down the street admiring his new silk tile in the shop windows when Devine threw a ripe tomato out of the alley at the lid.

Devine Spoils the Game.

"I ask you was it fair? The Better Governmenters didn't have time to rush over to give Harding the real test. There used to be a politician whom the boys called 'First Search.' He was a deputy coroner. This sheds light on the derivation of his nickname. Well, the umbrella toters didn't have a chance to send the first search squad to see if Harding had $35,000, before, blop! the Devine tomato. No opportunity to apply the supreme test of professional reform. I ask you, was this giving the reform racket guys a fair shake?"

"O, well," says a North Side sophisticate, "it takes all kinds of people to make a world. How's the senatorship race coming?"

"It's now in the sordid and mercenary stage," says I. "The paramount issue at present is not the world court or affairs of statesmanship, but how much money will be available for running the polls April 13. It is an interesting study, indeed, in the Freudian impulse. The difference in viewpoint between the boys out front making the ballyhoo and the lads in the backroom doing the practical work, is largely a matter of gender.

"Out front the spellbinders are shooting the buck, but in the backroom they are more interested in getting the doe. How much will be in the little black bak on payoff night just before the primaries, to man the polls, that's the absorbing question."

"Well," says one of the cognoscenti, "any politician can shoot the buck but it takes the inside boys to bag the dough."

Worrying in the Back Room.

"True enough," says I. "But now the backroom boys have high blood pressure from the way the issues are running amuck. The spellbinders are whooping it up against the world court, because this gets the only rise out of an audience. Anything else leaves them cold. So every candidate has been slamming into the court.

"Birds so dumb they think the bar of the league of nations is something with a brass rail in front of it and a plate glass mirror behind it, are asking to be nominated for the county board or the sanitary district so they can go to Washington or Geneva and wreck the court and the league.

"The funniest thing in politics is the spectacle of the Crowe-Barrett bunch, which is the mainstay in Cook county of Senator McKinley, who voted for the world court, sitting on the platform at meetings where the court is larruped from Helena to breakfast. A fine crop of misgivings has grown up. Some of the boys are saying it puts them in a swell pickle to soak the court in one breath and in the next urge the voters to support a world court senator. The issue seems to have run away with the campaign.

"They are blaming Ed Brundage. Last December in the hominy conferences, the Crowe-Barrett wing found Ed sitting in with the Deneen outfit. So Crowe-Barrett pulled in Bill Thompson for a break in the north side wards. Then Ed came back into camp and fell on Bill's neck. They couldn't ditch Bill. They let him run the anti-world court mass meetings. Bill turned them into Thompson blowouts.

"Now there are mutters that while Bill has been getting the advertising the campaign has been getting the punk. Bill discovered Lincoln. This week he discovered St. Patrick and copped him as patron saint for the Scandinavians at the Shipstead meeting. Next October he'll probably be discovering Columbus. If there were a Chinese vote he'd be playing up Confucius.

"Of course, the assumption has been that Bob Crowe will run for mayor or governor, and Charley Barrett for mayor if Bob doesn't start. Another assumption is that after election is over the organization will say, 'Here's your hat, Bill; must you go?' Roll your own answer, the camel seems to have his nose inside the tent at least.

The Cynical Precinct Worker.

"Some of the boys are wondering whether all the excitement stirred up over the world court will not bring out a bigger primary vote than the usual 50 per cent or so. If so, a lot of inside room dope stands a chance of being upset.

"Perhaps the most cynical thing about it all is that every precinct worker seems to know the corrupt practices act has been amended so that the blue sky is practically the limit to expenditures in a senatorship primary contest. In the basement of politics the basic question is how much jack will be available to pay the precinct wallopers for door knocking on primary day."

Fergus to Enjoin Payment of Solons in Remapping Fight

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Steps to contest the seats of 50 Illinois legislators and to prevent them from drawing their salaries when the fifty-fifth assembly convenes next January were taken yesterday by John B. Fergus in renewing his reapportionment fight.

He also plans to attack in the courts any legislation that is passed with the aid of their votes.

The 82 year old Chicagoan, back on his feet after an automobile accident that almost finished his picturesque career, is playing no favorites in his latest attack on the assembly from a new and unexpected angle. Six senators and eighteen representatives from Cook county are among the 50 solons whose seats and salaries he will contest.

Mr. Fergus' new action is based on a provision of the constitution different from that supporting his reapportionment mandamus, now pending in the Supreme court. The latter action was based on the provision requiring reapportionment every ten years, a requirement that has been ignored since 1901.

"But the constitution also fixes an irreducible minimum of population for each district," Mr. Fergus says. "Section 6 of Article 4 provides that 'no senatorial district shall contain less than three-fourths of the senatorial ratio, established by dividing the state's population by 51, the fixed number of districts.

"Twenty of the present districts have a population below that irreducible minimum which is 101,729 by the census of 1920."

"I shall attack any legislation which may be passed with any of the 50 votes in the senate and house represented by those twenty districts. Furthermore, I intend to file a bill to enjoin the state treasury from paying public money as compensation to senators and representatives of those twenty districts as being money that they are asserting a right to illegally."

Districts 1, 2, 15, 17, 27, and 29 of Cook county are below the minimum, says Mr. Fergus, who has retained Attorney John A. Watson to bring the new action.

FLAG AS PRIZE FOR BIG NORTH SHORE VATE TEST

To encourage North Shore residents to take an interest in political contests, a large American flag and standard will be presented to that village in New Trier township, which polls the largest vote on next primary election day by officials of the Winnetka chapter of the Izaak Walton league, it was announced yesterday. Villages eligible are Wilmette, Kenilworth, Winnetka, and Glencoe.

Judges of the contest are Earl E Orner, president of the village of Wilmette; James Murray, president of Kenilworth; and Merle Waltz, president of Glencoe.

Notes of the Day in Politics

Political leaders all anticipate a heavy registration of voters next Tuesday, the first in fourteen months. There are 1,060,102 names on the registers now, 649,669 men and 410,433 women. The Tuesday registration will be the only one before primary day, April 13. Polling places will be open from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Former Attorney General E. J. Brundage issued a statement yesterday calling on his allies, the Crowe-Barrett forces, to do less talking about the world court and devote more attention to home rule matters and the efforts of Small and Lundin to get control of the legislature.

Dunne-Lewis-O'Connell Democrats have selected the following candidates for the Municipal court: Michael Kaveney, Frank B. Murray, John J. Simpson, James J. Danaher and Martin Walsh.

The women's division of the Smith senatorial managing committee has opened fifth ward headquarters at the Del Prado hotel with Mrs. A. F. Gilman in charge.

Earl M. Waters is advocating beer and wine as the main plank in his platform as a candidate for congress in the Tenth district against Congressman Chindblom. The district voted for beer and wine by a majority of 41,566 in the 1922 referendum.

Mrs. Ethel Bain Stephens filed as a candidate for village trustee in Oak Park yesterday. The election will be held April 6.

Lawrence F. King, Morris Eller and Charles E. Graydon, Crowe-Barrett candidate for sanitary trustee, were indorsed yesterday by Santa Fé lodge 613, Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station employes.

William C. Scherwat, Deneen-Lundin candidate for county clerk, yesterday announced an endorsement by the Greek-American club.

Finding in his ...l a letter criticizing his views on ...ohibitionism and having no one at ...d with whom to argue the matter, ...r. Brennan answered the letter.

Brennan Tilts with Dry.

...It was from Melvin A. Cline, editor ...f the Leroy (Ill.) Journal, who ...charged the Democratic boss with ...hypocrisy in adopting the slogan, "Save Our Boys and Girls."

...Mr. Cline said Mr. Brennan's slo... should be "Give Us More Alco... His was zealous in his defense ...f prohibition, said it was just as ...reasonable to increase the amount of ...caffeine in headache powders as to ...increase the alcoholic content of bev...erages, and told Mr. Brennan he and ...Al Smith were suffering from a hang...over of the old saloon days.

...To which Mr. Brennan replied that ...when it came to prohibition he stood ...on the same ground with Chief Jus... William Howard Taft, former ...President; Andrew Mellon, secretary ...of the treasury; the late Henry Ward ...Beecher, and the Rev. Sam Small, for ...forty years a temperance worker.

"More drunkenness, crime, death, im...morality—these, Mr. Brennan said, are ...some of the by-products of prohibi...tion.

Temperance Brennan's Goal.

"While you appear perfectly con...tented with conditions under which we ...live in this age of moonshine mad...ness, I seek to break up the commun...ity of interest between the boot...legger and the commercial reformer ...by repealing or sensibly modifying the ...Volstead law," he wrote to Mr. Cline. "For poison liquor I would substi...tute wholesome beer of 2.75 or 3 per ...cent alcoholic content, which chem...ists have said is not intoxicating. ...This would mean a return to temper...ance which is not synonymous with ...prohibition."

...Allen F. Moore, manager of the ...Smith campaign, said that Smith will ...come to the Cook county line more ...than 100,000 votes ahead of Senator ...McKinley. Andrew Russel, McKinley ...manager, retorted that the claim was ...ridiculous—that McKinley will come ...up from the downstate far in the lead. ...Smith made the same claims in 1916 ...as a candidate for governor and in ...1920 as a candidate for senator against ...McKinley, Russel said. But 1926 will ...be different, Moore replied.

"ON TRIAL!"

MRS. DORIS MERCER KRESGE.
[Pacific and Atlantic Photos.]

DEVINE'S RECORD IS CHALLENGED BY G. F. HARDING

The political air remained thick with accusations yesterday as the Republican battle for the county treasury went on with unabated intensity. George F. Harding, candidate on the Crowe-Barrett-Thompson ticket, cut loose another broadside at John F. Devine, the Deneen-Lundin entry.

Devine's last statement repeated that Harding is a tax dodger. Harding's reply was that Devine's charges are false and were repeated because Devine is attempting to evade the real issue and to keep from matching Harding's promise to save $1,000,000 or more a year by turning funds over to the taxing bodies as fast as they are collected.

"I will not permit him to evade the only issue," Harding said. "I say again, once and for all, that every statement that I have failed to pay taxes upon my property is absolutely false.

"If Mr. Devine should decide to give some of his confidence to the public he might tell how he has handled the bank interest on the monthly balances belonging to the county from his present office [Probate clerk] during the last eight years. Let him say whether in his monthly settlements with the county treasurer through the county comptroller he has included interest collected on his bank balances.

"The amount involved may not be large, but the principle is important in the case of a man who aspires to an office that controls millions in interest payments."

MRS. KRESGE PUT ON 3 YEAR TRIAL AS DUTIFUL WIFE

Millions in Gifts Depend Upon Her Actions.

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—A financial settlement contingent solely on whether Mrs. Doris Mercer Kresge fulfills for three years the part of "dutiful wife" is the basis of the agreement reached between her and Sebastian S. Kresge, chain store magnate, in which Mrs. Kresge drops her suit for securities worth $2,000,000.

According to this arrangement, Mrs. Kresge gets nothing in the beginning, but each year that she fulfills her rôle she receives gifts the value of which is arranged on a sliding scale to become greater each year. If at the end of three years Mrs. Kresge desires to leave she is free to do so and may take her money with her. But unless she is willing to become reconciled with Kresge and live with him meanwhile she gets nothing.

Received $2,000,000 Stock.

As Mrs. Kresge before her marriage to Kresge received stock of the S. S. Kresge company valued now at $2,000,000 the additional stock which she declares ought to come to her will be forthcoming only if she fulfils Kresge's definition of a "dutiful wife." All of this money is in lieu of Mrs. Kresge's waiver of her dower rights in the chain store man's estate.

Despite the promise of much wealth in store for her, it is said by persons in a position to know conditions as they are that Mrs. Kresge is by no means certain that she will become reconciled to her husband. Reconciliation, while probable, is by no means as yet accomplished. As an indication of the situation it is said that contrary to her husband's wishes Mrs. Kresge has accepted a dinner engagement for tomorrow and will not see her husband during the day.

Max D. Steuer, attorney for Mr. Kresge, while refusing to divulge the terms of the settlement, stated that a transfer of the stock of the S. S. Kresge company was not included in the agreement.

Judge Aldca Settlement.

Efforts to settle the Kresge case out of court have been brewing for two weeks. Justice Wagner, of the Supreme court, before whom the case was called for trial, took the initiative in bringing the Kresges together. The case has been adjourned from time to time until next Monday, when it is expected that official announcement will be made of the dropping of the suit.

Kresge called at his wife's Park avenue apartment last night and left a suit case there. Then he left and has not been seen since. They were married in 1924 four months after Kresge's first wife obtained a divorce in Detroit. The second Mrs. Kresge was a music student in New York when Kresge met her.

PANA WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Pana, Ill., March 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Charlott Reid, 50, widow of Dr. John D. Reid, former Pana dentist and president of the Pana Chautauqua association, was burned to death last night in Cleveland, O. She was visiting at the home of her nephew.

ROY WEST FLAILS 'BI-PARTY DEALS' WITH G. O. P. LASH

Republicans Warned of Peril in Combine.

Party regularity in Cook county is the principle on which the Deneen-Lundin organization is waging its fight in the present primary campaign, Roy O. West, secretary of the Republican national committee and manager of the Deneen-Lundin camp, declared yesterday.

"In the presidential campaign of 1924," he said, "it was my job to devote myself to Illinois and doubtful states of the west, northwest and southwest. I learned then of the surprising political influence of Illinois and Chicago in neighboring states. In this connection it will be recalled that President Coolidge received in our state a larger plurality than in any state save in Pennsylvania, and a larger total vote than in any state, save in New York, but each of those states is more populous than is Illinois. It will be recalled, also, that the President carried practically every doubtful state.

A Straight G. O. P. Fight.

"It was believed then that a straight-away Republican fight for the electors in Cook county and Illinois would have helpful effects throughout the west. The Republicanism, sterling character and wise administration of President Coolidge heartened party men and women everywhere and, with party lines tightly drawn, he led us to victory, a victory, too, which gave us a Republican party 'caucus' instead of a 'conference,' in each legislative chamber at Washington, for the first time in a number of years.

"If the Republican National committee had made 'deals' with Farmer-Laborites in the Dakotas, with so-called Progressives or Democrats in Montana, on the coast and elsewhere, of course, the Republican party would have disintegrated and would have been defeated ingloriously.

"Our Deneen group's campaign today in Cook county is premised on the theory of the 1924 national campaign, which contemplated the fact that we have political party government in this country and that Democrats should dictate Democratic candidates and policies and label them Democratic and that Republicans should dominate the Republican party.

"Near Democrat" Opposed.

"The Deneen group opposes the attempt to name a Democrat or a near Democrat as the Republican candidate for county judge of Cook county and thereby to place within his jurisdiction for four years, the selection of 12,500 judges and clerks of election, the canvass of all election returns in the county and the control of the election machinery. For it is notorious that, in certain Democratic wards, ballot boxes are stolen, election officials are kidnaped and a few repeaters and 'counters' outvote, according to the 'returns,' honest thousands.

"To insure the nomination and election of certain Democrats and certain Republicans to the important Cook county offices, the self-styled 'regular' Republican and Democratic leaders are repudiating the national platforms of their respective parties and the pronouncements of their accredited national spokesmen. They are trying to turn the spotlight from themselves and their candidates to and upon international issues and Washington.

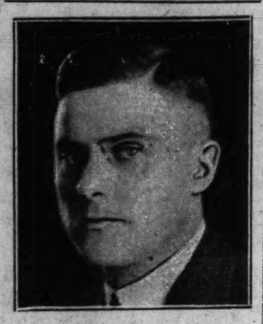
"To this end they import from Minnesota, as a public speaker, to advise Republican voters in a Republican primary election, an outspoken opponent of the party, a member of another political party.

Combine Controls County.

"In the meantime their Democratic-Republican combine is controlling the sanitary district, the county board, and the selection, it is charged, of chief justices of the Criminal court and jury commissioners, through which combine for several years every first position on the primary election ballot, containing several hundred names, has happened to fall to a candidate of the combine.

"It performed in the annual election of officers of south park commissioners. If each taxpayer will examine his tax bills for the current year, he can appraise the largely increased cost in dollars to himself of all these bipartisan understandings and activities."

MILK ENFORCER



GEORGE W. PUTNAM.

ENGAGE EXPERT TO GUARD PURITY OF CHICAGO MILK

George W. Putnam, sanitary engineer for the Missouri state health board since 1923, has been appointed director of the dairy products division of the Chicago health department, Dr. H. N. Bundesen, health commissioner, announced yesterday.

The duty of Mr. Putnam will be to supervise enforcement of the new pure milk ordinance, which goes into effect April 1 to prohibit the sale of milk from cows not tuberculin tested. He will take up his work here within a few days.

Mr. Putnam, although only 32 years old, is one of the foremost milk sanitation experts of the middle west, according to Dr. Bundesen. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and serve dtwo years as assistant sanitary engineer for the health board of that state and one year in the same capacity in California.

SENTENCES FOR NUSBAUM KILLING SET THIS WEEK

"Grandma" Eliza Nusbaum and John Walton Winn, her affinity, will be formally sentenced on next Saturday for the murder of Albert Nusbaum, husband of the defendant. Judge Emanuel Eller announced yesterday that on that day he would dispose of the motions for new trials in behalf of the defendants. The jury's verdict gave the death penalty to Winn and life imprisonment to Mrs. Nusbaum.

Attorney Rocco De Stefano, who was appointed to represent Winn, was engaged in another case yesterday and it was for that reason that sentencing was postponed.

Judge Eller announced that next Saturday he will also sentence Mrs. Delilah Martin, Marion Stringham, and Edward Grant Goff, co-conspirators, who turned state's evidence.

START DRIVE FOR FAIR DIVISION OF CITY TAX BURDEN

Need for More Revenue Impels Campaign.

If the plans of an aldermanic committee backed by the city council and administration mean anything the way of the tax dodger in Chicago this year will be hard.

Confronted with the alternative of increasing levies to meet the needs of the public schools, police, fire, and other departments, the city next week will open its $50,000 drive for more revenue through more equitable assessment of taxable property.

Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch yesterday announced the appointment of Ernest S. Hodges, former assistant state's attorney, as special counsel for the real estate subcommittee of the council which is directing the drive. He will confer with the committee at its meeting Tuesday when detailed plans for the campaign will be formulated.

Busch Favors Forceful Methods.

"Mr. Hodges is a vigorous fighter and that is the kind of man we need in this job," Mr. Busch said. "When a man's pocketbook is affected you can't coöperate with him. The only way to raise his taxes to where they should be is to use force—go into the tax lists, publish the discrepancies, and then remedy them."

Discussing preliminary plans for the drive, Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman, said that the subcommittee proposes first to obtain a typical list of 500 two family and one family buildings, find the relation of their assessed value to their market value, and use this percentage as a basis for valuation of all property.

Big Revenue Increase Seen.

This, it is believed, will bring the taxes of large property owners in the loop and industrial districts to amounts proportionate with those of small home owners, now said to be bearing the heaviest part of the tax burden.

Since the board of assessors already is at work, the subcommittee intends to rush its proceedings to completion by July 1. Ald. Clark predicted that about $700,000,000 should be added to tax valuations with a consequent increase of $6,500,000 in the city's revenue.

Col. Edward B. Ellicott, president of the board of education, in conference with Mayor Dever yesterday, promised the full support of the board in the drive. Coöperation also will be furnished by the Teachers' federation, Firemen's association, and other interested organizations.

ALWART COAL NOW

Business is slack, and prices are down at the Mines right now because shipments have been completed on large industrial and dealer contracts which expire with the fiscal year ending March 31st. Quality is best right now because Mines have ample time to remove impurities before shipping.

Just as soon as Dealers and Industries open new contracts and shipments to them resume, prices on domestic coal will go up again. Dealers who buy their coal on yearly contract capacity, of course, take advantage of these seasonal slumps because they are timed up with current coal. We are buying heavily right now because of quality and price, and by reduced retail prices and quick turnover, for cash you pass these bargains on direct to consumers—that's Coal Merchandising.

The difference between our present prices and the current market prices later will earn a handsome profit for those furnished enough to fill their bins for future use now.

LEVI Z. LEITER A FINE ACCOUNTANT AND ATHLETE, TOO

Trial Recalls Early Days of Fortune Founder.

BY JOHN KELLEY.

As the Leiter case promises to engage the attention of the reading public for some time to come, a brief sketch of the founder of the Leiter millions may be of interest.

LEVI Z. LEITER.

Levi Zeigler Leiter was born in Maryland in 1834. Contrary to general belief, his parents were of Dutch Calvanistic descent. The Leiters were early settlers of Washington county, Md., and the town of Leitersburg was named for them. After quitting school at the age of 15, Levi obtained employment as clerk in a general merchandise store at Leitersburg. He worked four years at small wages and then decided to try his fortune in the western country.

Chicago was his objective point, but en route here he stopped at Springfield, O., where he took a position as clerk in the dry goods house of Peter Murray. He remained there about a year. It was in 1854 that he came to Chicago, and at once procured employment with the wholesale dry goods house of Downs & Van Wyck. He was bookkeeper for this firm two years and then went to the dry goods house of Cooley, Wadsworth & Co., where he was bookkeeper and credit man. After a few years he purchased an interest in the business. This partnership continued until 1865, when he and Marshall Field and Potter Palmer formed the dry goods firm of Field, Palmer & Leiter.

A Leader in Sports.

At the time of Levi Leiter's coming to Chicago, salaries of bookkeepers were not munificent. Sixty dollars a month was regarded good pay for a man who could take charge of a set of books. But Levi Leiter was more than an accountant. He possessed rare business acumen, and to his duties of bookkeeper were added those of credit man.

In early days there was an open space where now stands the public library that was called Dearborn square. There in the evening the young men of the town were wont to gather and engage in pastimes such as jumping, wrestling, running, and feats of strength. Levi Leiter was one of the leaders in those sports.

For several years after coming here Mr. Leiter boarded with a private family. After being taken in as a member of the firm of Cooley, Wadsworth & Co., he went to live at the Tremont house. Later he was a resident guest of the Sherman house, where he was living when he was married to Miss Mary Theresa Carver.

Levi Leiter had a remarkable memory. Many years after he worked as a clerk at Springfield, O., he met Gov. Asa Bushnell at the residence of John J. Glessner, 1800 Prairie avenue. In Springfield young Leiter was selling ginghams and calicos for Peter Murray. Asa Bushnell was employed in a like capacity by Richard Spencer. In a later era, upon learning that Gov. Bushnell was to be a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Glessner, Mr. Leiter expressed a desire to meet him. A little dinner party was arranged at the home of the Glessners, and there Gov. Bushnell and Levi Leiter met for the first time since they were dry goods clerks in Springfield.

Recalled Events of Old.

"I enjoyed listening to them recalling old days in Springfield," said Mr. Glessner. "Mr Leiter asked about this one and that one upon whom he had waited as a clerk and the governor was amazed at his memory of persons and events. There was an old maid in the town who used to buy trimmings and that sort of stuff from Leiter, and he asked about her.

"'Yes, she's still making dresses and still an old maid,' said the governor, and I never saw Mr. Leiter laugh so heartily.

"The Leiter family," continued Mr. Glessner, "was a neighbor of ours for several years. Their residence was at 2114 Calumet avenue. After Mr. Leiter retired from active business he built a beautiful home at Lake Geneva. There was a trout pond on the grounds and Mr. Leiter took pleasure in inviting his friends out there to fish. It is said he introduced the cisco fish in Lake Geneva, bringing a stock of them from Lake Geneva in Switzerland.

"Mr. Leiter also had a flock of Southdown sheep in which he took especial pride. He was a very entertaining host."

Invested in Real Estate.

To return to the firm of Field, Palmer & Leiter, Mr. Palmer retired in 1867, and from that time until Mr. Leiter's retirement in 1881, the firm of Field & Leiter was one of the best known in the west.

Before and after the fire of 1871, Mr. Leiter invested all his spare capital in Chicago realty. At the time of his death in 1904 he was owner of some of the best holdings in the business district. They have advanced tremendously in value. Although he belonged to several clubs and took a leading part in their organization, Mr. Leiter could not be called a clubman. His own fireside was to him the coziest spot in the world. He cared nothing for the glamour of society, and when he was compelled to wear a dress suit he was ill at ease. That sort of stuff did not appeal to Levi Leiter, who was reared in an atmosphere of old fashioned customs and manners.

Mr. Leiter was a member of the Chicago Historical society, to which he was a liberal subscriber. The expense of printing the first two volumes of the society's proceedings was defrayed by him. He also served as president of the Art institute the second year of its organization.

Clash with Editor Recalled.

Mr. Leiter once had a run-in with Melville E. Stone, editor of the Evening News. It was in 1877, at the time of the big railroad strike which resulted in riots at Chicago, Pittsburgh, and other cities. The Evening News had been in the field only a few months, and when the strike came along Editor Stone began throwing out editions every hour or so. The News presses were started running on a Sunday afternoon, something unheard of in Chicago newspaperdom. Mr. Leiter hastened to the News office and begged Mr. Stone to suspend publication until after "quiet was restored."

Melville Stone did not have much money at that time, but he told Levi Leiter that all the wealth at his command would not induce him to stop printing his newspaper.

LULL IN LEITER TRIAL SENDS PRINCIPALS TO PLAY, WORK, SICKBED

That $50,000,000 estate of Levi Z. Leiter, which has precipitated such a family row over in Judge Denis E. Sullivan's court, has nothing much to do except gather interest during this week-end lull in the legal proceedings.

Court adjourned Friday night to Tuesday morning.

Lady Marguerite Hyde, countess of Suffolk and Berks, who has come clear across the water from her home in England to charge Joseph Leiter, her brother, with mismanagement of their father's estate, left her apartments at the Ambassador hotel yesterday morning for a two day holiday in the country. She was accompanied by her senior counsel, Attorney Frank Hamline Scott and Mrs. Scott.

Joe Leiter occupied himself yesterday at his apartment, 229 Lake Shore drive, with business details.

Mrs. Colin Campbell (Nancy Leiter Campbell), his sister, who is sticking to him in this litigation, hurried away to Boston Friday night to pass the week-end with her son, Colin, who is recuperating from an attack of pneumonia. She will not return to court until Wednesday.

As for the attorneys in the case (and there were fourteen of them at the last counting), they are using the court recess to pore over law books, against the continuance of the trial which promises to last three months.

ARMY AND NAVY BALL BRILLIANT SOCIETY AFFAIR

Festooned and draped all around with flags and banners, the Gold room at the Congress hotel last night was the scene of one of the late season's most brilliant social events, the annual Army and Navy ball.

The grand march started at 9:30 and from then on until midnight there was intermittent dancing, social activity, and dining, with the officers and their guests gayly visiting one another's quarters and tables.

At midnight came the dance of all nations portrayed by a number of young society women in costume, dancing gracefully and picturesquely and lending more color to the already brilliant assemblage.

Among distinguished army men present were Gen. Joseph B. Sanborn, Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, Gen. William S. Graves, Col. Kennard Tracy of the marines, Capt. J. H. Hynes of the navy, Capt. Edward E. Evers of the naval reserve corps, Brig. Gen. Frank W. Schwengel, Col. Fred E. Rand, Lieut. Col. H. F. Squires, Capt. Daniel Sullivan, Col. Horatio Hackett, and many others.

STEINWAY or LYON & HEALY

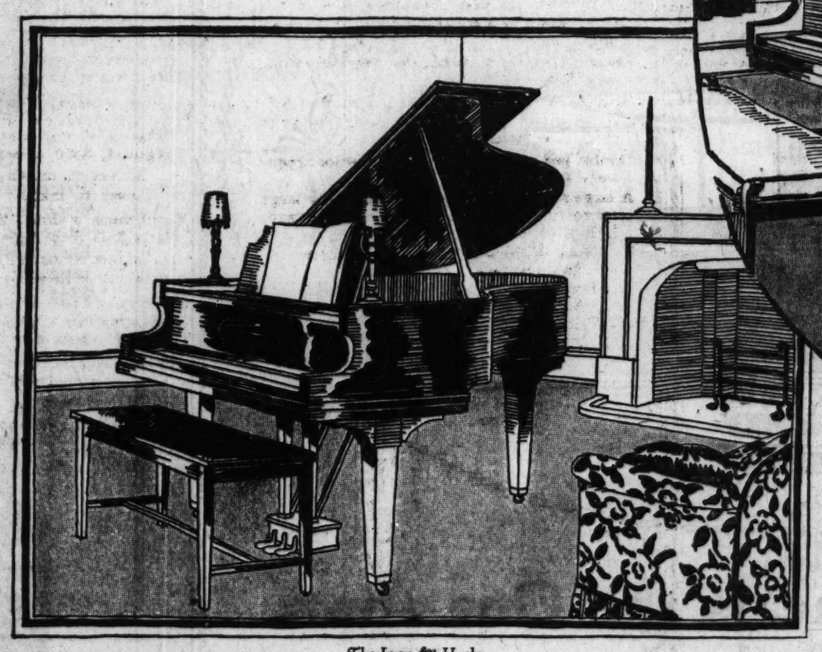
Certainly One or the Other

There are logical, convincing reasons why the grand piano for your home should be one or the other of these famous instruments. Ultimate economy, glorious tone, known durability, are the rewards of your decision to own either a Steinway or a Lyon & Healy

The Steinway



The Lyon & Healy

A GRAND PIANO, graceful in line, rich in tone, attractive in appearance—every home lover and music lover has a deep, ever-growing desire to own one. With it comes music in one of its most beautiful forms. It gives a house the voice of beauty that makes it a home.

Consider the purchase of a grand from many angles. As a musical companion for your child. As a new attraction that will entice the young people to find their good times at home. As an accompaniment to merry voices raised in song.

A grand piano, yes. But there are so many to choose from. Which one should it be?

The Steinway

By all means, a Steinway should be in your home, if at all possible. Any investigation you make will prove the fruth of this statement. The long record of Steinway supremacy and the evident superiority of tone and construction are the determining factors. The Steinway is naturally the immediate choice of well-to-do people to whom price is of little or no consequence.

But a great number of Steinway pianos are bought by people who must give consideration to the price, and who must consult the family budget before reaching a final decision. And the Steinway counts as its finest tribute the fact that in so many modest homes, in interiors that are anything but luxurious—there stands the Instrument of the Immortals. And there is heard its beautiful voice not only this year and the next, but during a whole lifetime.

The Lyon & Healy

If however you are not ready to purchase a Steinway, your choice should be a Lyon & Healy grand piano. There is no question of the wisdom of this. Bearing also a famous name, it is as dominant in its class as is the Steinway. In tonal color it is surpassingly beautiful. From one end of the scale to the other, its voice flows true and responsive to the slightest touch. Evidence of the progressive spirit which builds this lovely instrument are features, fundamentally new and important, and exclusive to the Lyon & Healy. Chief among them are the Junior Unfolding Pedals which enable the smallest child to pedal, and the Candelectra (twin electric lamps).

The intelligent buying of a Steinway or a Lyon & Healy turns the purchase of a grand piano into a logical and consistent investment. Price should not deter you—one or the other you can surely afford. Nor is space an obstacle—there is a Steinway or a Lyon & Healy to fit harmoniously even into the smallest room.

NOW UNCLE SAM MAY TELL US JUST WHAT TO STUDY

Department of Education Urged by Strong Lobby.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—Events are moving rapidly toward a showdown in congress on the question of the further centralization of government and invasion by the federal government of the province of local self-government reserved to the states.

Tremendous pressure is being brought to bear upon the senate and house by the organized educators of the country and affiliated groups to obtain passage of the bill creating a federal department of education, the head of which would have a seat in the cabinet. Equally determined opposition is beginning to materialize.

A number of organizations powerful in the multiplicity of their membership are seeking to have the bill reported out of the committee of education and passed by the house without delay. The plan of its active sponsors calls for its passage by the senate and its approval by President Coolidge before the adjournment of congress.

Groups of enthusiastic men and women compose "lobbies" on the measure, some in favor and some opposed to its enactment. These "lobbies," impressive in size and earnestness, were described today as the most imposing and determined with which congress has had to deal in recent years.

Committee Favorable to Plan.

Senators and representatives are aiding in the effort to get quick action on the bill. The division in the committee on education is said to be close, with the chances in favor of reporting the bill with a favorable recommendation. It was declared today that 170 representatives were committed in writing. A majority of the house is 218, and the counter claim is advanced that more than that number is opposed to the measure.

Organizations affiliated with the National Education association made a determined drive in behalf of the measure before the house committee on education when the association's convention was held in Washington recently.

The opposition takes several slants:

That the bill is an objectionable extension of federal power to matters that should be under the authority of individual states.

That the proposed new department of education will take $1,500,000 annually out of the federal treasury.

That federal encroachment in the field of education will jeopardize the maintenance of religious educational institutions.

That federal participation in educational matters is provided for sufficiently by the bureau of education, a subordinate branch of the department of the interior.

Opponents Decry Paternalism.

It is apparent that the bill affords opportunity for a thorough discussion of the matter of curtailing the paternalistic policy upon which the federal government, through congressional enactment, has embarked in recent years. Very recently feeling has been aroused over this growing tendency. There are indications that groups are forming in the senate and the house to oppose what are regarded as encroachments on the inherent powers of the states, even though these encroachments bring money to the states out of the federal treasury and are popular in certain sections on that account.

To groups of Lutherans and Catholics the measure is objectionable in what they consider a menace in its potentialities to the parochial system. They fear that if the bill is enacted there schools may come eventually under bureaucratic control in Washington. Their opposition is augmented by communications to senators and representatives from professors in a considerable number of colleges, including some Methodist and other denominational institutions.

Proponents of the measure argue that the aid of the federal government is necessary to the adequate development of education in the United States.

On the other hand, an increasing number of legislators are uttering warnings of the danger of augmenting the existing bureaucracy of the central government. It is on such grounds that Senator Borah [Rep., Idaho] bases his opposition to the department of education bill.

Here is the Borah argument:

"Once you establish a federal department of education, in a startlingly brief time it will come to dominate completely and in detail your states in matters of education. That is the unbroken history of federal bureaus. They may tell you such is not the purpose, but they are uninformed as to the philosophy of centralization, its inevitable tendencies its imperious qualities.

"The principle once admitted, the agency once established, the federal power will ultimately direct, guide, dictate, and control the whole educational system from the mother's knee to the final departure from the campus.

Making Citizens Automatons.

"I have seen a list of measures now pending before congress in which it is proposed in some way to establish further bureaucratic control. Any one who will examine these bills will find that the restless legislative mind does not propose to leave any activity, any business, free of governmental direction and surveillance.

"If departments and bureaus established at Washington would be content to deal with purely national problems, the situation might be endured. But the first move of the bureaus is to reach for those things which are distinctly personal and distinctly local. They feel an uncontrollable desire to look after individual interests and to direct personal affairs. Instead of imbuing the citizen with a sense of responsibility and arousing within him interest in public matters, they would undermine and destroy both.

"Bureaucracy crowds the pay rolls. It is wasteful, extravagant, and demoralizing. It is the creeping paralysis of democracy. Good citizenship, self-helping citizenship, and representative government demand that we place a limit to this tendency, that we stay its progress and establish some point beyond which it cannot be permitted to go."

U. OF C. TO MAKE STUDY OF GREEK PEASANTRY HERE

An extensive study of the Greek peasant in Chicago is to be undertaken by the anthropology department of the University of Chicago, Prof. Fay-Cooper Cole announced yesterday. A study of the Italian peasant was made by the students last year.

"These researches may be characterized as the first efforts to put down crime through scientific endeavor," Prof. Cole pointed out. "We cannot deal adequately with foreign groups in Chicago until we understand their life and customs.

"There is very meager information available at the present time about the Greek peasant, and that is why he presents such a problem to our social order."

EIGHTY EIGHT

The Best Machine is the One that Runs at its Best for the Longest Time

Everywhere crowds gather to admire the new Auburn car . . . a car must be a striking advancement to attract such tribute today.

Everywhere people say the Auburn is "the most beautiful"; the "most original and distinctive" and the "smartest car" . . . naturally such praise pleases the rapidly increasing number of Auburn owners.

But, while Auburn owners are not unmindful of their car's rare charm of appearance, they are even more appreciative of Auburn's inner character.

Its external does please the eye . . . its newest design is a guarantee of high resale value . . . but it is the internal efficiency and endurance of the Auburn that makes it the leading car of today.

Neither short, undersized nor cramped, the Auburn is handy to park and easy to handle. Neither top-heavy, overweight nor clumsy, the Auburn offers unusual roominess, economical performance, and marvelous comfort.

It is the long sought combination of "big" and "little" car advantages into the ideal automobile.

Fundamentally a motor car is no different from any other machine. It cannot escape the final test of its worth . . . "how long does it run at its best?" Therein lies the secret of Auburn's phenomenal sales growth—and the reason Auburn owners enjoy a kind and degree of automotive transportation that is unexcelled today.

Come and see it. Drive it. Compare it and if it does not sell itself you will not be asked to buy.

SAFETY FILM

Any Boy Who Is Bright Can Understand This

Any boy who is bright can understand this.

Here is the picture of the piston in a single cylinder motor.

The displacement is 246.6 cubic inches.

In kindergarten language that means that if you took all the pistons in a Jordon motor and put them into one, it would occupy just that space.

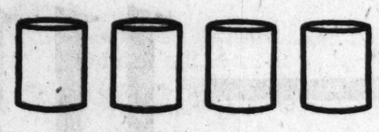
In the early days when father got his first car, and it had a one cylinder motor, this big piston made just one big bang—one awful jerk once in a while—heavy.

Every time it banged his fenders shook.

When father got his two cylinder car his total displacement was the same—but it was divided between two cylinders instead of all being in one.

Then he got two bangs—two big jerks a little oftener.

Finally he bought a four cylinder car with the same total piston displacement—but now it was divided by four instead of two.



Then he got four bangs, but they were less severe—four jerks but with a shorter wait between.

Those were the days.

One day father brought home a six cylinder car with a total piston displacement of 246.6 cubic inches.

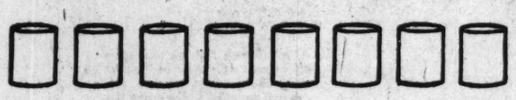
Isn't it great to be an engineer and know what these things mean!

In this instance there were six impulses—just little bangs—considerably better.

And father was happy—

Until—

The Line Eight was produced.



Now he has no bangs—no waits between—no jerks—no vibration—just eight over-lapping power impulses with steam-like smoothness, continuous torque-flow and longer life.

And he has the same economy as when he had one piston with one bang.

Now boys and girls I will tell you why the Jordan Line Eight is selling fast.

Everybody loves smooth, velvety, continuous power. Drive the Jordan and you will feel it.

The Line Eight was the first eight cylinder motor to be built that was inherently balanced.

The Line Eight is the first eight cylinder motor that is economical to manufacture, economical to run, economical in service and in lasting wear.

It is the first eight cylinder motor of clean-cut design, accessible, light in weight and good to look at.

It is the first eight cylinder motor that includes all the advantages of the six, plus a smooth power flow characteristic of only an eight.

The Jordan Line Eight Sedan is the lowest priced eight cylinder Sedan built.

Now if father is going to trade his automobile, how much better he will feel one year from now if he has a Line Eight with real valuation instead of some other car that has been depreciated in value by the greatly increased popularity of the Line Eight.

That will be all today—the class is dismissed.

Sedan $1945, Playboy $1845.

ROBBER CAUGHT WITH WHO'S WHO AMONG WEALTHY

Tells Way to Enter Homes; Admits 60 Holdups.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Ben Tale, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Joseph Kabilas, robbery, 3 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Weston Stewart, larceny, 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary, by Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

A "who's who" for the burglar, containing the names and addresses of some 200 wealthy Chicagoans as well as the best means of access to their homes, was taken yesterday from the person of Albert Jurchowski, 25 year old bandit, after an exciting and bullet laden chase on the south side. In addition to the prospects, the little book contained Jurchowski's past record of sixty-five cab robberies. He lived at 1916 North Western avenue.

It was during such a robbery that the youth came to his grief. Sartorially perfect he had hired the cab driven by Irving Plank, 208 West Oak street, at 35th street and Grand boulevard, directing the driver in polite language to drive to 4321 South Rockwell street. Arriving there the chauffeur found himself staring into the mouth of a pistol. The youth robbed him of his cap and his cab and drove off.

Bandit Is Captured.

The cab driver's shouts were heard by Sergt. Ernest E. Goebel's detective bureau squad, cruising nearby, and after a chase of several blocks, the cab was run to the curb and the driver arrested.

At the New City police station, a search of the bandit revealed the book which contained, among others, the names of Charles Comiskey, 5130 South Michigan avenue; George Swift, 1353 Astor street; John Hertz, 3400 Sheridan road; John Borden, 1012 Lake Shore drive, and Cyrus McCormick, 50 East Huron street.

At the Western avenue address, police arrested the bandit's brother, Adam. A search of the house revealed a can of nitroglycerin, a complete set of burglars' tools, four hundred skeleton keys, and other odds and ends.

WEDDING CAKE IS CUT

SHOT IN HOLDUP

A bullet wound in his right leg was the reward yesterday of Fred Carr, 28 years old, 1800 North Le Claire avenue, for his failure to move quickly enough to suit a gang of four armed bandits who held up the offices of the Austin Coal company, 4610 W. Chicago avenue, and escaped with $150 in cash.

Carr, a teamster for the coal company, found a strange automobile blocking his entrance to the platform scale outside the office window when he drove up after making a delivery. It happened to be the bandits' car, but Carr had no means of knowing that. He demanded the right of way and the shot followed.

H. W. Freiberg, 2858 South Karlov avenue, manager of the company, and two other drivers, George Massman and Michael Bellwick, had been forced to lie on the floor of the office while the bandits robbed the till.

G. A. R. Gives Dinner for Bridegroom, 80; Bride, 45

Celebrating the wedding of an 80 year old bridegroom and a bride of 45, a dinner and reception were given at the Hotel Sherman yesterday by Columbia post 706 of the G. A. R. for Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Howe. Mr. Howe, veteran of the civil war, captain of the Chicago Hussars, is one of 16 members of the post remaining out of an original membership of 180. Col. William Kilpatrick, commander of Columbia post, was toastmaster.

Roumania Lawyers Strike Against Tax on Lawsuits

[Copyright: 1926: By the New York Times.]
BUCHAREST, Roumania, March 20.—A country wide strike of lawyers began this morning when the Bucharest bar joined a movement launched yesterday throughout the provinces. The aim of the strikers' protest is a bill now before the parliament putting a heavy stamp tax on legal transactions. The lawyers assert this and other features of the bill would ruin their business by making lawsuits a luxury.

WOMAN'S FAIR TO SHOW UP FAMOUS DAMES OF PAST

Opens April 17 to Glorify Their Modern Sisters.

Helen of Troy's face may have launched a thousand ships, but they do say her figure was nothing extra.

Jeanne d'Arc was possessed of infinite patience when it came to burning fagots, but she probably would have lost her temper completely if asked to mend a leaking hot water faucet.

Molly Pitcher did a man's job right well when she fired off that cannon; but it's ten to one she'd have been scared to death to meet a lion in Africa.

And Mrs. Eve, for all her flair for knowledge, didn't know the first principles of chiropody, of osteopathy, or of anthropology.

Which Introduces Woman's Fair.

All of which shows that woman's sphere has extended to pretty nearly everywhere while history has been bringing us down to the opening of the second annual Woman's World fair which begins at the Furniture Mart, April 17.

Helen of Troy, if she attended, would find a woman corsetier exhibiting slinky silhouettes. Jane Magan, a woman plumber, might teach the Maid of Orleans a few things. Mrs. Mary Hastings Bradley, in charge of the woman hunters' and explorers' booth, could compare firearms with Mrs. Pitcher.

And if Eve made herself agreeable enough she might get an invitation to the "Famous Woman" luncheon which is to be one of the features in the seven day program.

Hundreds of women from all parts of this country and delegations of women from seven foreign countries, representing a wide variety of occupations and professions, will contribute to this pageant of women's activities.

Foreign Consuls Provide Booths.

The Chicago consuls for Iceland, France, Denmark, Hungary, Poland, Lithuania, and Czecho-Slovakia have offered their assistance, and will provide booths and groups of native girls.

Pola Negri, in a letter received yesterday, said she would surely be here for the fair.

Miss Helen Bennett, originator of last year's fair, and managing director of this year's, announced yesterday that there will be between thirty and fifty more occupations and professions of women represented than in 1925.

A Chicago girl, said to be the only woman window trimmer in the world, will do her stuff each day.

Mrs. Medill McCormick's prize cow will be at the fair. She will be milked four times a day and the milk given away.

Dr. Jeanette Hubbard Bolles, first woman to practice osteopathy in the United States thirty-two years ago, will be present.

NEWPORT NEWS YARD LAUNCHES 9 SHIPS IN DAY

Newport News, Va., March 20.—(AP)—The Newport News shipyards today claimed a record for American shipbuilding with the launching of nine vessels and the laying of the keels of three others, one of which will be the 31,000 ton steamer California to ply between New York and the west coast.

Three pleasure yachts, the coastal steamship Dorchester, a dredge, three steel barges, and a car float were the craft launched.

The California, which will enter the service of the Panama Pacific line of the International Mercantile Marine, will be 601 feet long, with eight decks.

Exercise, the Keynote to Health

The best form of exercise is walking in the open air. Why so few people take long walks is because nine out of ten people are in pain as a direct cause of some abnormal condition of the feet. The bones become misplaced, which causes poor circulation that makes vericose veins; they press on the nerve and cause pains that are often diagnosed and treated as rheumatism, neuritis, arthritis, so-called female and kidney trouble, lumbago, tired and worn-out feeling, faint and dizzy spells, swelling of the feet and legs, weak ankles, overdeveloped ankles and legs, joints stiff and crack when you bend them, pains in hips, small of back, shoulders and neck, sharp pains under heels, ball of foot becomes sore and feels as if you are walking on marbles. Corns, callouses, ingrown toe nails, bunions, excessive perspiration, extreme nervousness, enlarged joints. Why suffer with your feet? Consult Dr. Pinkston at once and let him remove the cause and assist nature in effecting a cure. Do not be discouraged. Regardless of what your condition may be or what you have tried, or whom you have consulted, Dr. Pinkston guarantees to relieve all foot troubles and cure nine-tenths of them, regardless of the nature or condition of the ailment.

(A Business Editorial)

SALES

Now that "the sales" are in full swing, we want to extend a word of admonition.

"Sales times" are responsible for a tremendous lot of poor goods cheap, as well as good goods cheap.

These "sales" are in most instances excellent opportunities for people who know what they want. Many buyers think that, whether or not they actually need it, any article is a bargain if it does not cost much.

It is wise to consider and decide what is essential to your needs and comforts before you set out. Then if you "stand pat" you will not find yourself, by any chance, loaded with goods which neither suit your person nor your highest and better plans for home life.

INDIANA BATTLE RAGES AGAINST ANTI-SALOONISTS

Attorney General Backed by Conservatives.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Indianapolis, Ind., March 20.—[Special.]—Indiana has passed into the second stage of a fight upon the Anti-Saloon league and similar forces in the state which promises to continue another three years—if it is not won before that time.

It lacks the sensational angles of New York and Kansas exposures, but it is marked by a cool, deliberate determination to proceed with a definite, logical opposition to so called reformer methods that is counted upon to unite the level headed citizens of the state to an extent that will render ineffective such minorities as that represented by the league.

Reason vs. Fanaticism.

In every respect the movement gradually taking form bears the earmarks of conservatism. Some of those most interested in it refer to the conflict as the war of reason against fanaticism, and they charge that Indiana has been hurt tremendously by becoming recognized as a hotbed of narrow minded zealots.

The forefront of the opposition is Arthur L. Gilliom of South Bend, who, since he was elected attorney general of the state as a nanti-klan candidate, has repeatedly made known to the league his refusal to be terrorized by the methods of an organized minority and has steadily clipped off the prerogatives and privileges it had in the state house.

Appeals to Better Element.

Gilliom is not a wet. He is against the return of the saloon. His office is conceded to be concerned only with the enforcement of the law. He is not endeavoring to rally wets around him. What he seeks is the support of the better element and it is believed it has begun to come to him.

He is young and vigorous but he believes in taking one step at a time. He is not a publicity seeker. What publicity has been sought for the fight up to this time has come from the other side. Gilliom has confined himself to action.

After carefully preparing the way by such steps as letters to the directors of the organization asking whether they assumed responsibility for the document, he recently filed an information against three representatives of the Anti-Saloon league charging them with contempt of the Indiana Supreme court in its annual report.

Says Attack on Supreme Court.

The charge of contempt was based on the impression conveyed by the report that members of the Supreme court could not be expected to decide liquor cases in conformity with the law and the facts. This, the attorney general contends, is an unjustifiable assault upon one of the most sacred institutions of the American commonwealth.

His proceedings, as might be expected, are not aimed at the rank and file of the Anti-Saloon league, the membership which does little but contribute annual dues. It is directed at Edward E. Shumaker, state superintendent of the league, who apparently has hoisted it for twenty years, and at Ernan A. Miles and Jess E. Martin, two attorneys, who are said to have prepared the report under Shumaker's directions.

Court Delays Action.

The court has not yet taken any action in the contempt matter, and it may be several weeks before it proceeds. In the meantime, Attorney General Gilliom is ready with a second step which he may take at any time.

This is a proceeding under the corrupt practices act of the state. The attorney general has pointed out that the financial statement appearing in the annual report does not indicate in any manner the amount of money spent by the league in its political activities, its financial support of some candidates and opposition to others. He contends that this activity brings the league under the corrupt practices act and is ready to back up his opinion.

Since he took office, Gilliom, supported by Gov. Jackson, has shut off an appropriation from which the league was the direct beneficiary in former years.

OUT OF WORK; KILLS HIMSELF.

Despondent over his failure to find work for the last six months, Gustaf Soderberg, 66 years old, 3419 North Marshfield avenue, ended his life last night by placing a rubber tube attached to a gas pipe into his mouth at his home.

2 ARRESTED FOR SELLING TICKETS TO POLICE BALL

Royal Lockhart, 6504 South State street, and William Schultz, 822 South Wabash avenue, were arrested by the South Chicago police yesterday on a charge of impersonating officers.

Both men had gone into Erdelyne's restaurant, at 3200 East 88th street, and attempted to sell tickets for a ball to be given by the Illinois Protective association for the benefit of the Illinois Police Reserve. Witnesses said they represented themselves as members of the Chicago police department and stated the proceeds would go to regular police funds.

At the station the pair asserted that Walter P. Stewart, manager of the protective association, had hired them and they were to receive 40 per cent of their sales. Stewart, who furnished bail for them, declined to comment.

$1,000,000 OFFER FOR WASHINGTON STATUE, REPORT

An offer of $1,000,000 has been made to the state of Virginia for the statue of George Washington executed by the French sculptor, Jean Antoine Houdon, according to reports in art circles, the current weekly news letter of the Art institute states.

The original statue is in the capitol building at Richmond and was made from casts direct from the living figure of Washington by Houdon in 1785.

Washington in his diary on Oct. 7, 1785, wrote, "sat this day in Mount Vernon for Mr. Houdon to form my bust." A bronze replica of the statue stands in the Art institute.

24 CHICAGOANS ARE ORDAINED IN PRIESTHOOD

Cardinal Conducts Rites at Holy Name.

Impressive ceremonies yesterday marked the ordination of twenty-four Chicago youths into the priesthood of the Roman Catholic church at the Holy Name cathedral, State and Superior streets.

George Cardinal Mundelein conducted the ordination services. He was assisted by the Very Rev. Monsignor B. J. Sheil, chancellor; the Rev. Francis R. Ryan, assistant chancellor; the Rev. James E. O'Brien; and the Rev. Joseph P. Morrison, master of ceremonies.

Last Class Trained Outside.

The twenty-four students constitute the last class of Chicago candidates to receive their training of six years in theological and philosophical studies outside the archdiocese. Next year the ordination class will come from Mundelein seminary, it was announced at the cathedral.

The Rev. Father Thomas Dennehy, ordained yesterday, will sing his first high mass today in St. Anne's church at Garfield boulevard and Wentworth avenue, the parish he was born and reared in. The Rev. Richard Wolfe will celebrate his first high mass in St. Leo's church while the Rev. Martin G. Philippi will sing his first high mass at St. John the Baptist church at 50th and Peoria streets.

The Rev. Joseph P. O'Donnell will officiate at his first high mass at St. Bridget's church today. He is a former employé of THE TRIBUNE news bureau.

Other Youths Ordained.

The other Chicagoans ordained yesterday are Raymond Bernan, Emile Consineau, James Farrell, Henry Fitzpatrick, L. W. Fitzpatrick, August Freimann, John Gallery, Philip Hayes, William Horan, Maurice J. Hyde, Michael Kilbride, Edward L. Kilroy, Lawrence Lee, Ligouri A. Logston, John F. Nells, Boleslaus Niec, August Pusateri, Robert Stoeckel, Joseph Tracy, and Francis Zelinski.

Long before the ordination ceremonies began the large cathedral was packed to capacity with mothers, fathers, friends, and relatives of the young men about to be ordained. Many non-Catholics attended the services.

Orders Bailiff's Arrest for Smashing Camera, Plates

Judge Edgar B. Jonas yesterday issued a warrant for the arrest of Sollie Goodman, a Municipal court bailiff, who is charged by Jack Miller, a photographer for the Chicago Evening American, with smashing his camera and destroying plates of Joseph "Yellow Kid" Weil being escorted through the county building by Goodman. Judge Jonas set the hearing for April 30.

Put water power to work in your kitchen

THE Classic Sink Fixture with its ever-handy hose-and-spray attachment speeds up dishwashing and makes it much easier and pleasanter to do.

It does this by harnessing your water power and making it do a good share of the work.

With the Classic spray and a brush and plenty of hot water you can sail through a stack of dishes and pans in a surprisingly short time.

Use the spray to rinse them thoroughly with clean, hot water when you're through, and you greatly simplify the work of drying them.

Other advantages of the Classic that appeal to women are the long, swinging spout; the self-draining soap-dish (plenty large for a big, new bar); the drip-free, splashless nozzle.

And, of course, it's a Chicago Faucet—which means an end to leaking and no further replacements as long as your home stands.

Get a Classic from your plumber, or call, write or telephone.

HOW I CHOSE THE NAME "BEST BUILT"

The first garage I erected was for a friend. Into that garage I put more than building materials—I put loyalty, friendship, hope into it—a vision of a future great garage business that would render genuine service to automobile and property owners in Chicago and suburbs. That first garage set a standard for all my future business. I resolved never to build a garage for a customer that did not equal in material and construction the garage I built for my friend. The name "Best Built" logically followed.

Lake Superior Jumbo Whitefish

(Including Lettuce Salad with Thousand Island Dressing and French Fried Potatoes)

—a great North American dinner

If you want to prove to yourself that you can dine both economically and well step into the North American Restaurant tonight, or any night between 5 and 8, and try this special Whitefish Dinner.

You'll get a big portion of genuine Jumbo Whitefish—fresh from the cold, deep waters of Lake Superior. With it we include lettuce salad with thousand island dressing and French fried potatoes. Our price is only 80 cents, which is less than you usually pay just for the fish (not mentioning the potatoes, salad and dressing) in good restaurants or hotels that include "service" to your table.

Isn't such a saving worth making? And all North American prices—on breakfast and lunch, as well as dinner items—are equally low. This restaurant is the happy medium. It never sacrifices quality for the sake of low price. But it has eliminated "service frills" which can't improve food, but does increase price. So by dining here and "serving yourself" you get real portions of the finest food obtainable at prices noticeably low. Among our other unusual food values are:

Halibut and Peas: Usually enough for two people 45c
Atlantic Sea Bass: A big portion . . . 45c
Filet of Sole: 2 big pieces, with delicious Tartar Sauce 50c
Pork Tenderloin: A good example of our amazing food values . . 45c
Fried Chicken: Premium chicken with bacon and cream gravy or giblet sauce. Dark meat . . 55c
White meat 65c
And for Breakfast—

MYSTERY RADIOS REAP SCANDAL ON SPAIN'S OFFICERS

Accused of Gun Sales to Moroccan Rebels.

BY LORIMER HAMMOND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TANGIER, Morocco, March 20.—Mystery messages detailing a long list of scandals and failures of the Spanish army in Morocco were picked up by French radio stations here last night while being relayed to Paris from Gibraltar. Their publication this morning caused a furor, since their text implicates an unnamed French army officer of high rank in Tangier as the person from whom the information was obtained.

The newspaper Depeche Moroccan today declares an official investigation will be held with a view to discovering the identity of the informant so he can be court martialed.

The report also declares vigorous measures will be taken to find out the identity of an American who is supposed to have sent a radiogram from New York. This later message declares the Riffians are receiving ample supplies and munitions from the soviets and Turks. It also says Spanish officers in the field trade munitions with the Riffs for food and supplies, because the Spanish commissary is not functioning satisfactorily.

Plan Big Offensive.

A French officer of high rank stationed at Tangier, quoted without being named in the message to Paris, is reported to have said Gen. Petain is coming to Morocco this month to take command during a concentrated offensive, in which the French and Spanish together will put 250,000 troops in the field against Abd-el Krim. The same officer is alleged to have told the author of the mystery messages that the French and Spanish force of destroyers is totally inadequate to patrol the Moroccan coast and keep out gun runners.

Describing the character of the Spanish recruits for the new spring army the message says:

"The young Spanish troops coming directly from Madrid, Barcelona, Seville, and other big cities are the sort who have spent their youth smoking cigarets, loafing on the street corners, and talking about bull fights. As soon as they arrive in Morocco they are sent to the fighting line and live in block houses where the Riffs lay traps and catch them every time they go out."

Calls Krim Arrogant.

The French officer is also credited with this significant statement:

"All Krim has to do is to agree to recognize the sultan of Morocco and he will not be further pursued, but he is far from such. He is more arrogant than he was before the French came into the war."

Hints at Peace.

PARIS, March 20. — (AP) — Peace probably will be established in Morocco within a few days, according to information coming from quarters which generally are well informed.

Officially the foreign office declares that nothing is known about the possibility of imminent peace pourparlers with the insurgent Riffian tribesmen, but Paul Painleve, minister of war, replying to Pierre Renaudel in the chamber of deputies' army committee today, lent color to the report of an early peace.

"You may rest assured," he said, "that the government is neglecting no serious opportunity to restore peace in the Riff."

It is reported that Abd-el-Krim, the Riffian leader, has made definite proposals which are being studied by the French ministry of war and probably will be accepted.

WORLD COURT IS CALLED SECURE DESPITE THE U. S.

Regardless of the present or the future attitude of the United States, the permanence of the world court appears to be secure, 300 members of the Woman's Bar association of Illinois were told at their twelfth annual dinner last night at the Palmer house by Manley O. Hudson, professor of international law at Harvard, who made the principal address.

Four contributions which Prof. Hudson maintains will form the basis of the court's future are comprised of the necessity for such a tribunal to the existence of other international bodies; the prospect that the court will in the future increase the ability of its jurists to handle cases coming before them; the significant influence it is bound to exert on international arbitration, and the prospect it gives for the accumulation of decisions that must necessarily transform international law.

FRENCH CHAMBER THREATENS VETO ON U. S. RUM PACT

[Copyright: 1926: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, March 20.—It is regarded as highly improbable that the French chamber of deputies will ratify the proposed Franco-American anti-smuggling treaty, giving the United States the right to search French ships within twelve miles of the American coast.

M. Franklin Bouillon, president of the foreign affairs committee of the chamber will confer with Premier Briand in a few days, and diplomatic conversations are likely to follow with Washington officials to obtain a modified agreement.

"The foreign affairs committee of the chamber is engaged at present in examining the proposed Franco-American treaty, under the terms of which the American authorities would have the right to visit on the high seas all French ships suspected of attempting to smuggle wine and other intoxicants into the United States," said M. Franklin Bouillon.

Calls Demands "Excessive."

"I do not find the treaty a good one. It suggests too great preoccupation on the American side and not enough consideration of other national interests. The right of visit appears to me excessive, and I do not think the French chamber of deputies will admit such a right on the part of America."

The treaty is similar to the one circulated with Great Britain and, contrary to the impression from M. Franklin Bouillon's statement, it does not permit the right of visit on the "high seas," but only within a twelve mile limit.

Beer Votes Cheer French.

The result of the poll being taken by 400 American newspapers and other significant signs of a possible modification of the Volstead act, are received with joy in the French wine growing circles, to which prohibition has been a serious financial blow. The French wine growers now feel convinced that the day will soon come when the sale of light wines and beer will again be legalized in America. It is reliably reported that a group of important wine growers and exporters will soon visit America to investigate the extent of light wine and beer movement.

HELMAN ROBBED OF $45.

George Killinger, 5040 Cortland avenue, a mailman for the Macoma Huntley Dairy company, was held up and robbed of $45 by two armed men who stopped him in an alley near Kostner and Gladys avenues.

Proprietor Steps In on Robbery; Gives Up $100

Three men entered the offices of C. W. Koehler and company, coal merchants, at 1808 Harvey street late yesterday afternoon and forced two employes into a rear room. As they rifled a safe, in which they found only $10, C. W. Koehler stepped in. The bandits took $100 from him and left. In another robbery, at the office of the William Otting Ice and Coal company, 1715 West Fifteenth street, four men obtained $158.

EAST CHICAGO AN INDUSTRIAL ACE, ITS MAYOR SAYS

Tells the Facts Cut Off by Radio Hoax.

East Chicago, Ind., is now the largest public lake port east of Chicago, according to Mayor Raleigh P. Hale, and is making rapid strides commercially and industrially.

Mr. Hale, in a letter to THE TRIBUNE, says that in the last year 1,150 cargoes went in and out of the harbor and that the total tonnage handled runs into the millions.

"East Chicago is the geographical and actual center of the Calumet industrial region," the mayor continues. "Several thousand workmen living in Chicago are supported by the fifty industries of this city, with a pay roll of $50,000,000 a year, a total industrial valuation of $100,000,000, annual manufactured products of over $300,000,000, having an army of 35,000 industrial workers and 60,000 resident population besides those living in Chicago and elsewhere.

789 Ships in Export Trade.

In regard to shipping, Mayor Hale asserts that 789 vessels are engaged in export of local products. To show the volume of trade, he quotes the amount of shipments of various commodities last year.

The figures are: Ore, 1,888,791 tons; coal, 1,143,041 tons; stone, 478,280 tons; sulphur, 5,300 tons; gravel, 1,500 tons; gasoline, 4,091,000 gallons; oil, 3,917 gallons; steel, 20,270,940 pounds; rails, 4,700 tons; wheels, 24 tons; wrought pipe, 71,920 pounds.

The port is open to navigation from April 1 to Dec. 14.

In addition, the mayor points out that residents of the city purchase between 3,500 and 4,000 TRIBUNES daily and read them before breakfast.

Radio Hoax Hides the Facts.

All these facts, he states, were to have been broadcast at a recent Kiwanis club banquet, but the program fell through because the municipal wag, Attorney Lester Ottenheimer, had connected the microphone with a table leg instead of with W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE radio station. The mayor and the other speakers, who thought they were addressing millions, took the joke in good part and bailed and paroled Mr. Ottenheimer a short time after he had been thrown in jail.

In THE TRIBUNE story of the great radio hoax East Chicago was referred to as a village. This, according to the mayor, did not go well with the citizens of the thriving city and they ask that hereafter their community be referred to as a city.

CHARLES W. ELIOT, 92, RECEIVES GREETINGS FROM EDUCATORS

Cambridge, Mass., March 20.—(AP)—The world paid honor to Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, on his 92d birthday today. To his simple colonial dwelling came hundreds of telegrams from every part of this country and abroad.

CHARLES W. ELIOT. [Am. Press Assn. Photo.]

President Eliot, as he is still called by graduates and friends, lay resting for the greater part of the day. He had risen early, but he has not been well this winter and rests daily after the midday meal until late in the afternoon. He took his usual automobile ride, however.

Several of his children and grandchildren had called during the week to give him birthday greetings, scattering their visits so as not to fatigue him, and today he saw only two or three of the family. President Lowell, his successor in office, was one of those who called to pay his respects.

When President Eliot retired from the leadership of Harvard in 1909, he devoted himself to writing.

WOMAN'S DEATH FAILS TO SHAME MEXICO'S GREED

Bolos Occupy Hacienda of Mrs. Rosalie Evans.

The Bobbs-Merrill Co. of Indianapolis announced yesterday the publication of a book of letters written by Mrs. Rosalie Evans, who was murdered on Aug. 2, 1924, near her hacienda in the state of Puebla, Mexico, after one of the most heroic lone handed stands of a woman against overwhelming odds in recent times.

The letters are of particular interest to THE TRIBUNE because the Evans story was one of its important scoops when it first was disclosed in 1923. THE TRIBUNE exclusively provided through special agents information concerning each step of the persecution by the Mexican government and its bolshevik agents from the burning of her hacienda to the crowning act of assassination.

Mexico Keeps Up Persecution.

Publication of the letters has caused an inquiry into the present status of this case. The Mexican government and the bolshevik politicians of the district persecuted Mrs. Evans because they wanted to scare her off of her splendid properties which she and her husband had developed. Her husband died about 1917. It was reported that the hacienda was destined to become the property of certain relatives of Pani, the foreign minister of Mexico, and Serrano, the Mexican minister of war. Mrs. Evans did not scare.

The property at the death of Mrs. Evans became the heritage of her sister, Mrs. Daisy C. Pattus of San Francisco, the compiler of the letters published now. Mrs. Evans was a British citizen, although born in Texas, but Mrs. Pettus is an American citizen. Charles Beecher Warren, when U. S. commissioner for the prerecognition conference in Mexico City in 1923, took a personal interest in Mrs. Evans' case, but now that interest has become official.

Protests to Mexico Unheeded.

The state department at Washington has been giving considerable attention to the case and has registered protests with the Mexican government against the political persecutions still being carried on against the managers and owners of the hacienda.

Mrs. Evans found it possible to work the hacienda for some production, but Mrs. Pettus has not been able to cultivate any of the property. The bolshevik gangs of the neighborhood have occupied the property and work it, taking all the produce for themselves.

Mrs. Pettus continues to pay the taxes and the Mexican government continues to accept them. In fact, the taxes have been increased. The American ambassador to Mexico, James Sheffield, and Mrs. Pettus' attorneys have failed to secure from the Mexican government any mitigation of its pressure, which is said to be intended to wear out the owners of the property until the formal confiscation can take place without active opposition.

Mrs. Pettus, as Mrs. Evans before her, has offered to sell the properties to the Mexican government. It agreed, but declined to name a price, intimating that the price would be fixed later by the Mexican agrarian commission. To this Mrs. Pettus refused assent.

CLAIMS SHOOTING WAS ACCIDENTAL; AIMED AT ROBBER

The mystery surrounding the shooting on Friday night of Frank Franek, 1435 West 17th street, was dissipated yesterday, when John Polalach, 3316 Fisk street, a truck driver, walked into the Maxwell street police station.

"I shot Franek," he said. "It was an accident. Some boys were playing around my truck and one of them took a pork loin. I shot at him and missed, but I hit Franek, who was standing in the doorway of his house. When I heard that he was seriously hurt I decided to come in and tell what I knew."

After the shooting Franek staggered to the office of Dr. Daniel O'Shea, 1724 South Ashland avenue. Polalach's bullet struck him in the back. At the county hospital yesterday it was said his condition was still serious.

GOODING URGES SENATE INQUIRY ON C., M. & ST. P.

Charges Conspiracy to Wreck the Road.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—Charging a conspiracy to wreck the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, Senator Gooding [Rep., Idaho] introduced in the senate today a resolution for an investigation by a special committee of seven senators appointed by the Vice President.

SENATOR GOODING. [H. & E.]

Senator Gooding stated that if members of the interstate commerce commission can convince the senate interstate commerce committee that its investigation of the affairs of the road is to be of a comprehensive character he will not press his resolution.

"On different occasions witnesses appearing before the interstate commerce committee have asserted that there was a conspiracy to wreck the Milwaukee road," said Senator Gooding in presenting his resolution. "I know something about the construction methods which were used when the railroad was built through my state. I know that payment was made for excavation of solid rock which was really loose dirt.

"I am satisfied that when the story is told it will be one of graft and corruption such as the American people have never heard before. Not only has there been a conspiracy to wreck the road, but now come the greatest wreckers of all, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., with its plans for organization."

CHINESE CABINET QUITS WHEN FENG LASHES PREMIER

...ys Students' Deaths in Riots to Government.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
...ight: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]
PEKING, March 20.—The cabinet ...signed en bloc today, after the pre... received a telegram from the ...hristian general, Feng Yu-hsiang, ...laiming the cabinet for not preventing ...he slaughter of the students in riots ...Thursday, in which thirty-one were ...illed and many young men and ...women injured. The students' demonstration was in protest against the ...ultimatum of the Boxer protocol pow... demanding that China open the ...Peiho river to foreign shipping or ...he action by the powers' fleet.

There are other indications of the ...collapse of the Kuominchun, or national army, on several fronts. In view of the changing military situation, it is believed that the provisional executive should wait before reforming the cabinet.

Flee to Russian Embassy.

Five Chinese communists, whose arrest was ordered as a result of the students' demonstration, are reliably reported to have sought refuge in the Russian embassy.

The total casualties in the riots exceed 100, with the dead including four soldiers, one policeman and the commander of the cabinet guard, who ordered the firing after being wounded. The communists, who accompanied and helped to incite the students, were the only armed demonstrators. Owing to the suppression of telegrams no word has been received as to whether the provinces are yielding to the ultimatum of the protocol powers, which caused the cabinet's downfall.

Feng Moscow Bound, Report.

PEKING, March 20.—[U. P.]—Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang, the Christian commander of the Chinese national army, is reported to be withdrawing from personal participation in the civil war. Feng is en route from Ping Ti Chuan to Urga, Mongolia, according to his Russian friends in Peking, traveling with a caravan of twenty-seven automobiles. It is presumed that he eventually will go to Moscow.

FOREIGNERS FEARFUL

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
...Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]
SHANGHAI, March 20.—Apprehension continues to grow here regarding the possible effects of the massacre of the Peking students in riots Thursday. Many feel that it may result in an aggravation of anti-foreignism. Chinese papers hint that unequal treaties are at the bottom of the trouble, as the students were protesting against the Boxer protocol powers' ultimatum when they were killed by Chinese troops.

A Kuomintang (communist) organ places the blame with the military party, declaring that the militarists are in league with the powers for imperialism. Most of the Chinese declare the provisional president, Tuan Chi-jui, must go.

Strict martial law is observed here, but several student meetings are being held. Telegrams are being sent to students in Peking and elsewhere demanding a national strike.

The Yangtse valley militarists are charging the Christian general, Feng Yu-hsiang, with responsibility for the massacre, and are urging a drive to force the Kuominchun and Anfu factions out of the government.

JUROR REFUSES INSIDE STORY OF GENNA VERDICT

The state's attorney's office yesterday began an investigation to obtain from the twelve jurors who acquitted John Scalisi and Albert Anselmi, Genna gunmen, in their second trial for the slaying of a policeman, an explanation as to how, under oath, they happened to say that they had no prejudices against policemen and then deliberately told in the jury room the grievances some of them had against the police.

George F. Grover, 1345 East 62d street, who was believed to have been one of the three jurors in favor of severely punishing the gangsters, was the first man questioned. Grover told Assistant State's Attorney William H. Holwegin, who conducted the prosecution of the gunmen, that the jurors had agreed not to discuss their deliberations in the juryroom and therefore he was not at liberty at this time to make any statements.

Other jurors will be questioned Monday and from some of them the prosecutor hopes to learn details of what went on in the juryroom and the identity of the different jurors who aired personal grudges against policemen or had friends involved in difficulties with them.

SILENCE VEILS SHOOTING

The shooting of Big Steve Schiavone at Albert Yarrio at Roosevelt road and Laflin street Friday night seemed likely yesterday to be added to the long list of unsolved crimes of the west side Italian bootleg colony as Capt. Daniel Lynch of Maxwell street police tried in vain to penetrate the wall of Sicilian silence in an effort to establish the identity of the assailants and a motive for their act.

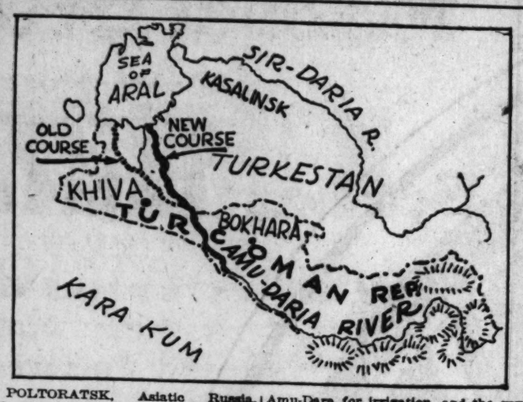
Schiavone, who received the full charge of buckshot from a shotgun in the hands of Yarrio, will survive, according to Dr. Dominic Ronga, at Jefferson Park hospital. Yarrio escaped with severe powder burns on his face and neck.

Whether the shooting was precipitated by a failure of the two men to contribute to the $100,000 defense fund of Anselmi and Scalisi, police killers, or whether it resulted from a bootleggers' war or Mafia vengeance, police were unable to learn from Schiavone and Yarrio or from their silent friends.

PURSE SNATCHERS GET $140.

A purse containing $140 was snatched from the hand of Mrs. Celia Diamond, 5717 Sawyer, yesterday afternoon by two men as she was passing 842 West Lake street. She was on her way to the Credit company, 910 West Lake street, where she is employed.

RIVER CHANGES; DRIES VAST AREA



POLTORATSK, Asiatic Russia, March 20.—(AP)—Advices from Khiva to the Turcoman soviet government here say the Amu-Dara river has radically changed its course, deviating sharply to the right and threatening the whole Turcoman republic with a drought.

All the great cotton growing areas of Turkestan are dependent upon the Amu-Dara for irrigation, and the government has mobilized the entire population to check the impending calamity.

[The Amu-Darya, one of the largest rivers in Asiatic Russia, rises in the mountains of Bokhara and Afghanistan and flows northwest to the Aral sea.]

ALLEGED FIXER QUICKLY PUT IN JAIL BY JUDGE

Gemmill Aroused When Told of Case.

Judge William N. Gemmill yesterday acted promptly when informed that Frank Grabske, 1714 West 14th street, had obtained $250 on the pretext that he could fix a case in the Criminal court. A bench warrant was immediately issued and Grabske, despite his protests, was held to the grand jury under bond of $10,000.

"No crime, with the possible exception of murder, can do as much evil as the charge against you," Judge Gemmill told Grabske. "You have struck at the integrity of the courts and law enforcement authorities.

Judge Gemmill Is Rolled.

"It is no wonder some citizens have a distorted idea of the way the courts are handled when they hear stories of fixing spread by men of your type. This is one of the causes for the talk about the breaking down of the law enforcement."

"Your honor, please make that bond a little lower," said Grabske. "I am a county employé and the father of two children and I will not run away."

"I don't care who you are and if you have fifteen children," retorted the judge. "The bond will remain at $10,000."

Obtained Money from a Mother.

Mrs. Catherine Dykl, 1636 West Huron street, made the complaint against Grabske. She said that he had obtained $250 from her after telling her that he could fix an assault case against her son, Anthony, which was pending in Judge Gemmill's court.

Some days ago the judge fined young Dykl $100 and then his mother sought an explanation about the fix that went wrong. The judge heard of her complaint and ordered Grabske arrested and brought into court.

Grabske attempted to explain that he had obtained the money only for the purpose of getting Dykl a bond.

DIVORCE, DEATH, TOWNE'S OFFER, WIFE CHARGES

Refusal of Mrs. Dorothy Ravin Towne to join her husband, Joseph Meredith Towne, heir to the Yale Lock company millions, on a divorce seeking expedition into Mexico was the cause of their latest separation, the young wife testified yesterday before Superior Judge Joseph Sabath.

Mrs. Towne, who was a factory girl in Connecticut in 1919 when young Towne induced her to elope with him, was placed on the stand in connection with her attorney's petition for a writ to prevent Towne from leaving Chicago. Judge Sabath issued the writ, but deputy sheriffs could not find Towne to serve it.

Last December Towne and his wife took up a residence at 1416 Noyes street, Evanston, she testified. A few weeks later Towne requested her to go to Mexico with him so that a divorce might easily be procured. She refused and her husband thereupon threatened to kill her, she told the judge.

"If I don't kill you myself," Towne was quoted as saying, "I can easily find thugs in Chicago who will do the job for five or ten dollars."

Mrs. Towne persisted in her refusal and Towne deserted her without notice on March 11, she said. The next she heard of him was when she read in the newspapers that her husband had obtained a court order allowing him to open her safety deposit vault in Evanston and regain possession of his diary, a narrative entitled "The Story of My Married Life" and other personal papers.

NERVE STRAIN

The high pressure, mile-a-minute life of today, with its mental strain, worry, anxiety, grief and trouble, is wrecking the nerves of mankind. This applies especially to the people with highly active brains and sensitive nerves. Have Your Nerves stood the strain?

Read "Nerve Force," a 64-page book on the care of the nerves. This book is of extreme value to "near-neurasthenics" and people with sensitive and deranged nerves. It has aided many thousands to gain control of their nerves and build up their Nerve Force. Because of the many valuable hints it contains on the control of the nerves and mind, "Nerve Force" has been bought by the thousand by large corporations for their employes. It is recommended by physicians to their patients and by ministers to their flocks. Nerves or No Nerves, You Should Send for This Book Today. Price 25c, postpaid (coin or stamps).

PAUL von BOECKMANN
Author of "Nerve Force" and various other books on Health, Psychology, Breathing, Hygiene and kindred subjects, many of which have been translated into foreign languages.

Wheat Readers of "Nerve Force" Say:

"I have gained 12 pounds since reading your book, and I feel so energetic. I had almost given up hope of ever finding the cause of my low weight."

"I have been treated by a number of nerve specialists, and have traveled from country to country in an endeavor to restore my nerves to normal. Your little book has done more for me than all other methods combined."

"My heart is now regular again and my nerves are fine. I thought I had heart trouble, but it was simply a case of abused nerves. I have reread your book at least ten times."

"Your book did more for me for indigestion than two courses in dieting."

"Reading your book has stopped that dreadful feeling of FEAR which paralyzed my stomach and digestion."

"The advice given in your book on relaxation and calming of nerves has cleared my brain. Before I was half dizzy all the time."

A physician says: "Your book is the most sensible and valuable work I have ever read on the prevention of neurasthenia. I am recommending your book to my patients."

7 HORSEMEN RULED OFF KENTUCKY TURF

EAST, SOUTH AND MIDWEST IN CATHOLIC SEMI-FINALS

TWO 3D ROUND GAMES WON BY SINGLE POINT

Four Teams Battle for Title Today.

Tourney Scores

SECOND ROUND.

Central, Fort Wayne, Ind., 19; Calvert, Baltimore, Md., 11.

Catholic, Decatur, Ind., 26; St. Xavier, Cincinnati, O., 19.

THIRD ROUND.

Cathedral, Wichita, Kan., 27; Rockhurst, Kansas City, 13.

Aquinas, Rochester, N. Y., 19; Spalding, Peoria, Ill., 17.

Catholic, Decatur, Ind., 24; Central, Fort Wayne, Ind., 20.

St. Xavier, Louisville, Ky., 14; St. Viator, Bourbonnais, Ill., 8.

Catholic High school of Decatur, Ind., Aquinas Institute of Rochester, N. Y., St. Xavier's High school of Louisville, Ky., and Cathedral High school of Wichita, Kas., remained in the fight for the national Catholic High school basketball championship last night after victories in the third round yesterday at Loyola university.

The winners will play the semi-final games this afternoon, starting at 2:30, and the final will be played in the evening. Cathedral will meet Aquinas in one penultimate round game, and St. Xavier will face Catholic High in the other.

In the most bitterly fought and thrilling game of the day, Decatur eked out Fort Wayne, 24 to 23. Aquinas bested Spalding Institute of Peoria, Ill., in another close battle, 18 to 17, while Wichita smothered Rockhurst academy of Kansas City, Mo., 27 to 13, and St. Xavier ran away from St. Viator of Bourbonnais, Ill., 14 to 8.

Decatur Wins on Fouls.

Without a doubt the Fort Wayne-Decatur brush was the most interesting game of the tournament. The victor was not determined until the last second. With the score 23 to 23 against his team, Tommy Meyers of Catholic High sank two free throws, Decatur's winning points.

As Meyers took his place to toss the winning points from the penalty line the boys from Fort Wayne stood around the basket hoping against hope that Meyers would miss. But the rangy blonde directed one well aimed shot into the basket and, with only a moment's pause, again sent the ball spinning through the net for the winning point. The ball was in the air when the final gun sounded, denying Fort Wayne the chance of staging one of the brilliant rallies that made the game any one's from start to finish.

Both Start Slowly.

In the first quarter neither team got warmed up, the period ending one to one. Near the end of the half Decatur slipped in thirteen points in rapid fire order and the count read 14 to 9. The third session had hardly started before Evard and Romery of Central High amassed eleven points in two minutes with a dazzling series of shots. Central went into the last quarter with a 20 to 18 lead, and managed to keep out in front until Meyers did his bit.

The crowd that filled the gymnasium supported the smaller Fort Wayne boys, who had a little the best of the floor work, showing great speed and uncanny shooting ability. Evard, diminutive forward, distinguished by his pals, whether or not his team was leading or behind, was the reason for Central's splendid showing. He made seven baskets.

Aquinas Beats Spalding.

By stalling in the last four minutes Aquinas protected a one point lead and defeated Spalding. Just after Riley put the easterners in the lead, Kennedy, Aquinas' star and captain, was fouled out on personal fouls. It looked gloomy for the New Yorkers, but they fought hard the remaining minutes and were rewarded with victory.

Wichita and St. Xavier had to keep going at a fast clip, but they wound up with decisive triumphs. In the Viator-Xavier game the strong guarding of Hendricks, Dixie star, was a notable bit of work. He held Walkoviak, St. Viator scoring ace, without a basket and was a main cog in Louisville's flashy attack. Third round lineups:

Two Notre Dame Men on All-Western Basket Team

BY FRED YOUNG.
[Leading Big Ten Official.]

Having made all passport arrangements in case a quick getaway is necessary, I now can announce my All-Western basketball selections for 1926.

Choosing the 1926 mythical All-Western teams is a more hazardous undertaking than picking the outstanding men in the Big Ten, for there is a lot of excellent basketball played in the middle west outside of the conference. Many of the smaller colleges and universities have just as good basketball material as the larger institutions, which rarely is the case in other major sports.

Notre Dame, for instance, turned out a team that was strong enough to win 19 of 20 games on a stiff schedule.

Spradling at Forward.

Capt. George Spradling of Purdue, who was chosen for the all-conference quintet, also merits a place on the All-Western.

The other forward post is awarded to John Ward of De Pauw, a little but mighty player. Although on a mediocre team, this 132 pound bundle of nerves and muscle was credited by no less an authority than Dr. Walter Meanwell as being the greatest forward he has ever seen in action.

Had Hal Vandiver, Franklin's wonder player of two seasons ago, been in the lineup all year he might have had the call, but he was not able to play until the second semester, and injuries slowed him up in his final games.

Many Great Forwards.

The 1926 season produced an unusually fine crop of forwards, Beckner and Krueger of Indiana being a pair that rank almost with Spradling and Ward. Capt. McNally and Crowe of Notre Dame were almost in the same class, and other excellent performers were Capt. Ralph Rea of Evansville, a corking all-around man; Schmidt and Gordon of Kansas, Daugherity and Maurer of Illinois, Rasey of Minnesota, Ryan of Creighton, Milliken of Millikin, Byers of K. S. A. C., Dean of Cornell, Eckstrom of Nebraska, Kransky of North Manchester, Redfield of South Dakota, Myers of Drake, and Murphy of Lombard.

There was an exceptional array of good centers this year, but we believe Johnny Nyikos of Notre Dame played the most consistent ball of the lot. He is exceptionally fast and clever, and an example of his class was shown in his two games against Fisher, Northwestern's promising young pivot man.

Petersen of Kansas.

Peterson of Kansas, high point man of the Missouri valley, Fisher of Northwestern, Doyle of Michigan, and Cunningham of Ohio State are centers whom any coach would welcome on his squad.

Wakefield of Butler, Blakely of North Dakota Aggies, Tebeau of K. S. A. C., Anderson of Illinois Wesleyan, Gant of Franklin, Bacchus of Missouri, Bradburn of St. Louis U., Tom Rea of Evansville, and Alyea of Chicago were other fine centers of the recent campaign.

Naming the guards is probably the hardest task of all, but for all around efficiency we believe that Capt. Charles McConnell of Iowa and Louis Conroy of Notre Dame are entitled to the first team berths. McConnell, whose catlike ability and diagnosis of plays almost single handed enabled Iowa to tie with Michigan, Indiana, and Purdue for the Big Ten title, is one of the greatest guards of all time.

Conroy can do everything that any guard ever could do, and do it well, and he was a big factor in Notre Dame's successful campaign against the best that the west had to offer. He's wiry, smart, fast, and a fine shot.

Elizabeth Ryan Captures Women's Indoor Net Title

Brookline, Mass., March 20.—(AP)—New national indoor tennis champions were crowned in women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles this afternoon in the final round matches of the 19th annual tournament at the Chestnut Hill covered courts.

Miss Ryan Rallies to Win.

Miss Elizabeth Ryan of Santa Monica, Cal., came from behind to overcome Mrs. John B. Jessup, of Wilmington, Del., in a brilliant three set match, 1—6, 6—2, 6—3. Mrs. Jessup had held the singles title for two successive years, while it was Miss Ryan's first attempt to win the indoor championship.

Miss Ryan later helped Miss Mary K. Browne of New York, win the women's doubles championship by beating Mrs. Jessup and Mrs. George W. Wightman of Boston, 6—1, 6—3. That match saw on the same court three of the four members of the American Wightman cup team as well as the donor of the famous international trophy of the courts.

In the mixed doubles, Mrs. Wightman teamed up successfully with George Peabody Gardner Jr., against Mrs. Charles J. Hubbard of Boston, and Arnold W. Jones, of Providence, a former Yale tennis captain. The scores were 6—3, 6—3.

RICHARDS BEATS TILDEN

Jacksonville, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—William Tilden II., national champion, lost another tennis title here this afternoon, when he went down to defeat before the brilliant volleying and steady chopping of Vincent Richards, New York, America's number three player, in five bitterly fought sets, 6—8, 14—12, 4—6, 6—0, 6—4, while defending his title in the singles final of the southeastern tennis tournament.

Richards at the top of his form, earned his victory, matching the champion's drives with his chop stroke. The match consisted largely of a base line duel, with Tilden driving steadily and Richards returning accurately for long rallies.

SIBYL BAUER TO GO SOUTH TO REGAIN HEALTH

Miss Sybil Bauer of the Illinois Athletic club, internationally known swimmer, will leave this morning for Pass Christian, Miss., where she will take a two months' rest to recuperate from illness from strenuous scholastic work at Northwestern university and in competition in numerous tank meets during the winter months.

Although her condition is not serious, the famous swimmer was instructed by her physician to take the rest. She will be accompanied by her mother on the trip.

Newark Hurdler Breaks World's 60 Yard Record

Schenectady, N. Y., March 20.—(AP)—Herbert Meyer of the Newark A. C., and former Rutgers captain, raced to a new world's record in the sixty yard low hurdles race on Alexander field today in Union college's first annual invitation meet.

Disqualified in the first two races of the hurdles series, Meyer negotiated the 60 yard event in :07.1-10, three-tenths of a second faster than the former record. Carl Christienson of the Newark A. C. won the series.

LOWRY CHOSEN FROSH COACH AT NORTHWESTERN

Fighting Tim Lowry, captain and center of last year's Northwestern university football team, will remain at the Evanston school next year—not as a student but as a coach. Lowry, who won THE TRIBUNE trophy for the Big Ten player of most value to his team last fall, has been appointed assistant freshman coach and assistant to Head Coach Glenn Thistlewaite of the varsity. Tim graduates from Northwestern this spring.

Harold White, forward, has been elected captain of the basketball squad for next year. White has won letters in football, basketball, and track.

YANKEES DOWN PHILLIES; RUTH HITS 1ST HOMER

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—Babe Ruth hit his first home run of the season here today with two men on base and the New York Yankees defeated the Philadelphia Nationals 6 to 1. Ruth's drive, in the seventh inning, cleared the right field bleachers. Ruth also hit a double and drew a base on balls in four trips up. Score:

Philadelphia [N.]	1 6 1
New York [A.]	6 13 0

Batteries—Carlson, Willoughby, Crumpler and Jonnard; Jones, Peunock, Thomas and Bengough.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Worth, Tex., March 20.—[Special.]—The boys of this cow town, who are baseball champions below the Mason and Dixon line, were defeated again today by the gallant White Sox in the second game of the series of three. But the cowboys staged a ninth inning rush that nearly raked the game out of the fire. The final count was 5 to 4.

Going into the ninth with a margin of three tallies and young George Cox throwing his fast ball, things looked safe, but old Ed Koney got on first base when Tom Gulley dropped his fly. Vache forced Koney at second, after which Edington popped out and it seemed the game was salted. Folks started to go home.

Cowboys Use Spurs.

But the cowboys know how to ride. Palmer scratched a hit past Boss Collins who barely knocked the ball down. That didn't look dangerous, but up came Catcher Smith and lined a single to right that scored Vache and sent Palmer to third. Even then it wasn't serious though the tying run was on first base.

Foss, who has been sitting on the bench went up to hit for Pitcher Bird and he poled one to the fence in left center. Johnny Mostil legged it to the fence after the ball and the tying run was legging it around the bases from first. When Johnny got the ball, the legs of the tying run were just about to round third.

Johnny pegged the ball in and Bill Hunnefield, who had run away back in the outfield, snatched it perfectly on the first hop and winged it home with all his might. It was a perfect peg and came into Harry McCurdy's paws just an instant before the legs and body with the tying run hit him right in midships. McCurdy was knocked to helingon but he had jabbed the ball into the stomach of the tying run. After the game, McCurdy declared the fellow with the tying run came in riding on a horse.

Sox Playing Baseball.

The Sox played pretty good ball and they have to in order to beat this Jakey Atz outfit down here. These fellows don't believe they are minor leaguers, nor do they play like minor leaguers. A three run lead doesn't mean a game is won at all in this town.

Ted Lyons did some nice pitching for five innings today. The cowboys scored twice on him in the second but a wild heave by Hunnefield helped them. George Cox took up the work in the sixth and showed a lot of speed and style until that ninth inning when the fellows from the wide open spaces started being men. When one looks at them one just can't understand how a woman ever was elected governor of this state.

ROOKIE SHOWS STUFF

Shreveport, La., March 20.—[Special.]—Ray Schalk's second team of White Sox uncovered a promising young pitcher in today's game with Shreveport in Dock Carroll, who last year played for Muskogee, Okla. The Sox won 1 to 0 and Carroll pitched four innings and allowed one hunt which went for a single in the fourth frame. He also walked a man in the fourth but only nine men faced him in the first three innings.

Outfielder Najo won the game in the first inning with a home run over the fence. Acting manager Schalk was hit on the left knee by a hard foul in the eighth inning but was able to walk off the field. Mathews played a sparkling game at second base, making a circus stop in the ninth inning, which cut off a Shreveport rally. He and Kraft also staged a fancy double play.

Yale Tankers Defeat Navy Team, 42 to 20

New Haven, Conn., March 20.—(AP)—Yale defeated the naval academy, 42 to 20, at swimming here tonight. In the 150 yard back stroke, House of Yale, who held the intercollegiate record, clipped off three seconds, covering the distance in 1:44 4-5. Yale defeated the Navy at water polo, 39 to 16.

HOLD SPOTLIGHT IN KENTUCKY TURF SCANDAL

Football Chiefs Curb Forward Pass and Intentional Safety

New York, March 20.—(AP)—Four important gridiron rule changes, one placing a check on the indiscriminate use of the forward pass, and another designed to eliminate the intentional safety, were made today by the football rules committee in annual session here.

The change involving the forward pass, which provides a penalty of five yards for the second and third incomplete passes in any series of plays, came as a surprise in view of repeated statements from members of the committee that they were opposed to any tampering with the aerial game.

Change Play After Safety.

The safety rule was revised so that a team making a safety must put the ball in play on its own 20 yard line by a kick on the first down with the opposing team restrained to the thirty yard line. The other changes involved the boundary lines to keep all play within the legal playing field.

The changes provide that:

1 The second and third incomplete forward passes, which shall be made before a first down in any series of plays, each shall be penalized by a loss of five yards.

2 A team making a safety must put the ball in play on its own 20 yard line by a punt, drop kick, place kick, or onside kick on the first down, with the opposing team lined up on the 30 yard line.

3 The ground rules will apply at the side lines and end lines, at the boundaries of legal playing field, thus making the ball "dead" automatically wherever it crosses the line. The side touching the ball last in fair territory shall be given possession at the point in which it passes over the line.

4 No player who steps out of bounds on a kickoff or free kick shall be eligible to recover a loose ball.

Curbs Wild Passing.

The new forward pass rule was designed to discourage the ill-conceived pass as a late minute resort by a team in the ruck. Two such penalties would be the most a team could incur in any one series of plays under the ruling since the first play of the series would be exempted and the ball would automatically change hands after an incomplete pass on the fourth down.

In explaining the new safety rule, Chairman E. K. Hall said this was drafted to eliminate a series of intentional safeties by a team in the lead as a stall for time. The rule makes it mandatory for a team to kick on the first down, with the onside kick, the only weapon to gain repossession of the ball.

The change making the ground rules apply at the sidelines and end lines will tend to keep all players on the actual playing field, Chairman Hall said. In the event the ball does cross the side line or end line after a fumble, it shall go to the side touching it last in fair territory. In the event of a block kick, going over the end line it shall be counted as a safety, irrespective of who recovers it, but if it goes over the side line, it shall go to the team which blocked the kick.

The rule making a player ineligible to recover a loose ball if he steps out of bounds on a kick off or free kick, was drafted to prevent players, particularly ends, from stepping over the line to avoid contact with opposing players. This rule applies only in case of a fumble and does not eliminate a potential tackler from the player.

LASWELL WINS THIRD STRAIGHT HANDBALL TITLE

St. Paul, Minn., March 20.—[Special.]—Maynard Laswell, Los Angeles A. C., today won his third straight national handball title when he triumphed over Jack Donovan, San Francisco Olympic club, in two sensational games at the St. Paul A. C. The scores were 21—18, 21—17.

This is the first time in the history of the game that any individual ever won the crown three times in a row. Besides winning the title in 1924, 1925, and 1926, Laswell was runner-up in 1923.

Angels Treat Cubs Rough Again, 9 to 5

Los Angeles, Cal., March 20.—[Special.]—Native sons in Los Angeles will tell the innocent traveler that their coast league baseball team ought to have a franchise in the major leagues, and it may be that the native sons are right. The Angels put on a big eight inning attack today and completely smothered the Cubs, 9 to 5, and now the series between the Chicagoans and the coast leaguers stands three games to one, in favor of the local gang.

PERCY JONES.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Los Angeles fans are sure their team is superior to the outfit gathered together by Manager Joe McCarthy to represent Chicago in the National league race this season, and for all of today's showing the Los Angeles fan has the edge. The Cubs' pitchers blew up, and the Cubs' defensive works blew up at times, while the Angels just plodded along and when the opening came they grabbed their big chance and pushed over a cluster of five runs, which clinched the ball game.

Percy Jones the Victim.

Most of the damage in that eighth session came to Percy Lee Jones, the Texas southpaw, who was smashed for four runs in quick succession. That big Los Angeles sortie broke up a 4 to 4 deadlock which existed at the end of the seventh inning and from that point on the Chicagoans didn't have a look in.

Wilbur Cooper started on the slab for the Bears and tried out his lame elbow, but the trial wasn't altogether a success. Cooper was clouted for three runs in the third inning and one more in the fourth and then he retired in favor of Jones. Percy breezed along all right in the fifth, sixth and seventh sessions, but in the eighth the big Angel assault swept him off the mound in the wake of the four run attack and Charley Root was summoned to take Jones' place. Root didn't escape trouble for he was nicked for the final Los Angeles run before he got the side out.

Hack Hits Home Run.

The Cubs worried a run over the plate in the fourth inning on three hits off Elmer Jacobs, who once wore a Cubs uniform. Then Jacobs was replaced by a youngster named Phillips, the same lad who made monkeys out of the Bears the first time he faced them a week ago. Art Jahn, released to the Angels by the Cubs a few days ago, dropped a fly ball in the outfield and then Phillips made the mistake of putting one in the groove for Hack Wilson and the chubby Hack swiped the ball into the right field bleachers for a home run, driving Adams in in front of him.

A couple of scratch hits and a sacrifice gave the Bears one more off Phillips in the seventh inning and in the eighth against Ferguson McCarty's men wound up their scoring with another single tally.

The final showing of the Cubs in these parts for the present will be made tomorrow with the Hollywood Stars furnishing the opposition.

CUBS SECONDS WIN

Long Beach, Cal., March 20.—[Special.]—While the regulars were being licked at Los Angeles the Cubs' second string players trimmed the Seattle nine of the Coast league, 8 to 2, here today. John Welch, young Cubs' hurler, pitched the full nine innings. Score:

Cubs	000 200 000—2 12 0
Seattle	000 010 001—2 7 2

Batteries—Welch and Churry; Brett, Best, B. Baldwin, and Jenkins.

The same teams play here again tomorrow.

4 JOCKEYS SET DOWN FOR LIFE IN NEW SCANDAL

Two Owners, Trainer Also Banned.

Lexington, Ky., March 20.—[Special.]—In the most sensational house cleaning in the history of the American turf, Harry Stutts, one of the jockey stars of America, along with three other jockeys, two owners, and a trainer have been ruled off the turf for life, it was announced at the close of the Kentucky racing commission meeting here today.

JOCKEY D. MERGLER.

The others dealt the extreme penalty were Jockeys Jimmy Wallace, Bert Harvey, and Grover Noel, Owners R. D. and P. J. Williams and Trainer Tom Devereaux.

The names of three other jockeys were brought into the scandal, Willie Fronk, Walter Taylor, and Danny Connelly, but no action was taken against them. However, they were not granted licenses to ride in Kentucky during the coming season.

Charge Fixed Races.

All of those involved were implicated in fixed races run over Kentucky tracks last season. The charges were proved conclusively in a long investigation conducted by Sam Nuckols, one of the stewards at Kentucky tracks, during the winter. His report showed that the method of fixing races was almost invariably the same—the payment of money to the riders involved for their promise not to let the horses they were riding win.

And the fee almost always was the same. One thousand dollars not to let a certain horse come home first.

The Williams brothers for many years have raced one of the largest stables in Kentucky. Many famous horses have carried their silks, and they have won numerous important stakes. They came to Kentucky from Oklahoma.

What They Did.

According to reports from today's meeting proof was submitted that they not only had conspired with the jockeys to pull horses in races but it was said they had campaigned the thoroughbred Reputation, a star of the handicap division, as a 2 year old in Kentucky when the colt was in reality a 3 year old. Later they ran him as a 3 year old when he was a 4 year old.

These irregularities were so conclusive that Williams brothers announced some time ago they would dispose of all their racing and breeding stock at public auction at Churchill Downs in May. They are said to have told friends that they will not attempt to race horses again in this country.

Check Leads to Expose.

Jockey Jimmy Wallace was one of the scandal's ringleaders. It was through a check he had cashed at a hotel in St. Louis, made payable to him and signed by one of the Williams brothers, that evidence first was secured against the jockey ring.

The investigation got under way last December after Jockey D. Mergler confessed that he had pulled the horse Bumpkin in a race at Latonia during the fall season. Mergler said he had been paid $1,000 by Jockey J. A. Mooney for seeing that Bumpkin would not win.

Mergler and Mooney were ruled off the turf at the time and Steward Nuckols was appointed by the Kentucky racing commission to investigate not only this case but other races about which rumors of crooked riding were heard.

Tells of Metings.

While Stutts did not confess his part in the operation of the ring, he is reported to have told Nuckols that meetings of the jockeys were held in his home, and at these meetings it was decided by the riders which horse should win in the next day's races.

Stutts is said to have accounted for the meetings taking place in his home by the fact that Jockey Noel lived there and that the meetings were held in Noel's room.

Noel and Stutts both went to Miami to ride during the winter season. Noel lost his license when the stewards there learned of his connections with the scandal in Kentucky. For some reason Stutts was allowed to ride until late in the season, when he lost his license along with Jockey Earl Pool for rought and foul riding in a 2 year old stake.

Restored to Standing.

At the end of the Miami meeting Stutts and Pool were restored to good standing as far as the Miami officials were concerned and Stutts left for the Pacific coast, where a division of the Montfort and B. B. Jones stable was quartered at Tia Juana.

The ruling against Stutts came when Terry O'Malley, representative of the millionaire turfmen, Montfort and B. B. Jones of Virginia, for which Stutts has been the contract rider for the last few years, was called before the commission.

"Mr. O'Malley, it is the desire of the Kentucky racing commission that you inform the employers of Jockey Harry Stutts that he has been ruled off the turf for life," Secretary Shaw wood told the agent for the big racing stable.

Stutts at Tia Juana.

O'Malley, immediately left the racing commissions office and it is presumed conveyed the ruling to Stutts who is now at Tia Juana, having gone there several days ago to ride Princess Doreen in the $65,000 Cofforth handicap to be run March 28.

None of the others involved in the scandal were called before the commission. While the commission did not make public the evidence against those punished at today's meeting, the investigation of Stewart Nuckols is said to be complete and conclusive against every one involved.

Officers of the racing commission issued the following statement:

"It is often said that races are fixed but securing evidence sufficient to issue a ruling or order by this commission is at times difficult. The commission urges all breeders, owners, trainers or any one interested in good, clean sport to give at any time information to the commission for investigation that will aid them to catch and punish any offenders to the end that racing in Kentucky may be kept on the same high plane it has enjoyed in year's past.

Winn Doesn't Issue Statement.

There was considerable speculation and concern among owners, breeders and other racing men on the effect today's ruling will have on the sport here. Col. Matt Winn, general manager of the Kentucky Jockey club, was in the city. He did not issue a statement after the rulings were made.

Spring racing dates for the different Kentucky tracks were approved by the commission as follows:

Lexington—April 24 to May 5.
Churchill Downs—May 8 to May 31.
Latonia—June 3 to July 6.

Armour Beats Farrell, 9-8, in Pro Final

St. Augustine, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—Tommy Armour of Sarasota, Fla., today won the first annual winter professional golf tournament, defeating John J. Farrell, Quaker City club, New York, in the 36 hole finals, 9 and 8.

Superior iron play and much steadier putting gave Armour his advantage. He was placing his tee shots better and was consistently closer to the pin on his second shots.

Armour Eight Under Par.

Armour was six under even fours for the 28 holes played. He was eight under par for the course.

The former Scotch amateur champion had a 79 in the morning and went out in 33 this afternoon. He ended the match by halving the tenth hole in a birdie three. Farrell's medal score on the morning round was 76 and he took a 38 in going out this afternoon.

The turning point of the match was the eleventh hole in the morning round, which Armour won with a five after topping his drive. Farrell was only one down at the time and he missed his chance to square the match when he "pulled" his iron shot into a trap and took a six. He then lost the next two holes, on both of which it took him a three to get down from the edge of the green after he had been short on his iron shots.

$1,000 Victor's Prize.

A similar lapse cost him the fifteenth and left him five down and he never had a chance after that for Armour played the next thirteen holes in five under par.

In addition to the title, Armour gets a cash prize of $1,000 for winning the match play event. Farrell's runner up prize was $650.

ROSE POLY TO OPEN BASEBALL SEASON MARCH 27

Terre Haute, Ind., March 20.—(AP)—Rose Poly's schedule of ten baseball games will start March 27 against Eastern Illinois Normal at Terre Haute. For the first time in a number of years Rose appears to have material for a good team. Babillis, Wells, and Sweeney are the pitchers. Thompson and Sawyer are the catchers. Kehoe probably will be at first base and Capt. Mayrose at second. Taggart, Wesley, Leake and Dowen are other infielders, while Kasameyer, Witty and Goddard probably will form the outfield combination. The schedule:

March 27—Eastern Illinois Normal at Terre Haute.
April 2—De Pauw at Terre Haute.
April 7—Eastern Illinois Normal at Charleston.
April 9—Oakland City at Terre Haute.
April 10—Indiana Central at Indianapolis.
April 16—Wabash college at Terre Haute.
April 21—Oakland City at Oakland City.
April 29—Wabash college at Crawfordsville.
May 14—Indiana Central at Terre Haute.
May 21—De Pauw at Greencastle.

Hese Clark is coach of the team.

FLORIDA'S WINTER GOLF SEASON TO END THIS WEEK

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 20.—The winter golf season will come to an end with the ninth annual west coast open championship, the dates of which were set today for March 23 and 24 at the Pasadena Golf and Country club here. Immediately after the two day tournament most of the star players will leave for Pinehurst, N. C., to play in the north and south championship tussle.

The west coast open is the oldest championship tournament in the western part of the state. Formerly sponsored by the Bellair Golf club near here, the tourney in recent years has fallen to St. Petersburg. The title has been competed for eight times. Walter Hagen has won it three times, the only golfer who has held the honor more than once.

Five other players have carried away the laurel wreath once each. They are Jock Hutchison, MacDonald Smith, Johnny Farrell, Mike Brady, and Tommy Armour.

Four Games in Forester Basket On Today

Four games are scheduled for this afternoon in the southern division of the Catholic Order of Forester basketball league at the University settlement gym, as follows: Englewood vs. Carmelite, Tom Moore vs. St. Willibrod, St. Elizabeth vs. St. Edwards, St. Elizabeth vs. St. Monica.

Tennis, Not Style, Counted When May Sutton Was Star

BY MORROW KRUM.

No slicked back hair, no visor, no bandeau adorned the fair head of Miss May Sutton when she played tennis in the days before Helen Wills and Suzanne Lenglen came into prominence. If the truth must be known, Miss Sutton was only a little interested in costumes, but she certainly could play tennis.

In the days when this photograph was made it was quite a trick to dress the hair carelessly. Of course at a dinner the pompadour could not straggle, but who could keep such bountiful hair as Miss Sutton owned from wandering when playing tennis? Miss Sutton made an effort. For evidence witness the hair ribbon with the cute bow in front. But it was such a job!

No flaming jerseys or sweaters were worn by Miss Sutton. She went in for white things. Her dress was white duck or some similar material. Her blouse, with the slightly puffed sleeves, also was white. The sleeves were of elbow length and the neck was round and not low.

Miss Sutton wore a belt with two large silver buckles in the shape of hearts. Her tennis shoes were low and extremely light of weight. She also wore a heavy golf bracelet on her left arm. The hair ribbon, the heart buckles, and the bracelet are the three admissions of feminine vanity in Miss Sutton's costume.

Frank Wheeler, who went to school with Miss Sutton, asserts that styles didn't count much on the tennis courts in those days. But tennis did.

"Miss Sutton was one of the greatest tennis players the world ever has known," said Wheeler. "What did she care about clothes? She knew how to play tennis."

U. of C. Invites 26 Teams to Cage Tourney

Five hundred high school athletes representing fifty schools will participate in the annual Northwestern university track and swimming interscholastic next Friday and Saturday.

Five states will be represented in the largest entry which has ever been obtained for the big prep school classic. Teams from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, Ohio and Delaware will be in competition. The team traveling the farthest distance is the swimming team from Wilmington, Del.

Forty-two track teams and thirteen swimming teams will compete. The entry list this year has attracted 15 more schools than in 1925.

Eckersall Track Official.

Walter Eckersall of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will be referee of the track meet and E. C. Delaporte, director of physical education of the Chicago public schools, will be in charge of the swimming contests.

Cedar Rapids high school of Cedar Rapids, Ia., will be back to defend its track championship. The Iowa athletes have carried away first honors in the meet for the last two years and they are anxious to make it three in a row. They are regarded as one of the strongest teams entered in the track games.

Atlantic City High school, last year winners of the swimming championship has not yet sent in its entry and it is not known whether they will be present again this year. Wilmington, Del., looms as a potential winner of the swimming meet judging from the great record the team has made in eastern meets this season.

Chicago Tankers Entered.

Lane high school and Lindbloom high school will be strong contenders in the water sport while Cleveland high school from Cleveland, O., are given an outside chance of copping first place.

Thirty Illinois schools will compete. Indiana has five and Michigan four. Four schools will represent Detroit. They are, Northern, Superior, Detroit and Northwestern.

MARION WINS INDIANA H. S. CAGE TOURNEY

Indianapolis, Ind., March 20.—[Special.]—Battling its way through the most difficult draw of the finals tourney, Marion tonight won the 1926 Indiana high school basketball championship by defeating Martinsville, tournament favorite, 30 to 23.

After an opening day in which favorites came through without exception, today's games were contrastingly hectic. Martinsville was pushed this morning to defeat Logansport, 24 to 20, and Bedford eliminated North Vernon, 36 to 22. Evansville Central kicked the dope bucket by defeating Frankfort, title defenders, 33 to 25, and then Marion showed its early potential strength by stopping Central of Fort Wayne, 50 to 28.

Martinsville was forced to overtime by an ancient rival, Bedford, in the semi-finals, finally winning, 28 to 25. Evansville spent its strength before the end of the Marion game, losing 29 to 22.

KINSELLA QUITS SQUASH TENNIS; GIVES UP TITLE

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—Walter Kinsella, world's open squash tennis champion, announced his retirement from squash tournament competition yesterday and will allow his title to go by default in the open championship which began today at the Shelton club in this city.

Believing that it will promote interest in the championship among the other players, and preferring to retire undefeated before he begins to slip, Kinsella is carrying out a decision he made several years ago. He decided that when he reached the age of 40 he would renounce his title if he still held it. He became 40 years old on Sept. 5 last.

KANSAS TITLE TO WESTPORT.

Columbia, Mo., March 20.—Westport High of Kansas City won the state championship of Missouri here tonight by defeating Central High of St. Joseph, 20 to 7.

MARKS FALL AS TROJANS DEFEAT U. OF C. ON TRACK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 20.—[Special.]—University of Southern California's track team won over University of California, 82 to 49, in a dual meet attuned to the crash of fractured records today.

Leighton Dye, hurdler, set a new Pacific coast intercollegiate mark in the 120 yard high barriers, :14 6-10. Bud Houser, Olympic games double winner, won the shotput with a heave of 50 feet 1⅝ inches. Houser won the discus at 149 feet 3½ inches.

Sprinter Ed House turned in another double win for the Trojans, capturing the 100 yard dash in :09 9-10 and the 220 in :21 7-10. Kenneth Crumbles of U. S. C. won the 220 yard low hurdles in :24 2-10. Lee Barnes of U. S. C. won the pole vault at 12 feet 6 inches, then made an easy exhibition at 13 feet.

YPSI NORMAL TO MEET ALBION IN M. I. A. A. OPENER

Albion, Mich., March 20.—[Special.]—Michigan State Normal and Albion college will open the M. I. A. A. baseball season at Ypsilanti April 17. The game is important, as both teams are counted strong pennant contenders. The Teachers won last year's state conference title. Seven other state conference games will be played during April, as follows:

April 21—Olivet at Kalamazoo; Hillsdale at Albion.
April 23—Hillsdale at Alma.
April 24—Kalamazoo at Ypsilanti; Olivet at Albion.
April 28—Olivet at Michigan State Normal.
April 30—Albion at Alma.

Most of the M. I. A. A. outfits will have exhibition battles prior to the opening of the intercollegiate season.

DAYTON TEAM ROLLS 1,253 IN A. B. C. TOURNEY

Al Sindelar Bowls 703 in Singles.

Toledo, O., March 20.—[Special.]—Doubles and singles bowling started off with a bang in the American Bowling congress tournament here today with one pair landing seventh place in the doubles and an individual shooting into third in the singles and another seventh in the singles.

Otto Zavakos, veteran congress attendant of Dayton, O., and his partner, Klockson, teamed it for 1,253 in the two man event with games of 392, 445 and 416. In the singles it was Fred Ogtermueller of St. Louis who went into the select row with his series of 681 with games of 212, 234 and 235, and next came Al Sindelar of Chicago with 703 for third place.

Meyers High in Singles.

These represented the peak in early effort, no other pair being able to negotiate the 1,200 class, while the second best singles was 650 by Meyers of Toledo. Then came 641 by Vermilion of Dayton and a like count by Kuntz of Chicago.

Bernal and Dierkes of St. Louis combined for second high doubles at 1,185, with Westfall and Meyers of Toledo third high with 1,175.

Other good double scores were:

Bloom and Drzenwiecki, Toledo, 1,156; Clausen and Peterson, Kenosha, 1,164; Forgery and Sherwood, St. Louis, 1,148; Knoedler brothers, Kenosha, 1,158.

Eggars Rolls 634.

Good prize scores in the singles were: Nank, Kenosha, 636; Eggars, Chicago, 634; Legear, St. Louis, 635; Craven, Flint, 629; Metello, Kenosha, 639.

Scores of Chicagoans in two men events:

Kulik-Eggars, 1,145; Knitter-Kunts, 1,096; Steinmiller-McGlone, 1,083; Hughes-Sorn, 1,036; Koenig-Iden, 941; Renich-Carlson 907; Cavanaugh-Laade, 890.

Scores of Chicagoans in singles:

Kubis, 661; Eggars, 634; Steinmiller, 594; McGlone, 580; Knitter, 549; Hughes, 534; Kulik, 529; Horn, 502; Iden, 488; Cavanaugh, 462; Koenig, 458; Renich, 476; Laade, 418; Carlson, 392.

MILWAUKEE PINMEN RALLY

Toledo, O., March 20.—[Special.]—Sensational bowling by the Milwaukee bowlers caused several changes among the leaders of the first select five in the doubles and singles of the national Knights of Columbus tourney here.

J. Chilemund and E. Plechia, Milwaukee, shot 1,249 for high double of late afternoon, which gave them fourth place. They hit out a string of 419, 436, 394. J. Wuerl and P. Fuche made 1,230, which was good for sixth position. Their totals were 401, 418, 411. E. Eslein, Milwaukee, made 641 for the high day single, which places him in fifth position. He collected 214, 193, 234. A. Planer, Milwaukee, made seventh place with 633, and A. Wolf, Milwaukee, ninth with 630.

The Crescent Fuel, Cleveland, still lead tonight in five man event with 2,953. Patrilla Packers, Toledo, the doubles with 1,294, and I. Gauter, Chicago, the singles with 710.

BRADLEY DERBY HOPES.

E. R. BRADLEY, master of Idle Hour stock farm, who both raced and booked in the heyday of Chicago racing 25 years ago, has at least two formidable strings to his Kentucky Derby bow. Unless something better comes along, Bradley's entries will be called the hope of western owners.

Bradley nominated eight colts for the Blue Grass classic—Bagenbaggage, Banco Sulvi, Barcola, Bird Behave, a son of the 1921 Derby winner, Blockhead, Blue Pencil, Boot to Boot, and Bubbling Over. Note that the names of all these youngsters begin with the letter B, a habit of Bradley nomenclature.

Of this lot, Bagenbaggage on this year's form and Bubbling Over on last year's form, are among those highly considered two months in advance of the greatest 3 year old race of the year.

During the early spring reports have been coming from the south of the high esteem in which Bagenbaggage, a scion of Under Fire-Blushing Beauty, was held. That esteem was put to the test with the running of the Louisiana Derby on Wednesday.

While there was not a great deal, according to present estimates, in the field which Bagenbaggage conquered, he was compelled to run wide most of the way and then came on when his stablemate, Boot to Boot, tired, and won going away, covering the nine furlongs in new track record time of 1:51 1-5, the mile in 1:37 4-5. He carried 116 pounds, the same weight as Calaris in the Tia Juana Derby, the first mile of which was run in 1:37.

Bubbling Over is still taking mild preparation for his season's tasks in Kentucky. He was considered the best of the western 2 year olds. He ran second to Canter by a matter of inches in the Pimlico Futurity after an interruption of training by lameness and was not able to start in the Kentucky Jockey club stakes won by Canter. But he won several impressive stake events at Belmont park in midseason and earned $24,737. By many trainers he was regarded better than anything he showed in a racing way, except at Pimlico.

Bradley is a Kentuckian. Victory of a Bradley-bred colt would be extremely popular at Louisville May 15. We still remember the roar of exultation at Churchill Downs when Behave Yourself and Black Servant finished one-two in the 1921 Derby.

Remember.

Friend Harvey: Walking down the street yesterday, I was impressed by the number of apartments to let. Just after the war, apartments were scarce, rent high, and the landlords had their fling. Therefore let's sing an ode to the landlord to the chorus of "Remember":

Remember the time when flats were scarce,
And rents were high, remember?
Remember the time you laughed at us,
Remember the time, remember?
Remember we lived six in a room,
And now comes a real good building boom;
These scarce days are past, so we laugh last,
Please don't forget to remember.

Not City Broke.

A New York Irishman who was making a barrel of money in street paving and tunnel work in New York City sent over to Ireland for a younger brother who lived on the home place—a half portion farm. When the brother reached New York, he went directly to this brother's office and after a short visit, the wealthy brother called in a superintendent and asked him to outfit the chap in a regular makeup from head to foot. The newcomer was a typical greenhorn.

Late that afternoon the boss met the superintendent who reported he had bought the newcomer everything from a new hat to new shoes. "Where is he now?" asked the New York brother. The superintendent replied, "I've hitched him to a waterplug over on Broadway to get used to street cars." Tyrone.

FREEPORT STATE CHAMP

Champaign, Ill., March 20.—[Special.]—Freeport won the state high school basketball championship tonight by defeating Canton, 24 to 13, in the University of Illinois.

Freeport showed a splendid attack and quickly took a decisive lead. Stimpert, center, scored six baskets, while Keithe, forward, sank three. Lineup:

CHICAGO ATHLETE HELPS CORNELL WIN CAGE TITLE

Mount Vernon, Ia., March 20.—Donald Clemmer of Chicago was a member of the Cornell basketball squad this year which annexed the Midwest conference basketball championship. By winning 11 of the 12 conference basketball games, the Cornell quintet stood at the head of the precentage column for the year with an undisputed claim to the title.

In the last 20 Midwest conference basketball games played by Cornell only two contests have been lost. Capt. Dean of this year's team is the only man on the squad who will be lost by graduation.

COOLIDGE, DAWES BOOST NATIONAL GOLF EXPOSITION

BY MORROW KRUM.

It is doubtful if the autograph of a great man imbedded upon the head of a golf club will add any yards to a drive, but it can not be denied that such an inscription is of historic value. Therefore six golf clubs, three bearing the signature of Calvin Coolidge and the signature of President Calvin Coolidge and three boasting the name of Vice President Charles G. Dawes will be auctioned at the national golf and country club exposition to be held April 6 to 10 at the American Exposition palace.

The money that is received will go to the benefit of the Grove House for Convalescents of Evanston.

Mrs. Hathway Watson, one of the directors of the Grove House, yesterday received word from Washington that both President Coolidge and Vice President Dawes would write their names on the clubs which she had forwarded to them. More than two score of well known Chicago women are assisting the advance sale of tickets for the golf show, from which the Grove house will receive a great deal of financial benefit.

A veteran golfer said yesterday that the ambitious player should buy one Coolidge club, to keep his shots straight, and one Dawes club to get the proper force behind his stroke.

The Meadow Grove Country club of Palatine has appointed W. C. Holt, formerly of Dixmoor, as greenskeeper. A contract for the remodeling of the clubhouse also has been let. The course will make a formal opening on Decoration day.

Willie Hunter, who is as much of an institution at Onwentsia in Lake Forest as the first tee, will be there again this year with his pipe, his practice shots and his Edinburgh tinge to his conversation. Willie is one of the best players and teachers in the district.

BILLIARD STARS WAR OVER WHO'S WHO WITH CUE

There's an unfriendly little scramble going on in the billiard world these days. Titles have changed hands rapidly this season, and many of the stars of the game are not speaking socially.

In the first lace, Young Jake Schaefer, who is ten leaps ahead of any cucumber in the matter of frigidity, started out the season with the 18.2 balk line title. The rules forced him to play Edouard Horemans, the Belgian exponent of the marcel, and Edouard beat the champion. Then, because of an argument, Horemans was forced into a return engagement and lost the title back to the suave Jake.

Jake Gets Peevish.

In the interim some wiseacre discovered that 18.1 billiards hadn't been played for some time and that Willie Hoppe held the long dormant title. So Horemans, shorn of his 18.2 title, challenged Willie for the 18.1 crown. A match was promised, but Willie had taken a lesson from Dempsey in the matter of feinting and has dodged the match to date.

Meanwhile Young Jake was forced—by the rules again—to meet Erich Hagenlacher, the German, in 18.2 billiards, and Erich gave Jake a lesson or two about consecutive billiards, and took the crown. That sort of left Jake out in the cold.

Now, then, Jake, who most always retains his poise, has been caught standing on his foot, and he's peevish about this Horemans-Hoppe affair.

Schaefer Issues Defi.

"Who says Horemans can play Hoppe?" asks Jake in a voice that does not accord with his usual Arctic calm. "He never beat anybody but a lot of setups. I'm the man to play Hoppe.

"I'll post a little side bet of $5,000 I can beat Horemans at any time. And anybody in the world can bet their car checks that I'll beat him, too. Let Horemans play me for the right to play Hoppe."

Horemans submits that he was the one to challenge Hoppe, and therefore ought to have the first crack at Willie's title. To which Jake says: "I'll meet anybody in the world at any kind of balk line billiards any time, and I don't mean perhaps." Horemans has said he would consider the matter.

An answer has been promised within twenty-four hours, but don't be disappointed if it doesn't come.

The victor will meet the Ben Miller squad of St. Louis next week.

In the Peel cup competition the Thistles and North Shores will play at Evanston and the British Legion will engage the Buda A. A. at the latter's field at Harvey.

COLLEGE WATER POLO.

Princeton, 63; Columbia, 0.

THE DIFFERENCE IN THESE YARNS IS 2,200 MILES

New York, March 20.—(AP)—Promoter Tex Rickard left here today to confer in Chicago tomorrow afternoon with Jack Dempsey at the heavyweight champion's request.

"I don't know what the champion has up his sleeve," said Rickard. "I expect we will come to some definite understanding, for I think Dempsey is ready to fight."

Dempsey in Camp.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 20.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey within the last two days left this city for his new pugilistic training camp in the mountains back of San Diego. He will return to Los Angeles Monday, according to his wife. Dempsey's trip to San Diego is to fit out the camp, the location of which was approved by the champion and promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons a week ago. Mrs. Dempsey said Jack has not gone to Chicago.

ZABEL TO LEAD EAST TROY.

Janesville, Wis., March 20.—[Special.]—Baldy Zabel, Beloit, of Beloit Fairies pitching fame, has signed to captain the new East Troy baseball team. East Troy is planning to make an offer to Bill Lathrop, Janesville pitcher and first baseman in the Midwest league last year.

8 POLO TEAMS PLAY FOR TITLE AT RIDING CLUB

Spring Event Draws Best Riders in Midwest.

With eight teams entered, the first spring tournament which starts tomorrow night at the Riding club will be the biggest local indoor polo event ever held here.

There are four clubs, the 124th Field artillery, Dexter Park, North Shore and the Riding club with two teams each in the tournament. The teams are made as even as possible in playing ability by the handicap system. Good players have been spread around among the various entrants.

Indoor polo has made rapid strides in Chicago. The first good contests were seen staged a year ago when the limited goal intercity tournament with teams from New York, Brooklyn, Newark, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Detroit and the Chicago Riding club was staged.

Many New Players.

Since then more than fifty players have taken to the game in Chicago and a great many fine polo ponies have been purchased, with the result that the indoor teams here are exceptionally well mounted.

The first contest tomorrow night will be between the Dexter Park "A" trio and the 124th Field artillery "A" team. This is set for 8 o'clock. Then will come a contest between the Riding club "B" team and the "B" trio from the North Shore club.

The first of those teams carries a handicap of twelve goals while its opponents, the artillerymen, carry sixteen. "B" team of the Riding club will have to spot North Shore one goal. The army is doing everything possible to encourage polo. In the central circuit are twenty civilian clubs playing polo and in the corps area are nine army teams—more than in any other circuit in the country.

Play Finals Friday.

The first contest Tuesday night will be between the North Shore and Riding club "A" teams and the second battle will be between the 124th Field artillery and Dexter Park "B" teams. The first two will play at scratch as they carry seventeen goal handicaps. The second pair will also play at scratch as they are handicapped at nine goals each.

The finals in the tournament will be played Friday night.

CHICAGO VS. MEADOWBROOK

Plans are being formulated which may make Chicago not only the polo center of the middle west, but, in time, a rival of Meadowbrook as the scene of great matches.

This city is in the central circuit of the United States Polo association, besides being headquarters of the Sixth corps area of the United States army.

Paul Butler, president of the Overbrook Polo club, with three fields at Hinsdale, and his board of directors, J. W. Butler, Gene Culver, Paul L. Fagan, Gen. W. S. Graves, U. S. A., commanding the Sixth corps area; Gen. H. C. Hale, U. S. A.; Howell Howard, Charles Stiger Jr., and Horace Whitmore, vision a tournament to be held at the Oakbrook club in the early fall to which the twenty-nine clubs in the central circuit will be invited to compete for a perpetual gold challenge trophy to be known as the Chicago cup. It is planned to make the tournament a yearly affair.

WESTERN SCHOOLS PATRONIZE PENN RELAY CARNIVAL

Philadelphia, Pa., March 20.—With an entry list of close to 350 elementary, high and prep schools and colleges, and an individual entry list that includes over 1,500 names, the thirty-second annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival promises to be larger than its predecessors.

Entries are pouring in from all sections of the country in the college and high school divisions. A recent entry from St. John's Military academy of Delafield, Wis., makes that institution the most distant in the prep school divisions.

One of the surprises of the early entries are teams from the middle west and beyond. University of Chicago, City college of Detroit, De Pauw university of Greencastle, Ind., Earlham college of Richmond, Ind., Michigan State, Ohio Wesleyan, Wisconsin and Iowa, are among the distant entries.

CALLAHAN FACES BOBBY BARRETT IN PUNCHFEST

Fans Doubt if Battle Will Go Full Route.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

In all branches of sports fans demand the man with the punch. They want to see the athlete who can deliver in the pinches.

This will be the reason why boxing fans will go to East Chicago Friday night to see the ten round bout between Bobby Barrett of Philadelphia and Shuffle Callahan of Chicago Heights, fighters with the punch, who are apt to end the battle at any time.

"Battle of Sock."

Promoter Jim Mullen has advertised this fight as the "Battle of Sock." It may last ten seconds and it may go the full distance of ten rounds, but any one who thinks it will go the route can have his money covered.

In the last month Callahan has risen from obscurity to the foremost ranks of the welterweight division. This rise has been accomplished by knockouts over Terry Gartin of Denver, Johnny Mendelsohn of Milwaukee, and Morrie Schlaiffer of Omaha. This punching ability has made him a great favorite and many followers of the game maintain he will be the logical contender for Mickey Walker's title if he leaps the Barrett hurdle.

Five Preliminary Bouts.

Barrett is a puncher of the Callahan type. The only difference is that Shuffle can sock with either hand while Bobby depends upon his right. The Philadelphia fighter is a better boxer, but boxing is absolutely foreign to Callahan, who will take a punch any time to land one.

The fight is attracting so much interest that every seat will be sold before the fight, according to Mullen. Reservations have been taken ever since the match was closed last Sunday.

Five bouts will support the main event. In the four round opener Douglas McFee of Savannah, Ill., will meet Richie Zimmer of Forest Park. They will scale 153 pounds. The remainder of the card will bring together Ernie Peters and Essey Ray, Willie Brown and Ray Olcott, Paul Wangley and Al Kline, and Tony Caponi and Chesley Glaser.

COLLEGE SWIMMING.

England to Vote Against Tennis as Olympic Sport

[Copyright: 1926: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 20.—The council of the British Lawn Tennis association, meeting here today, instructed its delegates to the meeting of the International federation to support any resolution excluding lawn tennis from the schedule of the Olympic games. The council also decided it was undesirable that players engaged in the manufacture or sale of lawn tennis rackets and balls should be selected to represent England in international matches.

It's All in a Day's Play for Helen Wills

BY DON SKENE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CANNES, March 20.—Miss Helen Wills reached the finals in the singles and mixed doubles in the Cannes club tournament by two victories in the semi-final events today. For the third time during her Riviera invasion the American champion defeated Miss Eileen Bennett, one of England's most promising tennis hopes, with a score of 6—2, 6—4.

Then Miss Wills and Henri Cochet beat Miss Joan Ridley, a blonde young English beauty, and Roosevelt Scovel, the veteran American star, 6—1, 9—7.

Tomorrow Miss Wills will meet Miss Ridley for the second time in the singles final, after which Miss Wills and M. Cochet will play in the mixed finals against the English pair, Miss Jean Radcliffe and Mr. B. Meyer.

Tomorrow may be Miss Wills' farewell to the Riviera courts, but she has not yet definitely decided her plans.

"Mother and I cannot decide what to do, we have changed our minds many times today," Miss Wills told THE TRIBUNE correspondent this afternoon, "I have not yet entered the Beausite tournament starting here Monday, but may do so at the last minute. Maybe we will go to Italy for a while or maybe to Paris, but I hear the weather in Paris is bad for practice now. Then again, we may decide to remain on the Riviera another three weeks in order to enjoy this perfect tennis weather."

AL BROWN WINS.

New York, March 20.—(AP)—Al Brown of Panama was awarded a close decision over Eddie O'Dowd of Columbus, O., in a twelve round bantamweight fight tonight. Spectators booed the judges' verdict.

K. OF C. LOOP FINISHES CAGE PRELIMS TODAY

Whirlwind finishes in all four divisions of the Knights of Columbus basketball league will mark the conclusion of the first round today. Two teams from each division are to qualify for the finals which begin next Sunday, but only Marquette in the North division and Setters in the West have clinched the championships of their sections. The schedules:

West division—Hildebrand vs. Dexter; Carroll vs. Americus; Barry vs. O'Connell; Tuley vs. Feehan.

Central division—Sheridan vs. Madonna; St. Patrick vs. Leo XIII.; Fort Dearborn vs. O'Connor; De La Salle vs. Harlem.

North division—Brownson vs. Resurrection; Columbus vs. Marquette; University vs. Lafayette; De Soto vs. Hennepin.

HOFF SHATTERS RECORD AGAIN; 13 FEET 7½ IN.

New York, March 20.—(AP)—Charles Hoff, exceeded the world's pole vault record for the tenth time tonight in the postoffice clerks' games in the 10th Engineers' armory, when he cleared the bar at 13 feet, 7½ inches.

Hoff negotiated the height on his first attempt, soaring more than a foot higher than the second man, Vinton Pickard of the University of Pittsburgh, who vaulted 12 feet 6 inches. Emerson Norton of Georgetown university took third with a vault of 12 feet.

Hubbard, who also holds the world's outdoor record for the event, broke the record on his first try. On his second jump he leaped 24 feet, 4¼ inches.

NIEMZOWITSCH LEADING CHESS MASTERS' PLAY

SEMERING, Austria, March 20.—(AP)—Niemzowitsch, the Danish chess master, held the lead in the international chess tournament after the tenth round today. Dr. Tartakower of Austria was in second place, and Dr. Alekhine, France, was tied with Rubinstein, Poland, for third place. The summary:

Treybal, Austria, beat Tatai, Hungary; Rubinstein, Poland, beat Romell, Italy; Opocha-Slovakia, beat Janowski, France; Alekhine beat Michell, England; Vidmar, Jugo-Slavia, beat Tartakower, Austria. Ten games between Tarrasch, Germany, and Bohnmann, Austria, and Vajda, Hungary, and Davidson, Holland, were drawn.

The game between Gruenfeld, Austria, and Niemzowitsch was adjourned.

SKO, EX-BAKER OY, THINKS LIFE A CREAM PUFF

Rates Tunney Best of Heavyweights.

New York, March 20.—(Special.)—A overgrown ex-baker's boy who does ke the fight game or anything e seriously, that's Johnny Risko, ceitful heavyweight prospect from rooklyn, who astounded the fistic rnival last night by all but knock- g out Paul Berlenbach, world's light eavyweight champion, in their ten ound bout in Madison Square Garden. I do the fighting, Danny does the alking," Johnny told interviewers who rrounded him and his manager, Danny unn, today. "And say, let me get me right on my nationality. I'm not ussian, but a naturalized American itizen.

From Austrian Stock.

"My parents came from Austria. hey brought me to this country and ettled at Lake Wood, a suburb of leveland, when I was six. I have wo sisters and a brother, all younger han myself."

"Here's a chuckle for you," Dunn roke in. "Johnny's great ambition in ife before I steered him into the fight game was to become the world's best aker. Now Risko is bet on the trail f Jack Dempsey and does not intend o lose on this job."

He is 23, and started fighting as an mateur. He turned pro unofficially fter he collected two dollars one night y laying Dixie Davis, a Negro fifth ate. Nevertheless, he later became mateur heavyweight champion of hio. He had 21 professional contests.

Calls Tunney Best.

Having taken the punches of Stribling, Tunney, Delaney and Berlenbach, all prominent contenders for the eavyweight title, Risko is sure Gene unney is the greatest puncher and ardest fighter of them all.

For fighting Berlenbach, Johnny reeived about $3,500, the biggest purse e ever received. His ring earnings ave reached the $25,000 mark. He an make twice that much within the ext few months if Manager Dunn ccepts half the fights he was offered today.

COMFORT, NOT STYLE, IS WHAT PURPLE MARTIN WANTS IN HIS HOME

BY BOB BECKER.

BIRD fans planning on building nesting boxes suitable for purple martins can let their ingenuity run riot when they begin to ply the hammer and saw in the workshops. The martin is one bird that doesn't care whether the architecture of his home is French, Dutch colonial, or early American so long as it fills the bill for a summer residence.

Nearly every bird enthusiast who gets interested in the fascinating game of attracting birds to nesting boxes is keen to land a colony of martins. And you can't blame any one for wanting 'em, as they are good looking, sociable neighbors who constantly are valuable allies in decimating the insect population around the house.

If you want to build a martin house, post the following specifications on the wall and then go to it.

The rooms should be six inches long, six inches wide, and six or seven inches high. You can start with eight of them as a unit and increase to 24 if you wish. The entrance hole to each compartment should be not more than two inches in diameter and about one inch above the floor. Uncle Sam says that the material (soft pine will do) for the walls and floors should be about three-fourths of an inch thick and that for the roof and interior partitions should be one inch thick.

The almost universal paint scheme for a martin house is white with a neat trim of a darker color. Don't forget that the birds like open spaces away from a heavy stand of trees or buildings, a fact that should be kept in mind when the finished house is hoisted into position. A pole 15 or 20 feet in height makes a good base for the house.

The United States biological survey has published a handy little pamphlet giving details of a successful martin house. Better send for it. Write the superintendent of documents, Washington, D. C., for Farmers' Bulletin 1516 ("Homes for Birds") and inclose five cents, which is the cost of the pamphlet.

"HAIR-GROOM"

Keeps Hair Combed, Glossy Well-Groomed all Day

"Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which costs only few cents a jar at any drugstore. Millions use it because it gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to the hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions. Even obstinate, unruly or shampooed hair can be combed all day in any style you wish. "Hair-Groom" is greaseless; also helps grow thick, heavy, lustrous hair.

The Sporting Goods by WESTBROOK PEGLER

ABOUT THE BOW WOWS.

AGENT from Georgia who was visiting Florida recently spent several evenings at the greyhound races and he came away convinced that, of all the saps on earth, the greyhound is the worst. The races that he watched were under supervision of Mr. Coxy Dolan, but nevertheless they were said to be on the level, for the greyhound bears down at all times.

COZY DOLAN.

The greyhound, which has a sharply receding forehead, is used in Florida to chase a synthetic rabbit along a trolley. The faster the hound runs, the faster the rabbit slides along the trolley, so it is always just beyond his nose. Of course, if the racing greyhound had the sense of a reconstructed diplodocous, he eventually would get next to himself and say: "There is something funny about this racket and I am not going to make a sucker of myself by chasing that rabbit any more."

One night at the races a flannel rabbit sprained a hock or got off its trolley and one of the pursuing greyhounds took a bite of him. Those who were present said the hound's face assumed an expression of a child who has just been told that Santa Claus is just an old mugg from the Salvation Army's local flophouse and a terrible stew when he can get the stuff.

The woman who owned the hound feared the worst and her fears were confirmed when she entered her bond crusher in the next night's mutt races, for as the rabbit was sent streaking down the trolley the disillusioned hound squatted down, yawned, and began to bat himself on the ear with his hind leg. One mouthful of cotton wadding had killed his taste for synthetic rabbit.

Mr. O. B. Keeler, the gent from Georgia, said that he picks dup the most stupid hounds in each race tp carry his money, figuring that in this case the race would not necessarily go to the swift but to the dumb. Mr. Keeler talked in a very superior and patronizing way about all mutts silly enough to go chasing a counterfeit rabbit, especially in public. The peculiar part of it is that Mr. Keeler is one of those golfers who have been chasing par for twenty years or so, always hopeful that they will catch it the next time. Mr. Keeler probably has walked the equivalent of from here to hell and gone over hills and through quarries in rain and murderous sunshine, slugging the topography with his gimmicks and spades and post hole diggers, and probably has spanked a thousand dollars' worth of golf balls into the woods trying to catch up with par. Like the sap greyhound who chases the fraudulent bunny, Mr. Keeler didn't do this for fun, because golf is a serious pursuit and a fellow is never happy until he does make a perfect round, and he isn't happy then.

One of these days Mr. Keeler, who is superior and patronizing toward the sap greyhounds who chase the fraudulent rabbit, may shoot a round of golf in par. And if he does his face will assume the expression of a child who has just been told that Santa Claus is only an old mugg from the Salvation Army's local flophouse and an awful stew when he can get the stuff.

Mr. Keeler's dalliance with the canine carousel has been confined solely to Sarasota, where Mr. Coxy Dolan is the Judge Landis of the dog racket. Mr. Dolan having gone, so to speak, to the bowwows since the fall of 1924.

At St. Petersburg or near by the purps have taken to giving each other the run around on louder and funnier lines.

The profits that are being made by the promoters of this particular six day bicycle race for athletic animals are enormous. One report has it that the returns to the promoters are 200 per cent each quarter. Even if it is not true, it is a good profit. There is something impressive about a dog race. First, the canines, wearing their owners' colors and numbered, are paraded to the judges' stand, where they are examined for hillitosis. Eight woof woofs go to the post in each canter. Strictly speaking, they do not go to the post. They go to a sort of wooden eight dog garage and await the coming of the mechanical rabbit. Suddenly there is a white streak flashing around the track and a shrieking sound arises, a sound such as can be obtained in the better class of radio sets when you are trying to prove to the folks that you really did and can get Mexico City through the local stations.

When the M. R. has shrieked his way around the curves and pulled past the eight dog garage, giggling to himself at the sucker animals gathered therein, the barrier is sprung, eight dogs percolate out of the garage and start around the ring in the general direction of the rabbit. The latter has a twenty yard handicap by this time and, unless he has trouble with his B batteries, that's exactly twenty-four yards more than enough.

When the race is run attendants blanket the dogs and lead them back toward the judges' stand. No one gives the rabbit a tumble.

BENNIE TELLS THE TRUTH.

AFTER a year of vaudeville trouping and selling muscles by mail Benny Leonard admits that his famous Mammy song was just a Mammy song after all. He now says that he was only having some good clean fun when he announced that he was quitting the ring because his mother worried so when he fought. "It made a good story," said Benny.

BENNIE LEONARD.

It is cheering to find a prize fighter so fond of his mother that he makes her his accomplice even to the extent of creating good stories at her expense.

Filial devotion was a good card at the vaudeville box office.

U. S. Frees Race Horses from Cattle Tick Dipping

Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—Race horses are too nervous and excitable to go through dipping vats and they are so frequently groomed that there is small possibility of their spreading the cattle tick, according to the department of agriculture.

Lawrence Coach Predicts End of Football Scouting

Appleton, Wis., March 20.—(Special.)—Football scouting some day will be outlawed by the principal educational institutions of the country, is the opinion of Marc S. Catlin, coach of Lawrence college football. When scouting, particularly in football, has been abolished, athletics will have been placed on a much higher plane, Catlin says.

The present practice is not only costly, he points out, but it defeats the elementary purpose of athletics.

"Athletics are intended to develop the mind as well as the body," he contends. "Under the system now employed the player does not have to exert his intellectual powers to any great extent. It is a battle of wits between coaches, not players."

"Y" BULLETS WIN C. A. A. U. BASKET TITLE TOURNEY

Beat Chicago Reds in Final Game, 32-27.

The Division street "Y" Bullets were crowned lightweight basketball champions of the central division of the Amateur Athletic union at the Broadway armory last night, defeating the Chicago Reds in the final game of the tourney, which has been in progress all week, 32 to 27.

The Bullets were behind, 19 to 8, at the half, but came back with a rush in the final period and piled up the winning margin.

The play of Smith, right forward, was the main factor in the Bullets' triumph. After making four baskets in the first half, he returned in the second period and sank four more.

The A. G. Briggs quintet defeated the Lindsay Motors, 32 to 27, in a game to decide third and fourth place honors.

In the opening round of the championship heavyweight series the Armour-Square Hamburgs trounced Ravenswood, 32 to 11; Indian Clovers beat American Aces, 36 to 19; Chicago Reds heavies whipped Clement Presbyterian, 30 to 21, and the Faygrands handed the Firemen's Insurance Company a 28 to 20 setback.

Marshall High beat Hibbard, 21 to 11, in the high school division.

Be an Athlete and a Scholar to Live Long

Princeton, N. J., March 20.—(Special.)—Athletics, as well as high scholarship, shows a certain correlation to longevity, the records of the class of 1875 reveal. Recently the secretary of the class revealed in his semi-centennial record the fact that of the ten men who stood highest academically in the class six were living.

Examination of the class records shows that of the twenty members who competed on football, baseball, track, crew, and gym varsity teams, ten still are living, all of them having passed their 70th year. Football, with five living out of nine, ranks highest of the sports.

An interesting basis for comparison between the high scholars and the varsity athletes is in the fact that while three of the former are now in "Who's Who," four of the latter have won that distinction. Three of the athletes whose names are included took part as juniors in the first Yale-Princeton game on Nov. 15, 1873. Princeton won the game, 3 goals to 1.

JEWISH SOCCER TEAM TO PLAY 2 GAMES HERE

New York, March 20.—Negotiations will be completed here in a few days for two games in Chicago for the Hakoah Sport club, the all-Jewish soccer team from Vienna, which will make a tour of this country in April and May. Tentative arrangements have been made with the Sparta Athletic club for the first game, either on May 8 or 9.

200 PURPLE GRID CANDIDATES AT WORK TOMORROW

Two hundred Northwestern football men are expected to report to Coach Glen Thistlethwaite for spring practice tomorrow on Roycemore field, a short distance from Patten gymnasium. From this number, which will be made up largely of last year's varsity and freshman squads the coach expects to find the material which he will use in the 1926 season.

TIM LOWRY.

Thistlethwaite is most interested in finding a center who can take over the job at which Tim Lowry has starred for three seasons. In addition to this task the Purple leader must develop ends. Seidel and Mathews are lost through graduation, leaving Bovik and Fisher as the best candidates.

A new full back also must be developed, as Tiny Lewis is now on probation, and it is unlikely that he will be eligible next fall. Froelich, another full back, has been out of school since he suffered a concussion of the brain from an injury received in practice last year. Akers and Long, freshman stars, will have an opportunity to show their worth in that position.

With Baker, White, Schumaker, Griffith, and a flock of other backs and a great number of beefy linesmen, the Wildcat coach will have plenty of material to train during the next six weeks.

NAME SCHROEDER CAPTAIN.

Jacksonville, Ill., March 20.—(AP)—Paul Schroeder, half miler, was elected to captain the Illinois college track team here today. Schroeder lives in Carrollton, Ill., and has been a member of the track team for three years.

TURF FOLLIES OF '25 GET HORSE LAUGHS IN '26

Ponies of Back Row Come Down in Front.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Had Willis Sharpe Kilmer been a better judge of a good thoroughbred racehorse, Pompey, the champion 2 year old of last season, would have been running in the Kilmer silks in this year's rich 3 year old stakes.

WILLIS SHARPE KILMER.

Had Edward R. Bradley shown the same faith in Boon Companion that he has in numerous inferior horses bred on his Idle Hour farm, his famous green and white colors would have been carried to victory in the $25,000 Miami Cup race of a few days ago.

Herbert G. Shimp of Chicago would not be carrying out a systematic search of the countrysides of Kentucky, Maryland, and New York for a Derby candidate had he not let Golden Mac go for a song last summer.

Chinn Passes On Cariaris.

And Col. Phil Chinn, the David Harum of Kentucky, who sold Sarasen and Master Charlie before they reached greatness, might have had the $25,000 Tijuana Derby to his credit and still be holding a strong card for the Kentucky Derby if he had turned deaf ears to an offer made by W. T. Anderson for the imported colt Cariaris late last summer.

These are a few of the follies of the last turf season. There are dozens of similar mistakes every season. Turfdom seems to be overcrowded with judges of bad racehorses and short on judges of good racehorses.

Kilmer, owner of Sun Briar, the sire of Pompey, has made a number of such mistakes. Many of the horses he sold have gone on to great deeds on the turf. Others to which he took a particular fancy failed to show speed that was out of the ordinary.

$300,000 to Return Pompey.

Kilmer could have purchased Pompey as a yearling for a few thousand dollars. He owns the daddy of the colt. He has regretted his failure to buy Pompey to such an extent that it was reported in the winter he had offered as much as $300,000 to W. R. Coe if he would send Pompey to the Kilmer stable.

The sale of Boon Companion by the Idle Hour interests is one of the few serious mistakes made by this famous establishment. Boon Companion went for a few hundred dollars when the Bradley interests decided he would never reach stardom. But since S. A. Cowan purchased him, he has beaten some of the best handicap horses not only in sprint events but in distance affairs as well.

The sale of Golden Mac by the Chicago turfman was made after the colt as a 2 year old had shown little or no ability. He also went for a few hundred dollars in a public auction in the paddock at the Hawthorne race track.

Colonel's Philosophical.

At New Orleans this winter he has turned in some fine races, has beaten high class horses at a distance and if the track at Churchill Downs should be muddy Derby day, he may surprise a lot of wise students of the game.

Col. Phil Chinn can't seem to remain in possession of a real top notch horse. His hobby is a hoss trade and he probably has let more good thoroughbreds slip out of his grasp than any other breeder in the country.

Champion Racquet Players to Dedicate New Courts

The new $40,000 squash racquet courts of the Winter club of Lake Forest will be opened March 27.

Harry Boakes Jr., ranking professional at the University club, and Charlie Williams, world's champion racquet expert, will fight out their old grudge.

SANDE AT DOWNS WITH WIDENER'S DERBY NOMINEES

Expects to Ride Winner of Turf Classic.

Louisville, Ky., March 20.—"I don't know which colt Mr. Keene will start, but I expect to ride the winner of the 1926 Kentucky Derby," declared Earl Sande, contract rider of the Joseph E. Widener stable, at Churchill Downs today.

EARL SANDE. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mr. Widener has three candidates for the Derby, and all three are thoroughbreds of the first rank. Haste was the most spectacular as a two year old, but horsemen who have watched the string in its winter quarters at the Downs will not be surprised should Trainer Ham Keene elect to pin his hopes to Profiteer or Socialist.

Mr. Widener was greatly pleased with the appearance of his stable when he and a party of friends visited here last week.

Sande Arrives at Downs.

It has been said that a good jockey is the best horse in any stable and if this be true Mr. Widener possesses one of the best horses in the land in Earl Sande, his contract rider. Sande is now at Churchill Downs getting into condition for spring racing. He is hitting the rough spots with the stable boys.

The life of a jockey, even the top-notcher, is no bed of roses, and Sande must go through the arduous work of exercise boy to reach the condition that will enable him to get winners down to the wire in front when the bugle sounds.

With Mr. Keene as trainer and Sande as rider, Mr. Widener has only to supply the horses, and he apparently has done this well in the matter of his 1926 Kentucky Derby candidates. Haste, a son of Maintenant out of Miss Malaprop, started only four times last year, but he won three of these efforts for a total of $23,800. He beat Pompey and Flight of Time in the Saratoga Special and showed his heels to Canter and Sarmaticus in the Grand Union Hotel stakes.

Fine Looking Colts.

Socialist, a son of Kwang Su-La Marseillaise, faced the barrier on only one occasion last year and finished second. Profiteer developed slowly last season. He won one race, was three times second, and once third in seven starts.

Both Socialist and Profiteer have grown much during the winter and are two of the finest looking animals at Churchill Downs. They have gone about their early gallops in great fashion and are sure to be heard from before the season is long under way.

MAROONS INVITE 26 PREP TEAMS TO CAGE TOURNEY

Every State Champion to Get Bid.

Invitations to compete in the national interscholastic basketball tournament which will be held at the University of Chicago March 31 to April 4 have been mailed to twenty-six high schools throughout the United States. Nearly a dozen of the prep quintets have accepted the bids and are making preparations for their drive on the national crown.

Every State Champ Invited.

Thus far, invitations have been extended only to state champions, with one exception. New Trier High, winner of the Chicago Suburban league crown, has been invited.

The invitations already sent cover all sections of the country, but as state and sectional tourneys are played off other bids will be mailed so that every state in the Union will be given a chance to be represented.

Eighteen Meets This Week.

Among the newest entries are Billings, Mont.; Danville, Ky.; Reno, Nev.; Mesa, Ariz.; Breckinridge High, San Antonio, Tex.; Durham, N. C., and Latter Day Saints' High, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Invitations have been sent to Fitchburg, Mass.; Montpelier, Vt.; Technical High, Omaha, Neb.; Pine Bluff, Ark., Woodlawn High, Birmingham, Ala.; Duval High, Jacksonville, Fla.; Oak Ridge, Ia.; Charles, S. C.; Lewis and Clark High, Spokane, Wash.; Salem, Ore.; Lewiston, Idaho, and to the winners of the Maine, Mississippi, and New Mexico state meets, which ended last night.

During the coming week eighteen state tournaments will be played, and the winners will receive invitations to compete in the University of Chicago's classic.

Question.

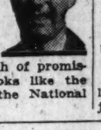
In what position do you think the Cubs will finish this year?

Where Asked.

Devon avenue and Sheridan road.

Answers.

Emmet Morrissey, 311 North Waller avenue, student. — I think they'll win the pennant. Any team with a manager by the name of McCarthy is going to be there fighting all the way. They need hitters, of course, but it looks as if some of the rookies will deliver.



Warren Hayes, Devon and Sheridan road, gas station attendant.—I expect the Cubs to finish in first place. News reports from the coast indicate the players are in trim to jump into the flag chase with both feet. With a new manager, new trainers and a wealth of promising new material, it looks like the Cubs are the class of the National league.

Edward P. Byrne, 1446 North Mansfield avenue, student.—I can see nothing better than last place for them. If Alexander is in shape and some of the newcomers measure up to big league caliber, they may do better. McCarthy will have to uncover some hitting strength in the recruit material, if the club is to succeed.

Walter Cahill, 723 Oglesby avenue, student — Third or fourth. If they had more punch at the bat and a stronger pitching staff, they'd fare better. Their infield with Charley Grimm, Sparky Adams and Howard Freigau probably is as good as there is in the league. McCarthy's management also may figure prominently in the success or failure of the club.

Don Roberts, 1111 Farwell avenue, policeman.—They'll finish third. If Pitcher Kaufman can control his temper he'll have a big season. New talent is almost certain to bolster the 1926 lineup considerably and I hope for better results. I look for McCarthy to deliver as a major league pilot.

INDIANA TO PLAY SIX GAMES ON SOUTHERN TRIP

Bloomington, Ind., March 20.—[Special.]—Several men who played on the Indiana university basketball team this season have traded their suits for baseball togs and will be ready to leave with the Hoosier squad for its training trip in the south.

Coach Everett Dean, whose nine won the Western conference championship last year, has five letter men available for his 1926 team. Capt. Druckamiller will be back at second base and Pete Hall will be at short stop. George Davis expects to play third again, while Tobin and Hord will form a veteran battery. Although the first call for candidates has just been made, several players have been working indoors for several weeks.

Places of the eight men who were graduated from last year's squad will be hard to fill. "Hiki" Woodward now of the Boston Braves, and Charlie Link are lost to the pitching staff. The entire outfield of Ninean, Knight, and Lewis is gone. Moomaw, regular catcher, and Haworth, first baseman, also were graduated.

The Hoosier nine will make its annual spring invasion of Dixieland April 1-7. University of Mississippi will be encountered at Oxford April 1, and the following day the team will move into Louisiana for two games with the University of Louisiana at Baton Rouge. The club will stop at Nashville, Tenn., for three games with Vanderbilt university.

De Pauw is carded to open the home season April 14, and the first conference tilt is scheduled with Ohio State at Columbus April 24.

The Brilliance and Snap of a Real Big Engine

Delivered prices of the Oakland and Pontiac Sixes have been reduced in accordance with the new tax law.

POWERED by the largest engine used in any six priced below $1000, the Pontiac Six has created an entirely new basis of comparison in the field of low priced sixes.

Here you find at your command what has heretofore been generally considered impossible in a car of this price—the stamina, snap and power of a big six-cylinder engine.

It is literally and emphatically true that the Pontiac Six, both in traffic and on the open highway, exhibits speed and flexibility that verge on the revolutionary. Yet breath-taking performance is but one of the reasons underlying the spectacular success of this new General Motors Six.

I Will Drive This Car

I am going to drive a Rickenbacker automobile myself . . . today.

Going to drive both a Six and a Vertical Eight . . . don't know yet which I prefer . . . don't even know of my own experience what is the difference between the two.

I am going to find out about this car of which I hear so many wonderful things from owners . . . about which competitors wax rabid whenever I mention its name . . . it must be either the world's best automobile or the worst . . . seems to be no half-way about this Rickenbacker . . . rivals hate it as much as its owners enthuse over its super-performance.

I have decided that I will not buy any automobile until I do know . . . from personal experience . . . about this Rickenbacker . . .

Felt I ought to buy one last year . . . let some well meaning friend and a glib salesman talk me out of it . . . Never again.

I am going to drive this car myself . . . don't even want a salesman in the car when I do it . . . I've been kidded by experts in that line . . . this time I am resolved to do my own demonstrating.

I know what is happening when I have my own feet on accelerator and brakes . . . my own hands on the wheel. When a salesman is driving . . . and diverting my attention with his patter . . . I do not know.

Going to pick my own road too . . . I know roads that will test the mettle of any car. If this Rickenbacker will do what I have heard it will do, on roads that I will pick and with my own driving . . . then it's my car.

No fifteen minute test, either . . . Rickenbacker advertises, "drive this car yourself—it will be a revelation to you!" . . . Must mean that . . . anyway, I am going to find out.

Going in this very morning . . . no use waiting longer . . . if I do, someone may talk me out of this good resolution . . . tell the dealer I want to take a car for the entire day.

When I come back from that ride I will know . . . and I will be able to tell the world . . . whether this Rickenbacker with its many advanced engineering features is or is not the greatest car I ever had my hands on.

And if I find that all its makers claim is true, I am going to own a Rickenbacker . . . going to drive that car . . . now. Let's see . . . dealer's name is . . .

HARVESTER CORN PLAN CUTS PRICE OF IMPLEMENTS

Farmers Able to Save a Third on Machinery.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

The International Harvester company's offer to trade farm machinery and implements for corn at the rate of $1 a bushel amounts to a cut of about one-fourth to one-third in the cost of tractors, plows, planters, and cultivators to farmers at the present price of corn. The company claims that the offer was not intended as a substitute for a price reduction in implements.

Preliminary reports from dealers show that approximately 1,000,000 bushels of corn already have been traded for implements since Alexander Legge, president of the company, made the proposition early in the new year. The delivery on the corn is to be made in May, June, or July.

Corn Closes at 74 Cents.

May corn on the Chicago Board of Trade sold Friday at 73½ cents a bushel, the lowest since December, 1923, closing yesterday at about 74 cents a bushel. On such a basis corn is selling on the farm at 50 cents a bushel. It would be about 65 cents a bushel with freight and other charges added in putting it on the terminal market.

At the present low price farmers are buying corn and trading it to the harvester company for implements in order to save money. They can buy an $800 tractor, for example, for $520. The tractor would cost only $592 if the corn was bought at 74 cents a bushel on the Chicago market. The company agrees to take any merchantable corn [No. 2, No. 3, No. 4, etc.] in payment for the implements on the basis of No. 2 shelled corn at $1 a bushel at Chicago, regardless of the prevailing price.

Not Worried Over Loss.

"We are not worried about losing money on corn accepted at $1 a bushel in payment for our implements," said one of the Harvester officials. "We may take some loss, but we can afford to up to any reasonable limit, which would be a great many more bushels than we have in sight at the present time."

If corn stays low the company may have large quantities of it delivered. No corn has been shipped by the Harvester concern and will not be before May 1. The company is not trading on the exchanges in corn taken in for implements.

Think Market Too Low.

It is understood by men close to the business that the Harvester people are strongly convinced that corn prices are too low, as evidenced by the fact that the farmer who is marketing his crop through the feed lot is getting more than $1 a bushel. The corn market was temporarily boosted early in January as a result of Mr. Legge's offer.

The fact that the 1925 corn surplus is found principally in Illinois, Iowa, northern Missouri, eastern Nebraska and northeastern Kansas has greatly limited the number of farmers who can take advantage of the offer, one of the officials at the Chicago office explained.

The company expects some of the possible losses to be offset by the effect the offer has had in stimulating sales throughout the country, especially in the central west.

COL. F. R. SCHWENGEL TO BE A BRIGADIER OF GUARD ARTILLERY

COL. F. R. SCHWENGEL.

Col. Frank R. Schwengel, commander of the 122d field artillery, I. N. G., will be officially known as Brig. Gen. Schwengel in the near future, it was learned yesterday.

It was known several weeks ago that the colonel had faced a sixth corps examining board for his promotion, but only yesterday when a call was made for recruits to form a headquarters battery for the 58th field artillery brigade was there definite confirmation that the examiantion had been successful. Col. Schwengel has been notified by the war department to form the brigade. It will be composed of the 122d and 124th field artillery regiments, an ammunition train and headquarters battery.

"The peace strength of the brigade is to be 128 commissioned officers and 2,190 enlisted men," said Col. Schwengel yesterday. "Its completion will give Chicago the largest aggregate of field artillery in any city of the country. Application for membership in the new artillery units are invited from Chicago young men who have the interest and patriotism to devote one evening a week to military training."

AVIATOR HINTON PASSES CRISIS OF SUDDEN ILLNESS

New York, March 20.—[Special.]—Lieut. Walter Hinton, navy flyer who piloted the NC-4 across the Atlantic, has passed the crisis of his sudden illness. Dr. Harold T. B. Pardee, one of the two specialists called to treat the aviator when he was stricken with thrombosis, a cardiac inflammation, said today that Lieut. Hinton would be transferred from the home of R. E. Condon to the naval hospital in Brooklyn tonight if he gains enough strength.

HOPE FOR FARM RELIEF EBBS IN THIS CONGRESS

$250,000,000 Fund Finds Little Support.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—Insistence of the north central states corn belt delegation upon consideration of a hopeless farm program is likely to block the enactment of agricultural relief legislation in this congress, according to Representative Aswell [Dem., La.], ranking Democratic member of the house agricultural committee.

In a meeting of the committee today Mr. Aswell demanded of Frank W. Murphy if the latter and his associates in the joint legislative committee named at the Des Moines and Chicago conferences are willing to assume the responsibility of pressing their scheme to the point where remedial legislation will be impossible.

Want $250,000,000 Fund.

The program evolved at the conferences provides for the creation of a federal farm board, equipped with a $250,000,000 revolving fund appropriated from the federal treasury and empowered to levy an equalization fee on basic agricultural commodities to dispose of crop surpluses and stabilize prices.

In its present form and lacking the indorsements of the President, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, and the budget bureau, the bill, which does not include corn with the four basic commodities—cotton, wheat, cattle, and hogs—would not command three votes from southern members if it was favorably reported by the agricultural committee, Mr. Aswell predicted.

Mr. Murphy defended the bill as answering the house committee's demand for specific presentation of the principles indorsed in the Des Moines conference, and further, as an answer to the charge that farmers generally and their organizations are hopelessly divided over "what they want legislatively."

Calls Bill Paternalistic.

At the outset of the hearing Mr. Aswell attacked the plan as one which proposed to put agriculture under government control through a federal board appointed by the President. Mr. Murphy replied that the personnel of the board was to be nominated by the farmers themselves and that such a board would "provide an agency through which the farmers could do for themselves."

Representative Kincheloe [Dem., Ky.] reiterated his contention that the proposed equalization fee is unconstitutional and questioned the right of congress to appropriate $100,000,000, as suggested in the bill, for the immediate relief of the corn belt depression. The $100,000,000 would be drawn from the $250,000,000 revolving fund.

NIXON BUILDING

WE accept, with a deep sense of responsibility, the opportunity that Mr. Kelly and his associates of The Fair have extended to us. We will, of course, give to our Real Estate and Building Department in The Fair every facility that is available in our completely equipped main offices in the neighboring Nixon Building at Clark and Monroe. It is gratifying to us to know that our methods of real estate merchandising are such as to meet with the approval and endorsement of Chicago's only 50-year old department store. It is a confidence in us that we shall constantly aspire to merit to an extent even greater than is expected or considered necessary.

George F. Nixon

President, Geo. F. Nixon & Company

EAGER to live up to our policy of serving "some of the public all of the time," we have added Real Estate to the many other lines of merchandise handled by The Fair.

On our Sixth Floor, the successful and reliable firm of George F. Nixon & Company are now installing a completely equipped Real Estate department.

This department—ready for business now—will constantly offer, at The Fair's characteristically attractive prices and convenient payment terms, both the ground upon which to build a house, apartment or store, as well as the actual buildings.

To each purchaser—no matter how small his or her down payment on a lot may be—there will be extended, without extra cost, the advantages of the widely commended Nixon Estate Protection Plan.

This Estate Protection consists of a Guarantee Certificate issued by George F. Nixon & Company and underwritten by one of the oldest and strongest Legal Reserve Insurance Companies. It means that should the purchaser of a Nixon-developed lot die before completing payment the lot becomes the property of the purchaser's heirs or estate without further payment; and, in addition, all the money paid on the property other than the down payment is refunded in cash.

Let Us Tell You About the Profit Opportunities in North Shore Westchester Niles Center

Chicago's Only Areas on New Rapid Transportation Extensions

It has been the consistent policy of George F. Nixon & Company to acquire and develop only property located along Rapid Transportation Extension.

The North Shore, Niles Center and Westchester properties that they offer are in the only Rapid Transportation Extension Areas in the Chicago district—"right at the stations" of new high-speed elevated or electric railroad construction.

The properties are especially attractive because of the Nixon policy of permanent, intensive development which assures the purchaser that the kind of progress predicted for each area will actually take place.

Come, see this new department with its new kind of service. Look around. Ask questions. Get all the facts. There is no obligation.

North Shore

Nixon North Shore Subdivisions Extend from Niles Center to Lake Forest Along the New Skokie Valley Route of the North Shore Line.

The Nixon subdivisions on the North Shore are located along the right of way of the new, nearly ready, high-speed Skokie Valley Route of the North Shore Line, including the best locations available all the way from Niles Center to Lake Forest. These properties are in or adjacent to famous North Shore suburbs and consist of fine big lots—many of them beautifully wooded—overlooking Forest Preserves and famous Golf Clubs. Every facility for comfortable residence is being provided.

Westchester

Westchester Is America's First Model Suburb—Laid Out Entirely to a Plan

This is Chicago's newest residential apartment and business region, located just outside the city limits on busy Roosevelt Road. It is served by an Elevated Extension now nearing completion and on which 30 minute express trains to the Loop will be running in a few weeks.

The Nixon properties in Westchester are strategically located right at the Westchester Terminal Station. They include business sites, apartment sites and home sites. Watch Westchester grow. It promises to be the outstanding money-making development of suburban Chicago's history. The prices at which you can obtain Westchester property now are extraordinarily reasonable.

Niles Center

Nixon Niles Center Subdivisions Are at the Stations of the Only Elevated Extension North in Sixteen Years.

The money made by early investors in Nixon Niles Center properties is still the talk of Chicago. And yet, just when it seemed that there could possibly be no further low-priced opportunities in Niles Center, George F. Nixon & Company have opened several new subdivisions in this Elevated Terminal district. Because of Nixon foresight these new subdivisions were obtained at low prices and thus George F. Nixon & Company are able to offer Niles Center property of great value at prices that are tempting even to the person of limited means.

Experienced, courteous representatives from George F. Nixon & Company's main offices serve you in The Fair's Sixth Floor Real Estate and Building Department.

MOTORDOM

Wide Road Drive Gets Support of Downstate Cities

Counties Organize to Secure First Super-Pavements.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

EARLY birds among the Illinois counties most interested in through traffic improvement have already launched the wide road campaigns that will put them in the front rank when the state clears its decks for the consideration of double width highway pavements.

Massmeetings were reported last week at various points between Joliet and Chicago to consider the immediate construction of a twenty foot pavement to relieve the traffic congestion that practically blocks all of the narrow arteries south of Chicago. This agitation will be followed immediately, according to downstate reports, by a general campaign for the widening to 40 feet of Illinois route 4, the diagonal through road between Chicago and St. Louis via Bloomington and Springfield.

Joliet and intermediate communities are basing their initial wide road drive on the program announced by Cook county commissioners, according to Joliet reports. One of the twenty foot pavements in the local $5,000,000 program will afford a direct through route from south to north along the line of Harlem avenue in Cook county, all the way from 135th street to Milwaukee avenue at Niles. Cicero avenue will also be paved north from 147th street, and the combination of Crawford and Kedzie avenues will bring the new wide pavement down to the Lincoln highway near the Will county line just west of Chicago Heights.

Will county boosters are said to be favoring a new wide route via Mokena, which will afford a connection with the Lincoln highway and the new Cook county pavements that will stretch down toward the Will county line. Fourteen miles of this proposed road are allotted to Will county. If it is found that the state cannot add the remainder of the mileage needed to its bond issue map, it is proposed to construct the new pavement at county expense and turn it over to the state for maintenance and the state aid refund on part of the building cost.

Completion of the Chicago-Joliet links will be the signal for a downstate drive toward double width pavement along the "Illini boulevard," according to Bloomington highway interests. This bond issue road, state highway 4, now carries an 18 foot concrete pavement in a direct line between the two major cities of the middle west. Consequently it is the shortest route between Chicago and St. Louis and is bearing the lion's share of traffic between the two cities and the important intermediate points, such as Joliet, Pontiac, Bloomington, and Springfield.

Boosters want the entire route widened to four traffic lanes, or forty feet. They are determined to promote this improvement as one of the first to be considered by state, county, and government officials in the cooperative wide road movement which is now awaiting completion in Illinois of the last gaps in the $60,000,000 bond issue highway system. Other communities, particularly those nearest the Chicago and St. Louis terminals and along the main lines of transcontinental travel in the state, are expected to follow the lead of the Route 4 communities and make early application for state consideration.

Latest reports offer a more promising outlook for the early completion of the 200 miles of pavement gaps that still remain on the original Illinois $60,000,000 bond issue program. A recent court decision proved the right of the state highway department to make minor changes in the routing of bond issue roads, thus enabling state engineers to avoid many local right of way battles. Twenty-seven right of way fights of this kind have tied up the last end of the program in Illinois and, until the right of way covering the gaps is decided on and contracts for the work let, the state cannot consider new roads in the $100,000,000 bond issue list or its plans in widening existing and congested pavements.

KEEP DIRT OUT.

Dirt or oil, etc., on the commutator will cause a short-circuiting of the segments. Cleaning with a cloth moistened with gasoline is the remedy.

MOTORING FOR GOLD

Modern motors are playing a major role in the 1926 gold rush which has flooded Red Lake, in Ontario, with modern disciples of the sturdy forty-niners. Here is the advance guard of the motor army—a snow car being unloaded at Hudson, the jumping off point of the Red Lake rush, for its seventy-five mile run up the frozen trail to the gold field.

Weird Lava Beds Form New Feature for Auto Tourists

WITH the creation of Lava Beds National monument in northeastern California by recent executive order of President Coolidge, another unique attraction is perpetuated to motoring tourists.

The lava beds in Modoc county, now a national monument, from a wonderland of fantastic and weird sights—underground rivers of ice, remarkable caves, crystal pools of cold water, relics and mute evidences of bloody warfare between whites and Indians in 1873, and Indian hieroglyphics on the walls of their early cave rendezvous.

Skull cave, one of the lava bed structures, so named because of the many skulls of extinct animals found there, is over 800 feet long with a domlike roof almost 100 feet high. Near the end it breaks into three stories or drifts, the lower one of which is a river of ice in which is embedded not only bones of animals, but human bones as well.

The Catacombs is considered the most beautiful cave in the lava beds, stalactites and stalagmites adding to its brilliant appearance. The main gallery of Labyrinth cave, over two miles in length, is pierced in many places with blowholes, locally called "chimneys," which form skylights into the caverns.

Acceleration, potential speed, powerful brakes—the motor car owner's solution to the traffic problem.—F. B. SEARS, President Elcar Motor Company.

When you've guessed wrong ~

When you attempt to overtake the man ahead, and another car is coming toward you just a little faster than you thought—you've guessed wrong, and you've got a choice of just squeezing in ahead or dropping behind the man at your right, with a 50-50 chance of not making it either way—then you're beyond the aid of judgment and at the mercy of your car. Only a great surge of power or an instantaneous, positive brake-action can save you . . . You can get into this fix in any car—only a car like the ELCAR 8-in-Line can unfailingly get you out of it unscathed.

HUDSON-ESSEX

Now $50 Less And "At Your Door"

Prices on Hudson Brougham, Hudson Coach and Essex Coach are reduced as of March 10. This is in addition to the Tax Reduction made February 27.

Note by the following figures the advantage of the Hudson-Essex "At Your Door" (A.Y.D.) policy. It includes all costs for equipment, freight, tax and other charges.

Were we advertising f. o. b. prices, with former standard equipment, they would be

ESSEX "6" COACH	$ 735
HUDSON COACH	1135
Hudson Brougham	1385
Hudson (7-Pass.) Sedan	1610

The lowest prices at which these cars ever sold

"At Your Door" Cost

Nothing More to Pay

ESSEX "6" COACH	$ 819
HUDSON COACH	1249
Hudson Brougham	1504
Hudson 7-Pass. Sedan	1735

All cars are equipped with front and rear bumpers, electric windshield cleaner, rear view mirror, transmission lock (built-in), radiator shutters, Moto-Meter, combination stop and tail light.

Don't be misled by f.o.b. or factory list prices. TO SUCH PRICES MUST BE ADDED freight, tax, handling and sundry other charges which greatly increase the actual cost. HUDSON-ESSEX prices are those you pay for delivery AT YOUR DOOR. No delivery, handling or other charges are made. And there is never any doubt as to the actual cost to you of HUDSON or ESSEX. Values have constantly increased, and at the same time there have been passed on to the buyer all savings in manufacturing and distribution.

The "A.Y.D." Plan is Saving Buyers From $25 to $50 on Every Car

MOTORDOM

Thirteen Proves Fatal Number in Traffic Crashes

Old Hoodoo Rides Both Motor Driver and Pedestrian.

THIRTEEN is an unlucky number for both motorists and pedestrians. Automobile drivers participated in thirteen principal practices that caused practically all of the 21,000 traffic fatalities last year. Pedestrians, too, were engaged in thirteen different things that resulted in their being killed or injured. If motorists and pedestrians will refrain from indulging in any of these thirteen unsafe ways of driving and walking, they will be almost free from danger this year. C. E. Robb, statistician of the National Safety council, yesterday made public an analysis of public accidents in the United States during 1925, based on reports received from more than 91 different cities.

Here are the thirteen hazards that get motorists into trouble: 1. Did not have right of way. 2. Exceeded speed limit. 3. On wrong side of road. 4. Failed to signal. 5. Cut in or cut left corner. 6. Backed up. 7. Drove off roadway. 8. Passed street car too soon. 9. Car ran away when left by driver. 10. Drove through safety zone. 11. Passed on wrong side, passed on curve or hill. 12. Tried to operate car while intoxicated. 13. Didn't have car in good condition, brakes defective or some other mechanical trouble.

Here are the thirteen menaces that pedestrians faced with fatal results: 1. Walked, ran, or played in street. 2. Crossed at intersection without signals. Crossed at intersection against signal. 4. Crossed at intersection with signal, but failed to see vehicle. 5. Not on sidewalk. 6. Riding or hitching on vehicle. 7. At work in roadway. 8. Went into street not at intersection, without due caution. 9. Waiting for or getting on or off street car where there was no safety zone without looking. 10. Injured while waiting for trolley at safety zone. 11. Getting on or off other vehicle on left side. 12. View obstructed by umbrella, newspaper or snow. 13. Physical defects, under influence of liquor, etc.

Most of the fatalities occurred during the rush hours, when people were going to work, to lunch, or to their residences. Around 5 p. m. was the most dangerous hour when most pedestrians were killed by automobiles.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

He's Out to Learn the Truth About Motordom

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to the Inquiring Reporter, Chicago Tribune. For today's question, Mrs. J. G. Little, 943 Galt avenue, Chicago, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Do you believe that automobile parking in the Chicago loop district should be abolished altogether?

Where Asked.

Wilson avenue and Broadway.

The Answers.

Leslie J. Sorenson, 6203 Wayne avenue, traffic engineer—In my opinion the total abolishment of parking in our downtown district will have to come sooner or later. Parking is a handicap to all traffic functions in the loop. As it is practiced now it injures business and adds fifty per cent to the congestion of Chicago's most important streets.

W. W. Myers, Auditorium hotel, traffic manager—Parking on heavily used business streets will have to go. In the west cities are gradually doing away with downtown parking and providing storage place in the new skyscrapers that are going up. The streets were meant for moving traffic and not for storage ground.

William C. Calvert, 1401 Rosemont avenue, general insurance and traffic expert—I feel that abolishment of parking in the loop is the only plan of overcoming present street congestion. In the downtown district now parked cars on streets where street cars operate practically close the pavements to moving vehicles. Such a move should be made quickly, if we are to stop our huge traffic losses and prevent the crippling of loop movement. Let's have the subway, too.

G. F. Weber, 4721 Wentworth avenue, bus conductor—It is a valuable privilege for automobile owners to enjoy free parking space in the business district, but the cost of the habit to moving traffic seems to be too great. Without parked cars, two extra traffic lanes could be added to all loop streets.

Edward Ernst, 1818 Farragut avenue, banker patrolman—I believe all loop parking should be abolished. It ties up traffic in the loop and overcrowds the streets that are far too narrow anyway. As long as parking is allowed at all, the parking laws will be violated. The only thing to do is to prohibit parking on street car streets in the loop district.

Bus Line Grows.

Gains made by the People's Motorbus company in St. Louis are cutting into the revenues of the United Railways company in that city, according to officials of the latter company. Figures just released by the bus company show that during the first eleven months of this year the company carried a total of 21,978,439 revenue passengers, compared with 10,933,588 for the same period in 1924, and in November it had 1,785,137 fares, against 1,368,985 in the month of November last year.

Engineers Plan to Make Hoosier Race Part of Convention

MECHANICAL engineers will converge upon Indiana from all parts of the country at the end of May to attend the annual Memorial day 500 mile race on the Indianapolis speedway and then move on to the four day semi-annual meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers, which is to be held at French Lick Springs from June 1 to 4.

The meetings committee of the society is preparing an attractive program of engineering topics for discussion and of sports events to be held on the golf courses, tennis courts, and baseball field. It is intimated that a number of stimulating if not sensational revelations will be made at the technical sessions. Many unique exhibitions and demonstrations will be made. Roads leading to the Springs from all directions are reported excellent under all weather conditions, hence a large number of members and their guests are expected to drive to the meeting from cities in the north central states.

Who Own These Cars And Why Do They Buy Them?

They are people of independent judgment, people who do not build homes like the greatest number of houses in their city nor buy the faddish and commonly seen patterns of suit cloth. Velie buyers have considered distinctive but conservative good taste at the same time that they have weighed all features which make for dependable durability and freedom from worry, from care, and especially from heavy upkeep cost. 72% of all Velies produced in the last eighteen years are still being used.

The low and roomy five-passenger sedan.

A very personal coupe of great beauty.

A Great Motor Made Greater

The Car With Full Forced Feed Lubrication

The utter absence of vibration is due to inbuilt features of the Velie crankshaft. Silence and restful going are Velie attributes which its owners take for granted. Speed is attained beyond any emergency need and a stop—sudden, safe and sure.

BUICK Triple Seals Reduce Engine Wear

WAR was declared on engine wear when Buick introduced the "Triple Sealed Engine" in the Better Buick.

Buick first perfected the "Sealed Chassis" which barricades each operating part inside a tight-fitting iron or steel housing.

Now, the "Triple Sealed Engine" (air cleaner, oil filter, gasoline filter) has been added to the protection for Buick performance. Every possible avenue for the entry of dirt and grit is guarded, avoiding looseness, vibration, and all the other ills that dirt and grit can cause.

Because of the "Sealed Chassis" alone, Buick is a more dependable motor car. The additional protection of the "Triple Seal" still further reduces Better Buick upkeep costs.

The Better Buick offers the best in modern motor car design, at a very moderate price. Come in and see the "Sealed Chassis", the "Triple Sealed Engine" and the many other superior features of this better motor car.

Reckless Drivers Flayed by Hoover Accident Probe

Pedestrians Pay Heavy Toll in Traffic War.

PEDESTRIANS are involved in two-thirds of all traffic accidents resulting in personal injury or death, according to the committee on causes of accidents, whose report to the second national conference on street and highway safety has just been submitted to Secretary Hoover. Fatal collisions of automobiles with pedestrians seem to be increasing more rapidly than the total number of fatal automobile accidents. This, according to the committee, indicates that drivers have been making progress in learning what to expect from other drivers and how to keep out of collisions, but that no such improvement has been made in meeting the dangers when drivers and pedestrians confront each other. The committee asks whether the education and regulation of pedestrians as well as of drivers should not be given greater attention than at present.

Incompetence as a cause of automobile fatalities, the report declares, could be greatly reduced by development of more thorough and rigid examinations for drivers' licenses. "Incompetence to operate an automobile safely may consist of: ignorance of regulations and customs; insufficient strength, quickness or skill in controlling a motor vehicle; serious defect of sight or hearing; defective intelligence; temperamental or emotional inability to do the right thing in a sudden emergency.

"For the detection of some of these forms of incompetence we already have adequate means, but for others there are no examination methods simple and reliable enough to be of wide practical application. Methods could be devised which would be highly dependable and at the same time not difficult to administer. A really adequate and practicable procedure for examining applicants would be a powerful means to guard the public interest, and would amply justify the research necessary for its development."

In the meantime the committee makes no recommendations as to the best forms of examination, except that they should include a practical standardized road test, as well as an examination to find out how well the applicant knows the rules and regulations.

The committee is of the opinion that the great majority of operators are safe and competent drivers, and that most accidents are due to a small proportion of all motorists. It therefore recommends that those who repeatedly become involved in accidents should be given special examinations.

With reference to drivers of taxicabs, busses and trucks, professional chauffeurs and drivers of emergency vehicles such as ambulances, police wagons and fire patrols, the committee insists that there is a special public responsibility for seeing that their qualifications are exceptionally high and urges special investigations to determine what these qualifications should be.

According to the report, drinking as well as drunkenness leads to accidents. "The universal condemnation of the intoxicated driver is fully warranted by the facts," says the report. "It is less generally recognized that even small amounts of alcohol, quite insufficient to intoxicate, tend to decrease the higher forms of skill and perhaps also to lessen the sense of responsibility. It is highly probable that alcohol has contributed to many accidents which has been ascribed to inattention, confusion, recklessness, loose steering gear, or some other cause."

Fatigue of drivers is suggested as a possible cause of accidents in view of the disproportionately large number of accidents occurring at the peak hour of traffic in the late afternoon as contrasted with the number at the peak hour in the morning.

Conflicting habits frequently cause accidents. The confusion may be due to conflict of the driver's old and new habits, or to different habits of different drivers. In either event these accidents can be reduced by the adoption of uniform laws, uniform regulations and rules of the road, uniform signs and signals, and uniform mechanisms of car control.

The committee calls attention to some great gaps in available information regarding automobile accidents. "Many current assertions about certain classes of drivers, such as women or taxicab operators, are unwarranted and often misleading because no data are at hand as to the relative number of hazards faced by such groups. Data on hazards met by representative samplings of the driver population are needed in order to draw reliable conclusions from our present statistics of drivers involved in accidents."

The report pleads not only for general and uniform reporting of all accidents, but also for the establishing of a special center of investigation to coöperate with state and local bureaus in carrying forward intensive studies.

Gossip of the Auto Trade

A HEALTHY spring peak in automobile production was predicted for the industry last week by Edgar S. Correll, vice president of the Stutz company. He based his opinion on analysis of the record breaking public interest and sales volumes turned in by the various 1926 automobile shows, and unfilled orders for nearly 3,000 of the new Stutz cars that made their bow during the big expositions. Bert Dingley, service manager for the Stutz organization, accompanied by L. L. Corum, race driver, started on a 7,000 mile tour of the west yesterday to demonstrate the new safty chassis and instruct service organizations and patrons in its possibilities.

Another factory branch was added to Chicago's huge motor population last week with the opening of headquarters at 2450 Michigan avenue by the King-Seeley corporation of Ann Arbor, makers of the K. S. Gasoline Telegage. The dashboard gauge is standard equipment on a number of the 1926 cars. Opening of the Chicago branch is said to be the first step in a national distribution and installation plan worked out by James McCallum, sales promotion manager.

Stanley Paul, veteran of the Chicago row and of the Bird-Sykes organization, yesterday announced the organization and opening of a new Stutz sales and service quarters at 6118 Cottage Grove avenue. The agency is said to be one of the most attractive on the south side.

Increased production in the Auburn plants at Auburn, Ind., has necessitated the addition of two special freight trains daily on the Pennsylvania railroad to handle incoming and outgoing shipments, according to factory announcement. Auburn production is being increased as rapidly as possible to take care of orders for immediate delivery.

C. M. Bishop and F. S. Albertson, original Dodge dealers, have been added to the board of directors of Dodge Brothers, Inc.

Motor Champion Would Abolish Excise Taxes

BRANDING the excise tax on passenger automobiles as a super-tax and still an unjust levy despite the reduction from 5 to 3 per cent, Senator Edward J. Glackin told Chicago automobile dealers yesterday that he would work for the complete abolition of the burden. As a candidate for representative in congress for the Third congressional district, he is the first to announce a platform opposing the continuation of the automobile excise tax in any form.

"The passenger car is liable to a multiplicity of taxes such as federal excise, state registration, local wheel tax, and personal property tax," he said. "Auto makers and auto owners do not object to carrying their full share of tax burdens, but it isn't fair to load them as they are being loaded in every state of the union today.

"Those who are insisting that motor vehicles are not paying enough for roads now in use are on the wrong track. There is no connection between the principal of excise taxes and federal highway aid. The two propositions are entirely unrelated.

"The federal highway act was passed in 1916, a year prior to the levying of war taxes on motor vehicles. There was no provision that the cost of federal participation should be levied upon the motorist. This should have been embodied had it been the intention of the law. It has never been federal policy to tax any group for a specific purpose. Farmers are not taxed to support the department of agriculture.

"Business men are not specifically taxed for the activities of the department of commerce. Ship owners are not taxed for river and harbor improvements.

"The motorists have paid in excise taxes for the last eight years sufficient to keep the government busy for six years on a highway program. In the eight year period of excise taxes up to June 30, 1925, motorists have paid $862,000,000, while in the same period federal aid has drawn on the government treasury for only $420,000,000."

Insure Public.

A bill providing that at the time of making application for motor vehicle license the applicant shall pay a premium into a state fund for the indemnity of persons injured in automobile accidents has been introduced at the special session of the Washington state legislature. This premium would be: Motorcycles, $5; passenger automobiles, $10; trucks and trailers, $15; stages, $25. Injured persons could elect to come under the act or bring action against the motor vehicle owner. The minimum indemnity for death would be $1,000 and the maximum $4,000.

TOO TRUSTFUL.

An optimist is a tourist who starts on with poor brakes, no spare, a knock in the motor, and who wires 250 miles ahead for hotel reservation.

FARM AND GARDEN

Farmer Insull Bares Unbroken Loss of 20 Years

Can't Show a Profit with Business Methods on 4,000 Acres.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Samuel Insull is perplexed over the condition of agriculture. Reluctantly he admits he is near the end of the rope in his serious and practical attempt to make farming pay on his live stock and grain farm of more than 4,000 acres near Libertyville, Ill. Hawthorn farm, which has been owned by Mr. Insull for about twenty years, has shown losses of many thousands of dollars annually.

Red figures appearing yearly on the books of a big factory run farm, owned and operated by this business genius, the head of many utilities with capital aggregating hundreds of millions of dollars, may signal danger ahead for agriculture and businesses depending upon it.

Hawthorn farm's losses for the last eleven years have not been less than an average of $5.22 an acre for the entire farm. Last year the average loss per acre was $16.32, and in 1923 it was even greater. It is significant that these figures do not include taxes, interest, insurance, and depreciation on buildings and machinery.

Records Show Yearly Loss.

Gold plate methods are not used on this farm, and yet there has never been a single year when the land returned a profit. For twenty years Mr. Insull has kept his losses to himself, renewing his attempt at the beginning of each season and hoping the farm would return a profit.

As president of the Commonwealth Edison company and the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company of Chicago, and the executive of many other public utilities, Mr. Insull is not looking for something to do. He hesitated about releasing the story concerning his unsatisfactory experience in farming. Some of his statements no doubt will be questioned by agriculturists, farm managers, and economists who immediately will class him as a gentleman farmer and think his experience in farming is limited to a big showy estate. There are gentlemen farmers in Chicago who expect to pay out more on their country estates than they get back. Mr. Insull also has an estate of 161 acres that costs much more to keep than it returns; he expects that. But his farm of about 4,000 acres is entirely separate from the estate. It is run under methods that are far more efficient and economical in saving labor and cutting production costs than are the practices on most of our best farms.

While many farmers who think they are making money may be kidding themselves with their own expert figures, Mr. Insull is facing facts and has reached some conclusions that may be valuable in getting at the basis of the producer's difficulties. He expects his statements to bring him into a vital and an intensely interesting discussion, and he welcomes it only that he may contribute his share toward a solution of the agricultural situation.

Mr. Insull's Account.

"My farm is run under ordinary methods used in other forms of industry, and using such methods I have never been able to make a farm of over 4,000 acres pay bare operating expenses, to say nothing of interest and taxes on the value of the land for farming purposes, and I do not care whether you take $50, $100, or $150 an acre as the value of the land for farming purposes," said Mr. Insull.

"Why have you continued to cultivate the farm when it loses you money year after year and never returns a profit?" Mr. Insull was asked.

"I have the place," he said. "I come of a race that always has had a great love of land. I believe in improvement in values in that part of the country, looking at it from a residential point of view. On the question of value, it is favorably located as to future development, transportation, and close proximity to large centers of population. It is within ten minutes by automobile of one of the most fashionable country residential sections in the territory around Chicago.

"Above everything else, I'm interested in working out the farming proposition on commercial lines, just as you would work out any other problem of production. I have the confidence that if I fail as a farmer I will succeed as a real estate owner.

Raising a Question.

"I have serious doubts," Mr. Insull added in a challenging mood, "whether any farmer is able to show that he and his family are receiving ordinary day wages if he keeps proper accounts of cost and charges the time of himself and his family against farm operation at rates of pay that are comparable with those prevailing in his immediate neighborhood and if he will credit his farm operation with the portion of his rent and living expenses he gets out of his farm.

"I do not mean to say that there are no members of the farming community in our part of the country who are not making money, but those who make money have something else to rely upon beyond the mere production of footstuffs, such as trading in cattle and selling cattle to other farmers. Their land increases in value owing to its value for other purposes than agriculture.

"I am firmly convinced that farmers are in an unsatisfactory condition. In the long run I think the farmers' condition must affect general business. There are some problems in connection with it beyond my understanding. As I understand the farming business, I do not see how farmers can buy such luxuries as automobiles and radio outfits. But the fact remains that they continue to buy them. To me the question of the effect of the condition of farming on general business is a riddle which I cannot solve."

Mr. Insull is hopeful that some relief may come to agriculture through coöperative farming.

"American farmers are individualists," he pointed out. "Some people think coöperative farming would help, but how to get it into operation among such individualists as Americans is beyond me."

Mr. Insull and J. C. Reuse, manager of Hawthorne farm, are convinced that their production methods are efficient, but they are open minded and issue a friendly challenge to any farm manager who can offer valuable suggestions. Dozens of the country's most successful farmers have studied the Insull farm and offered valuable suggestions, which in many cases have been put into practice.

"If farming cannot be made to pay on this place, how can other farmers expect to make money?" That is one of the common remarks made by experienced farmers who visit Hawthorne farm

Any farmer who visits the place is impressed with its efficient production methods. They are not white collared farmer's methods. Mr. Reuse has been working on the farm for seventeen years, becoming manager eight years ago. Farm managers and engineers consider him a genius when it comes to rigging up devices and working out practical schemes to save labor.

Labor Saving Devices Used.

No matter how skeptical the observer may be, it only takes a day's clogging around over the farm with Joe Reuse to be convinced of the penny saving methods he uses to put figures on the profit side of the ledger. There is evidence of labor saving on every hand as you go through the beef cattle feeding sheds, dairy barn, horse barns, feed mill, hog lots, machinery sheds, blacksmith shop, and farmhouses. After following him over the farm, which is three miles long and two and a half miles wide, crossing fields of all sizes, running from a few acres up to 100, 238, 263, and 351 acres each, the skeptic is forced to give in.

In the farm office, which is connected with the Hawthorn Farm, Ill., postoffice, the only farm in the United States with its own postoffice, Mr. Reuse threw open the most accurately kept set of farm books I have ever seen. Here are some extracts copied from the accountant's story in figures of the way Joe Reuse cuts down his labor to prevent losses.

In 1917, for example, the Insull farm contained 1,213 acres and it took fifty-seven men to run the place, averaging fifty-six acres to the man. Last year there were 4,231 acres to handle, and with much more land the work was done by forty men, who took care of an average of 104 acres per man. Then, too, the proportion of cultivable land on the farm today is much greater than it was in 1917. These figures include cooks, cattle feeders, dairymen, horsemen, blacksmith, poultry man, tractor drivers, teamsters, and ordinary field men.

Cutting Down on Labor.

Another extract from the bookkeeper's story shows that it took 120 persons to handle the twenty-four farms when they were run separately by twenty-four farmers and their families, while today the same land is handled by an average of forty men and women.

The present price of farm products forces farmers to work for a low wage. According to Mr. Reuse, farmers in this part of the country are working for about 10 to 15 cents an hour, as they have been doing for many years. He works on the theory that men who do the work on a farm should be paid as much as the man in the city, but with crops and live stock selling as they do now, there is little or nothing left with which to pay a decent wage.

Mr. Reuse says it is a false idea to think the farmer gets his living for nothing on the farm. A man getting $60 a month in cash costs Hawthorn farm $125 a month, the extra being for food and other things furnished. The cost is about the same whether men are married or single.

"The forty persons on Hawthorn farm today are getting more than twice as much for their work as the 120 got," said Mr. Reuse. "Our men get 60 cents an hour and the farmers who owned the farms before Mr. Insull bought them were getting from 10 to 15 cents an hour. I could go around to our men today and get $10,000 to $12,000 of their savings to invest for them in securities, while the original farmers who owned this land had that many notes instead of savings."

Wages on the Insull farm have increased about 58 per cent since 1917. The average yearly wage per man on the farm last year was $1,410. The wage operating cost per acre in 1915 was $9.58, while last year it was $13.24.

Mr. Reuse keeps a herd of 49 Brown Swiss pure bred and grade cows in the dairy and breeds a few Suffolk Punch horses, but the chief work is the raising of grain and the feeding of beef cattle, hogs, and sheep. Last year's crop included barley, 1,069 acres; corn, 502; oats, 466; alfalfa, 343; clover, 84; permanent pastures of red top, timothy, rye grasses, and blue grass, 365; and idle land (summer fallow), 123 acres. There are also 975 acres of woods and pasture, 143 acres of orchard and grounds for buildings, and 125 acres rented.

Another indication of Mr. Reuse's labor saving methods is found in his lineup of machinery. Originally the twenty-four farmers, for instance, had 20 binders, 20 grain drills, and 24 mowers, and today the work is handled with 6 binders, 3 grain drills, and 5 or 6 mowers. With one tractor drawing five or six mowers with 6 and 7 foot bars, a swath of more than 30 feet wide is cut in one run across the field.

Style Is Dispensed With.

Horses shod and bitted with gold are not to be found on the Insull farm. All the harness, machinery, and equipment in general is the kind found on the average farm. It is not the kind found on many multimillionaires' places, where hours are spent in polishing brass harness buckles and painting fancy signs on the trucks and wagons to advertise the farm. Machinery is overhauled every winter; tractors, plows, and planters are patched and are ready for use when spring planting season opens.

Both horses and tractors are used on the farm, wherever they fit into the work most economically and practically. Originally there were 140 horses on the farm, but today, with 13 tractors to do much of the field work, only 22 horses are used, mostly in winter feeding work.

Wherever labor saving methods can be used they are put into practice. Special hitches are used on wagons and harvesting machinery. Sixteen empty wagons are drawn at one time over the farm during the thrashing season with one tractor. One tractor pulls six loads of hay at a time. Fourteen foot special drills are used. Two men with a tractor and a fourteen foot drill seed 52 acres of barley in a single day.

Soil Fertility Is Average.

The fertility of the land on Hawthorn farm is about the average for that section of the state, producing during the last two years the following averages per acre: Oats, 32 bushels; barley, 26 bushels; corn silage, 4 tons; hay, 2 tons. These yields are far from the highest produced on the farm during the last few years, but they include a crop harvested in a bad year and another one harvested in a good year.

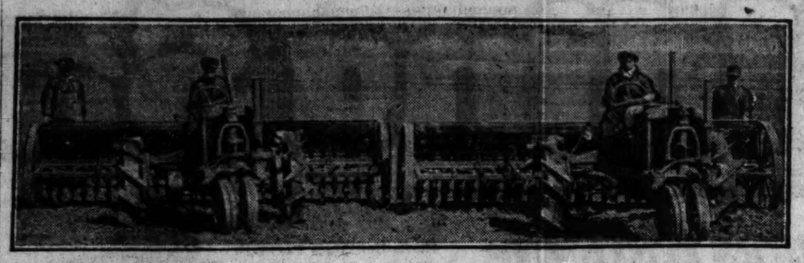
Hawthorn farm was bought at an average of about $254 an acre, and, according to Mr. Reuse, it is valued today at $1,500 an acre.

So long as prices for farm products remain as they are today there would be less money lost on this farm if all the gates were locked and the land left to grow up in weeds and grass.

Crops grown last year were valued at $67,767 and the labor bill was $67,379, where men were paid a wage comparable with factory wages. The bulk of the crop was fed to cattle, at a loss. Hogs made money.

Despite the fact that Hawthorn farm's herd had the three highest record cows in the Lake County Improvement association last year, the dairy lost about $200 a month.

SAVING TIME AND MEN.



SPECIAL GRAIN DRILLS USED TO CUT EXPENSES ON HAWTHORN FARM.—These four men drill 104 acres of barley a day with the two tractors and the two fourteen foot drills shown in the picture. The drills never stop from the time they go into the field until quitting time, or the seeding is completed, except to throw on sacks of grain. The hoppers are filled while the drills are running. These special drills and other labor saving devices are used on Hawthorn farm, owned by Samuel Insull of Chicago, to cut production costs in an unsuccessful effort to make farming pay.

Now comes planting time with its challenge to your judgment

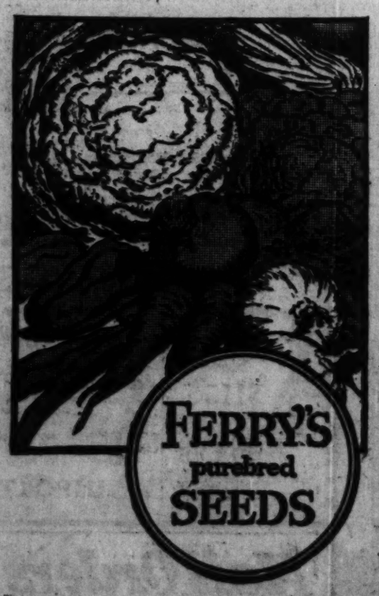
EVERYTHING is all ready. Your soil is in shape. You have made up your mind what you want to grow. Your hopes are high—you want a garden that will pay you for every bit of work and money you put in it.

One thing remains to be done. Seeds must be bought. It is an important moment, for those packets of seeds which you can hold in your hand and carry in your pocket are this year's garden. Be sure you know about those seeds—their ancestry—their reputation.

Choose Ferry's purebred Seeds. They come from a long line of fine ancestors whose history we know. You can plant them with faith that they will produce an abundance of vegetables and flowers ideal in size, shape and color. For many years we have been growing, weeding out, perfecting and testing. After every harvest more extensive trials are made at our experimental gardens than anywhere else in the United States to determine that Ferry's purebred Seeds are true to type.

Don't take chances with seeds of unknown history when you can get seeds like Ferry's purebred Seeds. For "blood will tell" in the garden just as it "tells" in the great stock farms where cattle are raised for profit.



It's easy to find Ferry's purebred Seeds. A complete assortment of both flower and vegetable seeds—clean and tested—are in the familiar Ferry Box "at the store around the corner." Go there today and make your selections. Thousands of successful gardeners all over the country are doing just that now with confidence that comes from years of experience.

If you want to know the complete line of Ferry's purebred Seeds, send for Ferry's Seed Annual. It is free, and in addition to the seed, information are many valuable garden hints. Write for Ferry's Seed Annual now. D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich.; San Francisco, Cal.; Windsor, Ont.

BELL-COTE

An Amazing New Finishing Process for Your CAR

IF you want your car to look like new, at the same time cutting its depreciation almost in half, then read this news about BELL-COTE—a finer finish for your car. BELL-COTE is not just paint; it is a special combination of materials, scientifically formulated, plus a method of applying the coat which is strictly our own process. Rain or shine, it remains the same. Diamond-like in hardness, scratch-proof! Mud, dust, dirt, grease and oil come off easily, leaving no after-marks. Investigation will convince you!

Consider These 6 Points When Refinishing Your Car

1. Scientifically Tested—BELL-COTE is the result of years of study of automobile surfaces. It has been tested scientifically and practically.

2. Will Not Check, Chip or Scratch—Bumps and rough usage will not hurt BELL-COTE. Oil and grease cannot hurt it in any way.

3. Does Not Show Dust—Maintains a rich satin-like luster; dust chemicals will not change it.

4. Withstands All Weather Conditions—Does not fade or change color under burning sun. Sub-zero weather or drenching rain, BELL-COTE remains the same.

5. Costs No More—Although this superior service can be bought only at our plant we do not charge a premium. You will be surprised at the reasonable price.

6. Fully Guaranteed—We guarantee satisfaction in every way.

Write, Phone or Call

If you own a car of any type body we will completely refinish it, including all metal work, body dents, top and cushion repairs and custom made seat covers. Butcher grades of hogs, which comprised the bulk of offerings, and in lowest light weights sold weak to lower in yesterday's short week-end session, forcing the general average price down to $11.80, the lowest in over a month and 35c under the close of the previous week.

Fancy light and pigs were scarce and held firm to slightly higher, top 10-lb averages moving up 5c at $13.85, against $14.25 earlier in the week. Light pigs reached $14.25. Bulk of 275@300 lb butchers brought $11.25@11.85 with prime 270 lb averages occasionally up to $11.60 on shipping account. Fancy 220 lb averages reached $12.60. Common rough "packers" sold down to $10.25. Receipts were estimated early at 4,000, but with about 1,200 hogs in double decks, the supply was expected to reach 5,000.

Hogs Receipts Small.

Despite the fact that last week's hog receipts at 151,200 were second smallest since the first week of last November and the estimated average weight at 242 lbs lighter than recent weeks, the average price of hogs was pounded down to $13.00, the lowest since week ending Jan. 16. The average weight, however, is heavier than usual for this time of year, comparing with 228 lbs. the corresponding week a year ago and 231 lbs., two years ago. The week's average price stands 35c under the previous week and $3.46 lower than a year ago, but $4.79 higher than two years ago and $2.15 above the five year average.

Weakness prevailed in the cattle market throughout last week, with sharp losses recorded on several sessions. Medium and weighty steers of good to choice quality were more plentiful and suffered most in the price slashing, closing mostly 50c under a week ago, with spots off even more comparing extremes. Kinds worth $8.50 and under showed mostly 25c decline.

With the exception of Monday, when 1,275@1,292 lb steers brought $10.85 and $11.00, best steers stopped at $10.50. General average price dropped to $9.45, lowest since the first week in January and 40c under the previous week. Receipts at 64,200 were second largest of the year.

Lamb Prices Decline.

A lower range of prices, together with the fact that a larger proportion of lambs arrived without fleece, forced the general average price of lambs down to $13.15 last week, the second lowest since June of last year and $2.80 lower than the corresponding week a year ago. Wool lambs finished about steady, with shorn off 50c@$1.00. Aged wool sheep were steady and shorn 25c lower. Wool yearlings brought last week's prices, while shorn slumped 50c during the week. Shearing lambs off 25@50c. Top wool lambs last week, $14.50; shorn, $11.50; shearing lambs, $14.00; top ewes, $3.00; wethers, $10.00.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 22,000 cattle, 50,000 hogs, and 20,000 sheep, against 25,217 cattle, 49,289 hogs, and 24,811 sheep a week ago, and 16,237 cattle, 50,533 hogs, and 19,659 sheep the corresponding day a year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 55,000 cattle, 180,000 hogs, and 85,000 sheep, against 64,691 cattle, 127,529 hogs, and 79,598 sheep a year ago.

GRAINS SUFFER SHARP DECLINES FOR THE WEEK

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation by longs in May wheat carried that delivery down to $1.56¼, or 3¾c under the finish on Friday and 16½c under the top figure on Thursday. Houses that usually act for a leading eastern trader were aggressive sellers, millions of bushels of wheat being put into the pit, but the market showed considerable resistance to pressure and rallied around 1½c from the low point and the finish was at a net loss of 2¼c at $1.57⅝ to $1.57⅝. Deferred deliveries were ⅛@⅞c lower with July $1.38⅛ to $1.38, and September $1.32⅝ to $1.32½.

May and September corn sold at a new low on the crop at the start on scattered liquidation, but the character of the buying was the best in some days, and May, after selling at 72⅜c, rallied to 74c, and closed there with a net gain of ½c, while other futures were ⅛@⅜c higher, the latter on September. July finished at 71⅛@77⅝c and September 79⅝@79¾c. All deliveries of oats sold at equal to the lowest figures of the season, only to rally with corn and close unchanged to ⅛c higher, with May 39⅝@39¾c and July 40¼c. Rye was ¾@1c higher, with May 96⅝c and July 88½c.

Grains Lower for Week.

General liquidation developed in all grains the last week, and while wheat fluctuated with extreme rapidity and there was an improvement in the foreign demand, the break in corn started local and eastern longs to selling, and the finish was at losses of 4¾@5½c as compared with the previous week. Corn was heavy the greater part of the week and broke into new low ground for the season, closing 3⅞@4¾c lower, while oats were 1⅛@1½c and rye 4½@5¾c lower for the week. Lard was 35@57½c, ribs 37½@45c, and bellies 40@42½c lower.

Unresponsible cables from Liverpool led to fair buying early, but long May wheat started to come out through eastern houses and the market broke sharply with numerous stop loss orders uncovered on the way down. The eastern line of wheat has been hanging over the market for a number of days and on the extreme decline some of the best sellers of recent days took the buying side to cover shorts and absorbed the offerings.

Winnipeg showed strength throughout the day and lost only ⅞@1⅛c. Liverpool finished 2@2¼d lower, and Buenos Aires was off 3¾c, the latter comparing with Thursday's finish with May $1.33 and June $1.40¾. Export demand at the seaboard was only fair with sales of around 500,000 bu in all positions, largely Manitobas. Favorable crop comments continue to come from the southwest.

Corn Gets Good Support.

Belated selling by scattered longs was responsible for the break in corn early, but the market had excellent support with evidence of short covering by some of the largest sellers of late and also by the pit element, and the upturn was easily attained.

TRADING IN GRAIN FUTURES

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

Export sales of Manitoba wheats late Friday and yesterday aggregated over 500,000 bu, including around 350,000 bu to Portugal, a cargo to Greece, and scattered lots to the United Kingdom and the continent. Norway paid 95c for rye for May shipment from Montreal, and Copenhagen, Germany, and Belgium were also said to have bought.

Chicago handlers sold 6,000 bu wheat, 44,000 bu corn, and 107,000 bu oats to the domestic trade.

Little change in cash wheat premiums was shown in leading markets. No. 2 red here was 10@11c and No. 2 hard 5@7½c over the May, but no sales were reported. Kansas City reported a fair demand for milling grades and a slow call for the poorer kinds.

Offerings of cash corn were only fair, with the basis here 1c lower to ½c higher, with No. 3 grades 2½@3c, No. 4 grades 0@0c, No. 5 grades 0@12c, and No. 6 grades 13½@14c under the May. Offerings to arrive were small. Outside markets were ½@3c lower.

Cash oats sold fairly, with the basis unchanged to ⅛c lower. No. 2 white brought ⅛@1c over and No. 3 white May price to ⅛c over.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Saturday: Wheat, 17 cars; corn, 171 cars; oats, 38 cars; rye, 7 cars; barley, 20 cars.

PRIMARY RECEIPTS LARGER

Primary receipts of grain last week aggregated 11,828,000 bu., an increase of 976,000 bu. over the previous week, and were 161,000 bu more than the year. As compared with the five year average there was a decrease of 1,047,000 bu. A feature of the week was the increase in receipts of wheat and oats, the details follow:

INCREASED TRADE IN LARD

Lowering of lard prices for a time in connection with a break in hogs and grains, brought in a lot of liquidation and stop order selling which was met by a good class of buying and a larger trade in futures. Closing sales were unchanged to 2½c higher on lard with short ribs off 17½c and bellies, which were offered more freely, lost 17½ to 27½c, the latter on May. Cash trade was moderate and shipments for the week larger of meats and smaller of lard than last year. Liverpool lard is 6 to 9d lower. Export clearances from the seaboard were 4,439,760 lbs of lard, and 37,500 lbs of bacon. Prices follow:

MOVIES, CHURCH, GARAGES SHARE BUILDING BOOM

BY HARPER LEECH.

With 1926 now well along in vigorous youth, it seems pretty well assured that the gloom mongers are all wrong again and the building "boom" again has proved to be no boom at all, but very much of a habit. Figures on building permits, floor space, barrels of cement, tons of brick, and sturctural steel are all very interesting, but after all what are the American people building?

Movie houses? Yes. This column recently recorded the fact that a seating capacity of 67,000 is now under way in Chicago. But the estimates of architects, as compiled by their technical journals, in forecasting the years' output of buildings show that we are building nearly twice as many churches as theaters. We will complete, too, something under 200,000 private garages this year, but the Architectural Forum has estimated that the number of private dwellings costing less than $10,000 will lrun close to 200,000. Nearly 5,000 schools of various size are going up.

Notwithstanding the abundance of industrial structures, which are supposed to have remained over from the war period, something like 10,000 new plants, large and small, are being erected.

The American building activity is the outstanding economic event of the postwar world. It was the pivot on which our industrial recovery swung. The lack of such private activity in Europe has been equally noticeable. Here we have had a minimum of legislation about building and housing; there every government has interfered, meddled, and botched things up. They have the legislation; we have the building. In view of the facts, clear as a bell, strong as words of Holy Writ, how account for the renewed effort to inject politics into the housing question?

Perhaps the answer may be found in the fact that the very facts are the incentive to disregard them.

The success of American caiptalism since the war was a mortal and personal affront to every socialistically minded pundit in the world, whether politician, writer, or welfarer.

Hell hath no fury like a prophet deflated. When the war broke out in 1914 and continued for four years, utterly disproving all the pacifist theses of our "little groups of serious thinkers," thousands of affronted intellectual vanities were created throughout the writing world. A very large part of the writing world became a writhing world. As soon as the armistice sounded many writers rushed back to their typewriters and framed fresh theories—proclaimed new plans for running the world.

"Capitalism brought on the debacle," they cried, "and capitalism never will be able to rebuild itself. The world now cries for necessities; capital wants profits; the maximum of profits are to be found in luxuries. Private enterprise will not provide what the world needs. The strong arm of the state must assume control and direct production into the channels which are socially necessary."

Their stuff sold well in Europe. Here, thanks to the blessings of a complicated and slow moving government, they didn't have their way, as a rule. So Americans have the necessities as well as the luxuries—the 200,000 houses worth less than $10,000 each among other things. What has Europe to show for its governmental efforts?

A Discussion of Real Estate Bonds and Diversification.

From time to time we have urged the importance of diversification of one's holdings—diversification as to type, geographical location and maturity.

In proportion to the extent to which one thus diversifies his investments the risk is distributed and the safety of his holdings as a whole is strengthened.

As we have said before, this is one of the essential features of sound investment.

Putting All Eggs in One Basket.

To put all one's eggs into one basket is hazardous, no matter how strong the basket may appear at the time. It is not the strength of the basket that counts. It is the unexpected misstep—the unforeseen obstacles that may later arise—that may cause the loss of all its contents.

Our mail indicates that a large number of investors either have lost sight of the importance of diversification, or are of the opinion that first mortgage real estate bonds are, for some reason, an exception to the rule.

A surprisingly large number of them have invested all their funds—frequently their life savings—in real estate mortgage bonds and often they are entirely secured on Chicago property.

They have been told that these are the safest form of investment—that it must be so because there is a constant demand for dwellings and offices—that the ground is always there and its value is bound to increase—that all wealth comes from the earth and a lot of other things, until they actually believe that a first mortgage real estate bond is the safest thing in the world to buy.

This is, of course, just as fallacious as to say that industrial bonds or public utility bonds or railroad bonds are safe.

Ask a holder of a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway general and refunding mortgage bond if railroad bonds are safe. He will tell you a very different story from the holder of an Illinois Central railroad bond.

To say that bonds of one type are safe is absurd. There are sound bonds in each type and there have been defaults and foreclosures in each type.

A bond is as safe only as the salable value of the property and the earnings on which its payment depends. A bond secured on unproductive property cannot be sound, for there is no income with which to pay its charges. The income must be sufficient at all times to cover all charges.

What Is Back of Real Estate Bond?

Let us consider briefly just what is in back of a first mortgage real estate bond that gives it an apparent reputation, as an entire class, for safety.

The value of the property on which it is secured must be such that in case of a forced sale it would bring a price sufficient to pay off all the bonds after any prior claims and expenses had been met.

The property must also be capable of earning all operating expenses and enough, beside, to pay interest and sinking fund charges and serial maturities on the bonds.

In order to consistently produce the requisite earnings, the building must be continually rented adequately near to capacity and the rentals must be sufficiently high.

While the demand for offices, dwellings, etc., was greater than the supply, there was little difficulty in filling the buildings with tenants and securing rentals sufficiently high.

What Happens if Overbuilding Occurs.

Suppose, however, that the buildings become so numerous that the available space exceeds the demand for it. What happens then? Vacancies, competition, the necessity of lowering rents in order to fill the buildings.

This means a shrinkage of income and a consequent lowering of the sale value of the property. Should the income shrink until it becomes inadequate to take care of the interest payments and service of the bonds, a default is likely.

It may then become necessary to foreclose the mortgage and sell the property in order to pay the bondholders. But the property will not have the same sale value that it had when it was capable of producing a large income—at the time when the bonds were issued. If it does not bring sufficient to pay off the bonds the bondholders must suffer loss.

Some cities are overbuilt now. At the rate buildings are springing up, Chicago may become so.

We are not alarmists and do not want to cause any unnecessary apprehension among bondholders. But we do want to correct the fallacy, where it exists, that all first mortgage real estate bonds are safe and to point out the necessity for diversification and the possible dangers attendant upon putting all one's eggs into one basket where the same cause adversely affecting one might affect all the others.

Real estate bonds are no exception. There are sound ones and there are unsound. Each must be judged on its own merits and just as carefully judged with an eye on the future as in the case of a bond of any other type.

SUGAR MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 20.—SUGAR—The market opened showing a steady tone, with general buying interest at 2 3-16c for Cubas and Porto Ricos, sellers' ideas being 2 7-32c. Sales of 10,000 bags Cubas were reported today to Warner, prompt shipment, at 2 3-16c. Later a sale was made to operators of 2,000 tons Philippines at 4.93c, equal to one point better than 2¼c c. f. for Cubas, and sale of 5,000 Porto Ricos to American first half April shipment at 2 3-16c. Actual raw sugar futures steady, closing at top prices for the day. Prices as wired to Lamborn & Co., Inc., follow:

Current assets were $2,306,623 and current liabilities $1,820,600, against current assets of $2,515,972 and current liabilities of $1,847,308 in the previous year.

VACUUM OIL.

The 1925 net profit was $24,280,091, after inventory, depreciation, federal tax, etc., against $17,403,834 in 1924.

The 1925 net equaled $9.73 a share, $25 par, on $62,199,950 stock, against 37.02 a share on $61,919,950 stock in 1924.

JEWEL TEA.

Sales for the first eight weeks of 1926 were $2,250,200, compared with $2,152,815 in the same period of 1925, increase of 4.48 per cent. For the same weeks average number of sales routes were 1,061 in 1926 and 1,027 in 1925, an increase of 3.31 per cent.

A. G. SPALDING & BROS.

The net income for 1925 was $161,957, after depreciation, interest and federal tax, equal, after preferred dividends, to $13.05 a share on 59,822 common shares, against $1,081,685, or $13.03 a share on 53,133 shares, in 1924.

KELLOGG SWITCHBOARD AND SUPPLY.

The 1925 net earnings were $667,319, after interest, depreciation and taxes, equal to $2.63 a share, against $906,478, or $3.22 a share, in 1924.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE.

The corporation reports for the year ended Dec. 31, 1925, net profits of $1,348,796, after depreciation, but before interest and taxes, compared with $905,737 in the preceding year. After deducting interest on the debentures outstanding and taxes, the net was equal to $9.65 a share on the 100,000 shares of preference stock outstanding.

RAILROAD EARNINGS

CHICAGO, BURLINGTON AND QUINCY.

For 1925 net income was $21,184,593, after all deductions, excepting sinking fund provisions, equal to $12.40 a share on $170,839,100 capital stock, according to President Hale Holden. This compares with $21,899,829 net, or $12.82 a share, in 1924. After sinking fund depreciations and dividends the Burlington in 1925 had a surplus of about $3,800,000, against $4,522,153 in 1924.

NICKEL PLATE.

The railroad reports for February a net income of $838,736 after all charges, an increase of $336,174, compared with the corresponding month last year. For the first two months of the present year the company reports a net income of $1,318,770, an increase of $488,029, compared with the corresponding period last year.

New York, March 20.—[AP]—Selling pressure was renewed in today's brief session of the stock market, but except in the motors and a few industrial specialties, particularly the high priced issues, it encountered stronger resistance. Total sales were 865,400 shares.

Hudson was the target of another bear attack, being hammered from an early high of 99⅝ to a new 1926 low at 91¼, closing at 92, for a net loss of 4¾ points on the day and over 17 points on the year. General Motors was hammered down to 121⅛, but snapped back to 122¼, off ⅛ net. Jordan recovered an early loss of over 1 point and Mack Trucks closed fractionally higher at 115½, after having touched 118 early in the session.

Oil Shares Move Up.

With the exception of General Petroleum, which closed a point lower at 62 on profit taking, most of the oil shares moved to higher ground. An extreme gain of 1¾ points in Standard Oil of New Jersey and a 2 point gain in Barnsdall A were among the features.

A rather thin market developed for some of the high priced industrial specialties. General Electric broke 6¼ points to 308¾, closing at the bottom. Du Pont fell nearly 7 points to 210, a new low for the year, and then rallied to 212. Woolworth toppled over 5 points to a new low at 161½ and then rebounded to 163.

The strong underlying buying support appeared for some issues led to rather extensive short covering in some industrial shares. Allied Chemical, American Can, California Packing, and Postum Cereal were among the many active issues to show net gains of a point or more.

Rails Quiet and Firm.

Trading in the rails was rather quiet, but moderate gains were recorded by the St. Paul issues, Atlantic Coast Line, Louisville and Nashville, Union Pacific, and Erie first preferred.

Prices of most of the active bond issues drifted fractionally lower, but enough buying was aroused elsewhere to hold the general list fairly steady. Skelly Oil 5s rebounded 3½ points and most of the Chicago issues advanced a point or so. Seaboard Air Line first 4s broke almost 1 points and the 6s declined about a point. Chicago and Alton, Northwestern, Erie, Delaware and Hudson, Denver and Rio Grande, and Frisco showed an easier tendency. A slump in the Third Avenue adjustment 5s was offset by quiet in the refunding 4s. Chicago Railways is touched a new low level for the year at 71 but subsequently rallied.

U. S. Loans and Deposits Drop.

Contraction in loans and deposits is shown in the weekly report of the New York clearing house banks—the result probably of the liquidation of stocks by borrowers and payment of federal taxes. Total loans, discounts and investments decreased $13,227,000. Net demand deposits fell off $20,421,000, and—time deposits $1,358,000. Surplus reserve decreased $15,961,000 to $11,134,680. Loans, discounts, etc., total $5,314,612,000; net demand deposits, $4,363,020,000; time deposits, $566,361,000, and aggregate reserve, $597,534,000.

Foreign exchange held steady in quiet trading. Demand sterling was quoted around $4.85⅝, and French francs just above yesterday's low of 3.53 cents. Polish zloty rallied 25 points to 12.75 cents. Other changes were largely nominal.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE

Louisville and Nashville, Union Pacific, and Erie first preferred.

Prices of most of the active bond issues drifted fractionally lower, but enough buying was aroused elsewhere to hold the general list fairly steady. Skelly Oil 5s rebounded 3½ points and most of the Chicago issues advanced a point or so. Seaboard Air Line first 4s broke almost 1 points and the 6s declined about a point. Chicago and Alton, Northwestern, Erie, Delaware and Hudson, Denver and Rio Grande, and Frisco showed an easier tendency. A slump in the Third Avenue adjustment 5s was offset by quiet in the refunding 4s. Chicago Railways is touched a new low level for the year at 71 but subsequently rallied.

U. S. Loans and Deposits Drop.

Contraction in loans and deposits is shown in the weekly report of the New York clearing house banks—the result probably of the liquidation of stocks by borrowers and payment of federal taxes. Total loans, discounts and investments decreased $13,227,000. Net demand deposits fell off $20,421,000, and—time deposits $1,358,000. Surplus reserve decreased $15,961,000 to $11,134,680. Loans, discounts, etc., total $5,314,612,000; net demand deposits, $4,363,020,000; time deposits, $566,361,000, and aggregate reserve, $597,534,000.

Foreign exchange held steady in quiet trading. Demand sterling was quoted around $4.85⅝, and French francs just above yesterday's low of 3.53 cents. Polish zloty rallied 25 points to 12.75 cents. Other changes were largely nominal.

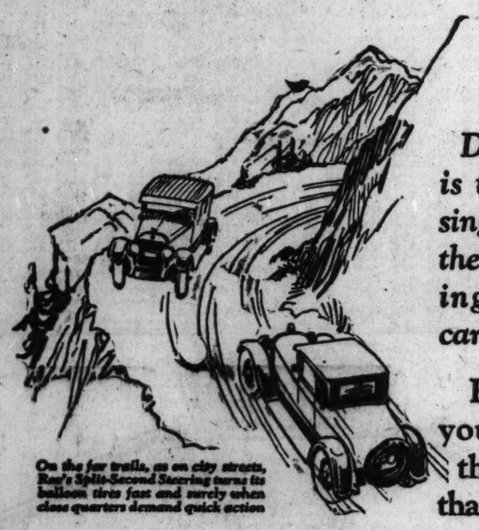
Reo Puts Back Into Your Pocket, Money That Others Wear Out On the Road



On the far trails, as on city streets, Reo's Split-Second Steering turns its balloon tires fast and surely when close quarters demand quick action

Depreciation is the largest single item in the cost of owning a motor car.

Reo saves you more of that expense than others do.

Depreciation isn't a spectacular expense because it doesn't come out of your pocket day by day in cash.

But some day, every car is re-sold or traded in, and the difference between its original cost and resale value represents the expense of depreciation . . . the largest single item of motor car expense.

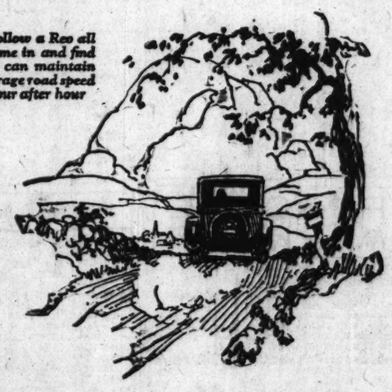
On that re-sale day, however, Reo puts back into the pockets of its owner, money that others wear out on the road.

Here Are the Facts

Take the present-day prices of models of the same type and of about the same original price built in the years 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923 and 1924, averaged for the entire United States.

That's fair because it bases used car values on the average car and not on picked cars that may have received extraordinary care or been maintained at excessive cost.

Consider the three cars in Reo's price class whose average re-sale value most nearly represents as much of the original



Ever try to follow a Reo all day long? Come in and find out why Reo can maintain such high average road speed hour after hour after hour price remaining after years of use as remains in a Reo. Lump all the years together to get a composite picture . . . that saves your time.

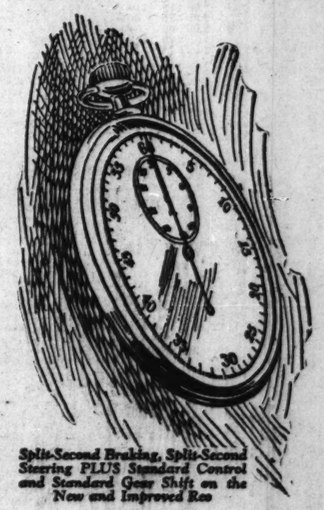
And the Figures

The percentage of original value remaining in this average Reo is 29.04% higher than the average of that left in the other three cars.

Car by car, over this period, the Reo percentage of original value remaining is 137.65% of that of one car; 108.25% of another; 141.22% of the third.

That means far higher re-sale prices. A Reo puts back into the pockets of its owner, money that others wear out on the road.

And these, of all the cars in its price class, most nearly equal Reo in saving to their owners part of the largest single expense of owning an automobile.



Split-Second Braking, Split-Second Steering PLUS Standard Control and Standard Gear Shift on the New and Improved Reo

Come In and See the New Reo

Examine for yourself, the construction that defeats depreciation, that makes a Reo last longer and cost less than other cars.

Then, too, it's very good looking and most comfortable to drive.

See It . . . Then try it out for yourself.

Plan Seventeen Story Apartments for Lincoln Park West

CHICAGO LABOR GIVEN CHANCE TO OWN HOMES

Loan Association Is Organized.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Launched several weeks ago under the supervision of the Chicago building trades executives, the home building financing of the Illinois Federation corporation has been extended to include all units of the local trades union movement, Charles M. Paulsen, president of the new building and loan company, announced last night.

Mr. Paulsen said it was the original plan of the company to confine its activities within the ranks of the various Chicago building organizations. He pointed out that since it was decided to enlarge the business activities of the home financing corporation several units of the local labor movement have become interested in the plans. These include the metal trades council and the flat janitors' and the meat cutters' unions.

Makes First Loan.

It was announced at the offices of the Illinois Federation corporation that the company's first loan was made last week to A. E. Burton, who is building a bungalow at 6776 Ionia street, on the northwest side. B. J. Bruns is the architect.

The loan amoutned to $7,000, and according to Burton the construction costs of the bungalow will amount to $12,500.

"Plans for financing home building for wage earners have been under consideration by the Building Trades council for more than a year," Mr. Paulsen explained.

"All angles and phases of home financing were taken up and discussed fully by officials of the trades council. When we saw the way clear to launch the building and loan company we did so, realizing its beneficial effect on the local labor movement.

Give Low Interest Rates.

"Under our plans any wage earner can obtain a loan to the extent of 66 2-3 of the value of the home he wants to erect. The money is let at rates of interest slightly lower than those prevailing at banking institutions.

"In making a loan we specify that construction shall be done on a 100 per cent union basis. The rules and bylaws of the Illinois Federation corporation make it mandatory for all its officers and members of the board of directors to be members of the local trade union movement in good standing."

Mr. Paulsen said the purpose of the federation is:

1. To encourage thrift among trade unionists.
2. To provide a safe place for investing savings by monthly payments.
3. To encourage building by union labor, thereby avoiding strikes.
4. To loan funds with a written contract with borrower which provides for employment of union labor only.

Time for New Pacts.

The Illinois Federation corporation is capitalized at $550,000. According to Paulsen, it is intended to increase this amount until the $10,000,000 mark is reached, when larger construction will be financed.

The question of making new agreements in Chicago's building industry is a serious one, according to Edward M. Craig, secretary of the Building Construction Employers' association. New wage and working pacts for local building workers will be made, it is said, between now and the first of June.

The builders' secretary asserted the matter of agreement making is not only serious to contractors, but to the building public and the thousands of men who depend upon it for a livelihood. Mr. Craig said it must be borne in mind that the building public is the employer of both contractor and building workers, thereby being entitled to first call upon the sympathies and interest of both employer and employé.

Mr. Craig pointed out that both the contractor and building worker should consider agreement making with due consideration for the building public and not incite the real employer to stop construction and delay the onward progress of the city.

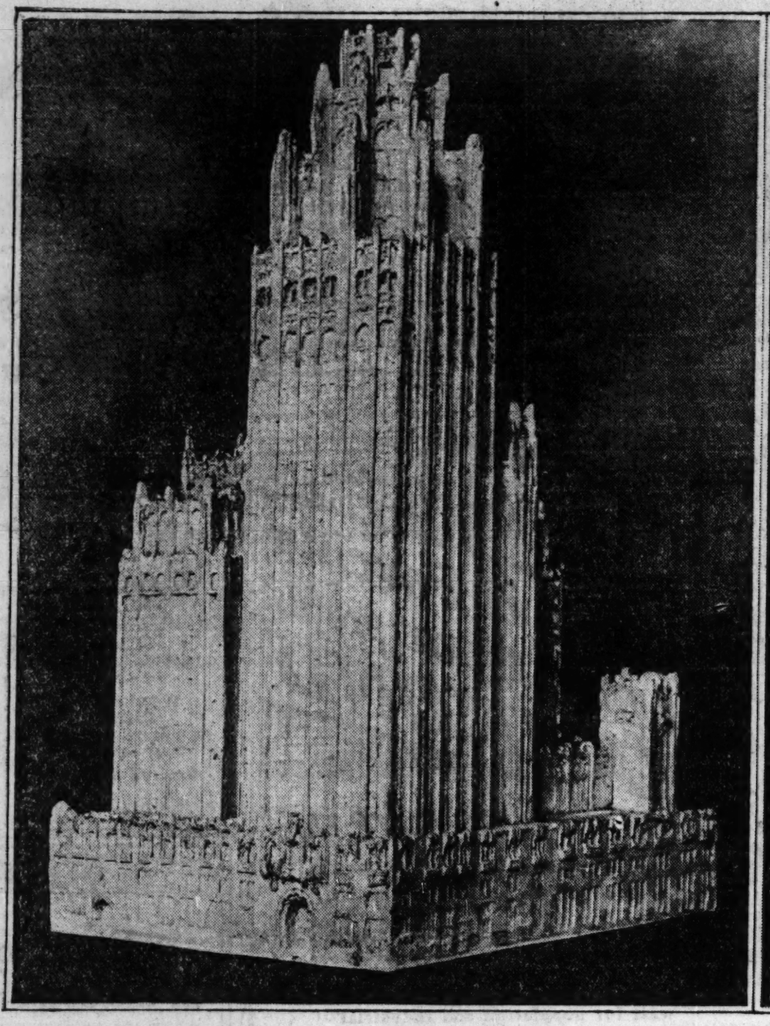
MATTHEWS WILL GIVE ADDRESS ON TORRENS SYSTEM

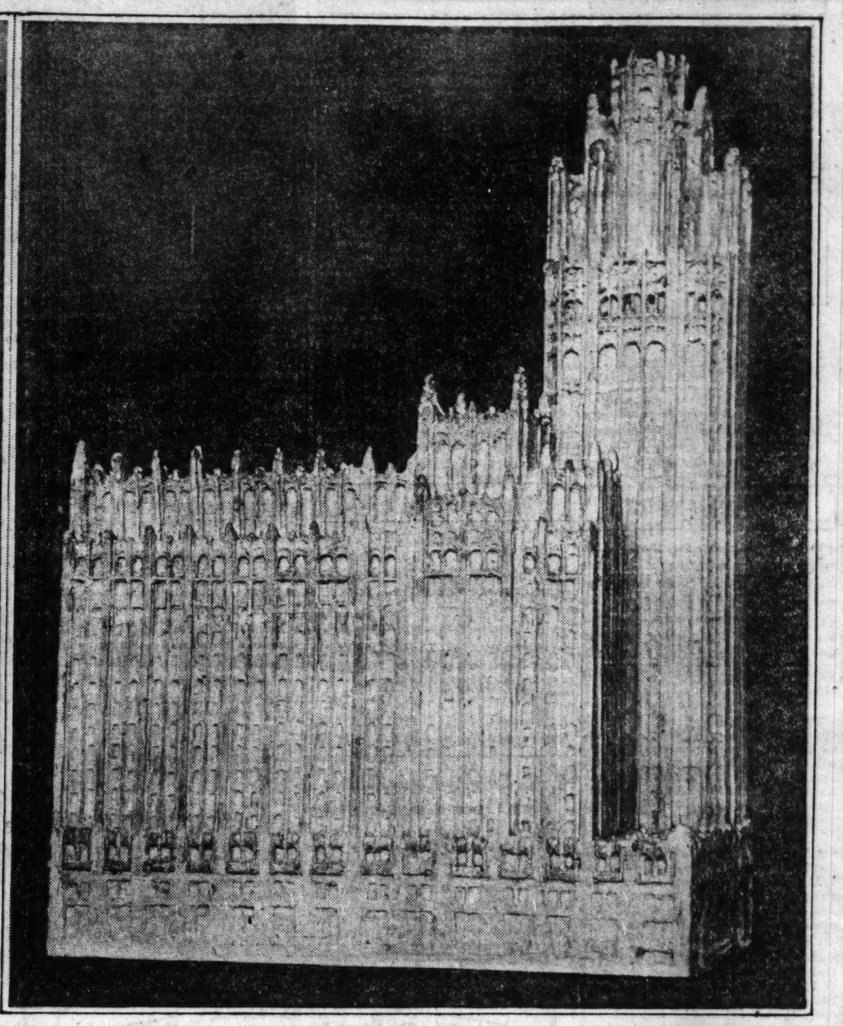
Immediatey after James G. Skinner, the instructor, finishes the law class in the Cook county real estate board's rooms at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening all the members of the class will receive a practical demonstration of the workings of the Torrens system of land registration in the Torrens office. J. Scott Matthews, chief examiner of titles, will take the class through the various departments and will give a practical demonstration of each step necessary in filing instruments and making transfers of registered property.

Fred W. Grapperhaus Will Address Realty Class

Fred W. Grapperhaus will speak on "How to Sell Apartments and Business Property" before the members of the real estate practice class of the Chicago Real Estate board at the college of commerce of the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening, March 23. There will be a class in real estate finance on Thursday evening, March 25. Harold E. Krumrine will speak on long term leases.

TRIBUNE'S READERS NECESSITATE THIS BUILDING





So rapidly has the circulation of The Tribune increased that already the capacity of the huge edifice on Michigan avenue has been outgrown. To meet the demands for space for more printing presses, work has been started on a building of which little will be seen for some time. There are to be three basements and a pressroom floor with a temporary roof level with Michigan avenue. The cost of this substructure will be $1,000,000. But eventually there is to be a superstructure towering seventeen floors above the boulevard. The architects, Messrs. Howells and Hood, who won the $50,000 award for the Tower design, have planned the new edifice, which will be in architectural harmony with the parent building. It is estimated that the north wing will cost $6,000,000. The north building will be set back forty feet from Michigan avenue and will be joined to the east wall of the Tower. The picture at the right shows how the new structure will look when viewed from the north. That at the left represents a view from the southwest. More is told about this project in the general news columns of this paper.

SITE SECURED NEAR WEBSTER AND PARKWAY

To Be Sold on Co-op 100% Basis.

Insurance news of the week will be found on page 4 of this section.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Lincoln Park West, a thoroughfare apparently destined to be lined its full mile length with skyscraping hotels and apartment buildings, is scheduled for another tall structure—a $1,300,000 seventeen story de luxe co-op flat building, designed by Oman & Lilienthal. The site is between Webster and Garfield avenues, half way between the Parkway and Webster hotels.

Work is expected to start about May 1, with completion date set for next spring. The property will be called the Lincoln Park West apartments, and according to the architects will be about the smartest thing in Chicago co-ops.

Roof Chicken Coops Barred.

The building will be of tapestry brick, with considerable Bedford stone trim—in fact, the exterior of the first three floors will be entirely of that material. Instead of leaving the roof penthouses to be housed in an assorted collection of chicken coops, as most of our local architects still insist on doing, Oman & Lilienthal have grouped all roof structures in one architectural unit, blending it into the main building architectural ensemble.

The building will have two apartments on each floor above the first. One will have seven rooms and three baths, in addition to a breakfast room and gallery; the other will have six rooms, etc.

In addition there'll be chauffeur's quarters, engineer's apartment, the usual laundry and utilitarian requirements, also ten individual maids' rooms as well as storage room for each apartment.

Walls to Be Soundproof.

The apartments are to be separated by double partitions of hollow tile and insulated against the transmission of sound.

Each apartment will be equipped with a telephone connection installed in a special telephone booth and connected with an extension from the master's rooms and butler's pantry. A complete intercommunicating telephone system will be installed in addition.

"Y" Building Student Home on West Side

Chicago's great medical and professional school center on the west side, called the largest district of its kind in the world, is shortly to have a ten story Y. M. C. A. building for the exclusive use of its students. Work is already under way on the building, which will be located at the northwest corner of Congress and Wood streets. Completion is set for December.

The first floor will contain a gymnasium, three handball courts, four shops, and a mechanical plant. On the second floor are to be a large cafeteria, three clubrooms, men's lounges, offices, a locker room, showers, and a spectators' gallery for the gymnasium.

Of Colonial Design.

From the third to the tenth floors there will be 365 student rooms, each equipped with a clothes closet. Every floor is to have an elaborately fitted lavatory.

The exterior of the building will be of cut stone to the third floor. Above the third floor it will be of red brick and stone. Berlin & Swern are the architects. The design is called colonial in feeling, and it is in harmony with the other buildings in the Y. M. C. A. expansion program. The structure will be the first of its type ever to be erected by the Y. M. C. A.

Will Cost $750,000.

The cost of the building is to be $750,000. Students in the district raised $50,000 and the faculty men $150,000. Dr. Truman W. Brophy, president of the Chicago College of Dental Surgery, gave $50,000 which started the project.

The chairman of the committee of management is Dr. Channing W. Barrett. L. V. Hollister is the executive secretary.

JAS. P. MARSH CO. LEASES BUILDING ON SOUTHPORT AV.

The Justrite Manufacturing company has leased to the James P. Marsh company the four story mill building at 2073-81 Southport avenue for ten years at a term rental of $160,000. The Marsh company manufactures steam valves and gauges. Paul C. Loeber & Co. were brokers.

Republic Realty Company Increases Its Resources

The Republic Realty Mortgage corporation announces that it has increased its capitalization to approximately $600,000 and that the firm now has assets approximating $1,000,000. Robert B. Beach, executive vice president, states that with its increased resources it will be able to finance a greater number of homes and other building operations.

FOR EDUCATIONAL CENTER

The Y. M. C. A. is erecting a ten story building, to cost $750,000, at the northwest corner of Congress and Wood streets, for the exclusive use of the students of Chicago's great medical and professional school center on the west side. This section is called the largest educational district of its kind in the world. Berlin & Swern are the architects for the building, which is to be completed in December. More is told about this project in this department.

Two Eastern Companies Will Establish Plants in City

Announcement was made last week that two large eastern concerns have decided to establish plants in the Clearing Industrial district of Chicago. And for those whose knowledge of the city is confined only to their own home locality and that somewhat urban district known as the loop, it might be well to know that the Clearing area is a huge manufacturing section of 600 acres bounded by 65th and 67th streets and Cicero and Harlem.

The Clearing area now contains about fifty-five manufacturing plants which occupy 300 acres; so a half of this section is still to be developed.

Plant to Cost $100,000.

One of the concerns to enter the district is the Foster Bolt and Nut Manufacturing company of Cleveland, O. This firm has leased for twenty years 70,000 square feet of ground at 6231-51 West 65th street. This property is now being improved with two one story buildings totaling 35,000 square feet of space, which are to cost approximately $100,000.

In addition the company secured an option to buy 70,000 additional square feet of ground space for future expansion, and it is understood that a large plant will be erected later. The firm manuacturers bolts and nuts. One of the important factors in bringing the concern to Chicago was the growing advantages now possessed by the city in the iron and steel field as a result of the abolition of Pittsburgh plus.

Hart & Whetston of Chicago represented the purchaser.

Coming from New Jersey.

The other concern to establish a plant here is the Lock Joint Pipe company of Ampere, N. J. This firm has leased 285,000 square feet of ground with an option to purchase and an additional option to purchase 150,000 square feet of ground adjacent.

The company will immediately establish facilities for the manufacture of its regular line of concrete water and sewer pipe. The J. H. Van Vlissingen company were the brokers representing the lessees.

$1,300,000 32 FLAT BUILDING

Oman & Lilienthal, architects and engineers, designed the above seventeen story apartments, to be erected at 2130-32 Lincoln Park West. Charles Morgan made the above rendering. More is told of this project in a nearby column.

Metropolitan Life Takes Over "Vista Homes" Loan

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company has taken over the entire $1,200,000 loan on the seventeen story cooperative apartment building, costing $2,500,000, known as the "Vista Homes," being erected on Stony Island avenue, just north of the Midway. This deal was negotiated by the real estate department of the Chicago Trust company.

24 Apartment Building on Ingleside Sold for $155,000

Julius N. Heldman bought from Sophia Cahn the twenty-four apartment building at 5417-23 Ingleside avenue, on a site 100x175, for a reported $155,000, subject to $81,200. Mrs. C. E. Howard represented both parties as broker.

BUILDING PERMITS AT NILES LEAP FROM $0 TO $215,000 IN YEAR

Members of the chamber of commerce of Niles Center, the baby among Chicago's suburbs, saw some figures in THE TRIBUNE last Sunday regarding building volume in nearby towns. So they give some figures regarding their own town. In January, 1925, the building permits were valued at $0. In February, 1925, the $0 had jumped to $37,000. In January, 1926, the value was $40,000 and in February, 1926, the permits were valued at $215,000. The chamber express the belief that by the end of the year $5,000,000 will be invested in Niles Center buildings.

Huyler's Plans Big Expansion for Chicago

Chicago is to be the western hub in a huge program of development which Huyler's Candy and Restaurant company now has under way. In Chicago alone there are to be twenty-five restaurants and shops in operation within two years.

Announcement to this effect was made yesterday by Irvin Fuerst of New York, president of Huyler's, and Rudolf S. Hecht, president of the board of directors. It will be remembered that a southern syndicate headed by Mr. Hecht, who is president of the Hibernia Bank and Trust company of New Orleans, last December bought Huyler's, for years one of the best known companies of its kind in America.

Chicago to Be Center.

The new program calls for wholesale development as well as enlarged retail activities. Chicago is to be the center for all the firm's operations in the region west of the Alleghenies. New stores are to be opened in Detroit, Cleveland, and other cities.

Chicago's position will require the establishment of a large headquarters here, and eventually a huge candy factory will be erected or purchased.

Mr. Fuerst and Mr. Hecht together with Meyer Eiseman of New Orleans, director in charge of real estate, have been conferring with S. Charles Iversen of Hibbard Porter & Brother, realtors, regarding locations for stores here, a number of which, it was stated, have already been agreed upon.

Choose Big Centers.

Mr. Iversen, who is in charge of the firm's real estate interests in Chicago, stated that stores are to be opened in all the main centers of the city and its suburbs. Locations are now under consideration in the Wilson avenue, Crawford and Madison and Halsted and 63d street districts as well as in some of the most important suburbs, like Evanston. There are to be more stores opened in the loop.

The treatment of the stores will be considered later. This, of course, will depend upon the size and location, but it was stated that there will be novel arrangements as in the case of the restaurant at 310 North Michigan boulevard which has the effect of an outdoor scene in a Spanish village.

At the present time Huyler's has three stores in Chicago and fifty-three in the country.

Apartment Building at 5124-28 Dorchester Sold

The fifteen apartment building at 5124-28 Dorchester avenue has been sold by Olga Byfield to Caroline J. Healy for a reported $110,000, subject to $54,000. Kyle & Bendfelt were brokers and Anderson & Anderson represented the purchaser.

EGYPTIAN DESIGN MOVIE THEATER FOR IRVING PARK

Have you ever gone to a moving picture theater in Egypt? Well, don't feel bad about it because Little Old Chicago is to have a cinema shortly which will be our idea of what a movie in the land of the Nile ought to be like.

Z. Erol Smith is the architect who designed this unusual and attractive theater block, to cost $1,250,000, which is to be located at the southeast corner of Irving Park boulevard and Central avenue. The theater will be called the Cairo and the design for both its exterior and interior was taken from a temple at Edfou, on the upper Nile.

The auditorium is to seat 3,200 and will have a most novel treatment. The ceiling is to be black and then there are to be huge columns covered with hieroglyphics.

The site, which measures 125 feet by 198 feet, recently was purchased by a syndicate for a reported $135,000, the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank taking title as trustee. O'Connor, Burke & McDonnell were brokers and will lease and handle the construction of the building. Work is scheduled to start in sixty days.

The rest of the structure will contain thirty apartments, nine offices, and ten stores. The building will be three stories high and fireproof.

PROVIDES SERIES OF ART LECTURES FOR HAMMOND SUBURB

Adjoining Hammond, Ind., is a suburb called Woodmar. And it is the wish of the inhabitants to give their town the same tone as is possessed by Evanston, Winnetka, and other north shore spots adjacent to Chicago. To help the idea along the Woodmar Realty company, of which Roscoe E. Woods is president, proposes to provide a series of lectures on the various phases of home making.

PIERRE BLOUKE (TRIBUNE Photo.)

These will be held in the Hammond Woman's club. The first will be on Friday, March 18, and will be delivered by Miss Marian Gheen on "The Beauty of Simplicity in the Home." At later dates Jens Jensen will speak on "Bringing Nature's Beauty to Our Homes" and Pierre Blouke will talk on "Residential Architecture."

THIS HOME COSTS $9,500; LOOKS LIKE A MILLION

Use Spanish Design to Get Maximum Beauty.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Houses in adaptation of the Spanish are becoming increasingly popular. But they are usually built along expensive lines.

This dwelling, designed by C. W. Lampe & Co., architects, 1602 Ashland block, Chicago, can be built at present day cost in the Chicago territory for approximately $9,500, which brings it down under the heading of moderate priced home. Its style and appearance, however, lift it to the level of much more elaborate homes.

In designing a small house there are three considerations which are fundamental.

One is the creating of an inferior which offers a sugestion of spaciousness. The avoidance of giving it a cooped-up aspect after it is finished. Here the sweep of living room, dining room, and terrace accomplishes the effect of space—always so vitally important in the five and six room home.

Privacy Is Considered.

Another consideration is that of exterior attractiveness. Making the outside of the small building at once artistic and distinctive. This again has been done here by fashioning the house in the Spanish style, which is essentially picturesque. No possible allegation can be brought against this structure that it is boxlike, stuffily conventional, stiffly commonplace.

The third consideration is to offer, through careful arrangement, as much privacy as possible to each room, keeping the bedrooms and kitchen as definitely detached as possible when they are all on one floor.

While here they are not as much isolated as in some small house plans, they are quite sufficiently removed for comfort. With the door shut from the living room into the center passage, the three rear rooms are definitely apart.

The construction of this house is of hollow tile with a rough texture of rough stucco exterior. Roof is asbestos shingles.

Interior Is Rough.

The interior finish is a rough sand finish plaster in all the rooms excepting the bathroom and the kitchen. Furthermore, the plastering has been returned around the jambs of all the windows, thereby eliminating the necessity of wood casings. This is also done at all the door openings and wood arches.

There is an unusual feature, too, in the living room ceiling, which is treated with heavy rafters and slopes up into the ridge of the roof. This allows ample light to penetrate into the room through the large windows on either side of the fireplace.

There is a certain ornamental fascination of a chimney which towers, as this one does, above the highest point of the roof and terminates in cleverly designed chimney pots.

Where chimney pots are used there should always be, if possible, a variation in size and height.

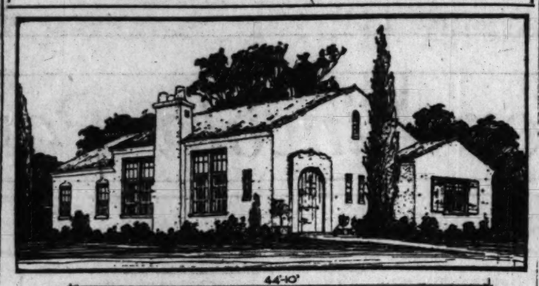
Has Casement Windows.

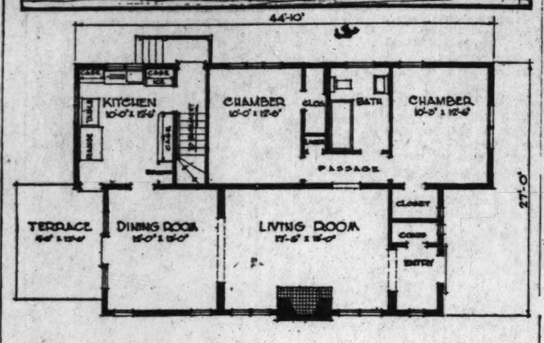
Full length casement windows and short casements are both used in the house. There are no double hung windows, which eliminates the dangers of combining the two; often done, to be sure. But where short casements and double hung windows are planned for the same house, exceedingly great care has to be exerted to avoid any incongruity.

Once a prospective owner realizes that he can have the same arrangement and number of rooms in a house which is attractive as in a house which is ugly; also the same pleasant distinction in one which is inexpensive as in one which is too costly to afford, he will be more inclined to or country residence. The general hasten his building and to see his dreams take actual form.

As it stands the house can be built on a thirty-five foot lot. This makes it suited to city as well as suburban overall measurements are 27x44 feet.

A House of Good Cheer





This small house is an excellent example of the picturesque Spanish type. Well balanced in its elements, the impression given is a restful one. Designed by C. H. Lampe & Co., architects, it can be built in Chicago territory at present day prices for $9,500.

At Madison and Crawford

Henry L. Newhouse designed the above building, to be erected at the southwest corner of Madison and Crawford, at a cost of $1,000,000, according to Mrs. C. F. Aaron, realtoress, who negotiated the purchase of the site for herself.

JESSE WAGNER WINS GLEN ELLYN 80 ACRE FOREST PRESERVE

JESSE R. WAGNER.
[Thomas Studio, Glen Ellyn.]

Glen Ellyn at last has secured its much sought forest preserve, or at least the Du Page county machinery has been set in motion whereby that much desired eighty acre tract is to be acquired. It's been a long and strenuous fight with several organizations and individuals at various times taking a hand, but THE TRIBUNE happens to know that it's been Jesse R. Wagner, village clerk of Glen Ellyn, who kept consistently hammering at the project and who personally put it over for the town.

The property extends from Crescent boulevard to the St. Charles road and is crossed by the eastern branch of the Du Page river. Part is heavily wooded and part open land. It lies between Lombard and Glen Ellyn, but the latter town, it is said, intends annexing the property.

The two properties to be purchased are the old Barnard farm and a third of the W. H. Churchill place. If the county's offer is refused condemnation proceedings will be started.

MADISON STREET STORES SOLD.

Mrs. Rose Jacobson bought from Joseph Abrahamson the three one story stores at 4225-29 Madison street for a $62,500.

FULLERTON AND CLARK ST. CORNER LEASEHOLD SOLD

An interesting transaction was concluded recently which involves one of the most prominent corners on the north side. Fred D. Mateer, a hotel man, sold to an undisclosed purchaser, for whom the Union Bank of Chicago took title, the ninety-nine year leasehold of the property at the northwest corner of Clark and Fullerton, 212x216, improved with a four story building containing thirty apartments.

The building was purchased, together with a ninety-nine year lease dated July 27, 1923, from Richard Heagany of Hartford, Ind., at a rental of $10,000 a year for five years; $11,000 a year for five years and $12,000 a year for eighty-seven years, the balance of the term. The total rental is $1,173,000.

The building was erected in 1894 by the Lehmann estate and is known as the Nordica apartments. Frankenstein & Co. represented all parties.

LEASES FOUR STORY BUILDING.

Joseph H. Servatius and Frederick E. Meibel have rented to the Chicago Apparatus company the four story building at 1735-43 North Ashland avenue for ten years at an aggregate rental of $120,000. Paul C. Loeber & Co. handled the deal.

BROKERS' NOTES

Robert McKnight, for the last five years publicity manager of the Central Manufacturing District of Chicago and Los Angeles and editor of the Central Manufacturing District Magazine, has been appointed director of publicity for Hinkamp & Co., real estate subdividers and developers, 1230 East 63d street.

Thomas R. Woulfe, well known in Chicago real estate circles, has formed an association with six associates and will conduct a general real estate business under the name of Tom R. Woulfe, Inc. The firm will have offices in rooms 1114-16 Bell building, 307 N. Michigan avenue. The phone is State 3086-87.

E. A. Hastings, who has been conducting the real estate business of the J. G. Upton company for the last four years, announces the change of the name to E. A. Hastings & Co. The offices are at 4403 Sheridan road.

George C. Bour & Co. have outgrown their old office, at the northeast corner of 71st street and Jeffery avenue, and have moved to larger quarters, four doors to the east on 71st street.

TO THE PUBLIC

Regret that necessity compels us to call the attention of Chicago Real Estate purchasers to the fact that all of our Huge Home Building operations are conducted on our own properties ONLY, thus creating Large Communities of people, and making our BUSINESS frontage very valuable for all classes of merchandising.

It has come to our notice that salesmen in VACANT LOT propositions in certain sections of Chicago, in order to induce sales and get higher prices (particularly for their business frontage, which possesses little value unless surrounded by a community of homes, as above referred to,) are informing prospective buyers that "Mills and Sons are about to undertake heavy Home-Building operations in THEIR neighborhood."

LOOP LAND SOLD ON CO-OP BASIS TO SMALL BUYERS

Ohio Idea at Last Gets to Chicago.

Cooperative ownership of loop real estate is now possible for the small investor as a result of the bringing to Chicago of the "land trust certificate" idea by Otis & Co. of Cleveland, O., where this method has been in vogue for fifteen years or more. Why our Chicago realtors have been sound asleep at the switch (that'll probably bring a roar from some firm which will insist it's old stuff) for fifteen years isn't exactly plain.

Anyway, with the recent offering of $1,750,000 "land trust certificates," representing ownership in the ground under the New York Life building, by Otis & Co. and Merrill, Lynch & Co., an interesting and apparently profitable and safe field is thrown open to the man or woman with as little as $1,000 to invest. It would seem that the smallest unit should be $100, the same as in stocks, but perhaps this would necessitate too much clerical work.

Tells of Plan.

Frank J. Allen, of Otis & Co., who has spent eighteen months in the Chicago district developing the land trust certificate idea in the Chicago market, tells about the plan.

"Investments in choice real estate located in the heart of our big cities have in the past been exclusively for the very large investor," said Mr. Allen.

"It's readily to be seen that the small investor with one, or five, or ten thousand had no opportunity whatsoever to place his money in high grade real estate. With the small amount he'd have to invest, his money wouldn't buy even the smallest piece of loop property.

Puts Him on Par with Millionaire.

"Through the development of land trust certificates it is now possible for the small investor, with any amount from one thousand dollars up which he wishes to invest, to purchase an equitable part equal to the amount that he has to invest in many of the most valuable and choice locations in our leading cities. The land trust certificate plan enables him to hold the same high grade real estate investment that has heretofore been exclusively for the man with millions.

"The worst thing that could happen to a properly set up land trust certificate issue would be in itself the best thing that could happen as regards the position of the holder of the trust certificates. This no doubt would seem on the face of it to be rather an impossible statement to make, but an analysis of developments in case of default in reality proves this statement to be correct.

Never Been a Default.

"A default in land trust certificates would be a default in the payment of rental by the lessee, in which case the lease may be canceled and a value presumably much greater than that of the land alone accrues to the certificate holder in that he becomes the owner also of all improvements upon the land and is entitled to all incomes accruing from the improvements as well as the land. For this very reason there never has been, to our knowledge, a default in any issue of land trust certificates that we have ever underwritten, as the lease is too valuable to the lessee for him to default in any rental payments.

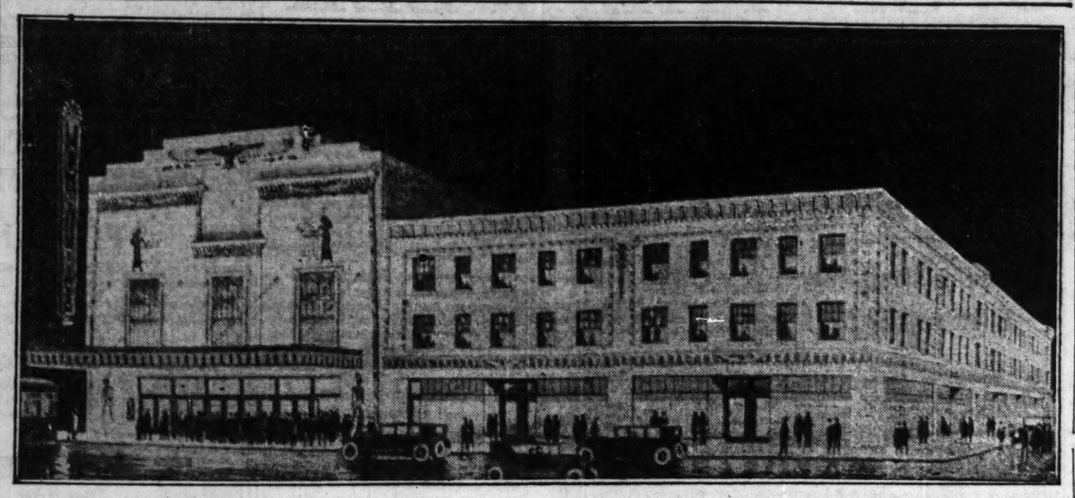
"It is the plan of Otis & Co. to continue to develop this type of investment, and they expect to make some very attractive offers along these lines in the near future."

Land trust certificates shouldn't be confused with leases or mortgages. They represent an actual interest in the land itself and the income comes from the rental of the buildings thereon. The lessee, of course, pays the taxes, so there's nothing for the investor to worry about along those lines.

WINTHROP AVENUE DEAL.

The three story six flat building at 5327-33 Winthrop was sold by Adolph Silver to Fritz Carlson for a reported $56,000, subject to $28,000. John J. Kern & Co. were brokers.

Design from Land of the Nile for Chicago Movie



Chicago is to have a moving picture theater, seating 2,500, in the Egyptian style of architecture. The structure will embody features hitherto unknown in Chicago. Among other things there is to be a black ceiling. There will be great columns covered with hieroglyphics and other bits reminiscent of Egypt. E. Erol Smith is the architect for the building, which will be erected at Irving Park boulevard and Central avenue. The structure will also contain ten stores, nine offices, and thirty apartments. (Story on page 1.)

LOOKING BACKWARD

To March 21, 1916: 10 Years Ago Today

The death of Roy B. Tabor of the firm of White & Tabor, and a former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, came as a shock to his many friends. He was not only one of the most prominent and successful of the younger real estate men of this city but one of the most popular as well. At the time of his election to the presidency of the Chicago Real Estate board in 1911 he was the youngest man ever chosen for that position.

The Garrett Biblical institute has purchased from the Elise Schoenhofen estate the southeast corner of 5th avenue and West South Water street, 150x80, for a reported $425,000. The property is improved with a five story building containing six stores with offices above. The Garrett Biblical institute assumed an incumbrance of $200,000 at 4½ per cent and conveyed for the equity the twenty-four flats at the southeast corner of Michigan and 44th and other apartment buildings.

To March 21, 1906: 20 Years Ago Today

Heyliger A. de Windt of Winnetka has sold two apartment house properties to nonresident investors for an aggregate consideration of $90,000. James McCollister of Circleville, O., purchased the two six flat buildings at the southeast corner of Cuyler and Perry street, 59x161, for $45,000. James Keyes of Columbus, O., bought two six apartment buildings at the northeast corner of Warner avenue and Perry street for $45,000.

HEYLIGER A. DE WINDT.

St. Ignatius college has bought from the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad 19½ acres along the lake shore, 263 feet north of Devon avenue, for $161,254. The college gave a trust deed to the State Bank of Chicago for $80,000, six months at 5 per cent, to supply part of the payment.

Charles W. Morse and others have sold to James Carter Jr. the flat property on Kenmore avenue, 440 feet north of Ainslie, 60x149, for $30,000.

The Chicago and Western Indiana Railroad has bought three acres at the northwest corner of 76th and Wallace for $20,000. Idah M. Swanson was seller. The property will be used for yards.

To March 21, 1896: 30 Years Ago Today

The two story building at 117-19 Michigan avenue, 48x162, just north of the corner of Madison street, and extending back to Garland court, was sold yesterday by Seneca D. Kimbark and Charles Morris to Frederick A. Andrus for $150,000. Edgar M. Snow & Co. and Knight & Marshall were brokers. Mr. Andrus expects to erect a mercantile building on the property he has just acquired next fall.

Perkins & Krause are drawing plans for a four story apartment building to be erected at Clark and Fullerton by the E. J. Lehmann estate. It will be modern in every detail and one of the most substantial in the city. The interior will be of marble and quarter sawed oak. The exterior will be of Bedford stone. It will cost $110,000.

Samuel B. Reed has sold the four story building at the southwest corner of 55th street and Washington avenue, in Hyde Park, to A. B. Harris of Aurora, Ill., for $125,000. The lot is 150x75. The east half of the building is known as "The Pullman." William H. Colvin Jr. and J. L. Devine were brokers.

SANDWICHES FOR LOOPERS.

The Sensation Sandwich corporation has leased from the Boston Piano company the store at 327 S. Wabash avenue and will open a shop immediately. The firm has a machine that will turn out a toasted sandwich in a minute. A. Z. Ohlsen of Hooker, Slocum & Gallup represented all parties.

Mortgage Trust Company Announces $5,000,000 Fund

The National Bond and Mortgage Trust company announces a fund of approximately $5,000,000 to be loaned out under a plan whereby the time will be ten years and the rate 6 per cent per annum, payable on the basis of $13 per $1,000 per month. Principal, interest, and service charge are included in this payment.

"This type of loan enables the home owner definitely to establish his financing over a period of ten years," said Vice President Harry A. Starr.

News of the Architects

Louis Guenzel and William Bernhard have formed an architectural combination, the new firm being known as Guenzel, Bernhard & Co. The entire third floor at 879 North State street is occupied by the organization.

Buys Halsted and 70th Property for $180,000

Adolph Quist has bought from R. P. Perlman for a reported $180,000 the 200x125 feet, at the northwest corner of Halsted and 70th. The Clarence O. Rosen company was broker.

Louis Friedman Buys 21 Apartments on Ingleside

Louis Friedman has bought from Louis Rosen the twenty-one apartment building at the northeast corner of Ingleside avenue and 52d street for a reported $162,750, subject to $74,000. J. Olken was broker and the legal details were handled by James J. Glassner for the buyer and J. H. Jaffe of the firm of Maddock, Jaffe & Green for the seller.

PURCHASERS TO DIVIDE LEITER TRACT AT GENEVA

Linden lodge, on the shores of Lake Geneva, Wis., for forty-seven years the country home of the late Levi Z. Leiter and his heirs, shortly will fade and in its place will be Lake Geneva Manor, an area of twenty-eight acres that is to be divided into 120 homesites of various sizes.

Maxwell R. Titner, president of the Resort Realty company of Chicago, recently purchased the estate from Joseph Leiter, and it was this sale which helped to stir the ire of the titled English relatives of the Chicago millionaire.

The new owners have engaged Carl West, the landscape artist, to add his touch to the development. There are to be thirty foot roads winding through the land which is covered with trees. And on each side of the roads are to be ten foot lanes. Jacob Crane Jr., a city planner, is planning and setting out the area which will be rigidly restricted.

In the center of the tract, facing the lake, is to be a park for the use of purchasers of homesites. The old home of the Leiters is to be converted into a clubhouse, which will be called Linden lodge. Guenzel, Bernhard & Co. are the architects who are in charge of the alterations on the house. It is stated that $50,000 will be spent on the clubhouse in which there are to be a ballroom, a dining room, lounging rooms, and fifty guest rooms.

Announcement to Salesmen

Another area development, equipped with the Nixon indispensables, including High Speed Electric Extension transportation is to be put on the market immediately.

This new area supplements our profit opportunities at Niles Center, on the North Shore and at Westchester.

Hence opportunities for a few high grade, earnest and ambitious salesmen and saleswomen to join our organization.

Salesmen serving the public in this new area will be provided with all the attractive features which distinguish the offerings of George F. Nixon & Company. These include the Home Building and Home Financing Plans and the Nixon Estate Protection Plan.

Every piece of property offered by the Nixon organization is protected by these five fundamentals:

1. Transportation — preferably a new high-speed transportation extension.
2. Provision for sewerage, water, gas, electricity, fire and police protection, schools, churches and shopping districts.
3. Zoning and building laws to assure orderly and sightly arrangement of the community's activities.
4. Restrictions—namely definitely-determined protection for the property in the future.
5. Certainty as to character of development that will take place in the area.

Special—The Real Estate Department of The Fair, just opened, is conducted by George F. Nixon and Company. This new association with one of America's greatest department stores is sure to materially increase demand for the various Nixon properties. It will make new attractive openings for men and women who are awake to the big advantages and profit opportunities offered by Real Estate in Greater Chicago.

Guaranteed Freeze Proof at 15° Below Zero for 36 Hours—Without Heating

Build a Freez-Proof Garage NOW—and be ready for next winter! At 20 degrees above zero, it is guaranteed to be freeze proof for a week! You can just run your car in and forget it! No fear of a frozen radiator—or cracked cylinders—no trouble getting started in the morning. And not a cent for heating.

With our special insulation, the cold can't get in, the heat can't get out. Exactly the same principle as a first-class refrigerator—only, instead of keeping the heat out, it keeps it in. That is, in winter. In summer, the Freez-Proof is delightfully cool! The Freez-Proof Garage is the achievement of 30 years' engineering experience in building many of the greatest refrigerating plants in the world.

$10 DOWN!
Balance in Easy Payments

And the Freez-Proof Garage costs very little more than an ordinary garage that either worries you for fear your car will freeze, or else burns up your good money for artificial heating. The Freez-Proof Garage, moreover, is not a "ready built knockdown" affair. It is built solidly from below the frost line as substantially as your house—and is designed to meet your personal needs and tastes.

Guarantee!
We hereby guarantee that, without any artificial heating whatsoever, the Freez-Proof Garage will protect any automobile against freezing over a period of 36 hours, with outside temperature at 15 degrees below zero; and that with outside temperature at 20 degrees above zero any automobile placed in the Freez-Proof Garage will be protected against freezing for at least 7 days, providing all doors and windows are closed.

INSURANCE NEWS OF THE WEEK

MODERN AGENT IS COUNSELOR AS WELL AS SELLER

Efficiency Replaces Old Slipshod Methods.

Many factors hinge upon the business of life insurance today, according to Danford M. Baker, a former Chicagoan who is now vice president of the Pacific Mutual Insurance company. The agent, he said, now presents an insurance program which is especially designed to meet the individual requirements of his client.

DANFORD M. BAKER.

Nothing is so important, Mr. Baker insisted, to the financial well being in a man's economic life as the protection of his dependents as provided in various forms of life insurance. Among the considerations which may be taken into account are the following:

1. Protection for the family in case of death.
2. Comfort and independence for old age.
3. A regular income to the beneficiaries.
4. Security when it is necessary to raise money.
5. A way to pay off mortgages.
6. A fund for paying inheritance taxes.
7. A monthly allowance after a certain age.
8. An income in case of total disability.
9. Protection for partnerships and corporations.
10. A fund for children's education.
11. An excellent way to endow a public institution.

Life Insurance Now Taught.

Universities and colleges, Mr. Baker said, now teach life insurance, and the companies have their own schools for salesmen, and agents must be qualified to sell before they are permitted to go out in the field. State supervision of both companies and agents is intelligently and justly administered, he declared.

"Years ago," Mr. Baker asserted, "the life insurance agent was not the man he is today. The business of selling life insurance in those days did not attract and enlist the services of educated, high class salesmen, as it now does. In the early days peddlers and failures in other lines of business took up life insurance as a temporary occupation."

The life insurance underwriter is now a counselor and adviser, he continued, prepared to give the buyer of his wares an intelligent and valuable service. He is educated in life insurance practices, and knows the kind and amount of insurance his clients should buy. More than ever the agent takes up the work as a permanent occupation.

"In the early days there were two distinct types of life insurance agents. One was the ne'er-do-well who preyed on his neighbors to help him out so he might earn a livelihood, knowing little or nothing about the business," Mr. Baker went on. "I knew an agent thirty-five years ago who went about the city and all he said was: 'Take your life today?' Strange to say, he did a good business. He was regarded as a peculiar man, and was freakish in appearance and manner, but on account of his persistency and earnestness he was fairly successful. He was the peddler type of insurance salesman."

The Slicker Salesman.

"There was another distinct type of salesman in those days," Mr. Baker said. "We would call him a smooth type, bordering on the confidence man style. He often wore a silk hat and a diamond in his shirt front. If he got you in his clutches, you were, through the means of misrepresentation, induced to sign on the dotted line for a policy which you afterwards discovered did not fit your case, either as to kind or amount.

The business of life insurance, said the executive, has developed faster than any other business during the last quarter of a century. It has become deservedly popular and is said to be the greatest single force for the protection of the home and modern civilization.

Improvement in Personnel.

Along with this development has come great improvement in the personnel of home office and field management. Too much credit, he said, cannot be given the field men who many years ago banded themselves together in an association for the purpose of putting the life insurance business on a higher plane. Bad practices have been eliminated to a marked degree until now there is no place for the slipshod agent of former days.

SERVED HIS NATION

MAJ. J. B. CAMPBELL.
[Moffett Photo.]

Few men have had as varied experiences and undergone as many risks as Maj. J. B. Campbell, who resigned his commission in the U. S. army in 1920 to take up the business of underwriting the risks of others. Mr. Campbell is now associate manager in Chicago for the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance company.

At the age of 20, Mr. Campbell made a trip around the world with the army transport service. Later he joined the Canal Zone police, where he served as personal bodyguard for President Roosevelt during a trip of inspection. He was decorated by the President at the time for valuable services.

Upon being transferred to the government secret service Mr. Campbell made a special study of the Mexican political intrigues prior to 1916. During the war he served as a captain in the intelligence division under Gen. Leonard Wood.

Following the armistice Mr. Campbell continued his work in handling radical investigation in America. His investigation of the Gary steel strike uncovered vast amounts of Red propaganda and arms. He also handled the government investigation during the Denver street car strike, the Omaha race riots, and the West Virginia coal strike.

Mr. Campbell has led all members of his company three times in the production of business, heading the list for two consecutive months during last December and January.

ARMED ROBBERS CAUSE RAISE IN THEFT RISK RATE

Modern Thief Packs Away All Movable Loot.

Mand residents of American cities are constantly undergoing the harrowing experience of meeting with that terror of the streets, the armed holdup man. Frequent reports are made to the police that men and women have been waylaid and robbed. Often the victims are shot or beaten into submission.

As a result of these increasing risks, the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters has just announced that insurance rates covering personal holdups will soon be advanced to meet the experience of the insuring companies as listed in their tabulations. Other burglary rates, such as those covering mercantile safe thefts, will also be increased owing to the prevalence of safe blowings.

Residence burglary insurance rates, it was announced, will likewise be raised an amount equivalent of 20 per cent in the eastern territory.

Losses by theft, it was pointed out, occur more frequently than losses by fire, although the total amount of loss sustained is not as great. It is estimated that about six burglaries of homes take place to every fire.

Burglars are not limiting themselves to jewelry and silverware while prowling private dwellings. Almost anything that is loose is coveted by the modern burglar. Clocks, radios, rugs, and even furniture are the loot of the present day thief, who quite often appears with a truck to carry away the property of his victim. Torn up houses are left in his wake and considerable damage is sometimes inflicted upon goods that he leaves behind.

Two prominent features, it is asserted, are now covered in a residence burglary insurance policy that are often overlooked. These are provisions covering theft by servants and damage done to property and effects.

U. S. STOPS RISK PAYMENTS FOR 'MORAL BREACH'

A phrase, "moral turpitude," came into the limelight recently with the detention of Vera, countess of Cathcart, on Ellis island, subsequent to her arrival in New York on a visit from England. The countess was held after she had made damaging admissions concerning a love hegira to Africa with the married earl of Craven.

Moral turpitude, it is said, is involved in a life insurance case on trial before Judge D. Lawrence Groner, in the United States Court of Appeals, now sitting at Norfolk, Va. Fred Crouch is suing the government on a war risk policy to compel resumption of payments to his daughter, the widow of Stephen Konstovich, who was lost at sea in the mysterious disaster that befell the naval collier Cyclops in 1918.

The government made payments to the woman on her husband's policy from 1918 to 1921, when the installments were stopped because of alleged misconduct on the part of the widow.

Compulsory Auto Insurance Inadvisable, U. S. Body Warns

Compulsory automobile insurance will not tend to reduce accidents, declares a report on the subject recently prepared by the insurance advisory committee of the United States chamber of commerce for presentation at the annual meeting to be held at Washington in May.

On the contrary, the report reads, the effect of compulsory legislation would probably be an inducement to carelessness on the part of the pedestrian and the number of accidents would be raised materially. The effect would be undesirtable, it was claimed.

The average driver is financially responsible for his accidents, it was said, and arguments to the contrary are insufficient to justify compulsory insurance. Insurance operates only after an event and would be of little aid in preventing accidents.

Favor Safety Plan.

Statistics show that about five per cent of insured drivers have accidents during any one year and that motorists are responsible for only one-third of the accidents in which they are involved. The proportion of insured drivers, which is sixteen per cent of the total number of automobile operators, is much greater in large cities, where accidents take their greatest toll.

Other remedies will do more towards reducing accidents than any compulsory insurance plan, asserts the report. Adoption of adequate laws, their effective enforcement, and continuation of the safety plan will do more than guaranteeing against financial loss in case of accident.

One State Passes Bill.

The committee investigated in detail the subject of compulsory insurance. Such legislation was considered by the legislatures of thirty-eight states, but only one passed such a bill, while one other enacted a measure fixing the financial responsibility of drivers.

Among other effects of such laws, says the report, would be an immense increase in the insurance bill of the automobile owner.

INSURANCE WRITTEN IN FEBRUARY SHOWS GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

New life insurance written during the month of February amounted to 12.4 per cent more than in February, 1925, it was revealed this week in a statement compiled by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, representing the business of forty-five member companies.

The new paid for business, exclusive of revivals, increases, and dividend additions of the member companies, amounted to $869,246,000, as against $773,148,000 a year ago.

Group insurance written amounted to $82,973,000 in 1926, an increase of $46,245,000, or 125.9 per cent, over 1925.

SAMUEL TOPLIFF SELLS RESIDENCE.

Samuel Topliff, a member of the law firm of Hamlin, Topliff & Cooper, has sold his residence at 1242 Judson avenue, Evanston, lot 75x190, to Harr C. Warner of the Simmons company, for an indicated $31,000. Gustav E. Beerly was attorney in the deal.

AN ODD ACCIDENT.

Joseph Grim, forty, fell asleep on a motor bus en route to Minerville, Pa., with his arm protruding from a window. A passing automobile practically tore it off at the socket, leaving the member hanging by only a shred of flesh. Amputation was necessary.

LIFE RISK FIRM LAUNCHES RADIO ESSAY CONTEST

Radio station WHO of the Bankers Life company of Des Moines, Ia., has launched a life insurance essay contest, open to grade school children of the thirty-four states in which the company operates.

Essays written on the subject, "The Good That Life Insurance Does," which must be limited to 200 words, are to be submitted to the company not later than April 15. A committee of three will select the winners. Three prizes will be awarded in each of the thirty-four states, as follows: $15, $10, and $5.

Winners in each state will be broadcast by the radio station on the evening of April 30 at 7:30 o'clock. Names of those entitled to honorable mention will also be announced.

GOVERNMENT STATISTICS

Indicate that in the month of January there were 49 people killed daily in motor vehicle accidents. This is 20 per day more than the daily average for January, 1925.

BUT—during the same month the average number who were killed accidentally in their own homes was 45—

Multiply these figures by 30 and you will have the daily average number who are injured in the same ways.

These figures are appalling if you bear in mind that they do not include occupational injuries and deaths.

THE HUMAN EQUATION.

O, I could tune a radio
Or phonograph, with ease
I used most any typewriter
With universal keys;
I drove fast cars of varied make,
Nor feared odd gearshift tricks,
I'd run a yacht or motor boat, or anything—that ticks.

A wife needs wider repertoire,
This marriage game is fast,
Inventions lurk in every room,
Each more complex than last;
Electric grills, steam cookers, too,
And percolators queer;

MAIDEN MEDITATIONS

EVOLUTION.

Young love grows best in old-time homes
Or scented gardens—dark;
Now Cupid's shrine is just a bench
'Neath arclights in the park.
Romance is pushed from four-room flats—
Love's vagabond, today;
He shelter seeks in restaurants
And blaring cabaret;
There is no calf love any more—
It's love a la cafe.

IN SPRING THE YOUNG GIRL'S FANCY—

The season is waning; one takes inventory;
All debs of this winter should now be engaged;
June wedding announcements will point the whole story;
Ah, where are my prospects?
They need to be paged.

There's Rudolph, and Larry,
And Louis, and Harry
All ready to marry—
And I need a ring.
I wish they would hurry
Proposals. I worry
Lest I miss the flurry
Of white sales for spring.

ELECTROLYSIS AS A CURATIVE

by Antoinette Donnelly

A Discussion of the Only Sure Way of Removing Superfluous Hair from the Face.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—I don't know of any blemish that causes more distress than hair on the face. I don't think it has grown more prevalent of recent years, although the quantities of mail received might well suggest such were the case. I think women formerly simply accepted the affliction as people accepted fat as rightfully belonging to accumulating years. Today, in the pursuit of beauty, nothing escapes the keen eye of the observer and the observed. Consequently these unwanted hairs take on a proportion of concern they never knew before.

There is no need to go into the obscure question of cause, since so little is known scientifically about it outside of the fact that it is a peculiarity of skin structure, and while it may be an individual characteristic in some cases, in the majority it is hereditary and shows as a family tendency. In some rare cases it is excited by certain diseases which produce nutritional changes in the skin. It usually increases as the individual gets older, often appearing about middle life in women.

Few of our reputable skin specialists give credence to the charge that cold creams promote the growth. And it does seem to me, with the millions of jars of facial stuffs sold annually, that if it did stimulate the hair growth almost every woman in the land would be flaunting a beard, or at least a marked hair growth.

Avoiding a Mania.

I do think, in the pursuit of facial perfection as we know it today, many women and girls develop a perfect mania on the subject of this hair growth. Sometimes only a perfectly legitimate and proper little down covers the lips, harmonizing with the general features, but no amount of argument will convince them that it is quite unobjectionable. They insist upon having this downy growth removed.

They pull out these tiny hairs, and the down, stimulated by the force exerted upon the hair follicle, grows more vigorous and bigger at each attempt to eradicate it. Soon the ever-returning down develops into a normal hair, to all intents and purposes, and now really becomes a disfigurement, and objectionable on that account. A real hair of the bristle variety was not intended to adorn a woman's upper lip.

There are, however, many cases where nothing is done to turn this down into normal hair, and yet normal hairs develop in great plenty. And the best that can be done is to treat them when they make their appearance and remove them as comfortably as possible. A moustache is so repellant and renders its owner so miserably self-conscious, that you are not surprised to hear of women grabbing at any suggested means of relief. The result may then, only too easily, be either to burn and damage the skin, or to start a far more conspicuous and hardy development. So, first of all, caution in curative measures is called for.

We do know there is only one means by which the hairs may be permanently removed. That is by electrolysis. Dermatologists approve of it. But the great trouble for the layman is to know which electrolician to go to, and which is best qualified to get down to the root of the hair and not just break it off. However, if one were suffering any disease and hoped to be permanently cured he would certainly be sure the physician consulted was a specialist in his particular disease. He would make inquiries about the doctor's reputation before he would intrust his appendix, or any other part of him, to his care, wouldn't he? He certainly would not follow a signboard and trust to God he would come out all right.

Consult Only an Expert.

Not all operators are skilled with the needle, nor as familiar as they should be with the structure of the hair and the attending difficulties peculiar to its removal. Inquiry through the best medical channels about operators ought to be made before submitting your pet face, and your only face, to the operation. Not long since I saw a "job" that was certainly not the work of a skilled operator. The skin was pockmarked. And sometimes a brown lax skin is left after the attempt at removing hairs.

This operation, when conducted by a skillful operator, naturally is slow and not inexpensive. But here is one place where economy were better cast to the winds. When the hairs are not too numerous the method gives satisfactory results. If they are abundant, the treatment is tedious. Not infrequently a patient will be told her work has to be done over again when she thought she was about through.

Unless one is hypersensitive, the process is not painful. Only a slight burning sensation is felt. If the needle touches the papilla at the bottom of the follicle, the current will destroy it and thus prevent the formation of another hair. The destruction of the papilla, however, will not prevent the new issue of hair from the follicle in every case, for the following reasons: The papilla may be destroyed or rendered inactive, but a second and sometimes a third hair may have been lying in wait, attached to the walls of the follicle, ready to push forward as soon as the old hair was removed. Again the current of electricity let into the hair follicle may stir the hair generating apparatus around and about the papilla to renewed activity, and a downy hair may be turned into a bristle hair by the same energy.

Another consideration: The hairshaft is not always a straight and upright hairshaft. It has crooked, devious and inscrutable ways. Often it makes a rapid turn immediately after it has passed the upper layer of the skin and it is impossible to follow this turn with the needle. Without the guidance of the hairshaft the needle goes on in the same direction and may or may not strike the papilla. In the latter case, the hair is only removed with difficulty and a little pain, while otherwise it follows the slightest pull and almost drops from the follicle.

Thus you see the need of faith in the skill and honest intention of the one who is willing to undertake the task.

How the Work Is Done.

The electric needle, as I say, is the one chief rock on which hopes are based for the permanent removal of this facial blemish. Provided this is accurately done, the hair is absolutely destroyed and complete freedom from it is insured for the future, without any damage to the skin. It is a delicate operation, requiring knowledge and the confidence which comes of this when wedded to wide practice — and these are the qualifications which the specialist who wields the needle should possess. To such an operator the type of hair does not matter. The light growth can just as well be removed as the aggressive beard. Such skill directs the use of the current, regulated for each individual case, the choice of special needles and so on. I am stressing this because there are people who doubt the success of electrolysis because of experiences they have heard about or observed, without investigating the qualifications of the operator.

There should be no scarring and little discomfort to the patient.

Now, for those who cannot seek the advantages of a specialist and who must rely upon some local treatment which they can apply themselves, next Sunday I will go into the phase of temporary measures of relief.

ANNA: THE HABIT OF NAIL biting is a nervous habit. To those who are so afflicted, it is well to build up the nervous system with daily cold baths, salt water rub-downs, and plenty of exercise in the open air. To help break the habit, apply the following nail varnish: Alcohol, 1¼ ounces; chinoidin, 1¼ ounces; gum mastic, ¼ ounce; gum myrrh, 1⅛ ounces. Mix and let stand 48 hours, occasionally shaking the bottle. Apply with a camel's hair brush. It may be removed with alcohol or hot water.

FRECKLES: FRECKLES WHICH are as stubborn as yours may be treated with Nunci's paste, made as follows: Oxychloride of bismuth, 1 dram; calomel, 1-6 grain; peroxide of hydrogen, 1 dram; lanolin and vaseline, 4 ounces each. Equal parts of glycerin and lemon juice are helpful for the light variety only.

M. G.: YOU EAT ENTIRELY TOO much bread for one of your weight. Limit your supply to one piece at each meal, and eliminate three-fourths of the butter used. For your breakfast you may have grapefruit, orange juice, prunes, or some other fruit, cereal or eggs and one slice of toast spread thinly with butter, and your coffee.

SALLY: FOR LIGHT FRECKLES you will find lemon juice effective. Take a slice of lemon and rub it over the freckles, allowing the juice to dry on. Do this several times a day.

TROUBLED: THE HOLES YOU describe are undoubtedly enlarged pores, which will take time and patience to correct. The pores have become clogged with secretions and so enlarged. Scrub the face with hot water, a face brush, and soap; rinse in warm and then cold water. If possible, rub ice over the pores after scrubbing them, as it is most effective in closing the pores and toning up the skin. Witch hazel is an excellent astringent, and is more effective when warmed. It may be heated by immersing the bottle in hot water.

ELLA: IF YOU ARE SUFFERING from a slight bunion, buy shoes with a straight last, and have them properly fitted. A felt pad between the great toe and the next toe helps to maintain a straight line, although care must be taken not to deform the other toes in so doing. There are appliances to protect the bunion by relieving the irritation. These may be had at reliable shoe stores, but properly fitting shoes are most important.

JANE T.: YES, I HAVE A LIST OF the most commonly used foods with their relative calorie values. You may have it for a stamped addressed envelope.

JUDY: A SEVERE ILLNESS OR mental strain and worry will cause the hair to fall out, and worry will make the hair turn gray. Once it has turned nothing will restore the natural color. A uric acid condition has been known to cause dryness and make the hair brittle. Where there is, or has been, a constitutional disorder, it must first be corrected.

M. A. C.: YOUR TEETH SHOULD be brushed thoroughly after each meal. In addition your gums and the sockets of the teeth must be kept stimulated. This you do by brushing the gums, using a stiff brush, in a rotary motion. If your gums are sensitive use a moderately stiff brush until you can bear the more vigorous treatment. In addition to stimulating the circulation of the gums this strengthens their resistance and keeps the margins free from tartar. Send a stamped addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Care of the Teeth, and Mouth Hygiene." It covers your other questions.

BRIGHT SAYINGS of HUSBANDS & WIVES

The snappy comeback of the better half when cornered has often been a source of wonder to husbands and wives! The husband or the wife has come across with a bright saying that will never be forgotten by the other half of the matrimonial sketch. What was that bright saying, Mr.? Mrs.? Send it to us and we'll pay you $1 for it if we print it. Address Bright Sayings of Husbands and Wives, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

Used to Waiting.

With a party of friends one night we were discussing death and spiritualism, and all of us grew quite serious.

In sentimental tones I said to husband, "John, if you die before I do, you will wait for me—just me—on the other shore, won't you?"

"Sure," replied my John; "I've waited for you every place else, so I might as well wait there."

There was a roar of laughter that broke up the religious spell. J. K.

Necessary.

Husband and wife had been having a heated argument over some household matter.

Mr. said to Mrs., "Don't forget I'm head of the house, my dear."

Mrs., sweetly, to Mr.: "Yes, dear, I'm the neck; but without the neck the head cannot turn." D. W. D.

Then the War Began.

Hubby called my attention to an ad for antiques. In a spirit of fun, I answered, "We have one—why more?" [Meaning him.]

He came back with his usual wit, "That's all right. Don't you ever get lonesome?" W. F. D.

No Tears Shed.

Said the wife, "I haven't words to express how I feel."

Said the husband, "Never mind; I'll survive." M. B.

Truthful.

When a mere newlywed, I proudly accompanied my husband to the market and feeling we should always agree on all things, however trivial, I asked his opinion on a chicken I had selected speaking thusly: "How does this chicken look to you?" and he replied, to the amusement of everyone in the shop, "Kinda dead, kid, kinda dead." M. B.

Quite Different.

"Don't bring me any more bills, Mary, I can't face them."

"I don't want you to, John. I want you to foot them." C. T.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for only 75 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears. After another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

DEL-A-TONE
Removes Hair

Nothing Like It!

You'll simply marvel at the new Del-a-tone Cream for removing unsightly hair.

It's just an old tried and true friend in a new, convenient form. Millions have used Del-a-tone in powder form and the circle of new users is constantly growing.

"If other women knew what I know about depilatories," said one delighted user, "they would use only Del-a-tone."

Such enthusiasm must be deserved. We want you to see for yourself how delightful Del-a-tone Cream is. It is the only snow-white fragrant cream for removing superfluous hair in 3 minutes. Think of it—no unpleasant odor; just pure-white, and as convenient and easy to use as your favorite cold cream.

3 Minutes and Hair is Gone!

Del-a-tone is safe and sure. Just apply to face, neck, arms or limbs. In 3 minutes, rinse off, and behold, a lovely, dainty skin free from unsightly hair. Keeps bobbed hair neat and trim. How to Use the Patterns

SATIN combined with one of the lovely crêpes will make up charmingly by pattern No. 2599. The two materials may be the same color, lighter and dark shades of the same color, or contrasting colors.

It should be an easy dress to make and extremely pretty when finished.

The upper part is cut in two pieces, front and back, and the length of a low waist line. The drop shoulders form short sleeves; and if long sleeves are preferred there is a pattern provided. The bottom of the dress consists of a two piece circular skirt which is attached to the waist in a scalloped outline. At the neck the dress is slashed to a given point, and there are shaped facings attached—the directions given with the pattern showing exactly how. The collar extends beyond the neck of the dress in long tie ends; and the dress may be worn open at the neck, or closed and using the tie strings to fasten at a normal neck line.

Where the skirt and waist are joined some particular work will have to be done. At the point where the bottom of each scallop comes on the upper edge of the skirt a quarter inch clipping should be made to allow the edge of the scallops to be turned in. This turned in edge should be basted down carefeully, using a fine needle and thread so as not to mark your material. The upward curving edges of the bottom of the waist should be clipped at close intervals and the edge turned up towards the right side and carefully basted down.

Then pin the skirt carefully in place on the waist, pinning first at the lower edge of each scallop. This sort of work, if carelessly handled, can be stretched enough to spoil a perfect finish. The next step will be to baste the parts together—and it will be right not to baste too close to the upper edge of the scallops, because the stitching should not cross the bastings—it is sometimes so difficult to remove basting thread. Then a second stitching should be put in, so the bottom edge of the waist will be caught.

Pattern No. 2379 is for one piece slip-on dress for a girl; and the design is a smart one. Cotton broadcloth, poplin or linen would be suitable in wash materials; or wool taffeta, kasha, or flannel in the warmer cloths. The dress opens in the front through an inserted band that rolls back with the collar. The drop shoulders form short sleeves; and if long ones are preferred, there are one piece sections that may be finished to hang loose; or set into narrow wristbands. Patch pockets and a narrow belt complete the dress. Children's dresses should always have a wide hem, in case it is necessary to make them longer.

One of the lovely printed crêpes will be beautiful for a dress made by pattern No. 2633. The long waisted upper part has a deep open front, finished with a collar that extends to the lower edge of the waist in the front, forming revers. A pattern for an inset shield is furnished.

The sleeves are cut long and are made close fitting by means of a dart up the outside from the wrist to just below the elbow.

The back of the dress is cut in one piece and is quite straight. But the lower front section is cut slightly circular, and this makes the bottom of the dress, for size 36, measure about 2¾ yards. At the bottom of the collar in the front a pretty ribbon bow gives the finishing touch to this attractive looking dress.

The V-shaped Heating Unit of the ordinary Iron is too far from the edges to KEEP them HOT when they come in contact with damp cloth.

The Sunbeam's All-Over Heating Unit comes to the very edges as well as the tip, maintaining constant and even heat where iron meets damp cloth.

Sunbeam—the Iron that Electrical Experts Favor

—that won't burn out —that heats to the very edges

TESTED 5,000 hours on steady current, and again 7,000 hours, day and night running, the Sunbeam has more than justified the engineers' claims that it should last for 30 years or more in the average home.

Such betterments in an iron have surprised electrical experts, for there has never been another iron like it.

About 70% of the repairs in ordinary irons are in the heating unit. For overheating so impairs them they won't heat up like new or hold their heat.

The Sunbeam has overcome this fault entirely.

Besides this, its heating unit covers the whole bottom; thus keeps constant heat at the tip and the edges, too—the parts of an iron that meet the damp cloth first.

That avoids waiting between pieces for the iron to reheat.

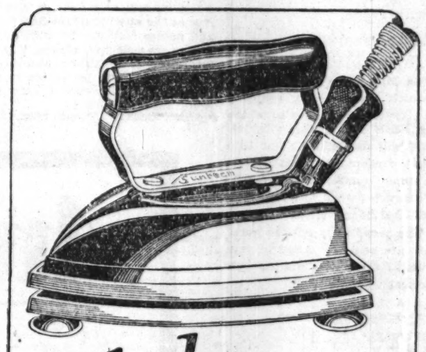
"I can iron right along with my Sunbeam until I get through," says Mrs. Ray A. Norton. "I don't mind ironing, but I hate to stop and then have to go back to it."

Here's another result of the Sunbeam's All-Over heating unit—

"The heel of this iron gets just as hot as the tapered point," says Mrs. L. Basey, one of many who have told of this: "So I can back up the Sunbeam to iron into corners and need not turn it around."

Sunbeam is perfectly balanced and has a mirror-smooth bottom, extra nickeled.

"It is really a treat to use it," says Mrs. F. C. Clayton.



$1 down
balance $1 monthly on your bill

Your local Electric Company wants you to enjoy this treat whenever you iron, hence this attractive offer—

Order the Sunbeam delivered at once and pay but $1. Pay balance $1 monthly on your bill.

You'll be grateful for this chance if you try Sunbeam. Have it delivered tomorrow.

The Sunbeam keeps so hot you can iron sitting down if you like—no need to stand and exert hard pressure, as with irons that damp pieces soon cool off.

Patented Delft-Blue Art-Steel Fire-Proof Case, $1 Extra

To help introduce the Sunbeam Iron, this beautiful, practical case at less than cost. A $2.50 value for $1, but only when bought in combination with the Sunbeam. Enables you to put away iron hot—no waiting while it cools. Keeps iron, cord and stand clean and safe. And always ready, always together when you want them.

Case approved by the Underwriters' Laboratories of the National Board of Fire Underwriters and Good Housekeeping Institute.

FORTUNE TELLING BY NUMEROLOGY

Here's a Pastime Handed Down from the Ancients; It Never Fails to Fascinate.

by Doris Blake

IF there is one subject more interesting than the study of self, it yet remains to be disclosed. There aren't many of us who go through life without having at least once extended a palm to have the lines read, presented a head to have the bumps analyzed, or through the system of cards sought the tall dark gentleman and the bag of gold.

If we do not take it seriously, at least we are willing to admit it an amusing form of entertainment. Which, no doubt, is why numerology has taken on its unusual interest, of late.

Some months ago, in these columns we outlined for you the method by which you might determine whether your name, as it now stands, would see you through to fame and fortune. So many requests have come from correspondents asking how to apply the art of numerology, that today we will repeat our earlier instructions and give you some additional data on how to amuse yourselves on a rainy day.

Let it be understood first, then, only the first nine numbers are used in this more or less refined form of fortune telling. Any numbers exceeding nine have to be reduced to a single digit in order to apply a meaning to your name.

Each Number, Its Own Value.

The letters of the alphabet are given a numerical valuation, that is, each number has its own valuation. The alphabet is divided as follows:

1. A, J, S.	6. F, O, X.
2. B, K, T.	7. G, P, Y.
3. C, L, U.	8. H, Q, Z.
4. D, M, V.	9. I, R.
5. E, N, W.

To find the single unit of a name, place under each letter its number value, then add the single numerical values thus:

EDNA MAY SMITH
5 4 5 1 1 4 1 7 1 4 9 2 8
15 12 24

6+3+6 equals 15, or 1+5 equals 6.
E is 5
D is 4
N is 5
A is 1
15 is the total. You reduce 15 thus: 1+5 equals 6 and you have the single digit of Edna as 6.
M is 4
A is 1
Y is 7
12. Reduce 12. 1+2 equals 3.
M is 4
I is 9
T is 2
H is 8
24. Reduce 24. 2+4 equals 6.

To find the single value of the full name Edna May Smith add 6 plus 3 plus 6, which equals 15, or 1 plus 5 equals 6. Six is the number to which the name Edna May Smith vibrates.

Now, we will divide the name into vowels and consonants. The vowels give the inner qualities, the fundamental characteristics. What you think and feel is governed by your vowels. The consonants tell the outer forces that are being attracted to you. The vowels in Edna May Smith, with the numerical value of each:

E A A Y I
5 1 1 7 9=23 or 2+3=5

The consonants are:

D N M S M T H
4 5 4 1 4 2 8=28 or 2+8=10 or 1+0=1

What Digits Indicate.

The character and influence of numbers from one to nine are:

ONE—a strong number, representing force, creative ability, individualism, self assertiveness. It is a number of ruling, directing and the pioneer spirit that accomplishes things not attempted before. The bearer of this number must be careful not to become too officious and dominating.

TWO—is a social number. Tact, diplomacy and the ability to make friends will insure its owner happiness. It is a number of the heart rather than the mind.

THREE—is the joy giving number. Mirth, good cheer, pleasure and inspiration are its principal characteristics. It is the number of orators, actors, singers, dancers and painters.

FOUR—is the number of the hard worker, plodder, more the successful wage earner than the eminently successful; a physical number, coarse if uncontrolled.

FIVE—with this number life will be richer in experience and interest than in accomplishments. Like the Gemini sign of astrology, its people are two-sided in nature, constructive and destructive, cheerful and melancholy, optimistic and pessimistic. Five is the symbol of the rolling stone.

SIX—is the number of service. It represents stanch friends, good citizens, honest, reliable people, home makers, and kind and considerate folk. It is the marriage number. Too much modesty is apt to be a fault.

SEVEN—is not a number destined for renown and glory. Loneliness, excessive shyness, and lack of social grace mark it. It tends toward the occult and the mystic.

EIGHT—is the number of business success, achievement, attainment and acquirement. Money and success are the qualities this lucky number attracts.

NINE—has the success of eight with the difference that eight is a practical number. Nine is not interested in material success, but achieves it usually by accident. Its influence is universal.

It is known as the number of love, representing the highest essence of universal and personal love. If there are many nines in your name, you are well equipped to face life.

Latent Ability Is Found.

Unlike your name number, or destiny, you cannot change your birth number. It is a fixed thing. It is considered more important than the name number, since it indicates the strength, force and ability you possess. The name number suggests the line upon which you are most likely to succeed.

This birth number is the number or digit that results when the day, month and year of birth are added.

To illustrate, with the day of birth Feb. 12, 1918:

February is the second month.. 2
Twelfth day—1 plus 2 equals... 3
1918—1 plus 9 plus 1 plus 8....19
24

The birth number is 24, or 2 plus 4 equals 6.

If the birth month were the 10th, 11th or 12th month, you would reduce the 10 to 1 plus 0 equals 1; or, 11 to 1 plus 1 equals 2; and 1 plus 2 equals 3.

The characteristics applying to the birth number are similar to those applying to the name number. So, you may use the table given above, covering the numbers one to nine.

The power of our birth number is said to be always behind us, and in time of extra trial and burden it comes forth with unexpected strength and ability. It is advocated by the exponents of numerology that the birth and the destiny number should be harmonious. All numbers do not vibrate harmoniously with other numbers. But more of this next Sunday, when we will also disclose how to arrive at the number of the heart's desire and names suitable for marriage.

May we ask you, please, if you are interested, to save the tables presented today, as we will be unable to repeat them again next week. [You will need them for reference.]

We Fight Colds

We paid $1,000,000 for this way

Many years ago a great laboratory started to develop a way to fight colds. They worked 25 years to perfect it. All the best that science found was embodied in it.

We have lately paid $1,000,000 for that formula and product. Just because millions have proved it the greatest remedy for colds. And millions more will use it when they know.

It stops a cold in one day. It stops the spread of a cold. It ends the dread of a cold. In a lifetime of investigation we have found nothing more efficient.

The name is Hill's Cascara-Bromide-Quinine. It combines all the best that men know for a cold.

The best way is to have it on hand when needed. Have it ready to stop any cold at the start. Then is when minutes save hours of trouble.

But, if you lack it when the cold develops, get it as soon as you can. Get the genuine, for nothing else is like it. The way in which it ends a cold will remove all your fears of a cold. At your drug store.

NATURE'S LESSON

The liver of the cod-fish is Nature's richest depository of certain health-giving vitamins.

This abundance of vitamins comes directly from the food found by the cod-fish in the sea and consumed daily and the excess is stored in the rich oil in its liver.

Scott's Emulsion, rich in vitamin-tested cod-liver oil, is the efficient and palatable way that a child or grown person can obtain the abundance of health-giving vitamins needed daily.

Do not wait until you are all rundown or out of strength.

The strength-saving way—the one to prevent weakness—is to protect every avenue of health by taking invigorating Scott's Emulsion three times every day.

Mr. Nickeldick FORGETS HIS HAT.

BY Wm. DONAHEY

THE village of Puckerbush had a fire department. It wasn't like the city fire department with shiny engines and men in blue suits sitting in front of the firehouse in armed chairs. It was a volunteer fire department made up of the most important citizens of Puckerbush.

The fire station stood on Crabb street right back of the postoffice.

It was a small building of one story with a belfry on the roof. Inside the building was a hose cart, two ladders, several axes, and a few checkerboards.

When a fire was discovered it was the duty of every citizen to yell "Fire!" at the top of his voice and to run with all speed to the firehouse and ring the bell. As soon as the bell began to ring the members of the department ran to the firehouse, hauled out the hose cart, and dashed away to put out the fire.

Mr. Nickeldick, being the only rabbit in Puckerbush who owned a fireman's hat, was chief of the fire department. It was a grand sight to see Mr. Nickeldick rushing to a fire in his fireman's hat, and the ladies always gasped in admiration as he galloped by.

In his fireman's hat.

Fortunately, Puckerbush had few fires, but one afternoon the town was thrown into the greatest excitement by the ringing of the fire bell.

It had been dreadfully hot for a few days, and most of the animals were dozing in the cool, shady places when the alarm was sounded. Instantly the town was awake. Raccoons, opossums, squirrels, woodchucks, and rabbits ran in all directions, yelling "FIRE!" at the top of their lungs.

Mr. Nickeldick had been napping on his front porch when the fire bell began to ring, and in his excitement he dashed off without his fireman's hat.

Mr. Skittels and three rabbits were pulling the hose cart out of the firehouse when Mr. Nickeldick arrived.

"Where's the fire?" asked Mr. Nickeldick.

"Don't know," answered Mr. Skittels; "a chicken rang the alarm, but he ran away without tellin' where the fire was."

"Well, we'll have to run around town until we find it!" shouted Mr. Nickeldick, and he leaped down the street, followed by the rest.

As they dashed away Mr. Skittels suddenly noticed that Mr. Nickeldick was not wearing his fireman's hat. He called to the chief and stopped the hose cart.

"Where's your hat?" asked Mr. Skittels.

Mr. Nickeldick felt the top of his head and turned white.

"WHY, I MUST HAVE FORGOTTEN IT!" he gasped. "Wait for me here and I'll go home after it."

As Mr. Nickeldick hurried away the men took out several of the checkerboards and began to play to pass the time away, but they had hardly started before the chief returned with the fireman's hat safely on his head.

"Now, men, to the fire!" he shouted, and the fire department ran after him, yelling with all their might. They ran up and down the streets for half an hour looking for the fire, but not a sign of smoke could they find.

It was terribly hot, and soon Mr. Nickeldick grew violently thirsty, so he halted the men before the drug store.

"You fellows are probably thirsty from running so hard, so we'll all step in here and have a soda on me!" he shouted. The men gave three cheers and followed their chief into the store.

"We're on our way to a fire," Mr. Nickeldick told the clerk, "and we'd like a round of sodas in a hurry."

An uplity red squirrel.

"You'll have to wait your turn," said the clerk, who was an upitty red squirrel in a white jacket and extremely wide trousers. "There are six or seven customers ahead of you."

Mr. Nickeldick and the men were greatly peeved, so they all stamped out of the place and went into a candy store across the street that was run by a Greek rabbit in tanshoes and a red necktie.

Everybody had chocolate dip, and then Mr. Skittels treated the entire fire department to their weight on the penny scales.

"Now come on, men!" cried Mr. Nickeldick, impatiently; "we've got to find the fire."

Refreshed by the chocolate dips, the men eagerly caught the ropes to the hose cart and dashed madly up and down Main street for some time.

Presently Mr. Slig complained of a sore foot, and the department stopped in front of a shoe store while he went in and had a nail pounded down in his heel.

"We'll never find that fire by running up and down the street this way," said Mr. Nickeldick. "We're wasting a lot of time."

"Don't you think it would be a good plan for the men to work up and down the streets and inquire at each house if any one has a fire?" suggested Mr. Slig, hopefully, as he sat down on the curb stone to rest his sore foot.

"That's an excellent plan," answered Mr. Nickeldick. "You men go out and make inquiries at each house, and if any one discovers the fire, report here, at once."

Mr. Nickeldick went into the shoe store and had his shoes shined by a colored squirrel while he waited for the men to report, and Mr. Slig, who had been excused from active duty on account of his sore foot, spent the time polishing the brass work on the hose cart.

Quite a number of animals gathered around while Mr. Slig worked on the hose cart, and presently an old fox tapped the opossum on the arm with the head of his umbrella.

"Where's the fire?" he asked.

"We don't know," answered Mr. Slig. "The men are trying their best to find out."

"Why don't you ask a fortune teller?" suggested the old fox. "There's an old polecat down the street that tells you anything you want to know."

"We couldn't do that!" said Mr. Slig, brusquely. "She doesn't belong to the fire department."

In a short time the men all returned without finding a trace of the fire, and, as it was nearly supper time, they all decided it was a false alarm, so they pulled the hose cart back to the firehouse, where they found this note pinned on the door:

"Puckerbush Fire Department.

"Gentlemen: It's all a mistake. There is no fire. I am a nearsighted chicken, and as I walked along by the firehouse this afternoon I saw something hanging out of a little door which I thought was a worm. I grabbed it, and when I pulled at it I discovered it was the rope to the fire bell. I was too frightened to stay and explain my mistake, so I ran away. Please forgive a

"NEARSIGHTED CHICKEN."

ISN'T IT ODD

by William Atherton Du Puy

Isn't it odd that the cow when she gets a tuft of grass in her mouth bites it off by thrusting her head out, while a horse, under the same circumstances, pulls his head in!

If you watch these two domestic animals feeding you will see that the difference comes about because they have quite different schemes for performing the self-same act.

The cow gathers in her mouthful of grass by licking out her tongue, wrapping it around the tuft, and pulling it in between the front of her two jaws. She makes a sort of trench of her tongue. When the grass is once in her mouth she closes down on it, holds it quite firmly, and thrusts her head forward.

She has front teeth only on her lower jaw. They are rather small, quite sharp teeth. Her toothless upper jaw but clamps the grass down on them. The grass is partly cut as with a knife and partly torn off.

The horse does not lick out his tongue in grazing. He has, however, a rather remarkable upper lip, which is something of a hand. He can feel around with it, can guide the grass in between his teeth. He can scoop up grain from the bottom of the box with it. This upper lip, in fact, is a member of considerable development. The elephant began with an upper lip that, way back yonder, may have been no handier than that of the horse, and finally developed it into a trunk with which he can pile logs or untie a rope.

The horse gathers up the grass with his lip and guides it between his front jaws. There he grasps it firmly between solid, firm teeth upstairs and down. No mere single set like a cow for him. Having taken firm hold of it, he half bites, half tears it off. But in doing so he pulls his head toward him, moves it in exactly the opposite direction from that chosen by the cow.

The cow stands at the head of a group of animals with only lower front teeth, that eat away from themselves. They are two-toed animals that chew their cuds and used to hide in the woods. They are called ruminants. Prominent among them are sheep, deer, buffalo, llamas.

The horse belongs to an entirely different group. Its members are plains animals with the single toe. They are highly developed and speedy. The zebra and the donkey are outstanding cousins of the horse. They have its handy upper lip and "eat toward themselves."

$5 APIECE FOR BRIGHT SAYINGS

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

James, aged 3, was sent into grandmother's room to ask her what time it was. I heard grandmother tell him the time and repeat it over and over so he wouldn't forget.

Evidently he was more interested in the process of repeating than in what he was repeating. By the time he got back to the kitchen, where I was, he had forgotten. With a bewildered look in his face and a mischievous twinkle in his eyes, he said, "Ruthie, the tock has topped." N. C. S.

Billie and Robert are 4 and 3 years old, respectively. One day, while playing in an empty lot next to their home, Billie dug a hole with his toy shovel, and this hole soon filled up with water. Upon falling into this hole of water Robert began to scream. When mother came out she said, "Billie, didn't I tell you not to dig a hole for your brother to fall into?"

Billie readily replied, "But I didn't dig the hole for him to fall in." I. V. H.

The other day Bill took it into his mischievous little head to put baby sister, aged 2½, in a clothes basket and slide her down the front stairs.

Daddy chanced to enter the hall door just as she arrived at the bottom, and she tumbled out of the basket at his feet.

Terrified, he grabbed up his baby and was about to examine to see if her limbs were intact, when she exclaimed, gleefully, "Boy! Zat was a good yide!" E. C. B.

Jane, when about 4 years old, took no interest in playing with the little girls of the neighborhood, but thoroughly enjoyed playing with the boys. When her mother asked her why she preferred playing with the boys she replied, "Well, mother, the boys always have something on their minds that they haven't done yet." J. B. E.

When Your Wash Looms MOUNTAIN HIGH

For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor

THAT'S when you'll appreciate the Maytag most—when your wash looms mountain high. Then the Maytag will prove to you its super-washability. Its quicker—easier—cleaner washing.

Just think! Big tubfuls of clean clothes done in 3 to 7 minutes. Whole washes—50 pounds of dry clothes an hour—twice as fast—twice as much as other washers. No hand-rubbing of clothes—not even on collar or cuff edges.

The Maytag cast aluminum, satin-smooth, uniquely-shaped tub is all "clothes room." It keeps water piping hot throughout an entire big wash. The wringer swings seven ways—has instantaneous tension-release—self-adjusting to handkerchiefs or blankets. Automatically reversing drainboard.

Do a week's washing with the Maytag, free—test it thoroughly. Phone any Maytag dealer—no expense—no obligation.

THE MAYTAG COMPANY, Newton, Iowa
INDIANAPOLIS BRANCH: 923 North Capitol Ave., INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

9 Outstanding Maytag Features

1.—Washes faster. The Gyrafoam Principle creates a more highly energized, turbulent and continuously effective water action. No idle water.

2.—Washes cleaner. The Gyrafoam Principle mixes the soap evenly throughout the water, and forces the super-cleansing, soapier washing solution through the meshes of the clothes. No idle suds.

3.—Largest hourly capacity in world—50 lbs. ordinary family wash per hour. Tub holds 21 gallons—4 gallons more than ordinary washers.

4.—Most compact washer made—takes floor space only 25 inches square.

5.—Cast aluminum tub—can't warp, rust, rot, swell, split nor corrode.

6.—Easily adjusted to your height, and height of tubs.

7.—Clothes can be put in or taken out while washer is running.

8.—Tub cleans itself in 30 seconds.

9.—Metal swinging wringer. Low. Swings into 7 positions. Adjusts itself automatically for handkerchiefs or blankets. Automatic drainboard. Instant tension-release. All parts enclosed.

A FRIEND IN NEED
by Sally Joy Brown

I want to be the medium through which the friend in need and the friend to need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail, a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send article to The Tribune but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

CLOTHING IS URGENTLY NEEDED.

If you have any children's clothing you don't need, now is the time of times to put it into service in the home of some poor family.

Two facts explain the emergency which confronts us this week. First, the number of requests for children's clothing. Behind this fact, and giving grim meaning to it, is the statement that influenza is on the increase. Throughout the city are hundreds of boys and girls trudging along to school with holes in their shoes and not sufficiently clad. Their clothes are threadbare and utterly inadequate to keep them warm these chill days. Their parents—fathers who've been ill, perhaps widowed mothers, are unable to provide for their little ones.

Won't the clothing outgrown be just the thing? The children have outgrown their coats and suits, perhaps, before they were worn, and frayed edges can be turned down, making an excellent garment for a younger child.

Many of us, too, have shoes a little worn which would be fine once some good half shoes have been put on.

Clothing outgrown and not much worn is often discarded while there's still service left. It should cost us a pang to throw it away when doing so is not only wasteful but positively tragic when we consider what a tremendous help it would be to the poor.

If you can spread in measured happiness in this way just send us word and we will mail a name and address to you.

For a Plucky Boy.

"I am interested in a mother with four children. The father has deserted them. The mother is sick. The sole support of the family is a boy, 18. The younger brother has just secured a job as a messenger boy, but cannot hold same without a bicycle. I am sure some boy has a bicycle he no longer cares for. MRS. H. G."

I am sure some attic or basement holds the bicycle, just gathering dust, this boy needs to make his living with. Boys, here is an opportunity to perform a good deed.

For an Invalid.

"My husband has been an invalid two years and cannot do anything except with his hands. He has done cross word puzzles for months, but has now tired of them. Lately he has been doing the jig saw puzzles that were popular several years ago. If you can get any of these for us we will appreciate it. Mrs. C. N. R."

I am sure there are some of these puzzles around, the owners of which will be happy to give them to this invalid. They will help so much to cheer him up and shorten the days for him.

Too Far to Walk.

"Has any one a baby stroller which they would give to Mrs. H. for Ruby, aged 3? The two older children attend a nursery school, and Mrs. H. would like to bring Ruby, who is shy and backward for her age, but she lives so far away that Ruby cannot walk. C. P. P."

I hope this child is going to be able to take advantage of this nursery school, and she will if only she may have that discarded baby carriage you are no longer using.

Asks for a Guitar.

"I am wondering if any of your readers has a guitar in good condition she will give to an elderly lady who plays well but who has worn out the one she has and is unable to procure another. MRS. G. C."

We should indeed like to see this elderly lady get the guitar she wants. Perhaps some musician has one to give her. We shall be glad to forward her address.

Request for Knitting Machine.

"I wonder if any of your readers has a knitting machine and yarn to give to a woman who makes her living knitting but cannot now use her fingers well. She is unable to buy one. MRS. G."

Can you supply this woman with the knitting machine which is her only means of a livelihood? You would be helping a worthy cause and making life a little easier for her.

Ukulele Fan.

"I wonder if any of your readers have any instruction books or hints for one to learn to play the ukulele. "M. A. C."

Perhaps some one who has mastered the art of ukulele playing will be willing to give his instruction books to this correspondent, who is so anxious to learn.

For an Old Lady.

"I am anxious to get in touch with some one who has an invalid wheel chair not in use. My poor old mother is 84 and cannot walk. If she had a wheel chair my sister could take her out in the fresh air. A. B."

Have you a wheel chair for this dear old lady? The spring sunshine will mean nothing to her unless she has one.

To Pass the Time.

"I have been a tuberculosis patient for about six years and during that time I have become interested in design and ornament, arts and crafts, and photography. Should some of your contributors have some books or magazines they would give me I would be grateful for them. J. W. D."

If you have any magazines or books on the above subjects which you no longer want, please let us give them to this young man who can use them to good advantage.

For a Plucky Woman.

"I am making a request for a twin go-cart for a young mother who is trying to care for a motherless infant and her own nine months baby. She cannot take them out until she has one." "MRS. B. G."

I hope some one will have a twin carriage for this mother so the babies will be able to get the benefit of the spring sunshine and air.

For Boys' Clubroom.

"In our neighborhood there are about ten boys between the ages of 13 and 15 who have formed a club to keep from making the corner a regular hangout. They need a phonograph for it. Do you know of any one who has one in fair condition they may have? H. B."

A phonograph would make the boys' clubroom quite a cheerful place, and this would be an admirable way to dispose of one you are ready to replace with a new one.

Request for Baby Carriage.

"A young couple, who used to be our neighbors, have had some misfortune, and as I am not in a position to give further assistance I am coming to you to see if any of your readers might have a baby carriage they no longer need. E. C. H."

I am sure some mother whose baby has outgrown the use of his baby carriage will be glad to give it to these people so their baby will not be denied the fresh air he needs.

Eczema Healed By This Sulphur

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. You can obtain a jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist.

Let a trial of Mentho-Sulphur show what this means to you. Send the coupon below for it. Clip it now.

Bring Out the Hidden Beauty

Do you know that just beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or aged complexion is one fair to look upon? Mercolized Wax will gradually, gently peel off the devitalized surface skin, revealing the young, fresh, white, beautiful skin underneath. The new complexion is a perfectly natural one, not to be compared with a make-up. The Wax leaves no trace but that of increased loveliness.

It Really Assists Nature

Isn't it better to remove a bad complexion than to try to hide or cover up the defects? This peeling method is painless, for the thin veil of outer skin has no nerves. Nature renews complexions the same way, constantly shedding tiny particles of the surface covering or scarf skin. But in time this process slows up. Then Mercolized Wax, the rejuvenator, Comes to the Rescue and hastens the skin shedding. This is the secret of its marvelous success. So if your skin is old-looking, sallow, over-red, blotchy, parched, rough, oily — the stubborn scarf skin—take it off! Have you pimples, freckles, moth patches, liver spots? Peel them off! Get rid of them!

It's the Sensible Thing to Do

And simple. Just apply Mercolized Wax at bedtime, as you apply cold cream, wash it off in the morning. Fine, almost invisible, skin particles are flecked off with the wax. No harm. No detention indoors. The lively, young, healthy underskin is brought gradually to view—you have the exquisite complexion of robust girlhood—the kind Women Envy and Men Admire —and you easily look from 10 to 20 years younger!

Obtain an ounce of Mercolized Wax from your druggist or department store, use as directed—and join the vast multitude who are praising the virtues of this wonder-working product.

Practical and Fancy Needle Work

By Clotilde

What is your sewing problem? Do you have trouble in following a pattern? Do you find difficulty in making a skirt hang evenly or making a sleeve that doesn't twist? If there is anything you would like to know about these or other problems of needlework write to Clotilde, The Tribune, Chicago, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope if a personal reply is desired.

EMBROIDERING INITIALS.

THE alphabet that is begun today is quite unusual and most effective looking. It will add much to the appearance of towels, table linen, or lingerie, and if one is accustomed to using the satin stitch the work will be delightful. Of course, embroidery, unevenly done, is not beautiful, and where one does not do much work of this kind time will be well spent practicing on an old piece of cloth. Take great pains with every bit of it and it will only be a question of a short time when the work will be evenly done and the real embroidering can be started.

The letters are in a way rather heavy, and all except the fine lines are done in the raised satin stitch. Much of the beauty of embroidery naturally depends on the perfection of the work, and a letter of this kind will take time to do evenly, but will be beautiful when finished.

Each letter used must be clearly transferred to the material, and tracing paper can be bought for the purpose. Then use a single strand of darning cotton for the outlining. Take small, even stitches exactly on the edges, making them shorter on the wrong than on the right side. After the outlining is finished take a double length of darning cotton in the needle for the padding or filling in. A darning stitch may be used, making it a little long on the right side and as short as possible on the wrong. This work is always done on the length of a letter, and the padding is always heavier in the center of the space, making it lighter as the outline is reached. This part of the work should be done with the material in embroidery rings.

Choose a needle that will take the floss easily, pulling through the material without any effort. If it is difficult to pull the eye through the material will be injured.

To have embroidery good looking the work must be evenly done; haste is out of the question. The satin stitch is simply an over and over one, taken across the letter at right angles to the filling in stitches. Where there are curves the stitches must be taken as close together as possible on the inside, and on the outer edge there must not be any spaces, but the stitches must just meet.

An excellent way to find out just how stitches are taken around curves will be to examine a letter that is well done, keeping it where you can look at it while working.

The single lines on these letters should be done in the outline stitch.

The second installment of this alphabet will appear next Sunday.

Answers to Sewing Questions.

MRS. H. F. S.: To get the length of your circular skirt even after letting it hang for several days pin it together at the top, so that front and back are each on a fold of the material. Lay it out flat on a table, pin together across the bottom, and apply your front, side, and back length measures. Cut off on the corrected line and finish with a binding.

SHORT LESSONS IN ENGLISH

BY MARY GRIFFIN.

DO YOU KNOW:

That you are overworking the word "tired" when you could often substitute:

Weary.
Fatigued.
Exhausted.
Fagged.
Jaded.

That in place of "huge" you could often substitute:

Immense.
Colossal.
Enormous.
Gigantic.
Stupendous.

The errors in the following sentences? (Answers below.)

1. Her mood was a gay one and her comments on life optimistic.
2. Some people are aggravated by her manners.
3. The child was angry at his mother because of the punishment he had received.
4. He went through life declieving himself and every one he knew.
5. The little neighbor lad tried time after time to learn his puppy tricks, but without success.
6. Did you see that advertisement, "Six thousand white women's handkerchiefs to be sold at a dollar a dozen"?

DO YOU KNOW:

The source of each of the following quotations? (Answers below.)

1. "And what is so rare as a day in June?"
2. "It is good to live and learn."
3. "Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul."
4. "A thing of beauty is a joy forever."
5. "The best laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft a-gley."
6. "I have not slept one wink."

ANSWERS.

Sentence errors:

1. Incorrect omission of the verb. The copula (form of the verb "to be") must be repeated when it cannot conform to the subject. "Her mood was a gay one and her comments on life were optimistic," is correct.
2. "Aggravate" should not be used for "irritate." Aggravate means to make more grave or heavy.
3. "Angry at" is used when expressing anger for an animal or an inanimate object. "Angry with" is used when expressing anger for a human being.
4. Spelling error. "Deceive" is correct. Note the "ei."
5. "The little neighbor lad tried time after time to teach his puppy tricks, but without success, is correct. A person "learns," the teacher "teaches," but no person can "learn" another.
6. Transpose "white." The handkerchiefs are "not "white women's handkerchiefs," but "women's white handkerchiefs.

Quotations:

1. James Russell Lowell, ("Vision of Sir Launfal.")
2. Cervantes ("Don Quixote.")
3. Oliver Wendell Holmes, ("The Chambered Nautilus.")
4. John Keats, ("Endymion.")
5. Robert Burns, ("To a Mouse.")
6. Shakespeare, ("Cymbeline.")

He Was Bald.

We had been studying sky line drawing and we had used the old Field museum as a model. The dome of this structure appeared to have a chimney on top from where we sat drawing.

Upon passing the museum in a street car I perceived there was no chimney protruding from the dome.

It being a rather warm day the passenger across the aisle from us had removed his hat, revealing a bald head. Imagine my embarrassment when I pointed at the dome of the museum, which was on a line with the man's head, and casually remarked to my companion, "There's no chimney on that dome!" L. G.

Not a Cent With Him.

One Saturday evening I attended a basketball game and there I met a girl I knew. I invited her to go home with me. After the game we went to an ice-cream parlor. As we were waiting there two girls came in, both of whom were close friends of the girl I was with.

She asked me to invite them over, so I said, "Come on over here and sit down. The treat's on me."

They came over and everything went along fine until we were leaving. I reached in my pocket for my billfold, so as to pay the bill, and to my dismay I found my pocket empty. I had left my billfold at home in my other trousers. This was my most embarrassing moment. W. E. M.

It Rained Hosiery.

I had the misfortune to get a "run" in my stocking just before going to a matinée. I hurriedly purchased a new pair which I changed at the department store.

Having no place to carry the old ones, I desperately stuffed them into the umbrella which I happened to be carrying home from the office. When we came out of the show a slight rain was falling. Unthinkingly, I opened my umbrella and the two stockings descended, in their full conspicuous length on my head and shoulders.

I got out of the crowd as quickly as possible, but well aware of the pronounced laughter of the witnesses of my plight. C. M.

Horrors!

I prided myself upon being a fine housekeeper. One of the points concerning which I was most careful was never to allow anything to remain in a bag and never to permit food to remain uncovered. I always kept the coffee cans to put away extra food in.

My fiancé invited me to a picnic luncheon with some six or seven of his people and I offered to bring iced cakes for the meal. He seemed delighted and all the way out extolled my housewifely qualities and told them how good those little iced cakes would be. I beamed upon every one, for the cakes were, like the one I had tasted, delicious, and to keep them moist I had put them into a three pound coffee can.

At the noon hour after every one had finished I proudly opened my three pound can and, without glancing into it, handed it to my future mother-in-law. She regarded the interior coldly.

"I'm sorry," she finally let fall, "but I don't eat bacon drippings!"

By mistake I had brought the coffee can filled with bacon drippings and had left the iced cakes in the icebox!

MRS. L. M. M.

The Day After.

I'll never forget the time I came down to the office raving over the wonderful fellow I had met and who had taken me home the evening before. Just at the point where every one was sick and tired of hearing about him, in he walked, looking just as far from what he looked like the night before as could be. Unshaven, ill fitting working suit and cap—I tell you I could have died!

I had forgotten my glasses, leaving them in his pocket, and he, thinking I possibly needed them for my work, and remembering where I said I worked, stopped in during his noon hour to bring them to me. Did I get the merry ha-ha—whew! R. M.

Dare's Elixir Mentha Pepsin

Night Coughing Relieved At Once

Why suffer continually from a persistent, weakening night cough when you can get almost instant relief, and usually break the cough completely in 24 hours by a new method based on the famous Dr. King's New Discovery?

Here is the method: You simply take one teaspoonful and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it. It has a double action. It not only soothes and heals irritation, but also removes the phlegm and congestion which are the real cause of the coughing. As a result even the worst cough usually disappears quickly.

Dr. King's New Discovery is for coughs, chest colds, bronchitis, spasmodic croup, etc. Fine for children, too—no harmful drugs. Very economical, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good druggists. Ask for

Doris Blake's Answers TO LOVE PROBLEMS

Have you a perplexing love affair on which you need the counsel of a friend? Write to Doris Blake, care The Tribune, Chicago. If you wish a personal reply please send a stamped addressed envelope.

Give It Time.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a boy who does not love me. He has broken my heart. I am sure I will not be able to stand it much longer.

"HEARTBROKEN."

Try to brace up. You could not find happiness with a man who didn't return your love. Time will heal your wound, dear.

It Was Thoughtless.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in love with a young fellow and about a week ago his father died. He does not seem to bother with me since and does not even answer my letters. Do you think it is on account of his father's death or has he given me up? I hope not, for I love him dearly.

"CURLY HAIR."

Curly Hair, I am afraid you did not use good judgment in writing to the young man at such a time. Naturally he is in no mood to receive letters now, other than a letter of sympathy, dear. We must try to be considerate of others in all things, particularly at a time of such sorrow.

Competition Always Helps.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a young girl and I am going with a fellow three years older than I. I think he doesn't care as much for me as he did, but I love him and I want to know how I may win his love back.

"BLONDE."

Blonde, perhaps you have let him feel too sure of you and he is not so particular about doing the little things which pleases the ladies. Why not show some attention to some other chap? If he has just become careless in his manner it will be an eye opener to him and he will realize there is competition and he must be more attentive or he will lose out.

Too Young to Know.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in love with a fellow who proved he loved me. Now his parents object and he has given me up. Please advise. BLAJ."

There's no accounting for the actions of an 18 year old, Blaj. He's in love with one girl today and another tomorrow—or at least, so he thinks.

Forget Jobless One.

"Dear Miss Blake: I'm engaged to a boy of 19. Lately I met another young man who says he loves me. He has no steady job, but is 24. Can you advise me? PERPLEXED."

A young man who intends making something of himself should have a good start on the road to success at the age of 24. I should not consider that one, if I were you.

MISS ANNE WHARTON

"Soot and grime in 'the biggest city' makes it hard for girls of today to have dewily fresh, immaculate complexions," says chic Miss Anne Wharton, 93 Morningside Drive, New York City. "I couldn't do it at all without the rich, creamy lather of Black and White Skin Soap, as necessary in my young life as food and clothes! I use it for beauty-giving facials, and for my bath, too, because it cleanses and softens my skin luxuriously, and keeps it from feeling dry and drawn, or looking harsh and rough."

Black and White Soap, almost lotion-like in its action, helps the skin retain the natural oils which nourish the pores and glands. You can get the convenient 25c cakes from dealers everywhere who are selling and recommending the Black and White Beauty Creations.

MANDEL BROTHERS

SPRING OPENING MARCH 22 TO 27

Jeanne Lanvin designed in her inimitable manner the robe de style of Greuze blue and pink changeable taffeta for the miss sketched above. Petal-like trimmings make ornate skirt and neck as well as front motif. $275.

A spring fantasy is this delicate chiffon frock by Chanel. At the back flutters a two-tiered cape effect, while long drapes in the manner of pleats give graceful fullness to the skirt in front; a delicate sea green. This is $250.

Spring gowns from France emphasize a graceful fullness. A sleeveless dinner frock by Lucien Lelong is shown here. The overdress is in two tiers bordered in a fine tan lace. A chiffon sash fastens it in front. $195.

Black chiffon and green taffeta form the body of charming Martial et Armand model. Delicate black chiffon flowers encircle the hem on a background of the green taffeta. A delightful spring frock for informal wear. $295.

Martial et Armand has designed an interesting bolero model of black and white silk. The peasant sleeves are brilliant with colored flowers and new notes of trimming are the brass ornaments and silver chain mail. $295.

This black silk coat by Jeanne Lanvin is striking in its individuality. The unusual sleeves have insets of large white polka dots bordered with white embroidery. The lining is silk in a delightful shade of green. $225.

Enter—A Cosmopolitan Spring

WITH all the brilliance, the gayety, and the bright unfolding! In every corner of this great Store you will find reflected the freshness, the color, and the livened spirit of the season. Merchandise is at its loveliest—and every delightful vagary of the mode is expressed—from the most recent of French frills to the latest tilt of a hat.

A Style Panorama

A careful programme of advertising for each day will spotlight styles of the moment and the complete readiness of all departments for Spring. On Tuesday we present "Fashions Radiating from Paris."

10:30 a. m. and 2:30 p. m.

—each day mannequins will model on the fourth floor garments from such famed couturiers as:

Lelong Lanvin Renee
Drecoll Vionet Jenny
Agnes Chanel Callot
Patou Brandt Miler Soeurs
Martial et Armand
Blanche Lebouvier

The figures in this large illustration are all our own importations now on display in our fourth floor apparel departments.

THIS SPRING WE WEAR OUR FOOTLIGHTS - - - - - by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—Back in the '70s of the last century they were fond of dancing the varsoviana, that dainty and exceedingly feminine step which was accompanied by a musical selection entitled, "Do You See My New Shoes?" This old tune has come into my mind frequently as I have peeped in at the collections of spring footwear. Indeed, I have come to the conclusion that "Do You See My New Shoes?" is going to be the one authentic spring song of the year 1926.

I, myself, have always been a leading advocate of the doctrine of plain and elegant footwear. I realize that so far as this theory is concerned I am down at the heel. For shoes of today are anything but plain. They look exactly as if they had been concocted by a French chef.

Yes, for the tailored costume we may continue to choose some tranquil bit of suede or kid in oxford, opera pump, one strap, or colonial effect. Such a lapse will be overlooked. Yet even here the shoes are apt to be of alligator, with some unusual appliques or bindings, and they are even more likely to set off their solid color of kid or suede with heel and perhaps buckle of a startling crimson.

When it comes to sports wear and evening occasions we are not held down by any of the delicate scruples which restrain our street selection. Then we get right down to the business of wearing footlights and no combination is too gay or too extravagant to betray the prevailing mood. There are shoes of linen for sports wear which range all the prevailing pastel and high tones. Most arresting of all, however, are those models of kid which are trimmed with either gold or silver. This latter habit has been sponsored by various fashionable women sojourning at Palm Beach, and the probability is the vogue of the metal trimmed sports shoe will continue throughout our less exclusive warm weather.

Here is what a friend of mine, just back from Palm Beach, tells me anent the present craze. "The last day I was there," said she, "I saw a girl in a gray balbriggan sports costume. With this she wore gray hose and glacé kid opera pumps, which had both bindings and triangular appliques of silver. Her felt hat, in the same orchid tint, was trimmed with similar metallic touches. And, as for her gray doeskin gloves, these were completed by a touch of delicate orchid and silver."

This little account of smart sports costume brings home to us a tragic truth. What if we do get some simple little jumper sports costume? That is a mere prelude to the real business of orchestration. For more than ever before this coming season is going to be one of carefully matched accessories. Your hat often corresponds in both color and trimming to your shoes. And, as for your hosiery, this item is carefully mated with your gloves.

Ever since a certain crisis in the life of our great common ancestress, the reptile is supposed to have had quite a way with us women. Today his persuasive powers are certainly apparent in the footwear of Eve's descendants. For snakeskin in all sorts of brilliant colors is used for heels, bindings, and appliques on those kid pumps which are now so much the vogue at our exclusive resorts. These kids come fashionably in parchment tint, in bois de rose, champagne, sauterne, and beige, and against such tints various snakeskins, such as colored python, achieve brilliant scenic effects.

Alligator! This, too, continues to sun in the light of popular favor. Red alligator heels and buckles are a favorite on black patent leather models. In the province of evening wear, suede alligator is scoring a tremendous social triumph and is worked up in charming pastel tints, such as light plute and pale green, all enchantingly filled in with gold. The same material also constitutes a novelty trim for various daytime shoes.

We launch on navy blue at once by saying that this smart new coat, pictured at the extreme left, is of serge in this tone. Its plaited collar is banded by narrow strips of black patent leather and its buckle is gray bone.

Second, a new and arresting coat-frock also elects navy, but here the fabric is the fashionable kashatoile. The trimming is red rickrack braid.

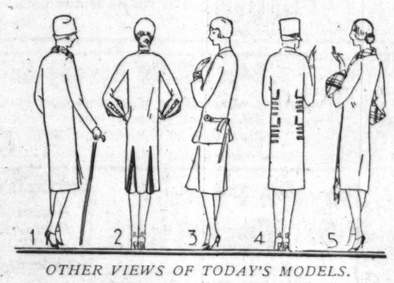
In the center a new suit of navy serge exploits the belted back together with a side flare of both jacket and skirt. The accompanying blouse is of magenta crepe, embroidered in black and white.

Fourth, a midnight blue serge coat set off with black bone buttons and black silk braid finds final expression in godets of periwinkle blue crepe.

Last, a light gray hashatoile coat is trimmed with taffeta plaided in salad green, pink and gray on a white ground.

Before leaving this lurid chapter in our history of footwear, one mustn't forget to mention the sway which buckles now possess over the fancy of the designer. Buckles of all sorts and descriptions occur, but the most fashionable type is the one of self-material in oval shape. Such buckles are frequently given their essential appearance of decoration by the tongue of colored leather upon which they are set. Incidentally, let me say that the colonial type has been revived enthusiastically and competes successfully with the ever fashionable opera pump, one strap model, and oxford.

As I have already remarked, the latest dictate concerning hosiery is that it should match the gloves. These latter accessories still cling to the fashionable faith of the slip-on. Although one and two clasp gloves are advocated by some authorities for street wear, we can hardly go wrong by selecting the slip-on. This, however, is no longer at its best in white. No, these washable doeskin gloves, now so firmly entrenched in favor, elect most frequently the delicate gray, the rose tinted beige, or the yellow tinted beige at present dominating the hosiery field.



OTHER VIEWS OF TODAY'S MODELS.

It would be impossible here to take up millinery in any serious way, but in a few well chosen paragraphs I think I can convey some comfort to the many sufferers from that epidemic of the small brimmed creased felt. There are today many modifications of the felt in gigolo shape—we show it again, you see, on our central model—but there can be no doubt about it. Millinery is no longer expressing the same heart-felt want. No, a great and glorious battle is being waged against that tyrant, the small felt hat, and I, for one, am heart and soul with the revolutionary forces.

Grosgrain ribbon hats, matching in color either coat or gown—here is perhaps the most formidable rival of old Czar Felt. Millinery of this description was a feature at the Auteuil races recently held in Paris, and our own New York specialty shops twinkle with many reflections from this vast mirror of fashion. Belting ribbons are another aggressor in the field. As for the straws, we find the crocheted ones being featured in many small shapes which were once linked inevitably with felts. Bangkoks continue as smart as ever, and as for Milans, this straw has scored one of the greatest triumphs of its career.

Nor are these ribbon and fabric developments of spring interpreted with the same monotony that has marked previous seasons. Various piquancies of draped crowns, various inflections of the continental tricorne, and any number of large hats are here to prove the greater flexibility of our new millinery taste. Even among large hats there is a difference. While some continue to sponsor the shortened and turned up back, others are absolutely cart wheel in shape.

Departing from the important field of the spring accessories, let me say a word concerning that first thought which wells up in every woman's mind at this time of year. Now when we are turning our attention to spring street clothes—be these the tailleur, the frock, or the coat—it is important to remember that both navy and black have recovered every whit of their former strength and are doing a greater volume of business than ever before.

Hand in hand with the revival of these solid tones has come the recrudescence of serge. Really, one can't do anything wiser about the street costume this March than by turning to the good old-fashioned serge of fine weave. Make your suit or your petite robe of this fabric in navy blue and you can hardly go wrong.

In the center of the page we find one of the new versions of the tailleur conducted to perfection via this navy serge route. Now, as I have remarked before, the Tuxedo or smoking jacket suit, is one of the salients of the year's suit exploitation. Linked with this smart type of jacket we find, too, many other styles of short, boyish coat. Yet the prominence of this mode does not distract our interest from several other smart modes of this genre—not certainly from that model with the flared and fitted jacket which we illustrate here. Here is a popular tailleur of the hour, and that it is more sympathetic with the mature figure than is the youthful jacket no one will dispute.

There is a decided flare to the sides of both skirt and jacket, and in the back you will locate one of the dominating themes of the new spring tailleur. This is a narrow belt. In this case you find it adjusted at the side with a black bone button and tying in the back. A magenta crepe blouse, embroidered in black and white, is echoed by a red felt hat, and our shoe thesis is reinforced by crocodile shoes. And, by the way, red hats have come in for a tremendous vogue. Needless to say, they look stunning with all these new navy blue things.

Many of the new coats are absolutely straight line. They have only a difference of fabric and trimming interest to lull you to insensibility concerning the venerable age of the contour itself. Witness at the extreme left this coat of navy serge, with its novelty collar of plaited self-material held in by strips of black leather and closed by a gray bone buckle. Recall to mind, please, the importance of harmonizing your accessories when I add that the navy Bangkok hat is banded in gray grosgrain and that the latter tint is repeated in both hosiery and the slip-on doeskin gloves.

The TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

SWEET BUNS AND RUSKS.

HOW sweet to make a sweet dough is the question, especially when we are going to use it for buns—hot cross and others. This same dough we may use in a variety of ways, and it is one that the amateur will probably have better success with than with a plain bread dough.

Now, what is a bun as compared with a roll? A bun proper should have its crust entire—that is, it should be made up into little round cushion shapes and these baked in such a way that one does not touch another. A rusk, as we make it out from a study of no end of recipes of the period when it was in as high favor as the Danish things are today, which are made in many cases with a dough no different from that for the old time rusks and buns—the rusk has a crust only on the top and bottom. Its sides may be several inches high and without a crust, because the little cut out rounds of dough are put close together in the pan.

Sweet Rusk.

The dough for sweet rusks may be used, as we have stated, for other forms, yet in making buns one egg for a pound of bread quantity of dough is perhaps more commonly used. Here is the rusk recipe for this quantity: One cup of milk, one yeast cake, about three cups of flour, one-fourth pound of butter, which is one-half cup, three-fourths of a cup of sugar, two eggs, one teaspoon of salt. Make a sponge out of two cups of the flour, the milk scalded and cooled to tepid, and the sugar and the butter. Let rise about two hours, then add the beaten eggs and the other cup of flour. Then knead, using as small an amount of flour as is consistent.

If much flour is kneaded in the rusks will be too stiff. When the dough is well kneaded roll it out in an inch thick sheet, cut out small biscuits, and set them close together in a small baking pan. Quite small square pans are best. Set them to rise and leave until they are about two inches high or a little more. Dissolve a little sugar in milk or water, rub over the top of the risen shapes, then sprinkle on sugar and bake the rusks for half an hour in a 350 oven. If the tops begin to get brown at the end of fifteen or twenty minutes lower the heat of the oven somewhat. It half spoils them to have the top other than a dainty brown.

Precautions in Making Sweet Doughs.

It is best to sift and slightly warm flour. Exceedingly cold flour delays the rising, and slow rising may cause failure in bread and roll making. There are two ways or more of adding the butter. It may be creamed, which means that it is worked till a good deal above ice box temperature, and then the sugar worked into it, as in making cake. But since as much as a quarter of a pound of butter is rarely used, or when there is only half this or less, a way to combine the butter with the milk is to heat the milk, pour it over the butter, or whatever shortening is used, then whip the two with an egg beater until not a drop of fat shows around the edges. This means putting the butter fat back into its original element. If the milk is now at a tepid temperature the dissolved yeast may now be added and beaten in. In adding the flour the temperature should not be lowered to any great extent—it will not be in summer—or the rising of the sponge or batter will be slowed up.

Plain Buns.

Buns made of such a dough as that for the rather elegant sweet rusk will be fine, but a simpler dough gives good results. The following recipe is twice as large as that for the rusk, so that really the buns will have only one-sixth the sugar and one-eighth as much butter as when made with it: Two cups of milk, one ounce of butter—two tablespoons—four tablespoons of sugar, one or two teaspoons of salt, one yeast cake dissolved in two tablespoons of tepid water, one egg, about six cups of flour. Scald the milk, pour it over the butter and salt and most of the sugar, and cool to lukewarm, with or without beating. With such a small amount of butter the beating is not essential. Use the rest of the sugar in dissolving yeast which may be added to the dough or to the milk before the flour is added. It is a little safer to add it to the dough. Beat the egg, and beat it into the lukewarm milk before adding the flour. Add the flour gradually because it is sometimes possible to use less than the amount mentioned, so getting a lighter bun. Four cups of flour in this recipe will sometimes give a dough that can be kneaded, while only part of the other two cups need be kneaded in. Only so much is needed as will give an elastic dough which will not stick. When it is kneaded to perfection put it aside to double in size, then roll out into a half inch or three-fourth inch sheet, from which cut out the buns. Let them rise about ten minutes, glaze, and bake. In order to roll the dough, flatten and spread it well with the hands.

Glazing and Icing Buns.

The sweeter a bun dough is the less it needs glazing, and many people prefer to bake it plain and then to ice the top partially with confectioner's sugar dissolved in a little hot water, milk, or cream. When water is used, especially, it is best to add a few drops of flavoring. Nuts may be sprinkled over the fresh icing, and when these are chopped almonds the bun is called an almond bun. The icing is sometimes put on in the shape of a cross to make cross buns. Sometimes hot buns are brushed over with cream or butter, but this is not particularly recommended, because it affects the flavor of the bun. When the dough is rather plain a glazing made of an egg slightly beaten, with or without a tablespoon of water and with a little sugar, is brushed over the bun before it is put to bake.

Baking a Bun.

The piece of dough shaped into a bun is small, and of airy texture, so that the heat readily penetrates it. Therefore it may be baked at a high temperature for a short time to give it a crisp and thin crust; or it may be baked at a lower temperature for a different effect. As high a temperature as 500 degrees for fifteen minutes can be used and the protection of a glaze will keep the buns from browning too deeply. Or to prevent the outside from browning and hardening too soon they may be sprinkled over with plain cold water just the minute before they are put into the hot oven.

Manipulating a Plain Dough.

A plain bread dough may have sugar added to a part of it, while some butter is spread over it and some fruit worked into it to make a pleasant fruit loaf, or buns. With this plain dough we may not only make plain rolls of various sorts, but we may make something like a bun, or a cookie, or even somewhat like a pie crust.

Hot Cross Buns.

Hot cross buns should contain currants, since they are quite English, and what makes a bun for an Englishman is the currants in it. The commonest way to make a hot cross bun is to slash the top at right angles before the bun is baked. The slash will be of different widths in the end, according to the temperature of the baking. Perhaps an oven at a 450 degree temperature is the best one for a slashed bun and unless the dough should be a heavy one, fifteen minutes of baking will be sufficient.

A Sweet Dough for Sixteen Buns.

The following small recipe may be used for a bun considerably thicker than the "plain bun," but not so rich as one made of the dough for the fine rusk: One cup of milk, one-half cup of tepid water, one-half a yeast cake or a whole one for speed, one-half a cup of sugar, one-half of a well beaten egg (save the rest for glazing), four cups of flour. Follow the usual method and if you have some powdered orange peel and want to add it, and currants, your buns will be that much more interesting. Dried candied orange peel, powdered, is excellent for seasoning sweet doughs.

Yeast Biscuits and Cookies.

One of the pleasantest variations of a yeast dough ever made hereabouts had as a base a dough made of six cups of flour, two cups of liquid, four tablespoons of butter, one condensed yeast cake, two tablespoons of sugar (but more can be used), and two teaspoons of salt.

Now suppose we have it ready to bake in loaves. Take off a small piece when it is at this stage, roll it up to a smooth ball with the least possible kneading, then roll it out in a rather thick square. Butter this square rather thickly, fold it over so as to get a small square again, roll out a little, and fold again in order that the butter may be well amalgamated with the dough, so that it cannot come to the surface even though the dough should be rolled quite thin.

At this stage put it to chill for half an hour, as you would a puff paste dough. At the end of the half hour, or when ready to bake this, roll it out as thin as it will roll, cut out rounds of it, rub them over with cold water and bake them for twelve minutes in a hot oven. Serve hot. Roll the rest even thinner if you can and roll some sugar into it, which the butter will dampen, cut out, and bake as cookies.

Raised Waffles.

The following recipe, recently printed, met with favor: Make a batter of two and a half cups of flour, one cup of milk scalded and cooled to tepid, two tablespoons of melted butter, one beaten egg, a teaspoon of salt, and one yeast cake. Treat this like a bread sponge, mixing and putting to rise. When it has doubled bake it for about four minutes, to a waffle. This makes an excellent batter for an electric waffle iron and no extra butter need be added.

Of Them All.

And of them all the rusk is the finest thing, and of course is the most expensive. If you make them, perhaps you will speak as George W. Cable did in "The Gradissimes" of "the inspiring smell of warm rusks."

The Last Word in Paris Fashions

The new spring sports ensemble has a coat that swings loose from shoulder to hem and a dress of two materials.

Candy-striped tussor in green and beige makes this Lelong two-piece sports dress.

The one-piece dress of violet taffeta is a novelty sports model.

A cape cut square like a shawl and a checkered red and beige blouse are spring fashion items.

SPRING FASHIONS CAUSE CLASH IN PARIS PAPERS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—They're at it again—the French press, M. Maurice de Waleffe, writing in Le Journal, has started anew the cry of "Wolf! Wolf!" at the American invasion of the French fine arts—this time the fine art of the costume. A movement is being started to include in the French academy a sixth class, which will be a class of the French coutouriers, to protect the creative genius of France from the barbarians from over the seas—meaning, and stating particularly, Americans. M. Waleffe is especially fearful that the American woman will intrude her own taste and her own ideas in such force upon the French fashion makers that they will become isolated and powerless before her onslaught. He sees in every sports costume the marauder, and in every band and cuff the influence of the stranger.

Particularly he resents the fact that names of dresses are given in English, and that the American is permitted to understand what it is all about. What is left out of the gentleman's conception is the obvious truth that it is American appreciation of the French art of the costume which has widened it from a provincial affair to an influence that spreads over the whole earth. I was myself present at the "repetition generale" of Lucien Lelong, which provoked this tirade. Four hundred guests included probably fifty American press representatives and Mrs. Vanderbilt and a few women from American shores noted for their superative taste. The collection was in every detail Parisian. Some inspiration, particularly in the sports models, came from the United States, but it had certainly been given a sauce piquante of Parisian interpretation. Genius is not private property and knows no national frontiers, and if M. Lelong gained impetus for finer interpretations of the fashions of today from his American visit, French art is certainly no less poor because of that. It was Lelong, of all the Paris dressmakers, who first realized that since the world is on the move, why not make clothes that step lively, too? Dodging the traffic on Michigan avenue and on Fifth may have helped this idea some, but in the broader sense, what difference does it make? If Lelong's kinetic-in-motion styles revolutionize the spring mode, the credit goes to him for having been alert enough to understand the swiftness of modern life.

I have selected for today four of the models from Lelong's spring collection, sports dresses and costumes, which are the first shown from his spring styles. These will give you an idea of the extent of the American inspiration. They are in themselves a refutation of the idea that this is a menace to artistic and elegant modes for which Paris is famous.

Our first offering is a sports ensemble, created of yellow kasha—corn yellow, please remember. The coat is one of those straight line models that hang loose from the shoulders. It looks simple, like pulling rabbits out of silk hats, but it has all of the tricks of the couturier in its clever cutting, the gores notched at the waist line giving a decorative waist line that does not halt the full length movement. This coat is lined with brown, beige, and yellow plaid kasha, which also forms the revers. The sleeves, an easy, comfortable cut, are given movement by the mousquetaire cuffs that finish them. The dress makes use of two materials—a fashionable trick to give interest and variety. The waist, which is bloused in the new manner, is of yellow jersey, and the skirt, which is plaited with big plaits, is made of plaid kasha, matching the lining and revers of the coat. Everything is straight line, but it is straight line in the same sense that a flower stem is—with variations which allow for the undulation of movement.

Our second offering is a Lelong sports dress and is made of candy striped tussor—a design and a hilk that are important factors in spring styles. Several tones of green on a beige ground make this material, and Lelong has used it in a decidedly decorative manner, employing the stripes horizontally and balancing them with long and deep plaits at the sides of the blouse and of the skirt. We used to think the bloused waist was only for the thin girl, but we have learned, by practical and optical demonstration, that blousing a long waist does nice things to the stout figure and erases many defects. Lelong cleverly inserts a fitted girdls and a half yoke to break the line of this model. The sleeves are easy, loose, and graceful, with band and buttom trimming. A plain collar of green gives a neat finish to the jumper closing. Of especial merit is the cutting of the girdls, which combines vertical lines of green piping with the horizontal stripes. The skirt is kept flat at front and back, and this flatness with the blouse of the waist gives a full length line that is becoming above all to the Anglo-Saxon figure.

Our third model should be carefully noted for two paramount reasons. The first is the fabric—an old favorite which is rejuvenated this spring after a decade of oblivion—taffeta. The second is the fact that this is a one-piece model. We have had so many two-piece dresses that every one welcomes the one-piece, with no jeopardizing of the joining, which may, or may not be a perfect union. Lelong uses a true parma violet taffeta for this frock—a tint that is extremely popular in Paris today. He combines this tone with bands of rose taffeta, and with thin line, gold embroidery—a harmony, which even the pessimistic gentleman of Le Journal would admit is French. The scarf collar and tie, all in one, are of rose taffeta, as are the bands on the skirt and the mousquetaire cuffs. The gilet is embroidered in outline gold thread. In the straight lines of the bodice, and the inlaid plaits, Lelong has gotten the movement which is so much heralded, and which in this case is made secondary to a beautiful stream line Inverted tucks give grace to the shoulder lines, and a double row of taffeta covered buttons trim the center front closing.

Our fourth model is a cape ensemble, with one of those square cut shawl capes that Paris favors. The cape and the skirt are made of beige "gros"—or rough crêpe. The cape is ornamented only with bias, self-material bands, and the skirt is trimmed with a series of graded tucks at the center front and back. It is given the famous Lelong movement by the side plaiting, which covers the hips, and extends to the hem line. The blouse, actually as well as nominally, is made of red and brown checkered crêpe. It has a clearly defined blouse at the hip line, just above the narrow girdle, and the throat hugging neckline is finished with a small collar and a big, Bohemian tie of the checkered crepe. The ends of this conspicuous cravat are banded with plain beige crêpe.

The sleeves are made bell shaped below the elbows, and caught into trim-fitted cuffs. Above the elbow they are as close fitting as a regulation tight sleeve. The cape manteau is amenable to all sorts of graceful drapery, classic and modern.

LOVE LETTER

The Tribune will pay $1 for every love letter published. So, if you can write a good one, or if you have one in your private or family possession you would like to enter the contest, send it to Love Letter Editor, The Tribune, Chicago. As no letters will be returned, send copies of the ones you wish to keep.

REGENERATION.

DEAR: Yes, I've known other women, sweetheart. They were just women. Loved them? I think you ask just to get me to tell you again how much I love you. You know there isn't room in any man's heart for two loves like the one you roused in me for you. Yes, I've known other women, but, now that you ask me, I can't ever remember their names, or where I knew them, or who they were. You are all women, old sweet, and you know without any telling, just how precious you are to me, how empty my heart and life would be without you.

You know me better than I know myself. Your knowledge of my love answers your own little wonderings about it. Harder to answer, harder to understand, is how you, whom so many men want, could love me. I wasted my life until I knew you. I had nothing to offer you. Yet you loved me, of all men. It's a mystery that makes me wonder now, even as I wondered that first night I found you loved me.

Do you remember that night, dear?

I do; I live it over again, each minute. But I didn't love you then as I do now. Work? Success? Wealth? Power? Admiration of others? Why, dear, there's nothing in all the world that means anything but you, your love, your presence. Good night. God guard my sweetheart from all worries and all harm. YOURS.

THE CHEEKIEST PERSON I EVER MET

Send us a short, to the point, reminiscence of the cheekiest person you ever met, and we'll pay you $1 for it if we print it. All letters must be addressed to the Cheekiest Person Editor, The Tribune, Chicago.

Selling a Gift.

One Christmas I gave a near relative of mine a box of expensive stationery. The following Christmas he brought the box of paper to me, asking me to buy it back, stating he would sell it to me for half of what I paid for it.

He explained he preferred a paper with lines and that he was giving me the opportunity of purchasing a gift for some one else at a reduced price. E. E. E.

Lacking in Tact.

I work in a ready to wear shop. One day a woman came in to look at coats. After showing her a great many, she decided she would look elsewhere before buying.

She went down the street to our competitor's shop and bought her coat there. They packed it in a box for her.

Then she came back to our shop and stood before the mirror, powdered her face, fixed her hair, etc. She then opened the box, put on her new coat right before me, and asked me please to throw the empty box away.

I call that some cheek! G. E. W.

Not Given to Compliments.

Mother had made new draperies for our dining room windows and thought they were nice. A few days later the woman next door came in for a short visit. She noticed the new draperies. Mother asked her how she liked them.

After looking at them for a while she answered, "They are nice, but you can tell they are cheap." L. H.

An Expensive Ride.

The cheekiest person I ever met was a man who asked me to help him in making out his first papers. After spending an entire morning with him he left me just at lunch time with not as much as a "thank you."

Some time later the wife of this man died and, not having many friends, he asked me to act as pallbearer. I consented and after the funeral was over, to my astonishment, he asked me to pay for the seat I occupied in the limousine.

Needless to say, I paid him in disgust. I was out a half day's pay at work, in addition to the money charged for the seat. W. B.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Women Need a Mild Laxative —Not a "Physic"

Countless girls and women now know how foolish and needless it is to "purge" and "physic" themselves to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, sallow skin, colds, or sour, gassy stomach.

They have found that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even for those heretofore chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate girl or woman. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

Creeping Toddling Youngsters Need Comfortable Little Shoes

SOFT and pliable, yet sturdily, gracefully fashioned, with waterproof soles, Kinder-Garten Shoes are the best children's shoes you can possibly buy. And the thriftiest, too—because they last so much longer.

They cost but $1.75 to $5, according to age. Honestly made for over 20 years by Fargo-Hallowell Shoe Company, Chicago. Sold by neighborhood dealers—by L. KLEIN, Halsted & 14th St. —in the Loop by THE FAIR.

For your protection—this trademark on every sole. "Kinder-Garten" on every lining.

Books Always Make a Room Companionable.

MAKING A PLACE FOR BOOKS.

THE fad for banishing all of the books in the home to one room is a movement greatly to be deplored. Have a room full of books if you can, lined from the ceiling to floor, but let the treasures overflow to other parts of the house.

Finding place for books in the modern small apartment and house, requires careful consideration. Few of us are fortunate enough to secure apartments in which built in shelves are already installed, and in this age of frequent moving, we do not wish to go to the bother and expense of having shelves built in. They could hardly be torn out on moving day, and if they could, they surely wouldn't fit in the next home.

To simplify this difficulty all sorts of interesting odd pieces are offered. For the young couple just starting to keep house, and who have not yet acquired a great collection of books, many types of small cases have their especial appeal. These will suffice for the time being, and later may be used at convenient points, to supplement the large book cases. A room with books always looks so much more companionable and interesting than one without. It is filled not merely with concrete things, but with spiritual life.

One of the loveliest small apartment living rooms I have ever seen has a pair of book trough end tables at each end of a davenport. One is filled with fascinating books, the other holds current magazines. The whole room breathes a delightful warmth and comfortable welcome. Woodwork is old ivory and the walls are ecru. Glass curtains of a light, pinkish mauve casement gauze hang beneath jade green and gold sunfast draperies. The floor is carpeted in taupe. Two extra cushions on the deep amethyst davenport are covered with changeable jade green and gold taffeta, piped with mauve. Nearby stands a wrought iron reading lamp, dully rubbed with gold, and fitted with a shade made of finely plaited cloth of gold, over coral colored silk, finished with a ruching of the same taffeta that covers the cushions. Beside a comfortable Cogswell chair, chosen by the man of the house, is a low walnut table on which are kept a complete array of his smoking accessories and a jade green pottery lamp with a natural parchment shade, banded in black and coral. Doesn't that make a thoroughly satisfactory reading spot?

Another arm chair is placed near a little drop leaf table, an admirable arrangement for serving afternoon tea from a decorative jade green tea set. An escritoire desk and bench and a console phonograph, radio, flanked by a pair of side chairs, in walnut, complete the room's furnishings. On the walls, a pair of floral paintings, a long mirror, and a dully polychromed bas relief lend their pleasing color notes. Softening the glare from the side lights about the room are parchment shields, decorated with floral motifs.

Decidedly new is the "booking" in another apartment living room. At each side of a wide, double doorway leading to the reception hall, high, narrow paired book shelves are placed. They are painted peacock blue on the outside, and deep, dull red on the inside. The tops are arches, and as the uppermost shelf is too high for convenient reaching, each holds a bright lemon yellow vase, instead of books.

These vases decide the color scheme for the room. Woodwork is stained walnut and the walls are done in sand colored, trowel finished plaster. Glass curtains are lemon yellow silk gauze. Striped casement silk, in peacock blue, lemon yellow, and mauve, with hairlines of black and red, makes the draperies. A large, comfortable davenport, with squashy, down-filled cushions, is upholstered in jacquard patterned mohair, with an undertone of deep red. Extra cushions are peacock blue, piped in yellow. A pair of tables, one at each end of the davenport, hold mauve lamps, made from old Italian vases, and fitted with lemon yellow shades of shirred silk, in an octagonal shape.

A club chair, done in tapestry, and a blue wing chair are placed at each side of a Duncan Phyfe console table. Above the table is a set of the delightful little new-old hanging shelves. They carry a selection of favorite books and a few ornaments. At the bottom of the shelves is a little drawer hinting possibilities of a cigaret or a pack of cards and score pad for an interesting game of bridge. These hanging shelves are painted to match the tall ones flanking the doorway.

In the room illustrated today the books are inclosed in an interesting cabinet. Chairs at each side of the fireplace form a pleasing group. They are supplemented by convenient end tables on which are kept smoking accessories, a lamp, and a few books which are being read and consequently must be within friendlier reach than behind glass doors. The walls in this room are French gray, the woodwork a deeper tone of the same. At the windows glass curtains are made of apricot colored silk marquisette. The draperies are in leaf green.

Copper colored cotton damask covers the wing chair. The chair at the other side of the fireplace has a slip cover of chintz, with a light, leaf green ground. It is piped in copper color. A black luster ware lamp on the table beside it has an apricot silk shade, trimmed with green. The floor is rugged in mouse gray.

A colonial living room makes use of a Queen Anne bookcase-secretary. It is placed between two windows and is accompanied by a graceful Windsor chair. This type of bookcase-desk is especially convenient for a writer's or a student's use. The desk section is satisfyingly spacious, and the adjoining bookcase holds the ever necessary reference books so that they are always easily accessible. Windows at each side of the secretary have ecru grenadine glass curtains beneath colorful, flowered chintz draperies. A slip cover for the davenport is made of the same chintz.

In the corner of the room near the secretary is a little colonial arm chair. Its upholstery is made from one of the quaint, old, hand quilted petti coats from Provence, which have recently been brought into the limelight as upholstery for colonial and old French furniture. This one is finely sprinkled with tiny pink flowers and green leaves, on a "heavenly" blue ground. A Martha Washington chair, in old blue and ecru striped rep completes the room's seating capacity. Two old hooked rugs lend decorative interest to the floor, which is carpeted in tete de negre.

MY GREATEST THRILL

Write and tell us about the greatest thrill you ever experienced, and if we print your letter we'll pay you $1. Make your letters short and snappy. Address them to "Greatest Thrill" Editor, The Chicago Tribune.

In Arizona.

It was during a cloudburst in Arizona. Our house was well up the mountain side, but many houses were below us in the cañon. That memorable night we were awakened by a banging at our door. We next heard the swish of the water, that had risen almost to our threshold.

My husband opened the door, to find a cradle which the flood had washed up against the house. In the cradle was a baby boy sleeping peacefully. We found later that his parents had been drowned, so we adopted the child that the waters had brought us. C. F.

Money Talks.

If I were to make a living
By frank opinion to the public giving,
I'd say without getting hot under the collar
The greatest thrill is the "ALMIGHTY DOLLAR." A. C.

Down the Mountain.

Telling of thrills, I experienced a real one while on a mountain trip in Denver. The ascending trip was enjoyable, as it was gradual and not noticeable, but coming down was a narrow one way road, bounded on one side by cliffs and the other side by the edge and space.

The road was newly opened and our driver was making his first mountain trip. It was raining and the clay was soft, and we were traveling in a flivver without chains, down a steep mountain. Thrilling as well as dangerous! E. D.

Run Away.

I received my greatest thrill about two years ago when a girl friend and I were visiting on a farm. We saw a meek looking horse attached to a little buggy and thought it would be sport to climb in.

We did, and the meek looking horse took advantage of our greenness and tore down the road for over a mile with both of us hanging on.

It was not until a passing autoist saw our plight and turned around and headed us off, that we decided to walk back. The thrill lasted a week. A. K.

Corns Lift Off

You'll laugh, really! It is so easy and doesn't hurt one bit!

Drop "Freezone" on that old, bothersome corn. Instantly it stops aching; then shortly you lift that sore, touchy corn right off with your fingers. It works like a charm, every time.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs only a few cents at any drug store. sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes and calluses—Try it!

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

Dr. Edwards'
OLIVE TABLETS
FOR CONSTIPATION

PLEASANT LAXATIVE For Sick, Bilious Children

Mother! Give Constipated Child "California Fig Syrup"

If your little one is out-of-sorts, won't play, seems sick, languid, not natural—suspect the bowels. A teaspoonful of delicious "California Fig Syrup" given anytime sweetens the stomach and soon moves the sour fermentations, gases, poisons and indigestible matter right out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers depend upon this gentle, harmless laxative. It never cramps or overacts.

Say "California" to your druggist and avoid counterfeits. Insist upon genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages plainly printed on bottle.

Signs of Musical Spring Are With Us

By Edward Moore.

CAN spring be more than a few jumps behind, occasionally inquires R. H. L. in the Line. The music department does not believe that it can, for its own desk begins to acquire its own collection of strictly musical vernal harbingers. Here are a few.

The Civic Opera company has returned from its 6,500 mile jaunt to Boston on the east, Memphis on the west, Miami on the south, bringing with it extra baggage in the way of newspaper comments which, unrolled and placed end to end, would reach from the Auditorium to the animal house at Lincoln park and back again, and having given out an almost equal footage of interviews holding that each city visited was the one chosen spot of the universe. When it comes to saying pleasant things, a group of politicians asking their country's suffrage has nothing at all on a group of opera singers asking their country's boxoffice support. One learns in the public prints and on the authority of the same singers that Miami, for instance, is wonderful, glorious, gorgeous, like Italy, Spain, Havana, South America, and heaven. That ought to be enough for almost any community.

The morning mail contains other harbingers. Here are announcements of spring festivals. There is a statement holding that jazz is really an importation and not indigenous, though neglecting to name the place of export or how it came about. Elsewhere there are announcements for the week here, the Bush Conservatory Symphony orchestra on Monday night, the Columbia school chorus Tuesday night, the Young American Artists' series Thursday night, and so on. Still elsewhere there are newspaper clippings and magazine articles that have nothing in particular to do with the cause of music. As, for example, this one:

One of the notable examples is an article occurring in this month's issue of Singing, a magazine that has been commented upon in this column before. Singing, by the way, has considerable possibilities, or at least it will have if it can rid itself of a pronounced conviction that the whole of American music lies in New York. Such a conviction is ingrained Gothamese, as characteristic as its pronunciation of the letter "r" and the diphthong "oi," and many admonitory fingers are shaken at the hinterlands warning them that they sought to pay more attention to what New York is doing, and more particularly what New York is thinking. This, moreover, though Otto H. Kahn not so long ago issued a pronouncement that the future of American art would depend upon its ability to divorce itself from Broadway.

Artists Criticize Critics.

Singing contains a piece on what the artists think of critics. Part of it is written from the protective concealment of a pen name, Sotto Voce, the rest by various singers under their own names. It might be informative enough; in fact, Sotto Voce undertakes to list the New York critics by name, professional endowment, and psychological bias.

But when it came to the real information, namely, what the artists themselves thought of critics and criticism, there was a strange silence on definite statement. Singing admitted that a number of the artists did not care to record themselves in print, though privately expressing themselves with pith and point. One would say that there was a lively sense of criticism still to come.

Several of the others took refuge in a desire for our old acquaintance, constructive criticism. I wish that some one would some day write a piece explaining in detail just what constructive criticism is. I have at one time and another been accused of it, quite inadvertently on my part, but upon investigation it has usually turned out that I said something pleasant about somebody. The lamented B. L. T. once stated that Col. Roosevelt was his favorite constructive critic, because when he indulged in a bit of constructive criticism it took twenty-four hours for the dust to settle.

Cecilia Hansen with Symphony This Week.

Cecilia Hansen asks for a bit of attention, for her appearance with the Chicago Symphony orchestra this week will be almost the last that she plays in America this season. European engagements during the spring and early summer call her, and a recent cable from Willem Mengelberg asking her to play under his baton at The Hague, Amsterdam, and Rotterdam have obliged her to sail earlier than she at first planned.

Miss Hansen frequently tangles up consideration of her performances, for there is always doubt whether to think of her as the most distinguished of feminine violinists or the most beautiful woman who plays the violin. As a matter of fact, she comes close to being both. The fates were good to her: she is a delight to those who have eyes as well as those who have ears, and the majority of concert goers have both.

On Friday afternoon and Saturday night she will appear in the Saint-Saens Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso, which is in the répertoire of every one who can move bow over strings, and the new Concerto by Serge Prokofieff, which no one has played here yet. I have no information about it except that those who go to hear the performance are likely to undergo some new experiences in the way of contemporary music.

Prokofieff was in Chicago quite a bit five or six years ago. Much of his music was heard then, and it varied all the way from the simplest sort of eight measure tunes to the most bewildering sort of slewed harmony. He conducted a symphony with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, probably the shortest on record, since its four movements took twelve minutes to play. He played his own piano concerto with the same organization, and then, moving down the street to the Auditorium, he conducted his own opera, "The Love of the Three Oranges."

When Mary Garden Ruled.

This was during the brief consulship of Mary Garden. Probably no other work in the history of the opera company was staged with more care, rehearsed more assiduously, mounted more lavishly, or made a less permanent imprint, unless, perhaps, it was Montemezzi's "La Nave." In fact, the two operas had another point of resemblance. In neither case could the scenery be reconstructed for any other productions.

Since that time Prokofieff has been in Europe, and, from what one can hear, still busy at composition. Among other news from abroad, there was word from Germany that "The Love of the Three Oranges" has been staged there and that it had made what looked like a reasonable success, which may indicate one of two things, either that the world has moved forward in appreciation of modern idioms or that Prokofieff's manner is suited to German ears. As a matter of fact, although the piece was derided here, it was interesting.

With no advance information about Miss Hansen's violin concerto, and in the memory of Prokofieff having written in so many diverse styles, it is impossible to predict, even to guess, what the piece will be like. The orchestral numbers on the program will be Mendelssohn's "Scotch" Symphony and a new piece, "The Spider's Banquet," by Roussel. This last was announced for the present week, but for one reason and another, chiefly because Mr. Stock was ill and unable to conduct rehearsals, it was deferred.

FOX FILMS PROVE GOOD AMUSEMENT

"THE ROAD TO GLORY."

Produced by Fox. Directed by Howard Hawks. Presented at the Capitol Theater.

THE CAST.

Judith Allen	May McAvoy
David Hale	Leslie Fenton
James Allen	Ford Sterling
Del Cole	Rockcliffe Fellows
Selma	Milla Davenport
Butler	John MacSweeney

By Mae Tinee.

GOOD Morning!

"'The Road to Glory,'" says a press sheet in front of me, "is the devil's own highway."

I'm so glad I found the press sheet, for until this minute I hadn't an idea what the title meant.

The picture on the press sheet shows a great many hilariously laughing people, most of them in evening clothes, with the ladies carrying red fans, striding along, their eyes fixed on something either ahead or directly above —glory—I suppose, for if it is the devil's highway that leads to glory, then it's that they must be so joyously traversing, and glory must be what they see. There is a white fence along the highway—on the press sheet, and there is an ashes of roses serpent coiled on the fence, running out a long, red, fiery tongue. But the people evidently haven't seen the snake—otherwise they would probably not be laughing so hard.

MAY McAVOY
as Judith Allen in "The Road to Glory."

(SURE it's the Devil's highway! There's a sign up! Just saw it!)

The outstanding feature of the picture is the fact that it compels you to concentrate. What and where is the Road to Glory?

Then, as you study and speculate, your attention is caught by the good acting of the principals—May McAvoy, Leslie Fenton and Ford Sterling.

THEN your angry passions begin to rise. What was the idea, anyway, of hanging so much misery onto them all—and nary a one deserving it? You remember the name of the scenario writer, which was Howard Hawks, and for a long time you suspect him of being a misanthrope. He isn't, though. By the end of the picture you discover him to be not lacking in faith, hope or charity.

Showing What Chance Can Do.

It seems that Mr. Hawks decided to write a scenario showing the great part chance plays in the lives of men.

He starts you out with two blithe young things—lovers—taking a joy ride.

Having stepped on it before and come to no grief, they decide to step again. Take a chance! The car's insured.

They do, and this time a large truck decides to halt part way across their track. The insured car runs up the side of the road, does a showy loop the loop and lands exactly upside down, back in the road again.

There is a nerve wracking interval—then, apparently unhurt—the blithe young things crawl out from under their little machine, shake themselves and canter home to tell Judith's father, who is a good sport, all about it. Her mother is dead.

I shan't tell you what happens to father. Also, rest in ignorance as to something that happens as a result of the wreck. And the various chances that pop in and out of the lives of the blithe young things are things to be seen and not told of, if the picture is to hold your interest.

To me the story seemed garbled and I suspected that I detected the botchy handwork of the censors. Certainly, as the film stands, there seems no reason AT all for the scenes with father's business partner.

However—Mark Twain says one should never use "however"—however, you will adore little Miss McAvoy, and her sufferings will hurt you quite as much as they do her. You will think that Leslie Fenton, as the clean, earnest young chap who loves her, is just about one of the nicest fellows you've seen on the screen for many a day. And you'll be good and sore at the "Chance" that removes Ford Sterling from your range of vision so early in the action.

Also you will find that the photography is good—and, as I said—you WILL knit your brows in fervid thought. O, yes you will! For don't think for a minute that the title has been explained in this review. Not to me, it hasn't.

"MY OWN PAL."

Produced by Fox. Directed by J. G. Blystone. Presented at the Monroe theater.

THE CAST.

Tom O'Hara	Tom Mix
Alice Deering	Olive Borden
Chief Deering	Thomas Santschi
The Clown	Jay Hunt
Jill	Virginia Marshall
Jud McIntyre	William Colvin
Mrs. Jud	Hedda Nova
Mollie	Virginia Warwick
Sergt. McGuire	Tom McGuire
Trixie Tremaine	Helen Lynch
Baxter Barton	Bardson Bard
Slippery Sam	Jacques Rollens

Do you think the "own pal" is Tony?

Well, it isn't—not this time. It—she rather—is a pint-sized lady aged about 6, who has been left to the tender mercies of the hero by her dying mother, who traveled with a circus.

You will find, as a rule, that a picture made from a Gerald Beaumont story, as this one is, is a pretty good picture, provided it is directed with ordinary intelligence.

"My Own Pal" runs true to form and doesn't disappoint you. The opening scene disclosing Tom and Tony perched wistfully on a jutting crag, a-wearying of ranch life and a-wishing for adventure, is almost enough reason for buying a ticket. It is beautiful!

"Somewhere," says Tom, "SOMETHING is calling me. Must go find out what it is."

So he and Tony lope back to the ranch, say good-by to the hands and the boss, and start out to find what they shall find.

It is a circus. And right in front of one of the tents is a big, strong man shaking a little bit of a girl almost to pieces. The child is all dressed up like a miniature cowgirl, sombrero, chaps and the rest of the fixings. The man also wears a sombrero and you gather that probably something went wrong with an act in which they are both featured.

The man shakes. The child screams. Tom sees!

Tom Once More to the Rescue.

Tony immediately finds himself riderless while an astonished brute and a delighted child receive him in their midst. And after the villain has had his, the child pulls her deliverer into the tent and he is introduced to the mother who is just about to die.

"How I wish I had some one good and kind like you to leave my little Jill with," weeps the mother.

Right away of course she has! When was Tom ever known to refuse a woman anything—let alone a dying mother?

Tearful but speedy farewells are made—for the voice of the brute is heard coming nearer and nearer.

The clown helps Jill skedaddle under the flaps at the rear while the hero boldly walks out the door and cleans up the brute and twenty other men as good as he. Then—a leap to the back of Tony; a long arm reached out to gather up the waiting child; a dash for liberty.

They are off—pursued shortly by most of the circus hands.

A train is going by and the door of the baggage car is

On Liberty

By H. L. Mencken.

IT is the theory of all modern civilized governments that they protect and foster the liberty of the citizen; it is the practice of all of them to limit its exercise, and sometimes very narrowly. This practice is denounced, by the more extreme sort of libertarians, as grossly hypocritical, and not infrequently they try to prove that it is also plainly illegal. What they overlook is the basic fact that liberty itself, like happiness, virtue, and salvation, is very nebulous, and that no one has ever managed to draw up a satisfactory definition of it. Governments are thus forced to deal with it in a sketchy and pragmatic manner. They keep it on tap, but they try their best to prevent crowding at the bunghole.

The reason is not far to seek. Liberty, if it means anything at all, means that body of rights which the citizen reserves to himself, even as against the government. It includes the right to do certain things without any regard to their effect upon the government, and the right to withhold the doing of certain other things. Thus a conflict is set up between the rights of the citizen and the power and security of the government. In so far as the citizen prevails the government is weak, and in so far as the government prevails the citizen is not a citizen at all, but a subject.

Obviously, no government, of its own motion, will increase its own weakness, for that would mean to acquiesce in its own destruction. The instinct of all living organisms is against such acquiescence, and a government, being made up of men, is as much a living organism as an individual man is. So governments, whatever their pretension otherwise, try to preserve themselves by holding the individual down. He is at once the source of all their strength and the author of their most dangerous weakness. Government itself, indeed, may be very reasonably defined as a conspiracy against him. Its one permanent aim, whatever its form, is to hobble him sufficiently to maintain itself.

At the moment, in the United States, this perennial conflict takes the form of a difference and dispute about overt acts. The national government is trying to enforce a law which, in the opinion of millions of otherwise docile citizens, invades their inalienable rights, and they accordingly refuse to obey it. There ensues a bitter trial of strength and endurance. If the protesting citizens prevail, then the government will be materially weakened, and it will have to step softly in future. If, on the contrary, the citizens in rebellion are overcome, then they will cease to be free citizens to that extent, and become subjects.

Such conflicts over actual acts are relatively rare in civilized states. They smell of revolution, and are thus avoided as much as possible by all parties. But conflicts over ideas, as opposed to acts, are going on all the time, and it is in this field that the exact nature of liberty is most difficult to define. The American constitution seeks to dispose of the question with sweeping generalizations. It provides simply that the rights to free speech, to free assemblage, to petition, and to religious freedom shall never be invaded, and it assumes that every one knows precisely what these things are.

But who does? Certainly not the learned philosophers who have written upon liberty. For their books are full of unsolved problems and baffling dilemmas, and some of these problems and dilemmas have taken on what may be called a classical dignity. Does the right to religious freedom include the right to practice a religion which involves gross offenses against the common morals of the land? Or against its security in time of war? And does the right to free speech include the right to go into a crowded theater and yell "Fire!"?

Such questions, of late, have arisen frequently, and the American courts, and especially the federal courts, have had to deal with them. How far may a citizen go in advocating changes in the government? Or resistance to the government? Suppose he argues that the present government ought to be thrown out and a soviet of communists substituted: is that within his rights or outside them? Suppose he argues, as a necessary implication, that if the sitting officials resist, they ought to be heaved into the Potomac: where does that doctrine land him? And what, incidentally, is advocacy? If it is unlawful to urge that an idea be carried out, is it also unlawful to state it academically and point out its possible merits?

Very few American judges have any interest in such fundamental questions of law, or any capacity for dealing with them intelligently. Thus the courts almost always dodge them, sometimes gracefully and sometimes not. Each case that comes up is decided on superficial points, and there is seldom any courageous grappling with the underlying principles. So the whole matter, legally speaking, remains swathed in doubts and dubieties, and it is impossible for a lawyer, called upon to advise a client, to tell him exactly what his rights are. When and where does free speech cease to be a right and become a matter for the police?

In the absence of a clear judicial answer, various unofficial jurists have tackled the problem. One of the most sagacious of them is Prof. Zechariah Chafee Jr. of Harvard. His proposal, in brief, is that the lawfulness of an idea—say in a speech—ought to be determined by its immediate effect. If it causes men to proceed to criminal action on the spot, then it is reasonable to call it unlawful and to punish the man who disseminates it. But if it produces no such action, then it ought to be privileged, no matter how violently it collides with common ideas, or how dangerous its remote effects. In other words, it ought to be lawful to advocate any idea, however outrageous, so long as it remains an idea, but the state should retain a right to prohibit any idea, however mild, that provokes instantly a criminal act.

Other legal philosophers, following Prof. Chafee, have developed this doctrine, and it is widely accepted as, at worst, an excellent guess. Even some of the judges, more enterprising than the rest, have apparently heard of it. Its defects are obvious. One of them is that it leaves open the question of what is a criminal act. In California, where the police make the laws, they might very readily make one calling it a felony to applaud an anti-capitalist speaker. Thus the speaker himself would be liable to arrest for causing the applause. But a more serious objection lies in the fact that estimating ideas by their effects is a begging of the whole question—that the true test of them ought to be, not their effects, but their truth.

In this emergency I rise to make a modest suggestion, and so pass on. It is that the real danger in free speech lies in the fact that, not infrequently, it is not actually free—that is, that the attempt to exercise it is, in reality, an attempt to prevent its exercise by the other fellow. Go back to the example of the fool yelling "Fire!" in a crowded theater. What is the objection to him? The objection is that he may lie—that the audience may rush for the exits, to the hazard of its life and limb, without any real cause. In other words, the objection is that there is no opportunity for persons who know that there is no fire to state the fact calmly, and prove it.

The implications should be plain enough. The real danger in subversive doctrines is that they are nearly always presented ex parte, and to audiences too ignorant to imagine refutations of them. Let it remain a principle of the law, as Prof. Chafee suggests, that when they are so presented they be judged by their immediate effects. But let it be another principle that when they are presented in such a way that they may be challenged and refuted (if possible) on the spot, before the same audience—let it be held that, under such circumstances, there shall be no limitation upon them whatsoever, save only the limitation of common decency. That would be free speech, and it would be fair. Moreover, it would not be anything new. But our cops and judges are still to learn the lesson of Hyde Park.

IRISH PLAY OPENS MAYFAIR THEATER

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Years ago there used to be a tall brownstone house in 44th street, directly back of what was then Rector's hotel and the most popular of the Broadway gathering places. From the hotel there was a tunneled entrance, so the story goes, to the brownstone front. Being invited to walk through the tunnel, the more eager buyers from the west found themselves in gorgeous rooms devoted to various games of chance.

ENID MARKEY
[Witzel Photo.]

Rector's went out years ago, and the Claridge came in. Then the Claridge passed with prohibition—at least the older and bigger Claridge passed. The hotel still stands and is operated now as the Broadway-Claridge. The brownstone front passed, too. At least as a brownstone front. Vice squads and anti-gambling wars were partly responsible. Now they have torn out the insides of the place, made it into a three story theater, and named it the Mayfair. It is still tunnellike, being long and narrow, with a deep, thin stage at the end. And no more than 299 people can find seats in it. But it is tastefully pink and gold in its decorations, and comfortable.

The first production to be made at the Mayfair is an Irish domestic tragedy called "Juno and the Paycock," Juno being a long suffering wife, and the "Paycock" her good-for-nothing loafer of a husband. It is one of those pathetic Irish tragedies that has the virtue of being lightened by enough character comedy to save it as entertainment, though probably not for a large public.

This Story Concerns a Captain.

It was in Dublin in 1922, when the irregulars and the Free State forces were doing a lot of fighting in the streets, that the Boyles of the play were sore beset. Capt. Jack Boyle, so called because of a neighborhood rumor that once he had a job on a ship of some sort, headed the family, but did not run it. It took all the captain's time to avoid getting another job. He went in rather freely for informal drinking and slept away as many of the uninteresting hours as Juno permitted.

Then there came a man to tell him that, as a first cousin of a rich man dead, he (the captain himself) had inherited 2,000 pounds.

Immediately there was a great change in the Boyle family. The captain took to wearing suspenders and a tie, and bought himself a new suit. There were a few dresses for the women, Juno and Mary, the daughter, and new furniture for the apartment—all bought on credit and charged against the legacy that was to come later.

When the crash came it left the Boyles stripped. There was no legacy, and all the furniture and new clothes had to go back. The young man who brought word of the money, and was expected to marry Mary, ran away, leaving her greatly in need of a husband to make her honest. And the Boyle son, accused of giving information to the authorities against the irregulars, is taken out and shot.

At the end of the play the Boyle women have gone in search of a chance to rebuild their lives, but Capt. Jack lies peacefully drunken in the center of his stripped living room floor.

A sad tale of troublous days in Ireland and unhappy people. I don't expect it will prove popular. Sean O'Casey is the author and he is much in the public prints on the other side, just now. Augustin Duncan directed the production and plays the captain. Louise Randolph is the Juno, and Claude Cooper scores as a liquored pal.

Farce Uses All the Old Tricks.

The most laughable of the situations in a new farce called "Find Daddy" is one in which the heroine's six weeks old baby is left lying on the davenport with a note pinned to its frock addressed to one of the married men in a house party: "Dear Larry," it reads, "be good to your little son." No sooner has Larry caught a flash of the note than he is ready to fly the country to save a scandal. With Larry gone, the address on the note is changed to "Dear Russ," and a moment later a youthful husband named Russell is also in flight.

It is, as you see, a variant of the telegraph operator's favorite story; that of the lady who wired to an acquaintance living in a small town: "Dear Snookums: My husband knows all," and brought about a panic among the male residents.

Otherwise, "Find Daddy" is a fairly stupid farce. One of those unbelievably artificial entertainments in which each character must guardedly refrain from saying one reasonable thing during the playing time, on penalty of exposing the plot.

The heroine, a young wife away from home for several months, plans to surprise her husband on his birthday by presenting him with the son he does not know has been born to him. She arrives a day ahead of time, forces her pretty friend, Jane, to pose as a maid and the mother of the baby for a day, and thus the excitement is started. Every man in the house suspects he may be the father of the child, and none of them is willing to believe it is Jane's.

Enid Markey plays the maid, Dorothy Peterson is the infant's mother, and the men include Horace Braham, Louis Kimball, and Charles Irwin. Tadema Bessiere wrote it.

Now They're Reviving "East Lynn."

The Provincetowners, having lost all the money they felt they could afford to lose this season, turned to a revival of "East Lynn" last week in the hope of reëstablishing their treasury. Not much chance. The old stock company standby lends itself happily to burlesque, but it still is so sound a play at heart that half the audience is resenting its mistreatment, while the other half is trying, a little shamefacedly, to laugh at it.

The line that separates the believable stage story from that which is no more than ridiculous in the theater is a thin line and shadowy. Take any of the current successes and play them no more broadly than the village actors play the romance of Lady Isabel and Archibald Carlisle, and they would be just as funny.

"East Lynn" is one of the modern theater's foundation. The Provincetowners have tried to do what they did with "Fashion." They have reproduced the crudest type of scenic settings that could have been common in the 60's, with most of the furniture painted on the drops and the old roll curtain rising and falling cumbersomely. Between scenes a willing soprano in a green frilled Godey costume sings with gestures, "Take Back Your Gold, for Gold Can Never Buy Me," and "Father, Don't Go Out Tonight." And still the ancient drama is something less than howlingly funny.

When they come to the death of little Willie, with his own mother disguised as his nurse because she could never again show herself in that house, it is necessary for the players to put additional emphasis on the burlesque. Willie is played by a fat legged young woman in a Lord Fauntleroy suit and a face plastered with powder. And when Willie expires there is a flight of angel postcards across the sky at back.

Mary Blair, who was the heroine of the black-and-white "All God's Chillun'," and later the terrible lady of "Desire Under the Elms," is the Isabel. Stanley Howlett plays Sir Francis Levison, the villain, and Charles Fleming is the Archibald.

The last big revival of "East Lynne" in the east was that of 1898. Wilton Lackaye, Rose Eytinge, Nance O'Neil, and McKee Rankin were in that cast.

"Laff That Off" Laughs Last.

This Thing and That Thing of the Theater

By Frederick Donaghey.

MR. GEST, in far-off San Francisco in search of local almoners for "The Miracle," wires to ask if I will "do something" today in behalf of that laudable and salutary entertainment, which, having been performed through the seven weeks originally defined as the length of its stay in Chicago, goes into the three added weeks believed to be warranted by the public's early response at the box-office. And, with all of my fervent and well-known belief that "The Miracle" is an æsthetic and a stimulating benefit to the community, I am at a loss for what to say in its behalf without repetition of what I have heretofore said. "The Miracle" is an unique and a lovely thing; and I have pity rather than a facile contempt for all who do not agree with me in this.

BRUCE M'RAE
He's on his way hither to speak the wise lines in "Close Quarters."

What the old-time legalists termed, in drawing contracts, "acts of God and Force majeure" are in a curious conjunction against the well-being of paid entertainment; and, if Mr. Gest have these matters in mind, I have a quick sympathy with his eager plea that THE TRIBUNE "do something." The income-tax, the antic disposition put on by Wall Street, the pestilent thing we have been calling the flu since the awful war-time visitation, and the final and more austere weeks of Lent are a hostile constellation where the theater is concerned; for the theater is the most easily dispensable of the luxuries and the indulgences. In what degree "The Miracle," in a city of 3,000,000, classifies as "opposition" to the common run of plays and shows I do not know. In slight degree, I should guess; for its appeal is wider than that of any one play or operetta designed and performed in the customary proportions, and the money it diverts from other entertainments is hardly a factor in so large a community. . . .

However, that is not Mr. Gest's concern, which is that the populace shall display an alert determination to make paid use of all the seats in the Auditorium until April 10. I hope the populace will make the display; and, if it do, it will be a better populace for having done so.

As to Mr. Gest's other emprise, the opera-actors from Moscow, indications are that the Messrs. Shubert have arranged to house them in the Great Northern for the fortnight starting April 12. What will be done with "The Student-Prince" is for the Messrs. Shubert to announce when they get round to it. . . . The Russian performers will give here two of the five bills they brought to the United States as 1925 neared its end—their make-over of the greatest of the operas, "Carmen," and their treatment "in the Greek fashion" of shrewd old Aristophanes' visioned comedy of gynarchy, "Lysistrata."

For the Necessitous Actors.

It appears to have become an annual duty that I explain that the Actors' Fund of America is essentially and exclusively a beneficent organization, that its takings go to the relief of players too old longer to earn what they need for sustenance or who are in distress for other reasons, and that it is not to be confused with the Equity, which is the flossily-named trade-union of the actors. Noting a tendency to regard the one as the other, I made a like explanation last year, and thereby drew from the Equity what was meant as a rebuke. But the fact remained that a great deal of money had gone into the purchase of tickets for the Equity's annual blow-out or ball in Chicago because the buyers were of the belief that the receipts were devoted to charity. . . . And this repetition of the explanation is with respect to next Friday afternoon's special program in the Auditorium for the benefit of the Fund.

A Point-of-View as to Censorship.

SIR: The reference in your column last Sunday to the action of the British play-censor leads me to a different conclusion than the one you draw. If I may say so, I feel your ethics are twisted a bit; for you dismiss "Cradle-Snatchers" as "loud fun in bad taste," and condemn "The Vortex" as "deliberate dirt." Yet, when we analyze the two plays, we find that the latter treats degeneracy and lax morals with a becoming seriousness, while the former handles the same subject-matter with a levity that lets us swallow that same degeneracy and lax morals under a sugar-coating of humor without even a twitch.

The fact is, Mr. Donaghey, we don't like to know how rotten rottenness is. Our idea of morality today is that whatever is pleasant is good, and whatever is unpleasant is bad. To put it briefly, we are morally "yellow."

I hold no brief for "The Vortex" as a play; but I do consider it a fine sermon, chiefly because of those last few moments when mother and son held out the hope of regeneration to the Magdalenes and the Prodigal Sons of the earth.

The sound ethics and clear reasoning of the British play-censor in this instance make one of the first justifications for censorship I've heard of in a long time.

EMERSON TREACY.

Chicago: March 15, 1926.

By such a test as Mr. Treacy applies to "The Vortex" (which is as dead as the good policemen laid low by the Signor Anselmi and the Signor Scalisi), "Cradle-Snatchers," too, may be classified as an ethical and a social blessing. In this farce, three wives, coming upon incontrovertible proof that their respective husbands are faithless, declare their intention to dispense with the obligations assumed in marriage. So, Mr. Treacy might find in that denouement not only a wholesome lesson for erring husbands, but also a responsible acceptance by wives of the ultimate implications in the Nineteenth Amendment to the Constitution of this United States.

Miscellany.

A resident company in Detroit is trying "Romeo and Juliet" in what are called "modern clothes."

"The Very Loose Lady" is the name of something new by John Colton, whose "The Shanghai Gesture" is reported to be the most prosperous filth current in the New-York theaters. He is one of the dramatists of "Rain."

Seats for the New-York opening of Miss Raquel Meller, the Spanish diseuse, are priced at $25, and at $10 for subsequent performances. . . . I'm curious as to the outcome of this importation. She was not more than fairly successful in London, where I heard her in 1920; and it is safe to assert that persons who understand Spanish are far more numerous in London than in New-York. She was then a vivid and an effective specialist, but without much variety; and she seemed to deliver all she had in the half-hour or less allotted to her in the course of a revue.

Shaw's "Mrs. Warren's Profession," one of his poorer plays, has at length been licensed for performance in London.

Hannen Swaffer, reporting from London for Variety the stimulating effect of the booing that is traditional with English audiences when they don't care for a play or an actor, says that like demonstrations would be a good thing in this country. He adds: "We have booze and boos. Without them, your shows must be very dry!"

Irish Play Opens Mayfair Theater

cast, and the reports were favorable, without being promising. The piece opened on Broadway against several other and bigger attractions, with the result that the reviews of it were buried, and little attention was paid to it.

Meantime Earl Carrol, who likes to back the shoestring drama since he increased the $90 he spent on the original "White Cargo" production to a profit of $100,00 or more, had bought "Laff That Off." He also had taken a lease on Wallack's theater, which is a John Cort house, with as fine and extensive a list of failures to its credit as any theater in town.

Also about this time Carroll was producing a new edition of the "Vanities" and had no time to worry about his little small purchase. "Laff That Off" lingered and languished, playing to small receipts, but happy customers. No less than four times it was slated for quick removal and had its storehouse clothes already laid out. Once it was shifted to another theater to let in a more promising venture. The new show failed, and "Laff That Off" was moved back. Again the storehouse threat, but before the wagons came, business improved.

Last week, while all the other plays in town, including the hits, were feeling the effects of the Wall street panic and the income tax payments, "Laff That Off" added a few more dollars to its takings. It never does anything exciting, but it just refuses to pass out. Now hardly any of the wiser showmen will be surprised to see it last out the season.

Odds-and-Ends of Stage-News

AMONG the plays annually made the subject of a managerial announcement that has not yet been kept is Miss Claire Kummer's "Pomeroy's Past." It has been named from year-to-year for ever so long as a conveyance for Ernest Truex, for William Gillette, for Roland Young, and for Basil Sydney. It is again the subject of a bulletin—this time, with regard again for little Mr. Truex, who rather expected to be in Chicago this Springtime in a new piece named "Behold This Dreamer!" Details of the new bulletin are that Miss Lucille Watson, Miss Helen Chandler, Richard Barbee, and Osgood Perkins will be with Mr. Truex.

Another piece that has for many seasons been the subject of like announcement is "Kitty's Kisses"—although this one had a career, years ago, as "Little Miss Brown," with Miss Madge Kennedy as star. "Kitty's Kisses" is the song-and-dance version; and 'tis now said that it will soon be performed in public.

New in Manhattan.

These are the new plays listed for this week in the New-York theaters:

"The Chief Thing," from the Russian of Nicolas Evreinoff by Herman Bernstein, with McKay Morris, Miss Estelle Winwood, Ernest Cossart, Miss Helen Westley, Dwight Frye, Edward G. Robinson, and Henry Travers. . . . This is a production by the Theater Guild—its fourth new play of the season.

"What's the Big Idea?" by H. A. House and Miss Martha Hedman, with Miss Lillian Ross, Hubert Wilke, and Erskine Sanford. . . . Miss Hedman, for a time a well-known actress, is Mrs. House.

"Schweiger," by Franz Werfel, with Jacob Ben-Ami, Miss Ann Harding, and Miss Minnie Dupree. . . . Mr. Werfel has written "Goat-Song," a failure in New-York when acted by the Theater Guild, and "Juarez and Maximilian," listed for staging next season by the Guild. "Schweiger" is said to be his first play.

"Ashes of Love," by the Countess of Cathcart, with the author, Miss Alison Skipworth, Lumsden Hare, and Austin Fairman.

Changing Playbills

"The Jurywoman" in the Adelphi.—A melodrama by Bernard K. Burns that, after a première in Milwaukee, was brought out in New-York (as "The Woman on the Jury") with Miss Mary Newcomb in the title-part, to be acted here by Miss Elizabeth Risdon. Her associates of the resident company will make up the cast. . . . Opens this afternoon.

"The Sport of Kings" in the Playhouse.—A comedy about the Puritan attitude toward horse-racing by Ian Hay Beith, whose piece known here as "Happy-Go-Lucky" had a run in this theater five years ago. O. P. Heggie, Miss Betty Linley, Miss Mary Forbes, and Miss Katherine Stewart are of the cast. . . . Opens tonight.

"Pair o' Fools," with Kolb and Dill, is the Studebaker.—A song-and-dance version of the farce named "The Whole Town's Talking!" acted two years ago in the Adelphi by Grant Mitchell and Frank Lalor, whose respective parts will be taken by C. William Kolb and Max Dill, comic players long regarded in San-Francisco as the source of Weber and Fields' inspiration. . . . Opens tonight.

The Chariot Revue in the Selwyn.—Second American issue of this diversion. The bill is made up of this-and-that from revues staged in London by André Charlot. Miss Beatrice Lillie, seen, heard, and liked here a year ago, returns in this, with Miss Gertrude Lawrence and Jack Buchanan, newcomers in Chicago, as her co-stars. . . . Opens tonight.

This is the management's bulletin on the week's arrangement for Lady Diana Manners, Miss Elinor Patterson, Miss Iris Tree, and Miss Elisabeth Schirmer in "The Miracle":

Monday night and Wednesday afternoon, Lady Diana as the Madonna and Miss Tree as Megilidis.

Tuesday night, Lady Diana as the Madonna and Miss Patterson as Megilidis.

Wednesday afternoon, Lady Diana as Megilidis and Miss Schirmer as the Madonna.

Thursday and Saturday nights, Miss Patterson as Megilidis and Miss Schirmer as the Madonna.

Friday night and Saturday afternoon, Miss Tree as Megilidis and Miss Schirmer as the Madonna.

(Wednesday night's will be Lady Diana's final appearance in the engagement.)

THURSDAY, MARCH 25:

"The Tragedy of Nan" in the Goodman Memorial.—Revival of John Masefield's interesting piece by the "regular" actors of this theater, directed by Miss Alexandra Carlisle [Mrs. J. Elliott Jenkins], who is to act the rôle of Nan.

SUNDAY, APRIL 4:

"The Best of Us," with Miss Frances Starr, in the Harris.—A new play by new writers for the stage with Mr. Belasco's long-time star in the principal rôle. . . . The Harris will be used, from tonight until April 3, by Sessue Hayakawa in "The Love-City."

MONDAY, APRIL 5:

"Close Quarters" in the Blackstone.—A new version by A. E. Thomas of "Le Demi-Monde," by the younger Dumas, with Miss Margaret Lawrence, Miss Elsie Ferguson, Wallace Eddinger, Bruce McRae, Miss Shannon, Geoffrey Kerr, and Percy Ames.

SUNDAY, APRIL 11:

"Naughty Cinderella," with Miss Irene Bordoni, in the Selwyn.—Something that was French made over by Avery Hopwood for the uses of this soubrette, who has a following.

SUNDAY, APRIL 18:

Miss Eva Le Gallienne in plays by Ibsen in the Princess.—The leading-woman of "Liliom" and "The Swan" in revival of "The Master-Builder" and "John Gabriel Borkman." . . . Engagement postponed from April 5.

"Rose-Marie" in the Auditorium.—Return of the music-play which had a long run last year in the Woods. The cast is not announced.

SUNDAY, MAY 2:

"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" in the Selwyn.—The dramatization by John Emerson and Miss Anita Loos [Mrs. Emerson] of the latter's like-named and popular tale of a Broadway gimme-girl. Miss Allison Skipworth, Miss Edna Hibbard, Frank Morgan, G. P. Huntley, Miss Katharine Brook, Georges Romaine, and Marcel Le Mons are of the cast; but as yet nobody is named for the rôle of Lorelei Lee.

PRIMA-DONNA

MISS DORIS DUNCAN

She is in "Pair o' Fools," with Kolb and Dill; and that is the concern of The Tribune's present knowledge of Miss Doris Duncan: that and the fact that to her is said to fall the principal songs for soprano in the new piece.

ONE'S HERE, AND ONE'S ON THE WAY

MISS BETTY LINLEY

MISS OLGA BAKLANOVA

MISS LINLEY, is among the beauties of the stage—a statement not likely to be disputed by readers of The Tribune who have observed her in "Polly with a Past," "Peacocks," and "In the Next Room." She returns to observation tonight in "The Sport of Kings," in the Playhouse.

Miss Baklanova is the principal woman of the Moscow Art Theater Musical Studio, which is the spiffy name of the enterprise devoted by Vladimir Nemirovitch-Dantchenko to the fulfillment of his plan for what he terms a "synthetic theater." She is pictured here as Carmen in the M. A. T. M. S.'s version of Bizet's opera called "Carmencita and the Soldier." . . . The Chicago engagement, starting April 12, will be in the Great Northern.

Signs of Musical Spring Are with Us

By Edward Moore.

Sam T. Jack had a whale of a orchestra long prior to those days, and I should know, for then I was a "CHORUS LADY."

The music department did not say that Chicago had no orchestra before 1891. It was, however, ignorant of the organization referred to in the letter, and extends thanks for the addition to history.

Galli-Curci remits some figures of prosperity acquired in Florida late in February and early this month. She, or rather her manager, desires to spread the information that she sang in Tampa to $8,190, in St. Petersburg to $7,309, and in Miami to $7,585, the latter two in halls of less than 1,700 seating capacity. At Daytona Beach the audience overflowed to the stage, and at Orlando the house was sold out two weeks before her arrival. Thirteen and fourteen encores were the rule in all.

"Sir: There are people who are so interested in music that they gladly aid students in securing a musical education just for their own enjoyment, and others who loan funds for such purposes. Can you inform me how one might come in contact with either of these? Or can you refer me to some one who could?"

The name of the correspondent is held here.

Cincinnati tells of a Mozart festival to be held there May 6, 7, and 8, the performances to be furnished by the William Wade Hinshaw companies. "Don Giovanni," "Cosi Fan Tutte," and "The Marriage of Figaro" will be given. Some of the artists will be Irene Williams, Clytie Hine, Kathleen Bibb, Editha Fleischer, Lillian Palmer, Celia Turill, Paval Ludikar, Alfredo Valenti, Ralph Brainard, and Ernest Otto. Hans Morgenstern will conduct, and thirty members of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra will play.

Basel Christol, a young organist who was born in Dublin, will inaugurate a series of matinée organ request concerts at the Tivoli theater beginning tomorrow afternoon. Each program will be about forty-five minutes long.

The Gordon String quartet will give the first of a series of six concerts this afternoon at the James Simpson theater of the Field museum. They will extend until May 9, leaving two open Sundays, April 4 and 18, which will be filled by other attractions.

Joseph Bobrovitch, Lithuanian tenor, has returned to Chicago after a European tour and will give a recital at Orchestra hall Friday evening. Next season he will be with Chaliapin, singing Almaviva in the Chaliapin "Barber of Seville" company.

The Civic orchestra of Chicago will go to Madison, Wis., on Tuesday to play two concerts, a children's program in the afternoon and a symphony program in the evening. Both will be under the direction of Eric DeLamarter.

FROM MODEL TO FILM STAR IN A YEAR

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special Correspondence.] — Olive Borden, newly arrived Fox star, who is playing Eve to George O'Brien's Adam in "Fig Leaves," is enjoying one of the thrills of her new prominence.

A year ago this month Olive was working as one of the fourteen models in the fashion show of "The Dressmaker from Paris." In those days she was the little "stepsister," just beginning, while most of the other models were already actresses of established success as picture beauties. So while Olive walked to work and counted her lunch money, some of the other girls rode up in their double upholstered limousines. Several of these same girls now are again models in Olive's present starring vehicle, and Olive admits she would "scarcely be human" if she did not get some satisfaction out of the deference they are showing her.

OLIVE BORDEN is new Fox discovery.
[Richee Photo.]

Two military experts, Col. Cornelius C. Smith and Col. George L. Byram, both retired, are helping Dick Barthelmess get local color and accuracy into his "Ransom's Folly," which is laid at an army post in Montana during Indian fighting days.

Col. Byram was graduated from West Point in 1885, served at Fort Meade and Fort Custer, and was in wars against the Cheyennes, the Crows, and the Sioux. He took part in the pursuit of the Apache Kid in Arizona in 1890, fought against the Utes in 1906 at Fort Meade, and was stationed at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., until his retirement in 1916. He helped Bill Hart with his detail in "Wild Bill Hickok." Col. Byram is a holder of several decorations for valor.

Col. Smith holds the congressional medal of honor from the Indian wars in which he was a lieutenant.

Settling Fine Points.

"Say, Colonel," yelled the production manager, dashing up to Col. Byram, "were the Indians allowed to run charge accounts at the post store?"

"W-a-a-l," drawled Col. Byram, removing his pipe from the vicinity of his white mustache, "they certainly were not."

Five or six times during the afternoon the two colonels were consulted on details bearing on frontier life. Everything from the kind of dishes used to the length of the horsehair plumes in the helmets of the very shaky United States cavalry officers furnished questions.

Chief Eagle Wing, a real Klamath chief, had brought most of his family, including Dark Cloud, an Indian princess, with her two children, to lend realism to the army post on Mickey Neilan's lot.

Anders Randolf was passing his time while not working in the Barthelmess picture in making black and white oil portraits of members of the cast. Randolf is well known for his art work.

Dorothy Mackaill, who is starring opposite Barthelmess, is making a point of getting in a swim every day at the attractive outdoor pool on the Neilan lot, which once embraced the voluptuous charms of Clara Kimball Young and later knew the blonde attractiveness of Peggy Joyce. Pansies and fuchsias look on wisely from the bordering beds, while ferns hang from the walls, intermingling with the English ivy, which makes the Neilan studio the prettiest, although the smallest, of all the Hollywood studios.

Humorist at Work.

Donald Ogden Stewart, Hollywood's favorite after dinner speaker, is now learning all about how to be humorous for pictures at the M. G. M. lot. He is playing nurse to sick scenarios, writing titles to bolster up heavy situations, and generally being helpful. When interviewed recently it went something like this:

Q—How do you like Hollywood?

A.—Marvelous. If my kidneys hold out I shall stay another six months.

Q—What do you think of Hollywood's beautiful women?

A.—Wonderful.

Q—What do you think of the younger generation's going to the dogs?

A.—Splendid. God bless them, every one.

With these sage remarks Mr. Stewart, as he said, "stroked his long red beard which has been cut off," and he bowed the writer out of her most unusual Hollywood interview.

The first instance on record of a director falling for his own stuff is that of Clarence Badger, who just finished the setting up of a trick shower bath in his own home. It was copied from the one used by Bebe Daniels in her picture, "Miss Brewster's Millions." This shower is unique in that it spurts up in jets from the floor, allowing a fair bather to kep her marcel unimpaired.

Claire Windsor, Owen Moore, Bert Roach, and Kathleen Key are starting off on the Sultana, 170 foot two masted steam yacht, for a trip to Catalina and various picturesque spots along the Lower California and U. S. coasts. A full sailing crew and plenty of tasty provisions will help make the party a success. Incidentally they will film some scenes for "Money Talks." There is a wild scramble among the extras to enlist for work on that boat.

Victor Varconi and his wife have taken a new home of Italian architecture in the Hollywood foothills. Varconi, from his doorstep, pointed out that his house would be first to be swept away in case of the breaking of the enormous Mulholland dam, whose walls tower high in the air, a short distance up the canyon. He and his wife, Aranyosy Nusi, Hungarian light opera prima donna, now have as their guest Yanos Kuruc, composer and pianist from Budapest, who has just finished a concert tour through the eastern United States. Mrs. Varconi succeeded the famous Mitzi in popular favor in Vienna and Budapest, playing the leading rôle in many of Lehar's operas, including "The Merry Widow," "The Love Call," and several not yet brought to this country.

The Varconis were at home on Monday afternoon and regaled their guests with tea, Hungarian cookery, and a musical program in which Varconi and Mrs. Varconi sang several Hungarian folk songs in lively manner to Kuruc's accompaniment.

Varconi spoke of his rôle in the Italian picture, "The Last Days of Pompeii," for whose American rights Laemmle was bargaining on his last trip to Europe. Varconi recently completed the rôle of the Russian prince in De Mille's "The Volga Boatman," and a lead with Irene Rich in "Silken Shackles." He is a newcomer among the Hollywood big rôle actors. He is an Italian.

Grain of Salt Needed.

The much publicized affair of the heart between Valentino and Pola Negri created the big ripple of the recent week here. Every one seems a little reluctant to accept Rudy as so intensely in love as Pola gave out in her announcement.

In spite of Pola's confidences to the public about their "four months' love test," followed up by an interview broadcast locally in which Rudy told of a dinner date at the Slavic beauty's Beverly Hills mansion in which Pola dismissed the help and prepared the dinner with her own lily white hands, the current attitude is one of "Let's wait and see if they DO get married."

It has not yet departed from local recollection that Pola, not so long ago, was heard expostulating with her publicity department for not getting her on the first page. As for Rudy, his politeness can be relied upon not to deny a lady's story, and, after all, Pola is a beautiful woman.

Pola's Favorite Dish.

Some wags tell of Pola's favorite dish, which, she recently said herself, is raw beefsteak, with herring on the side. They ask her if such a diet may not account for how Pola gets that way.

For "that way" Pola seems to be, for sure, as there is recalled Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman's excuse for a broken dinner date here last year when Pola was interesting herself in him.

The amiable doctor apologized for breaking his date by plaintively explaining that Pola had called him up that afternoon to "remind him that they were going to a prize fight that night." This "reminder" was news to Doc, who had not known anything about the fight before Pola phoned, but there seemed nothing for a gentleman to do except escort Pola to the fight, which was, after all, not such a hardship.

Valentino himself seems bearing up under the strain of the peculiar wooing quite well. Many of his friends feel it is the last straw as regards the convincing version of his recent divorce from the fair Natacha.

Rudy just seems naturally fascinating to women. After they've fallen for him, come weal, come woe, he acts the gentleman until it's all over, and then sits back until the next vampire comes along. He is running Nat Goodwin and De Wolfe Hopper a close second for making actresses famous.

At the Ambassador.

Tuesday evening at the Ambassador's Cocoanut Grove, Pola and Rudy were carrying on their tropical friendship under the nodding (artificial) palm fronds and the twinkling (artificial) stars. Pola, all in gleaming white, had everything on but the proverbial parlor chandelier, including her diamond tiara, her five diamond bracelets, her pearl and diamond plaque, and her three diamond solitaires. She and Rudy shared the attention of the throng with Constance Talmadge and Connie's brand new husband, Allstaire Mackintosh, who was happy looking and sort of cherubic as to countenance. Connie wore a black velvet, low cut gown trimmed in a girdle of green beads, with green bead shoulder straps and orchids on the shoulder.

At another table Owen Moore and Kathryn Perry were hosts to a dinner party which included the blonde and brilliant Miss Dupont. Kathryn Perry (Mrs. Moore) was dressed in white and silver, with a white ermine wrap trimmed in white fox. Dorothy Mackaill and John Harron were members of a different dinner party, Dorothy in a soft blue chiffon.

The Grove was decorated in spring finery, huge baskets of vari-colored spring flowers concealing the lights, and dolls dressed as dancing nymphs with garlands were table decorations which imparted nothing of the sweet confidences which were wafted back and forth across the napery in this chummy, torrid zone setting.

open. Can Tony jump into a moving baggage car with a double load on his back?

Tony can. You are quite sure you would just as lief NOT be the baggage man when the flying black descends on the scene with a great clatter of hoofs.

There's a Girl in the Case.

Besides the baggage man, there is in the car—somebody else—a girl. She has lots to do with the rest of the story, BUT—I got another letter asking me PLEASE to be careful and not give the plots of pictures away—so, what this girl has to do with the picture—find out for yourselves, will you, please?

From then on "My Own Pal" is lively melodrama. Things that happen are improbable in the extreme, but are put over so plausibly that you become genuinely excited over them.

Mr. Mix and Tony are in great form and little Virginia Marshall, who plays Jill, is smart as a whip and a clever mimic. Her manly devotion to her pal is something to be viewed with joy.

Olive Borden—one of the Wampas girls—shows promise, though she is rather camera shy. Supporting cast is good and direction O. K. Scenery and photography—splendid!

See you tomorrow!

VOICE OF THE FAN

Making It Possible.

Dear Miss Tinée: Is "vurr" dialect? If so, what dialect? And why in a review of movies?

Or is it supposed to be funny? If so what is funny about it? And why, etc.?

I am often with the minority, but I doubt if I am the only one who is annoyed by such expressions as the above and "nuf sed," etc.

This is not intended to start any controversy and is offered in a friendly spirit, as otherwise I enjoy your column.

Yours truly, MIN.

Editor's note: No, "vurr" isn't dialect. It's my way of getting around a rule that "very" shall not be employed.

No, it isn't supposed to be funny. It's supposed to be darn smart.

One Foot on the Loud Pedal.

Dear Mae Tinée: It isn't often that I have either the time or inclination to "Vox Pop" in this manner, but your comment on "When Love Grows Cold" so startled me with its "contrary to my own view" that this was inevitable.

In the first place, the direction and photography couldn't be worse. In the scene showing the interior of the Benson villa, part of another set frequently protruded.

If there is a worse actress on the stage or screen than the ex-Mrs. Valentino, fifteen years of first nights and innumerable views of pictures have failed to reveal one to my critical eyes.

As a picture, it ranks with "The Wanderer" as the season's worst bore.

Yours very truly,
PHILIP R. D.

Editor's Note.—When you don't like 'em—you don't like 'em, do you, Mr. D.?

From One Who Knows.

My Dear Miss Tinée: Just finished reading your little column in THE TRIBUNE. I read you every night, and I like you 'cause you always seem so tolerant. Even when you know the picture is a "bum" you try to give 'em the best of it.

And so I will tell you, from my observation at least, your question is true. They always want to go back, that is if they really belong or are "of the theater," as you call it. I have seen actors, stage hands, get wonderful positions after the season had closed and said never again, but when it came Labor day and time to troupe, again they came flocking back to catch a show going out. For their feet always get itchy, Mae Tinée, and they must a-trouping go.

ONE OF THE "CREW" WITH "THE DOVE."

[Editor's Note—Thanks for your letter. Which one of the crew are you?]

Bricks for "The Big Parade."

Miss Tinée: I usually agree with your criticism on movie plays, but I cannot agree with you on "The Big Parade." The parade is good; the French girl is easily the star. Gilbert is only fair. The Irish bartender is good, but the Big Dane is abominable. He is most disgusting and gets on people's nerves with his continual chewing of tobacco, the juice running down his face. I was glad when he got killed.

Where was the censor? Why were two entirely naked men shown in this picture? The movies will soon be as vulgar and rotten as the Ziegfeld Follies.

Some day filth and vulgarity will be driven from the stage and screen.

MINNIE M.

Editor's Note.—Simply can't get your viewpoint—thank heaven!

How to make TEA correctly

Firstly

Be sure you use India Tea, or a blend containing India Tea.

Secondly

Use an earthenware teapot, and put into it one good teaspoonful of India Tea for each cup of tea required.

Thirdly

Be sure you pour the water into the teapot the moment it boils. Only fresh boiling water can bring out the true flavour of the tea. Hot water is no use. Water that has been boiling for some time does not give the best results This is important if you want a really good cup of tea.

Fourthly

Allow the tea to stand 5 minutes to infuse. Put a little cream or milk into each cup before pouring out the tea. It greatly improves the flavour. Then add sugar to taste.

Any retailer or store can supply you with India Tea or blends containing India Tea. He has no difficulty in getting it, as practically every wholesale distributor of tea in this district supplies India Tea. He will gladly get it for you—but—

Be sure you use INDIA TEA or a blend containing India Tea

Music, the most wonderful the world has ever known

Radio Reception, improved beyond the dreams of science

Marvelous invention of 4 famous institutions

Radio Corporation of America
General Electric Company
Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co.
Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co.

JUST as the telephone, the telegraph, electricity itself . . . were in their day amazing new revelations that advanced by giant strides ahead of previous achievements, so now comes the Brunswick PANATROPE and Radiola, a musical instrument that is absolutely new in principle and in the musical results it produces.

All the music you love best is now brought to you with a richness and perfection of tone hitherto unknown. And radio reception has now that ultimate beauty and purity of tone for which all have waited.

Four world-famous electrical and acoustical institutions perfected the Panatrope. Their eminence in their respective fields evidences the importance of this instrument.

Great critics and other musical authorities who have heard the Panatrope pronounce it a revolutionary invention. One destined to supersede all music-reproducing instruments employing other methods. America's leading newspapers are giving it front-page attention. All affirm that its electrical principle is the one which others must follow to survive.

Now on display

Brunswick dealers are now demonstrating the Panatrope. Go to the dealer nearest you and hear it today. So new is it, so eagerly sought, that manufacturing facilities are overtaxed. Your dealer has the Panatrope today. Go in and hear it now.

NEARLY MILLION U. S. FARMS HAVE RECEIVING SETS

In Daily Touch with Agriculture Department.

Washington, March 20.—[Special.]—There are nearly 1,000,000 radio sets on farms in the United States, the department of agriculture estimates in a report on the growth of farm radio during the last five years.

In some states, the department says, there are radio sets on 25 to 40 per cent of all farms. Estimates made by the department in 1923 showed 145,000 sets in use on farms at that time, 365,000 sets in 1924, and 553,000 sets early in 1925.

Increased power and improved broadcasting, together with better receiving sets, the department believes, "will do much to aid in establishing the permanency of the use of radio for the benefit of agriculture.

"One station alone in a period of three months' broadcasting of market and weather reports received more than 3,000 letters of commendation from farmers, country banks, shippers of live stock, and small merchants in the towns in twelve agricultural states surrounding the station."

Discontinue Some Stations.

"Interference among stations may gradually be eliminated, the department believes, as many of the less active stations are being discontinued, and technical improvements are being made in both broadcasting and receiving equipment. Of 1,458 radio stations of all sizes licensed to broadcast since broadcasting began, only 536 were active on Jan. 1 this year.

The department has made cooperative arrangements with more than 100 stations for broadcasting official market news gathered by department representatives in leading shipping and consuming areas. Since the first of the year the department has made arrangements with about 60 stations to broadcast on a regular schedule four additional services dealing with general agricultural information.

Literally hundreds of stations have requested the privilege of handling the government reports, but many of the requests have had to be refused, the department says, because the stations are remote from the department's market news branch offices.

"When the experimental radio market news service was announced on Dec. 21, 1920," the report states, "those in the department of agriculture who were directing the new activity hardly anticipated the wonderful possibilities of radio broadcasting as we now know it. A laboratory transmitter at the United States bureau of standards, on a 400 meter wave length, a few enthusiastic amateurs within a hundred miles of Washington, and a 5 p. m. schedule of about 500 words by radio telegraph, composing what was called the 'radio marketgram,' constituted the elements of the experiment. The idea was that the amateurs would copy the marketgram and turn it over to the newspapers in their own towns or give copies to the banks or stores to be posted on bulletin boards. In every way it was a kind of laboratory experiment.

Amateurs Are Enlisted.

"Assuming an effective radius of audibility of 300 miles about each station, licensed amateurs in the areas covered were enlisted to copy the reports and to furnish them to shippers' associations, county agents, state bureaus of markets, farm bureaus and other agricultural agencies, banks, newspapers, and local telephone exchanges. A number of licensed operators offered to copy the reports. By Jan. 1, 1922, the market reports were being relayed and broadcast by radio telegraph from seven postoffice stations in a chain across the country.

"During 1921 reports were furnished to three of the then very few radio telephone broadcasting stations. Since then the service has grown by leaps and bounds, until now there is practically no agricultural community in the country that is without official market reports on agricultural commodities."

Inside the Loud Speaker

By Quin A. Ryan, W-G-N Announcer.

MORE radio scenarios? Why, surely, here's one entitled, "The Annual Banquet," designed for twenty minutes and for four characters and chorus:

"THE ANNUAL BANQUET."

(Hubub of voices soft in background. Rattle of dishes and knives and forks occasionally in fore.)

TOASTMASTER [raps for order]: "Gentlemen and fellow employés of the Old Glory Galvanized Garter Company, ——."

VOICE: "Louder."

TOASTMASTER: "Fellow employés of the Old Glory Galvanized Garter company, we meet again around this festive board to celebrate another big and successful year of making this old world just a little bit better with our justly famous product, the Old Glory Galvanized Garter." (Clapping of hands. Start rattling of dishes, increasing.)

TOASTMASTER: "Our business charts—our collection department—our debit and our credit sheets—our negotiable paper—and the bureau of standards will show that in the fiscal year ended our production vastly exceeded our sales—or, I mean—well, while the waiters are bringing in the desert course, let's all sing a little song. Come now, everybody, we'll turn to page 23 of the little books, and sing, "Yes, sir, that's my baby."

(Piano—and all sing.)

Yes, sir, that's my baby,
Yes, sir, that's my baby,
Yes, sir, that's my baby now.
By the way—by the way——
Dum-te-de-te-de-de-de.
Yes, sir, that's my baby,
Yes, sir, that's my baby,
Yes, sir, that's my baby now.

[All sing again.]

[Loud clapping. Clapping continues.]

TOASTMASTER — Gentlemen and fellow employés of the Old Glory Galvanizer Garter company—[clapping—raps for order]—fellow employés of the Galvanized Glory—the Old Glory Galvanized Garter company, we are to hear now from our good friend, George Mulroy, the manager of the eastern sales office. Of course, everybody knows George—he's an old-timer—and we all remember the time he made the speech to the policeman at the Philadelphia convention——

[Loud laughter and applause.]

"George needs no introduction to you; so I take great pleasure in introducing the next speaker of the evening, Mr. George Mulroy of the eastern office, whom I am sure will have a valuable message for you all."

[Loud applause.]

MR. MULROY—Fellow associates, let me first tell you a story. The other day—in fact, last Wednesday, or—let me see, it was Tuesday—no, it was Wednesday, I was riding up in the elevator in our building. When I got in the elevator on the ground floor I distinctly said to the elevator man, "Eighth floor, please!" Some other men in the elevator asked for the fifth floor and some for the thirteenth, and we started up with a lurch. And after we had stopped at the fifth floor for the other men, this fellow who was running the elevator let me off at the ninth, instead of the eighth. So I sat down there on the ninth floor and thought a while about it, and suddenly the idea struck me quite forcibly that that was th troubl with us all, and especially with us salesmen. WE ALL MAKE MISTAKES! And it proved the old axiom, that you can push a houseboat too far. [Applause.]

"Now, down in my office, I have a big map of the U. S. A., and I have figured it out that for every summer resort represented on that map there are nine people who have never bought our Old Glory garters. So I say to a prospect when I am selling him, 'Without a pair of Old Glories you can never hold your socks up unless you have a wooden leg, and who wants a wooden leg?' And I think I'm right"

(Inebriated gent starts to sing "Yes, shir, 'at's my baby," and crowd hushes him. General applause at end of speech.)

TOASTMASTER, "Well, I'm sure we all can profit by the good sense which George Mulroy has spoken so well to us all. There is certainly a lot in what he says.

(Rattle of dishes). Now, gentlemen, if you'll all just face in that direction, and look pleasant, we're going to have our pictures snapped by the gentleman up there on the ladder. (Silence, except for rattle of dishes). Will the waiters please remain silent for just a moment—please." (Long wait—and then boom of flashlight. Toastmaster raps for order).

INEBRIATED GENT: "Yesh, shir, 'at's mah baby—yesh, shir, 'at's mah baby—(All laugh).

TOASTMASTER [raps for order]: "There is a tide in the affairs of men which if taken at the flood leads on to fortune. And there is no better example of this than—take our worthy vice president, Orville Wheatcake, whom in just a minute or two is to address you on—on—on 'Whither Are We Coming?' Mr. Wheatcake needs on introduction to you, and he is now going to say a few words which I am sure we can profit from them a great deal. I take great pleasure in introducing the next speaker of the evening, Mr. Orville Wheatcake, our worthy vice president, who needs no introduction to you." (Applause).

MR. WHEATCAKE: "Ladies and gentlemen, unaccustomed as I—was just saying the other day—of fulfillment has at last come—to the point where we stand at the threshold of—the conditions are not what they were—when you and I were young. (Applause). What of our foreign trade and credit—where credit is due—that falls like a misty veil on all the countryside—or the other—than what we have now—floating there in the breeze the red, white and—take the case of Governor (two men start loud snoring)—United we stand and divided we—fall business might be summed up as follows—(more and more snoring) along the old paths—of glory lead but to the grave—(Now all are snoring and drowning out speaker) situation that we are confronting (speaker can not be heard in chorus of snores).

RADIO GREAT AID TO PATROL OFF ALASKAN SHORES

U. S. Ships Start North Next Month.

Washington, D. C., March 20.—[Special.]—Much has been written about radio as used by the ice patrol in the Atlantic, but comparatively little of its aid given to the Bering sea patrol off Alaskan shores. Capt. F. S. Van Boskerck of the coast guard will assume command of the Bering sea force for the season of 1926 about April 10. A part of the duties of the patrol will be the protection of seal and other fur bearing animals and the fisheries of Alaska.

More important, probably, is the duty of transporting various persons from remote points in the far away Alaskan territory. These include teachers, destitutes, natives, and prisoners. Then, as always, during stormy weather the coast guard ships in northern Pacific waters are on the lookout for vessels in distress.

Takes Place of Telegraph.

The essential part wireless plays in this problem of transportation and life saving need hardly be explained, especially when it is known that radio has now almost entirely supplanted telegraph lines in Alaska.

This year the Bering sea patrol will consist of five ships, including the historic cutter Bear, soon to be replaced, and which is probably making its last cruise to the Arctic.

Altogether because of the rocky shores, this is probably the most dangerous work the United States forces have to undertake, coast guard ships themselves having been lost in the rescue work. Perhaps nowhere has radio proved such an aid as in these waters.

Work Is Dangerous.

A typical instance was last year, when the Heida rescued the crew of the American steamer West Jenc, which had lost its propeller 350 miles south of Attu island and was in a helpless condition. The Heida, then at the Bay of Waterfalls, Adak island, responded to a radio call, found the disabled steamer, and towed it to Dutch Harbor, a distance of 750 miles.

An urgent wireless call was sent to the Mojave for surgical aid at Nome. The ship's surgeon was immediately landed and performed an operation which saved the patient's life.

Today's Winners in W.G.N.'s "Old Time Favorites" Radio Contest

Gladys K. Bradley, 311 North Oak, Kenosha, Wis., wins $50.00, the first prize in the "Old Time Favorites" contest conducted daily by W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. The songs played last Sunday were "The Palms," "Pilgrims' Chorus," and "A Perfect Day."

The winning sentence submitted by Miss Bradley follows: "'The Palms' echoes through my heart with thousands of little memories dancing through cathedral spaces, where they lose themselves in the majestic splendor of a God triumphant—of hope restored to a weary world, of the elusive pageantry of an era long past, when the faithful sang the first hosannas—a ringing challenge to a world of sin."

Mrs. Harry Beardsley, 710 North Harrison street, Alexandria, Ind., wins $25, the second prize.

Mrs. L. A. Miller, 1121 White avenue, Beloit, Wis., receives $10, the third prize.

J. P. Darst, 4246 Sheridan road, Chicago, is awarded $10, the fourth prize.

Carl L. Shattuck, 5469 West Chicago avenue, Chicago, wins $5, the fifth prize.

The five winners may receive their awards by calling at or writing to "Old Time Favorites," Tribune Tower Chicago. Every night at 6:45 and at 10:10 o'clock three old time songs are played at W-G-N. To become eligible for the five prizes totaling $100 listeners must name the melodies correctly and tell in a single sentence which one they like best and why. Letters must be received at THE TRIBUNE not later than four days after the songs are presented.

KOA PLANS TO SPECIALIZE IN SPORTING NEWS

Denver, March 20.—[Special.]—America's complete calendar of sporting classics—crucial games in the American, National, and Western leagues, the world series, all big purse races, gridiron clashes, track meets, championship boxing and wrestling bouts——

This is KOA's spectacular sports broadcasting program for 1926, the most pretentious, it is believed, to be drawn up in the annals of popular radio.

Announcement that leading sporting events from coast to coast will be given the ethereal right of way this year over the mile high Rocky mountain broadcasting station, was made today by Freeman H. Talbot, studio director and program manager.

Sox-Browns Game on Air.

It follows on the heels of numerous conferences with sporting authorities and months of detailed study, it was said.

Inaugural broadcasts will be play-by-play accounts of the opening game in the American league between St. Louis and Chicago at Chicago on April 13, followed by the Denver-St. Joseph opener in the Western league, April 14, at St. Joseph.

"Thus radio is given a new, enlarged responsibility," Talbot declared. "At the same time, an added service is provided our international audience of broadcast listeners.

"This move illustrates that radio, like the newspaper, is capable of being departmentalized," he continued. "For example, we have one airway department at KOA, during which programs of special interest to women and children are presented. Other outstanding divisions in our schedules are dramatics and music, educational or cultural programs, financial and agricultural broadcasts, and so on.

"Needless to say, there is a crying need for a well defined radio sports service."

In the case of golf, tennis and other tournaments, it was expected that a summary of final returns would be sufficient.

Balkite "B" is absolutely guaranteed to give satisfaction

1. Balkite "B," supplying plate current from the light socket, is absolutely guaranteed to give satisfaction.
2. It is the cheapest source of "B" power in existence. It will outlive over 20 sets of "B" batteries. So far as we know, not one has ever worn out.
3. Over 50,000 Balkite "B's" are giving satisfactory service in daily use on all types of receiving sets.
4. Balkite "B" is the only "B" eliminator that does not deteriorate with use and does not require replacements.
5. It has no bulbs. The rectifying unit is Balkite, an exclusive metal in use in over 400,000 Balkite Power Units.
6. Its absolutely silent, even flow of "B" power from the light socket gives a quality of reception impossible with any other device. It cannot burn out radio tubes.
7. It is tested and listed as standard by the Underwriters' Laboratories.
8. It fits in your present "B" cell compartment. It serves practically all 5 tube and most 6 tube sets.

PRICE $35 At your dealer's

BALKITE "B" II will serve any standard set. Specially adapted to sets of 6 tubes or more. Price $55.

Perfect Entertainment At 303 Meters!
The 24-Hour Wave Length of W-G-N and WLIB

The Phantom Violin

Again this mysterious artist—his precious violin, old and sweet, will break the twilight silence with music unlike anything you have heard before—you will be entranced! Watch for his next W-G-N performance.

"Auld Sandy"

A lovable old character, this amiable Scotchman with his Caledonian songs and stories—bringing a breath of the Scot's sweet heather with him—"Auld Sandy" is a novel figure in radio—unlike any other entertainer—hear him on WLIB every Wednesday at 7:30 o'clock — on W-G-N every Saturday at 8 o'clock.

The Old Music Room

A quaint old chamber with quaint old furnishings—square piano and mellow violin—a musician speaks informally of great masters—soft and restful words and dulcet music in an atmosphere of peace—a lovely aria—a winged sensation hour out of the long ago—every Sunday night at 9:15 o'clock on W-G-N.

Sam 'n' Henry

Whimsical, carefree Sam — the trenchantly sagacious Henry — their humor is artless, unpretentious, typical of everyday life—but if you hear them tonight you will listen to them every night, as thousands of others do—on W-G-N each night at 10 o'clock.

Uncle Walt's Punch and Judy

Like the sandman of childhood comes Uncle Walt every night at 7 o'clock with his stories and songs—you will take a fancy to his collection of animal pals—Cuckoo, the little bird, Puff, the pet kitten,—Pal, the dog, and Jumbo the elephant,—Ducky Lucky, the woe duck, and all the others — every night at 7 o'clock on WLIB.

ANNOUNCING
The Oriental Symphony!

The Oriental Symphony is unique in radio—Aladdin rubs his magic lamp and the genii of the lamp transports us to fairyland—to a wonder country of sweet music and beautiful harmonies—melodies presented in a surprising and spectacular manner—light classics played with technique and finesse—popular jazz tunes—new harmonies—offered by unusual combinations of instruments—you will be charmed by the Oriental Symphony and its mode of presentation—It is the only orchestra of its kind in radio! Hear its first concert Tuesday evening at 9 o'clock!

Old Time Favorites

$100.00 in prizes is offered every day in the Old Time Favorites' contest conducted by W-G-N. Listen tonight at 6:45 or at 10:10 o'clock to the three old time songs. If you recognize them, send in the correct titles, together with a sentence telling which song you like best and why. The first prize is $50; the second, $25; the third, $10; the fourth, $10; and the fifth, $5.

"The Million Sing"

Here is community singing on an unprecedented scale—every evening at 6:55 o'clock W-G-N presents favorite familiar tunes, and listeners everywhere join in — this is new in radio — join in "The Million Sing" this evening at 6:55 o'clock on W-G-N.

The Play Shop

Have you "visited" The Play Shop yet? Every kind of entertainment is to be found in its nooks and corners—a hundred varieties of amusement—one night you are taken for a moonlight trip down the Mississippi—the next night you witness a burlesque on the movie show of fifteen years ago—on W-G-N every night at 10:20 o'clock!

W-G-N Quartet Recitals

The haunting strains of an old plantation melody, the stirring sounds of a martial air, the swinging rhythm of a college song—all these will be found in the recitals given by the W-G-N Male Quartet, every Friday from 8:30 to 9 o'clock. Melodies popular the world over, old tunes half-forgotten—variety of song characterizes these performances.

Orchestra Concerts

The music of the masters, the compositions of modern writers, favorite ballads and light opera selections—all these are heard in the weekly half-hour concerts rendered on WLIB by two premier musical units—the Drake Concert Ensemble—the Blackstone String Quintet.

Correll and Gosden

A harmony duo without a peer—new tunes sung with perfect rhythm and with a merry lilt that is irresistible—comedy, chatter and song—they are radio's foremost songsters—Correll and Gosden on WLIB every night.

PETRILLO TELLS STATIONS TO QUIT USING AMATEURS

Threatens More Fees for Orchestras.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Drastic action will be taken within the next two weeks by the Chicago Federation of Musicians unless the directors of some of the radio broadcasting stations in the Chicago district cease adhering to their present policy of engaging amateur talent instead of professional musicians, James C. Petrillo, president of the musicians' federation, announced last night.

JAMES C. PETRILLO

The union executive asserted that the federation is now considering a plan to demand additional fees from hotels, cafés, and motion picture theaters that have wires extending from the orchestra pits to broadcasting stations as one of the drastic measures to stop amateur engagements.

Gave Music Free.

"When broadcasting was first introduced in Chicago, professional musicians made no attempt to obtain remuneration for their services at various radio stations," asserted Petrillo. "The best orchestral units within the ranks of the Chicago Federation of Musicians were allowed to render gratis to the station their services in the belief that the publicity obtained would repay the orchestra and its members.

"It was not long, however, before it was learned that the only beneficiaries under this policy were the orchestra leaders, which meant that when an orchestra of ten pieces was engaged the leader received the so-called glory and the other nine musicians did the work.

Even Abuse Privilege.

"But even this privilege was abused, with the result that the musicians' federation was compelled to step in and enforce a price schedule to govern players at radio stations. The federation has a gentlemen's agreement with most of the radio stations in Chicago regarding amateur band engagements. These engagements are permitted when approval is given by the musicians' union.

"This was the only method we could pursue and protect members of the Chicago Federation of Musicians and the conditions which they have built up after years of strife and financial losses."

Mr. Petrillo pointed out that the finest broadcasting units of musicians are employed in the better class hotels, cafés, and motion picture theaters. He said that in many of these places microphones are installed in orchestra pits and the music is transmitted over the wires to broadcasting stations, where it is put on the air. The musicians get no extra pay for broadcasting, and if Mr. Petrillo finds it necessary to charge additional fees for broadcasting orchestras the money will go to the players.

"We are willing to go more than half way to meet the demands requested in the musical line by the various station directors," he said, "but at the same time they should meet us the remainder of the way across the bridge, and in this manner all disputes about radio matters could be eliminated for all time."

Ole Likes It Too.

The number of Swedish radio licenses issued up to the end of last month amounts to 150,000, Commercial Attaché Klath at Stockholm advises.

RADIO COOKS TO GET DIPLOMAS BY AIR FRIDAY

Huge Class Is Ready to Graduate.

Add to the long list of academic degrees that of post-graduate in cooking. Just whether this degree will be known as "M. C. C.," "Master of Culinary Concoctions" or what other specific designation will be given it, has not been decided, but on Friday morning, March 26, several thousand housewives throughout the United States will complete their post-graduate course in a radio cooking school.

This school, said to be the largest in the number of students enrolled of any school in history, has been conducted from a score of radio stations every Friday morning during the last six weeks by Betty Crocker, home service specialist.

In addition to those who are students in the radio cooking schools for the first time there were several thousand who had already taken a course over the radio from Miss Crocker and received diplomas at the graduating exercises which were held over the air on Jan. 20. Thousands of women enrolled for the first course, and of this number a considerable percentage, it was said, completed the work required for graduation.

The second national radio cooking school opened Jan. 29. The interest of the housewives in this type of radio broadcasting was indicated by the fact that the enrollment greatly exceeded that of the first school. The number of those who are graduating from the second school, according to Miss Crocker, is approximately twice that of the first.

CONCERT STARS SING TODAY ON WJAZ PROGRAM

Two of Chicago's best known artists will be heard in the concert broadcast from WJAZ tonight, beginning at 7 p. m.

They are Jennie F. W. Johnson, contralto, who has been heard in concert and oratorio in all the principal cities of the United States and Canada, and Mae Doelling Schmidt, one of the leading concert pianists of this city.

Assisting in this program, the Temple quartet will offer a diversified program of semi-classics.

First Pennsy Program Goes on Air on April 8

The first Pennsylvania employés radio program to be broadcast from their studio in the Employés' association clubrooms at Fort Wayne, through station WOWO, will go on the air April 8. The former date, March 18, had to be set aside because of conflicting bookings by the broadcasting station.

The studio is nearing completion and a well arranged program is promised for their first hearing.

Elizabeth Rushmore on WJJD Program Today

Elizabeth Rushmore, well known to radio fans for her previous work from WJJD, will be the soloist with the Palmer House Sunday Symphony orchestra on their program from the Mooseheart station from 4 to 5 p. m. today.

7 STATIONS SIGN OFF IN FEBRUARY.

Stations which closed down during the last month are as follows:

KDZB, Bakersville, Cal.; KFAJ, Boulder, Colo.; KFVH, Manhattan, Kas.; KUO, San Francisco, Cal.; WDBC, Lancaster, Pa.; WEBM, United States, portable; WHBK, Ellsworth, Me.

Muzio and Brailowsky on Air in Program from W-G-N Tonight

Two artists of exceptional merit, Claudia Muzio, the prima donna soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera company and a noted concert artist, and Alexander Brailowsky, Russian pianist, who was heard in this country for the first time late in 1924, will be heard by radio listeners tonight in the Kent hour of music, broadcast from W-G-N at 8:15 o'clock.

CLAUDIA MUZIO.

Miss Muzio has lived in the atmosphere of opera from babyhood, her mother, father, and aunt, being famous musicians.

UNIQUE MUSICAL TREATS IN STORE FOR W-G-N FANS

Radio fans in quest of an unusual radio treat should tune in W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel, Tuesday night at 9 o'clock for the first appearance of the Oriental Symphony, a new studio orchestra presenting widely appealing types of music in an unusual manner. The orchestra will give a program once a week.

The Oriental Symphony is distinctly new in radio. It is an exclusive W-G-N orchestra playing special arrangements of all its selections; compositions are carefully chosen for color and appeal. No field in music will be left untouched; the Oriental Symphony will go from the light classics to the most popular of jazz, yet each selection will be offered in a unique manner and with a technique and finesse unknown to the majority of popular radio orchestras.

Former Laborer to Speak at Sunday Evening Club Tonight

Edward M. Steiner, one of the interesting products of America's melting pot, once laborer in a New York York sweat shop, now professor of applied Christianity at Grinnell college and one of our best known authorities on immigration, will speak before the main meeting of the Sunday Evening club, broadcast by KYW, tonight, his subject being "The Eternal Hunger." At the 7 o'clock meeting Henry P. Chandler, former president of the City club, and chairman of the committee of 200 will speak.

E. M. STEINER.

WLIB'S ALMANAC IS 10 MINUTES OF ENTERTAINMENT

Remember the old fashioned almanac, with its queer admonitions, its unusual pictures of the signs of the zodiac, its wide miscellany of odd and interesting information, that arrived at your back door with the coming of each spring?

WLIB, The Liberty Weekly station on the Drake hotel, is reproducing the old fashioned almanac on the air each evening between 7:20 and 7:30 p. m., and listeners who constantly search the ether for new features are finding it amusing and helpful.

The purpose of The Almanac is to compress into ten minutes' entertainment, both information and useful facts. Each evening The Almanac sketches, informally and wittily, the day in history; we hear unusual gossip about important historical personages while interesting incidents from the histories of all nations are given brief mention.

N. U. 'PROF' FINDS STATIC IS TOUGH NUT TO CRACK

New Data Produced by Recent Tests.

Effect of water on static and fading as investigated during the recent tests of such phenomena by the physics department of Northwestern university has presented an entirely new and unexpected problem.

Previous investigation of static, fading, and other atmospheric disturbances tended to show that static was strong in the southwest and that reception was good in a direction paralleling the Mississippi river. Eastern tests tended to show that it was simpler to receive London at Boston than to receive San Francisco at New York. Water generally has been looked upon as the close friend of good reception, although few radio experts have attempted to analyze whether this was due to some inherent effect of the water itself or only to its flat surface.

Want More Verification.

The recent static tests produced a quantity of revolutionary information—so revoluntionary, in fact, that Prof. Lester I. Bockstahler of the Northwestern university physics department, now engaged in tabulating the results, refused to accept it without further verification.

It was found, for instance, that reception in Michigan was good on all three nights of the tests—a much better record than that shown in any of the other reports. Michigan is almost completely surrounded by water, and apparently gave evidence that the old theory was true. In the east, however, the old water holes showed a great reversal of form. New York, for instance, was virtually unable to hear anything on the first night. On that night there was a snow storm along the Atlantic seacoast and in the great lakes region.

Snow Storm Interferes.

During this period there were similar complaints from states south of Washington, D. C. Western stations seemed to have been completely silenced, and the northern stations were badly marred by static.

The effect of the snow storm was not computable from data furnished by the observer-listeners throughout the United States. But it was found that while reception was not so good in Chicago, such stations as could be heard at all were fairly clear.

Canada Still Leads in Radio Imports

Exports for the last fiscal month fell slightly below the million dollar mark, with a total of $967,222. Of this amount Canada purchased more than half—$569,746. The United Kingdam was second with $78,273 and Australia third with $62,565.

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

(Sunday, March 21) (Standard time throughout.)

TWO artists of extraordinary merit, Claudio Muzio and Alexander Brailowsky, will be heard tonight on W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. Miss Muzio is the prima donna soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera company and Mr. Brailowsky is a pianist, well known in Europe as well as America.

Their program will be brought by wire from New York and broadcast by W-G-N. Miss Muzio has had a remarkable musical career. Ever since her debut several years ago in Milan she has attracted attention by her lovely voice. She was formerly a member of the Metropolitan Opera company, whence she came to the Chicago Civic Opera company. The program to be given tonight by Miss Muzio and Mr. Brailowsky will open at 8:15 and run until 9:15 o'clock.

Among the other features which have a prominent place on the W-G-N schedule for today is a concert by the MacLeish chorus of the First Baptist church, Evanston. This will be presented between 3 and 4 o'clock. An interesting list of selections has been planned, as follows:

A Page's Road Song.....Novello

The life and work of Brahms will be taken up in "The Old Music Room" tonight between 9:15 and 10 o'clock. Every Sunday night the professor of "The Old Music Room" gives an informal talk on one eof the great composers and his works. Several of Brahms' best known compositions will be played tonight during this period.

One of the chief musical attractions of the day is the concert to be given on W-G-N by the Chicago Athletic Club ensemble, under the leadership of Gaston Du Moulin. This will go on the air between 4 and 5 o'clock.

The program today opens at 12 o'clock noon with Uncle Walt reading THE TRIBUNE comics to the children. At 7 o'clock this evening Uncle Walt will be back on the air with his nightly Punch and Judy. This popular entertainment will last until 7:30 o'clock.

Those delightful comedians, San 'n' Henry, will present ten minutes of merriment beginning at 10 o'clock. The adventures of these colored boys are eagerly awaited in thousands of homes every night.

"Old Time Favorites" will be presented at the usual hours, namely 6:45 and 10:10 o'clock. $100 in prizes are offered daily.

Join in "The Million Sing" tonight from 6:15 to 6:45 o'clock. Several favorite songs will be given and listeners are invited to join in the general singing.

WLIB PROGRAM

The Sunday afternoon program of WLIB, Liberty weekly station, attracts added attention today through the inclusion of the popular Hi-Lo male quartet of "The Student Prince," Sidney Romberg's famed musical play at the Great Northern theater. The quartet is to offer a special forty-five minute recital, between 5:30 and 6:15 o'clock. The members of the quartet take leading male roles in the play. They are Henry Iblings, first tenor; Richard Scott, second tenor; Jack Harcourt, baritone, and Al Stafford, basso. Juanita Thomas, also of "The Student Prince" company, will be their accompanist during their WLIB recital, when they are to offer the following program:

Always.....Berlin
Song of the Volga Boatmen.....
Quartet.
I Hear You Calling Me.....
Ah, Moon and My Delight.....
Henry Iblings, tenor.
Close Harmony.....
Quartet.
Captain Mac.....
Blue Dragoon.....
Jack Harcourt, baritone.
I Saw You in Your Window.....
I Never Knew.....Fiorito
Quartet.

Preceding the quartet recital the WLIB studio ensemble is to present a half hour program of popular concert selections, interspersed with vocal selections by Kathleen Ryan, contralto, and Mark Love, basso.

Cunningham RADIO TUBES

Electrons in Flight

When you buy a radio tube, you are interested only in its performance. Metal, glass and bakelite—these materials are incidental to efficient and lasting results.

And on a new factor in science, performance depends—not on molecules, not on atoms, but on electrons in flight. Here is a delicacy so fine that Swiss watches or telescopes are blacksmith's products compared to it.

Only when he realizes the task which faces his radio tubes, only when he appreciates how important it is to combine accuracy with rugged strength—only then does the radio enthusiast understand the vital need of in-built and inherent Integrity. And only then does he demand the tube which is the outstanding product of this Invisible Integrity—since 1915.

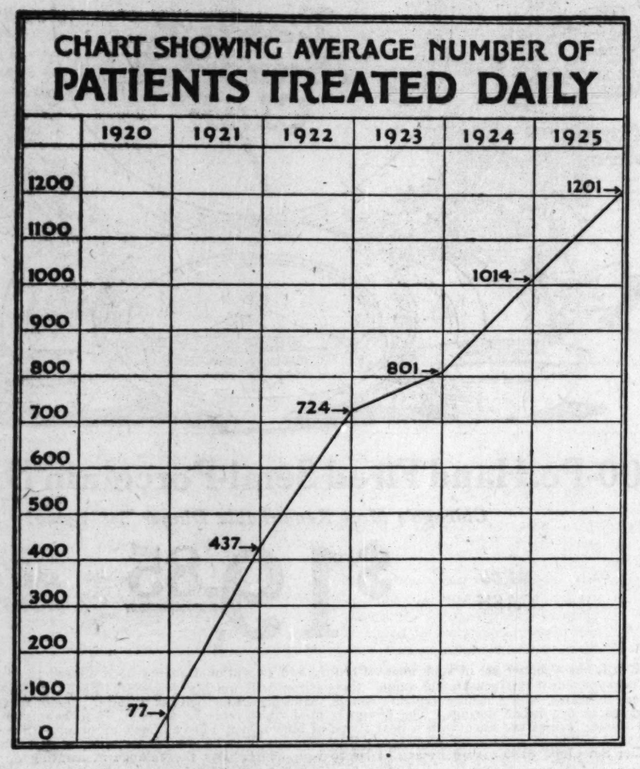
Radio Reliability

Confidence



The results achieved by the Public Health Institute in its war against "Social" Diseases have won for it the confidence and good will of the entire public.

Working to alleviate human suffering and to check the spread of devastating venereal infections, it has brought better health, greater happiness and increased efficiency to thousands upon thousands of Chicagoans.

By giving reliable medical treatment at the lowest possible cost, the Public Health Institute has deservedly earned public friendship. Those who rejoice in their cure have told others, with the consequence that a large part of the Institute's new patients are recommended to it by satisfied former patients.

The remarkable growth of the Public Health Institute is graphically described at the left. Note that while it originally treated an average of only 77 patients daily, it is now treating more than 1,200 men, women and children every day.

The Institute's growth in the number of patients treated has been paralleled by its growth in facilities. Beginning in a tiny back room with only one physician and a clerk, it now maintains three complete clinics and employs thirty physicians, five woman nurses and thirty other employees.

The need for an organization such as the Public Health Institute is recognized by every right-thinking Chicagoan. For venereal diseases constitute one of the most dreaded menaces the city has to face. Often seemingly mild in themselves, they invariably result in untold misery unless promptly and properly treated.

Insanity, blindness, paralysis, sterility, still-born and defective children, pelvic disorders in women—these are only a few of the awful results of neglected "Social" Diseases. Deaths directly traceable to venereal infections reach the appalling total of 300,000 annually.

The alarm of this danger sounds for all who have become infected or are in any doubt regarding their condition. Delay is dangerous—prompt treatment will ordinarily effect a cure. Therefore you are urged to immediately consult a reputable physician or to come to the Public Health Institute for examination.

Being organized not for profit, the Institute's fees are low enough to be within the reach of all. Even those who lack immediate funds will not be turned away.

Bearing in mind that a "Social" Disease may be inherited, or otherwise innocently acquired, an occasional medical examination is advisable if only as a preventive measure. At the Public Health Institute you can be examined at small cost in surroundings of privacy and comfort. If found to be free from venereal infection, you will be discharged with a clean bill of health.

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

When All Roads Lead to Tia Juana

Today's New York society letter is on page two of this section.

By Nancy R——

LA JOLLA, Cal.—[Special Correspondence.]—Among the hundred and one questions sprung upon the southern California wanderer, whether he hail from Illinois, Ohio, or points east, is always this one: "Have you been to Tia Juana?"

Having its own share of that 'satiable curiosity of Kipling's youthful elephant, the R—— family journeyed recently on a sunny afternoon to perhaps the most squalid, vicious and ugly spot in this alluring section of the world, across the border line that separates Mexico from these United States of ours, to Tia Juana of the melodious name and the black heart.

The motorist going to the Tia Juana faces is offered two fine roads out of San Diego: one by way of Coronado and across the Silver Strand, the seventeen mile paved strip of land that prevents Coronado from being an island; the second a highway that leads through National City and San Ysidro, little sister to Tia Juana. The writer was whirled over the latter, through rolling farm lands, great fields of celery whose perfume was heavy on the gentle breezes, and the green and gold of citrus groves, rimmed by the flat green mountains of Mexico.

Even the road reflects the insouciance of our neighbor over the border—the red line down the middle that divides southbound travelers from those going in the opposite direction, wanders irregularly along in jogs and jiggles bewildering to the soberest of drivers, with a much narrower path allotted to him who leaves Tia Juana behind. In justice to the California state highway officials, I must add that a straight new line is being laid, much to the regret of us who enjoy the little incongruities of life.

At the Border.

The gray frame buildings that are the offices of border officials suddenly loom up around a curve in the road. A high wooden arch in the center flaunts the warning that intoxicated drivers are subject to jail sentence, followed by the admonition to go slow. We are stopped on the ingoing side by a swarthy, mustachioed gentleman who demands our destination. The password is "To the races." Any other reply brings forth an avalanche of questions as to ancestry, purpose, position in life, and hope of the future, comparable only to the obtaining of a chauffeur's license in Massachusetts or college registration.

And suddenly we are in Mexico! The races can wait a minute while we tour what is known as Old Town. Across a rickety wooden bridge we reach the one dusty street that is Tia Juana. Its edges are solidly lined with buildings. There is one curio shop; the rest are bars and saloons—the ladies of Tia Juana and the saloons are gayly painted.

The blare of jazz bands and the clink of American coins can be heard the length of the street. Dark skinned Mexicans, in boots and breeches, open necked shirts and broad brimmed sombreros, loaf against the walls or saunter about. Brightly garbed, hard faced women drift from one door to another. An occasional native policeman in khaki colored uniform eyes the newly arrived motor car. Dust whirls in the golden sunlight.

At the end of the row, an imposing plaster building, yclept the Foreign club, spreads over a great portion of the landscape. The eye of the particular tourist lights—perhaps this will be attractive within. Vain hope!

Profiting from Americans.

An ugly, barren hall leads to the gaming room and the bar. The tables are packed with men and women. Piles of silver dollars (the dismay of the easterner and the coin of the realm west of the Rockies) appear and disappear on the green baize tables. Over the bar beer and mixed drinks at fifty cents and more apiece may be obtained. Mexico laughs up its sleeve at our ideas on prohibition and profits immensely therefrom. Each saloonkeeper pays thousands of dollars a month to the government, hundreds in rent, and takes in tens of thousands a week, tens of thousands of American dollars.

The early closing of the border line after the Peteet disaster of some weeks ago is causing consternation among those interested in Tia Juana; daylight vice is far less profitable than the erstwhile up-to-midnight revelry.

The racing begins at one o'clock and lasts until five. An hour later the border is closed, and our fellow citizens must be tucked into our country by then. Until five they fill the grandstand—a sprinkling of good looking, well dressed men and women to whom betting is only one of many distractions; a crowd of less attractive persons whose enjoyment scope is much more limited; a few hard working tillers of the soil who have brought the family and the family purse over for an afternoon's relaxation. Each race brings its attendant whirl of excitement—there is a mingling of soprano and basso entreaties to "Come on in, baby, and take the mortgage off the old home!" The track and horses are good; on a fine day one forgets for the moment the sordidness of surroundings in the quest for entertainment.

Chicagoans in Athens.

It's a far cry from the squalid little Mexican gambling town to the classic environs of Athens, whither several Chicagoites are now bound. After a sojourn of several weeks in Santa Barbara the Henry J. Pattens sailed for Europe yesterday on the Duilio. Early in April they plan to meet the William C. Boydens and Horace Oakley in the interesting old Greek city, to be present for an important public occasion, the dedication of the new American library connected with the American academy at Athens.

Apropos public occasions, a certain function in one of our western cities was recently the unwitting cause of much consternation and difficulty in a well organized, westward traveling Chicago family. Mrs. Donald P. Abbott of the well known Sturges family, her four children, and a nurse were en route for Coronado. Mrs. Abbott learned that the train would stay in Kansas City for fifty minutes, so, leaving the baby in the nurse's care in their comfortable Pullman quarters, she hustled the three oldest children into a cab up to a certain park to the unveiling of a fine new Lincoln monument. They returned to the station at the time set, only to hear that the train had gone! There was nothing to do but wire the nurse to take the baby and luggage off at the next stop, and wait for the rest of the family to appear. They had to spend an extra night, and then go on to California in four uppers—a true and uncomfortable example of being "on their uppers."

A SMART SHOP FOR SMART WOMEN

The Coat Successes of Paris

Stevens Coat collection for Spring contains authentic replicas of only the successful Paris originals. Lanvin's new fur yoke—shaped like a V at the back and like a shawl in front—is represented. Taffeta and Satin add their lustre. Lavish designs in embroidery adorn the newest coat skirts and sleeves. The dolman and the new Rolande cape-to-the-knee have stepped into place in a picturesque manner. Totally different—but authentic—Coats for the smart Chicago woman's Easter. $55 to $275.

Outstanding Sports Modes

Scarlet enlivens the sports mode. The jumper type persists. The plaited skirt is the thing. The cape and the straight coat compete. The long cravat is smart. Daring contrasts in color prevail. Sports costumes complete, as sponsored by Rodier, Lanvin, and Patou, are now ready in our Specialized Sports Section, with the new style notes.

The Suit

Tailored to perfection are the new Spring suits, bound with grosgrain braid or satin—and with a mannish vest—to be smart. Authentic replicas of Molyneaux', Driscoll's, and O'Rossen's. $45 to $175.

HATS
The Height of Chic

The very millinery modes worn at the Ritz may be obtained at Stevens. The sophisticated draped crown, the simple toque, the up-in-the-front brim display their Parisian parentage. Creases soften the high, square crown. A whirl of ostrich increases the flattery of satin. Belting ribbon adds a contrasting color to Crochet Visca. A single flower dramatizes the picture hat.

The important Spring colors resemble a garden—Bois de Rose, Moonflower Gray, Watersprite Green, Capri Blue, Beige, Rouge Diable, and Black—$10 to $45.

—and Frocks Parisienne

The Paris models and their replicas presented by Stevens agree on these high lights in frock fashions:

Bisque and Beige with Black follow in the wake of black-and-pink combinations for the matinee and tea. Lace, Net, and Tulle lighten the character of gowns for evening. "Robes de Style" rise in front and drop at the back. The waistline is natural now. V's are acclaimed the very last word in chic. Fringe and plaits are the vogue.

Green and Gray and Navy are important. Our mannequins will show these Spring styles for you. $55 to $200.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF NEW YORK SOCIETY

Society Stages a Colonial Pageant

By Grace Robinson.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Old New York families are in a quandary as to what matron shall portray the leading feminine figure in a colonial pageant soon to be held here.

MRS. EARL E. T. SMITH. [Keystone Photo.]

The program will deal with the life and career of George Washington. Despite the fact that all the parts will be played by New Yorkers of exalted social standing and azure blood, there is no great rush of applicants for the part of Martha Custis.

The reason is obvious, in this day of lamb chop and pineapple diet.

Martha Custis was fat. Her ample proportions are not a quality that has been thrust upon her by the recent truth telling fervor of Rupert Hughes. His remarks on the first President's swearing, beer brewing proclivities were received with much horror by the very group that is putting on the pageant. It required no perusal of diaries and other historical sources to prove that Dame Martha's figure was of a rotundity that would win scant approval in these pencil gown days.

Sidestepping the Honor.

And since Martha Washington was fat, where is the smart woman, struggling daily with the masseuse and the menu, who can assume the capacious habiliments of the first lady? Even supposing there are some fat matrons among our first families—and there exist a number—which one will so let herself down in mind as to admit she is a proper applicant?

The Van Cortlandts, the Livingstons, the Hoyts, the De Peysters, and the rest have shown no inclination to bid for the rôle. Mrs. Walter Graeme Elliot has been suggested. No one can deny that Mrs. Elliot qualifies on the basis of avoirdupois. In addition she possesses the calm and placid physiognomy said to have characterized Washington's better half.

It was easier to name an actor for the rôle of Washington, either because the father of his country was quite presentable as to physical characteristics, or because men, as some of their critics say, are less vain than women. Leonard Cox has been selected for that impersonation, being of the necessary height.

Two Gowns from Paris.

Consuelo Vanderbilt Smith has two new dresses. The acquisition of new gowns is nothing to write home about in the life of a Vanderbilt heiress. The interesting fact in connection with these additions to her wardrobe lies, as it should, in the extreme loveliness of both costumes. They were given to her by her mother, who got them in Paris.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt II. is one of society's more diminutive matrons. And luckily for her, Consuelo is not a great deal larger than her mother. When the famous little mistress of 666 Fifth avenue tired of her new outfits—doubtless before she had donned either one—her recently wedded daughter was the one to profit.

One is an evening gown—a marvellous lavender creation with flounce upon flounce standing out in billowy formation. The waist is a tight, form-fitting basque. Solid gold ornaments glorify the front of the gown in the neighborhood of the waistline. Consuelo's young husband, Earl Smith, is reported to have been quite dazzled when his pretty bride descended to dinner radiant in this turnout.

The other gown is a brown affair for daytime wear, of a color resembling stone. On receiving this, young Mrs. Smith immediately went shopping on the avenue and purchased two hats to match.

Thousands in Duty.

When Mrs. Vanderbilt brought these gowns into the country, she paid $3,000 in duty alone. Recollect that the duty on clothing of this class is somewhere in the neighborhood of sixty per cent!

When Miss Vanderbilt departed from the custom of a decade or two ago and married a hard working American boy instead of an exotic nobleman, she committed herself to an economical mode of living. Earl Smith never promised to keep her in the style to which she had been accustomed, for the simple reason that he couldn't even start on such a gilded marital career. Much was said about economy, plain living, modest domestic arrangements and limited wardrobes.

The Smiths were relieved at the start of one bugaboo that harasses most young couples, even those of social register pretensions. That is the rent. Mrs. Smith's father, W. K. Vanderbilt, of railroad millions, gave her a house for a wedding present. It is not a pretentious house, as Vanderbilt houses go. There is a distinct atmosphere of Greenwich Village about the exterior. Although built of white stone, the gratings and the door and window trims are painted a vivid greenish blue. This feature strikes horror to the hearts of decorators of an old fashioned and formal school. But in the minds of lay observers the paint gives a cheerful and homey atmosphere to the cold stone. And of all the imposing stone houses in the street, a blind man would not fail to select this one as the abode of newlyweds. A "simple" home, of course. Only five stories in height! And only six servants, including the new English butler!

Even the Sink Is Silver.

The extremely thrifty idea of a silver plated sink may have originated in the brain of father, who gave the house. At any rate there it is, in the butler's pantry, astonishing the eyes of some of the friends who visit and inspect the house. Not nickel, but real silver—and the sink, of course is not the small, one cylinder affair which graces most Americans kitchens. It is a pretentious sink, with enormous drain board and various partitions and fixtures which remove many social strata from the iron affairs which delighted the hearts of our younger grandmothers.

Although Earl Smith comes of excellent family, he will have to prove himself a giant in business prowess before he can compete even with the income of his wife. Nevertheless, he goes faithfully to work every morning, while his pretty spouse laments that she is obliged always to eat her luncheon alone, and frequently her tea.

Modern Day Problems.

The bootlegging problem harasses the rich as well as the moderately well to do who take joy in violating the dry law. Recently a prominent social register matron who would rather miss her monthly allowance than her cocktails was shockingly sold on a consignment of champagne. When the precious wine came it proved to be a far different beverage than the sample which had induced the matron to invest $4,000 in a supply.

Did she fly back to her bootlegger with the air of an outraged lover of good liquor? Not she. She didn't even bother to make a kick by telephone. As for recovering her money, that was the last thing in her mind, apparently, for she calmly emptied the bottles down the sink of her pretentious establishment and remarked sadly on the difficulty nowadays of getting anything fit to drink!

So highly esteemed is a supply of stimulating beverages nowadays that amazing precautions are taken to insure the safe delivery of alcoholic consignments. Recently an automobileful of fine champagne was sent to a fashionable uptown home. It arrived guarded by two private detectives—more of an entourage than is accorded the young master of the house when he fares forth in a city troubled by thugs and gunmen.

Needlewomen Are Busy.

The Lenten sewing classes go on apace, attended religiously by matrons who insist on some sort of sober observance of the pre-Easter season. The social calendar for the week shows few events listed except the meeting of the Lenten sewing class of the clothing committee to St. Luke's hospital social service, or the meeting of the Cathedral Sewing class, or the class that meets for the social service committee of Harlem hospital.

As one amused attendant remarked recently, there are not many in the penitential groups that are highly skilled with the needle. For the most part, the high-minded ladies do basting in preparation for the small stitching which they find too taxing to the nerves.

Others, whose early domestic education was subordinated to their lessons in French, do not sew at all, but merely thread the needles for their more industrious sisters. They console themselves with the words of the poet —was it Milton?—"They also serve who only stand and wait."

Since the period is one of penance, the rich "needle women" punish themselves by refraining from excessive gossip about absent friends. Recently one of these sewing bees was held at the home of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie—a dwelling that seldom harbors anything in the nature of a social function. The meeting was held in the library, where the sunlight streamed in—the Carnegie home being one of the few mansions that boasts a side yard. This room remains as it was during the steel king's lifetime, as does also his den on the ground floor. In this latter apartment he kept various mementoes of his brilliant career, including the first piece of steel he ever manufactured and the telegraph instrument he used when a boy.

Princess Viggo, the unassuming young woman who was formerly Miss Green and is a direct descendant of Peter Cooper, continues to put in an appearance at the stellar events. She was recently at the opera as the guest of no less a person than Mrs. F. A. De Peyster, who was pretty in a baby blue gown with a pink rose perched on her left shoulder.

The princess presented a far more sophisticated appearance than she generally did in the days when she lived with her maiden aunts at the family mansion in Gramercy Park. She wore a black gown entirely covered with black jet sequins.

She was an interesting figure also at the costume party the George T. Brokaws gave, when every one came, or was supposed to come, dressed as children.

Mrs. Brokaw was dressed as a French doll, and she was a great success in this rôle. Her golden curls hung down her back and on her head was perched a big bow of pink ribbon—just as in the days before flapper type dolls became the possession of almost every little girl. Her husband proved the most accommodating of mates. He wore a white blouse of small boy style and his short trousers were buttoned to his upper garment in the most approved nursery style.

Princess Viggo let her dark hair hang down her back—she is one of the few unbobbed ones among the younger women, and she wore a jaunty little white frock. Those who didn't come in costume were provided with hair ribbons and bibs. The decorations gave the house the air of a nursery with Mother Goose figures tacked to the walls and rabbits and kittens frolicking in truly childish fashion. Every guest was presented with a teddy bear, a doll, and a horn.

Name to Conjure With.

The name Belmont bids fair to become a powerful cognomen again at Newport, after a lapse of years, during which the various ramifications of that exalted family frankly gave it the air. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont, it is said, plan to reopen their spacious villa, Belcourt, and give Newport a taste of the glories to which the family treated Belleview avenue of old.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, most famous living member of the clan, has given up the gilded world in which she once shone.

The Perry Belmonts of late years have passed their time abroad, at Paris, Vichy, Monte Carlo, Biarritz, and other expensive centers of fashion.

Daughters Hold State Conference

A LARGE percentage of the membership of 8,811 women in the ninety-two chapters of the Illinois Daughters of the American Revolution will assemble in Peoria on Wednesday for the thirtieth annual state conference to be held there for three days. The conference will be opened by the state regent, Mrs. Frank J. Bowman of Sterling.

Mrs. Bowman and the Peoria chapter have planned three busy days. Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president general; Mrs. Alfred Brosseau of New York, Mrs. Rhett Good of Mobile, Ala. (all of the national board), and Mrs. George T. Guernsey, honorary president general of Kansas, will be guests.

Chicago will be represented by Mrs. Robert Hall Wiles, honorary state regent; Mrs. Charles E. Herrick, past state regent, and regents, delegates, alternates, and visiting daughters from the five Chicago chapters.

From Monmouth will come Mrs. John M. Hanley, Illinois state regent during the world war, now vice president general.

The conference will consider reports of the year's work, future plans, new officers, and preparations for the national continental congress next month in Washington. This year at Washington officers for the ensuing three years will be selected and plans for new "Constitution Hall" will engage attention.

Founded Thirty-five Years Ago.

The society was founded thirty-five years ago by a few who saw the need for preserving records and relics of our national beginnings and for fostering the spirit of service to country.

The society's insignia, the wheel with thirteen spokes, capped by thirteen stars and the distaff, is well known, worn by many of its 152,290 members from Maine to California.

The Daughters of the American Revolution is not an exclusive organization, its new members averaging 1,000 a month. It welcomes those eligible through direct descent from man or woman patriot who helped establish American independence.

Because there is an inheritance in common, because the work has been directed always to national welfare, members have a close kinship of spirit. In an address to the continental congress, President Coolidge said: "To gain a perfect spiritual and moral unity in our nation we need just such interests and activities as those to which the D. A. R. are so sincerely devoted."

These activities have long range, commencing with work with children and ending with marking long neglected graves of revolutionary soldiers.

Aim Is Patriotism.

The "Children of the American Revolution" is organized, like its mother society, on the basis of family descent, and teaches children patriotism and service.

But other children, not their own, concern the Daughters—shut in mountaineers living in that borderland between north and south, in a "no man's land" of educational and economic opportunities. For several years past, furnishing money and even schools themselves for these neglected descendants of Anglo-Saxon pioneers, shut away for more than six generations, has been a project dear to the D. A. R.

Education should not stop with children while adults need it. So the Daughters cooperate with schools, courts, and other organizations in helping adult immigrants pursue education and qualify for citizenship.

They publish a little book of information for newcomers, called "The Manual." This, in his native language, is given the immigrant on shipboard, and one in English to the new citizen receiving his final papers in court.

They hunt for lost history, mark historic spots, redeem and preserve historic landmarks. Many beautiful chapter homes have been famous old houses, rescued from decay and obscurity, and maintained in their original dignity, often serving as a museum for their neighborhoods.

In Washington, Memorial Continental hall and the administration building form a notable group. They will be joined by a third auditorium building named "Constitution Hall."

MRS. FRANK J. BOWMAN. MISS VIRGINIA GILDERSLEEVE. [Corbett Photo.] MRS. WEBB L. GIBBS. [De Gueldre Photo.]

Daughters of the American Revolution in Illinois will assemble at Peoria on Wednesday for the thirtieth annual state conference of the organization. Mrs. Frank J. Bowman, state regent, will open the sessions, which will be devoted to plans for carrying on the state work of Americanization.

The Chicago branch of the Association of University Women will give a dinner tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock at the Woman's City club for Miss Virginia Gildersleeve, dean of women at Barnard college and president of the International Federation of University Women. Miss Gildersleeve will speak on "International Relationships of University Women."

The Illinois Women's Press association will give a card party on Saturday at the Belden-Stratford hotel, as a social climax to a season of business meetings which are held each week. Mrs. Webb L. Gibbs is chairman of arrangements, and will be assisted by Mrs. William E. Donahey, president.

CLUB ETHICS

By Maude Swalm Evans.

"WHAT would you think of Mrs. Hills for corresponding secretary?" asked the chairman of the nominating committee of a group of members who were sitting in the lounge.

"Every time I've been at the club lately I've been asked what I think about this one or that one as candidate for some job or the other," complained the long time member. "I can't get in a word edgewise about anything else."

"What else can you expect us to talk about when the open season for club candidates is on?" parried the ex-president.

"Really," interposed the nominating committee chairman, "I'm anxious to know what you think about Mrs. Hills for corresponding secretary."

"To be frank," answered the board member, "not much. She's a dear and I'm fond of her, but she simply can't do anything on time. She's a regular last minute lady. If I make an engagement with her I try to set the time half an hour ahead, and even then she'll come panting in after the advanced time, but she's so contrite and so sweet about it that you forget how provoked you've been until you are forced to wait for her next time."

"Not exactly a qualification for one who must get the printing and notices out and tend to the club correspondence," commented the nominating committee chairman. "Do you suppose the obligations of office would change her any in that respect?"

"No, I'm afraid not," answered the board member. "I happen to know that she's always back with her own correspondence. From what she tells me she doesn't even answer her business letters promptly."

"If she doesn't look after things that are to her own advantage you can hardly expect her to act for the advantage of the club," observed the lay member.

"She'd be fine in a position where you want some one who is sweet and gentle and friendly—yes, and I may say efficient, too—when she gets around to doing things, but it would be unwise to put her in as corresponding secretary," insisted the board member.

talk before the child study class. The education and art and literature departments will have a joint luncheon meeting on Wednesday, with Miss Antoinette Hollister of Greenwich, Conn., head of the art department of the Edgewood school there, as the speaker. The music study class will have its regular session on Friday.

Harold A. Ehrensperger will give the last of a series of lectures, under the auspices of the Drama league, on Tuesday at 2 o'clock at room 1010, Fine Arts building. His subject will be "Spiritual Chaos in the Theater." The league will have a fireside tea and discussion today at 4 o'clock at Le Petite Gourmet, 615 North Michigan avenue. Walter Hartwig, Miss Alice Gerstenberg, Alexander Dean, Theodore B. Hinckley, and Mrs. Laura Sherry will speak. The annual luncheon of the Drama league is to be held on Thursday at 1 o'clock at the Palmer house, following the annual meeting. Stage stars appearing in current attractions will be guests.

Dr. Gustav L. Kaufman, C. K. Brown, W. J. H. Schultz, Edward L. Wheeler, and C. E. Delaporte will be speakers at the meeting of the Chicago Federation of Women's organizations on Wednesday at 2 o'clock at 127 North Dearborn street. Plans will be discussed for recreational activities for Chicago, and visitors will be welcome.

The March meeting of the woman's auxiliary board of the Wesley Memorial hospital will be held tomorrow at the Sheridan Road church, Sunnyside and Hazel avenues. Luncheon at 12:30 o'clock will be followed by a business meeting. Mrs. J. W. O'Leary will preside.

There will be a meeting of the League of Cook County Women's clubs on Saturday at 10:30 o'clock, with the civics department giving the program.

The Musicians' Club of Women will have an organ program tomorrow afternoon at the First Methodist Episcopal church. Mrs. Emelinda Makeel Sievers and Miss Frances Anne Cook will have charge of the program.

A program of orchestrations will be given at the closing meeting tomorrow.

The monthly meeting of the Illinois Club for Catholic Women will be held today at the House of the Good Shepherd.

The Rev. Elmer L. Williams will speak at the monthly meeting of the General Henry Dearborn chapter, D. A. R., on Tuesday afternoon.

The Big Sisters are sponsoring two Sunday lectures at Quigley seminary, the first to be given today at 3:30 o'clock, with the Rt. Rev. Francis A. Purcell as the speaker.

The Woman's Allied Drug club will give a civics program on Thursday, when Eugene S. Taylor of the Chicago Plan commission will speak. The ways and means committee will give a luncheon, followed by cards, on Saturday at 12:30 o'clock at 616 South Michigan avenue.

Music and a talk on art will be given at the meeting of the Renaissance tomorrow at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

There will be the usual open house this afternoon at the Chicago Nurses' club, 116 South Michigan avenue. The private nurse section will meet on Tuesday afternoon, and that evening there will be a dinner meeting of the executive committee of the Central Council for Nursing Education and officers of the Girls' Week federation, dean of girls and vocational advisers. On Wednesday the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium staff will have a meeting in the clubrooms. A dinner meeting of the officers of the alumnæ associations of nursing schools in the First district will be held on Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. On Saturday afternoon there will be a board meeting of the Illinois State Association of Graduate Nurses.

The Poetry Lovers of America will give a dinner on Friday evening at the Auditorium hotel, when Arthur Guiterman, president of the Poetry Society of America, will speak.

An open meeting of the Chicago Hadassah will be held tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock in the State-Lake building. Judge Julian W. Mack will speak and there will be music.

The Chicago Zonta club will celebrate Girls' week by giving a special luncheon on Tuesday at the Palmer house for twenty-five young business women from loop offices and stores.

There will be a dinner and program of the Dental Women's club on Wednesday evening at the Woman's City club.

The new library of the College club, which has been furnished by Smith College alumnæ in memory of Miss Martha Wilson, will be dedicated formally on Tuesday. The monthly bridge party of the club will be held on Wednesday at 2:15 o'clock. A musical tea will be given on Saturday at 3:30 and the Sunday evening supper musical will have as the guest Charles J. Espenshade.

DOWNTOWN CLUBS

A business meeting of the Chicago Woman's club on Wednesday will include committee reports and nominations for the offices of first vice president, recording secretary, treasurer, and committee chairmen; also election of delegates and alternates to the coming conventions of the general and state federations. On Tuesday at 10 o'clock a special meeting of the board of managers will be held, and at 12:15 o'clock the literary class will have its final luncheon and program of the season. The child study group will meet that day at 1:30 o'clock. There will be the usual sessions of the French classes on Wednesday. Thursday morning there will be meetings of the public speaking class and home affairs committee. Friday morning the directors of the art and literature department will meet, and on Saturday there will be luncheon meetings of the school children's aid and the city development committee. Mrs. Harold L. Ickes, president of the club, will speak at the "open door" this afternoon.

Dr. Caroline Hedger will speak on "The Aims of Community Health" Tuesday at the noon breakfast of the Woman's City club. At 2:30 o'clock Prof. P. Orman Ray of Northwestern university will give a lecture before the citizenship class, and the club business meeting will convene at 3:30 o'clock. Ward chairmen and their friends will be guests at Henry Booth house on Wednesday, visiting the settlement and classes in the morning and inspecting the Maxwell street market in the afternoon. At 12:30 o'clock that day the Cook county affairs committee will meet for luncheon, and at 2 o'clock George Dillon will speak on young American poets before the book review group. The house library committee will have a luncheon meeting on Friday.

Paul Blanchard will speak on "Justice to China" tomorrow before a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Woman's aid. NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY their way, accompanied by their police dog, on a motor trip through the desert and the Imperial valley, up to Santa Barbara and Pebble beach, where they will be joined by Mrs. William Burry Jr.

With their large police dog as escort, Miss Donenlley and Mrs. Burry are going to motor back across the country to Chicago. They form an adventurous trio with no qualms about such a long jaunt. Miss Donnelley is an old hand at cross-country motoring, as she and various of her young friends have done it often, coming and going between the Donnelley ranch in Wyoming and their Lake Forest menages.

Life on the most luxurious and best managed of yachts does not always run smoothly. I hear that the Albert B. Dicks of Chicago, who have spent the winter on their yacht Chieftain, cruising in Florida waters, were marooned not long ago some forty miles south of Palm Beach. After two days on a sandbar they deserted the ship and went back to Palm Beach to wait until the Chieftain was ready to resume her travels, when the Ezra Warners and their daughter, Jane, joined them for a cruise up the Indian river.

William B. McCluer, who visited the Dicks in January, went later to Biloxi, Miss., to meet William H. Comstock and Frank Cramer, whom every one is rejoicing to see up and about again after a long illness this winter.

Spring Fever Rages.

Even in this far away corner there is much news of Chicago and its beau monde, suffering just now from the acute and annual attack of wanderlustitis that sets in before country houses are opened. The E. W. Cramers have been at White Sulphur Springs; the Charles Edward Browns and their daughter, Betty, are finding Chandler, Ariz., most alluring, with its warm sun, wide spaces, and out of door distractions; the Ogden Armours are at El Mirasol, in Santa Barbara, for a month; Samuel Insull sailed yesterday on the Aquitania for England; the Meeker-Fairbank contingent also embarked yesterday on the S. S. De Grasse for a European holiday, the group including Mrs. Arthur Meeker, her daughter Mary, her son Arthur, and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank and her daughter, Janet Jr. Arthur Aldis went on the same boat for his yearly visit to Paris.

MRS. ERNEST DIDOT.
[Moffett Photo.]

The wedding of Miss Helena Spengler, daughter of Mrs. John Spengler of the Webster hotel, to Ernest Didot, son of Henri Didot, the French vice consul in Chicago, and Mme. Didot, took place at the Webster on Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Didot are to reside at 2323 Commonwealth avenue, following a honeymoon in the south.

ADAPTO SHOES for STOUT WOMEN

AND now the calendar confirms the robin's note . . . Spring is here! Spring in a new medley of gay, happy colors.

Never before has Spring footwear been so vari-colored. ADAPTO shoes in lustrous shades of Coppery Tan, Sautern Brown, Opal Gray. And all, for the most part—even the more conventional black, and white—tastefully trimmed with tiny bands of sparkling Lizard.

Spring strikes an entirely new note in ADAPTO footwear. Yesterday's styles are obsolete. The new mode has already become the vogue.

The colors have changed. The shapes have changed. But ADAPTO'S assurance of foot comfort and perfect fit remains, as always, the same.

(Sizes up to 11, widths AAA to EEE)

If you suffer from any manner of foot ailment, visit our Foot Service Department for a consultation. This completely equipped department is under the personal management of a specially trained Podiatrist. Our service also includes the professional supervision of shoe-fittings upon request.

Let Your Easter Costume Begin With a Binner Corset

Third Floor—Dearborn Street

To interest the many women who are planning on looking their best for Easter we have arranged for an extensive display of the latest models and novelties of the famous Binner line to illustrate the newest style trend in fashionable figure correcting garments. Be sure to see this special showing some time this week.

The Binner "Brassiere-Girdle," as illustrated, gives a wonderful, straight, well confined figure, that "stage folks" delight in. It gives any figure distinction. Featured in a beautiful heavy brocade that is firm enough not to let the figure spread—extra well boned. Lined and firmly boned over abdomen—will control a tall full thigh figure, six hose supporters. Sizes to 46 bust measure, at..... $10

Binner Corset style 8-57—topless—laces in back—for that larger class of women who realize that they get more control from a lace back corset. Featured in a beautiful brocade material. Elastic section over thigh—lacing below front clasp. Allows better control of the figure. Six good quality hose supporters. Sizes to 38, at.. $8

"Binner Girdle" style 10-620 with closed back; a wonderful garment for the tall plump woman who wants no control above the waist line; wide graduated front clasp; sizes to 40, at $10

9-204 Binner "step-ins" —a wonderfully comfortable garment for slight figures. Gives just the needed foundation for the flimsy dance frock. Sizes to 34; priced at only $9

Binner girdle—style 6-630, closed back style; a beautiful dainty garment for slender and medium figures. Has the elastic section at side; three hooks below the front clasp. Slenderizes the hip. Sizes to 34, at..... $5

All Your Old Favorites in the "Binner" back lace models are here in topless, low and medium busts. Choice at $5 and up to..... $10

NEWS OF THE RELIGIOUS WORLD

Special Services Mark Passion Week

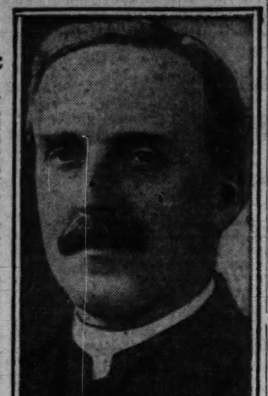
BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

THIS week, known in the church calendar as Passion week, will be observed in Chicago's loop district by Lenten services under the auspices of the Chicago Church federation in the Chicago Temple, Clark and Washington streets, the Episcopalians at the Garrick theater, 64 West Randolph street, and the Missouri Lutheran synod churches at the Adelphi theater, 15 North Clark street. Services will continue under the same auspices during Holy week and during this final week of Lent the United Lutheran churches will also hold daily services in the La Salle street theater.

The program at the Chicago Temple, 12-1, this week will be: Tomorrow, Dr. Ozora S. Davis, president Chicago Theological seminary; Tuesday, Prof. George L. Robinson, McCormick seminary; Wednesday, Dr. James Madison Stifler, First Baptist church, Evanston; Thursday, Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, Chicago area Methodist Episcopal church; Friday, Dr. James M. Gray, president Moody Bible institute. From 12-12:15 and from 12:45-1 Arthur Dunham will give an organ recital.

At the Adelphi theater, 12:10-12:25, the speakers will be: Tomorrow, the Rev. J. H. Mueller, Bellwood; Tuesday, the Rev. A. Jarus; Wednesday, the Rev. George Luecke; Thursday, the Rev. O. Fedder; Friday, the Rev. A. Cook, Gary, Ind.

At the Garrick theater, 12:10-12:30, the speaker each day will be the Rev. Phillips E. Osgood, rector of St. Mark's church, Minneapolis.



THE REV. JOSHUA STANSFIELD, D. D.

Dr. Joshua Stansfield, pastor of the Cuyler Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Cuyler avenue and Ontario street, Oak Park, is chairman of the commission on evangelism of the Chicago Church Federation which has charge of the union Lenten services beginning tomorrow at the Chicago Temple. Dr. Stansfield will be the final speaker on Good Friday at the union three hour service. He was for fifteen years pastor of the Meridian Street church, Indianapolis, where he succeeded the late Bishop William A. Quayle as pastor, and where he had among his official members of the church former vice president of the United States, Charles W. Fairbanks, former governor of Indiana, J. Frank Hanly, and United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge. He then served five years in Portland, Oregon, returning to Chicago first to Hyde Park and three years ago to Oak Park. The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stansfield is the wife of Dr. James L. Gardiner, pastor of the Austin Methodist Episcopal church. Dr. Stansfield was born and educated in England, coming to the United States when he was 29 years of age. He received the degree of doctor of divinity from Albion college, Michigan. He predicts the coming Lenten services will be the most largely attended and the most significant in the history of the Chicago Church Federation.

Dr. Edward S. Steiner, author of many books and lecturer of international fame, will speak at 8 o'clock this evening at Orchestra hall before the Sunday Evening club on the subject, "The Eternal Hunger." At 7 o'clock Henry P. Chandler, chairman of the committee of 200 organized to stimulate voting will speak on "Christian Citizenship." He will urge all citizens, men and women, to register on Tuesday and vote at the primaries April 13.

His eminence, Cardinal Mundelein, ordained twenty-four young men to the priesthood yesterday morning at the Holy Name cathedral.

The Holy Name society of the Chicago Catholic archdiocese will hold one of its most significant meetings today at 3 o'clock at Visitation hall, 843 Garfield boulevard. Judge Francis Allegretti will speak. Officers will be chosen for the coming year, which means that those chosen will officially represent the society at the Eucharistic congress on June 20-24, and in all the preparations yet to be held before that greatest of all events in Chicago will be held.

The program at the Chicago forum at the Olympic theater today at 3 o'clock will be a debate on the subject, "Resolved: That Military Training in Schools and Colleges Should Be Abolished." The affirmative will be taken by Dr. Irving Maurer, precinct of Beloit college, Beloit, Wis., and the negative by Attorney Frank Comerford. The English polling system will be used, whereby the audience will vote on the merits of the case before the debate, and again afterward.

The Rev. Alfred Newberry, New York, has accepted the call to become assistant of Dr. John Henry Hopkins, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Episcopal, his duties to begin in June. Dr. Hopkins has been granted an extended leave of absence at his summer home in Vermont. The Rev. Mr. Newberry is now assistant secretary of the social service department of the Episcopal national council.

A moving picture entitled, "Hell and the Way Out," will be shown this evening at the Julia Gay Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, West Garfield boulevard and South Paulina street. The author and exhibitor is the Rev. James K. Shields, former state superintendent of the Illinois State Anti-Saloon league, later superintendent of the New Jersey State league. The film shows the inter-relations of the nations.

Chandra Gooneratne of India, who is taking special work at the University of Chicago and is accomplished as a speaker in English, will make an address this evening at 8 at the Hyde Park Presbyterian church, Blackstone avenue and 53d street, on the subject, "The Soul of India." A choir will sing Vedic hymns.

"Dreamers for the World" will be the subject this morning at 10:45 at the Chicago Temple, Clark and Washington streets. The sermon will be preached by Dr. R. J. Wade, secretary of the world service commission of the Methodist Episcopal church. At 8 p. m. Dr. Joshua Stansfield of Oak Park wil preach.

Services will be conducted by the Dominican Fathers this week and next at Old St. John's Catholic church, 18th and South Clark streets. Short instruction will be given each morning at 6:30 and preaching each evening at 8. The Very Rev. John Lawler, superior of the Dominican missionaries, will be in charge of all the services. Mgr. W. D. O'Brien is the pastor.

The eight ministers of Maywood, each in his own church, have arranged to observe Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings of next week by preaching on the same theme. The subjects will be: On Wednesday evening, "It Is I"; Thursday evening, "This Do," and Friday evening, "It Is Finished."

Candidates for the moderatorship of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States of America, which meets May 27 in Baltimore, Md., who have received official backing by certain groups, are Dr. Lapsley A. McAfee of Berkeley, Cal., and Dr. W. O. Thompson of Denver, Colo., who recently resigned as president of Ohio State university.

Some special announcements—Dr. T. J. Simons, Northwestern medical school, will speak at 8 p. m. this evening at Grace Methodist Episcopal church, Locust and North La Salle streets. The Rev. Edmund D. Lucas of Lahore, India, will speak at the Second Presbyterian church, 20th street and North Michigan avenue. Dr. J. W. Ham, preacher, and Robert Harkness, pianist and choir director, will lead the services at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. at the Belden Avenue Baptist church, Belden avenue and North Halsted street. The Rev. J. J. Mertz, S. J., will speak on "Catholic Courtship" this evening at 8 at St. Lawrence church, 1340 East 72d street. The Rev. H. R. Brinker will preach Wednesday, Thursday and Friday noons at St. James church, Cass and Huron streets. Daily noonday services will continue at the Cathedral shelter, Washington boulevard and North Peoria street, the Rev. David E. Gibson, priest in charge. The Rev. Paul R. Bull of the Community of the Resurrection, Mirfield, England, will preach today at Atonement Episcopal church, Kenmore and Ardmore avenues. Eucharistic services will be held at 12:45 daily at Kimball hall. Father Joseph, O. S. F., founder of the Order of St. Francis in the Episcopal church in America, who is speaking today at Calvary Episcopal church, 3164 West Monroe street, will be one of the celebrants this week.

Dr. W. F. Slade, pastor of the South Congregational church, Drexel boulevard and 40th street, will preach two Lenten sermons; in the morning, "The Sacrifice of Divinity"; in the evening, "Words from the Cross."

The commission of the New England Congregational church, Delaware place and North Dearborn avenue, which met last Monday evening to consider the future enlarged program of the church, passed a resolution commending the church to the favorable consideration of the Congregational Missionary and Church Extension society, which holds in trust the bequest given by the late Victor F. Lawson.

Unmasking Some Popular Fallacies

Where dreams are made. In silent places,
Beautiful, alone, and still,
The night wind winds a bugle note—
The moon is huntress on the hill.

Jane days weave dreams like daisy chains,
And deck the imprisoned hearts with white.
A lake makes music on the shore
Where dreams are made and sold by night.

Dreams are such flimsy, fairy stuff—
The raiment of our souls' desire.
Where are dreams made? In Arcady,
With love for forge and want for fire.
E. J.

By Eleanor Jewett.

THERE is a fallacy, much alive over here today, that seems to make easy victims of Americans, as a people. In Europe the conditions and the dangers are not as apparent nor as poisonous. The fallacy is that of worship of new gods, without a clear first sight that their feet be not of clay nor their features daubed with mud. The most dangerous quality of this fallacy is the insecurity it forces upon familiar values.

Another fallacy that works powerfully upon the intentions and ideas of Americans, as a people, is the significance of the printed word. In the last few years a number of foreign artists have come to us with exhibits of either paintings or sculpture and their value and truth and marvelous attributes have been hurled into our attentive ears from the brass lungs of well paid agents, and, irresistibly, we have been forced to take notice of them, in many cases favorably, though not altogether intelligently.

Where there is smoke there must be fire. That principle illustrates aptly our reactions to a number of things to which our attention is directed. A great many people are afraid to disagree with popular opinion. They distrust their own intuition. They feel unsure. It is so much easier and less complicated to be a sheep than to be a black sheep. If every one baas over so-and-so, probably I had better baa, too, and keep in the swim. That fallacious line of reasoning is responsible for a lot of worthless propaganda being given importance.

Strait-Jackets Needed.

The great majority of the so-called modern painters of today (a lot of them spawned in the backwaters of Europe) deserve strait-jackets rather than frames. Rather they would deserve them were it not clearly apparent that only a few are standing on their own feet. The majority are imitators. Matisse and Picasso have many more imitators than they deserve. They, Matisse and Picasso, were original thinkers; they could paint. The swarms that are crowding their footsteps have, apparently, not the most rudimentary ideas of drawing or color.

On the other hand, the modernists produce bizarre effects which, occasionally, are pleasing. When the peculiar guise the modernist affects is permeated by a strong personality and a sincere and clear thought, then you get art. Possibly it will be debased art, as in the case of Mestrovic and his sculpture at the Art institute last spring, but the strength of technical mastery makes us acknowledge it.

In the most obvious current exhibit of a modernist, that of the paintings by Marc Chagall at the Arts club, there is no reason for a serious consideration of such conceits. It is this type of exhibit, and such praise as the foreword to the catalog of his pictures gives, that is poison to us. Drop the veil from your eyes and see. What does this young degenerate do for his art? Just across from his medley of absurdities, in the corridor, hangs a large canvas by Matisse. Matisse could juggle with subjects, too, put one here and one there, cut one in quarters, and toss the bits haphazard, but when they fell they were well painted. Nobody but a master artist can do that. The little ones lose the core from the bits.

Giving Point to the Case.

This seems a far cry from our artists. There is a short cut back. The Chicago artists' exhibit at the Art institute lost about $1,800 in tentative sales because of some injudicious criticism. That was one count for the power of the pen. Chicago artists found themselves cast shivering from public appreciation. That was a second count. The idea was implanted in the average layman's mind that possibly art other than intelligible and beautiful, decorative or simple, was not the best in art.

Possibly it is well to quicken the imagination and wit of a creative worker by pointed implication, now and then. But what is often forgotten by the advocate of modernism, in its extreme form, is that the art which has lived through the centuries is the art that is based primarily on sincerity, beauty, knowledge, and simplicity. Look back. You find Michael Angelo and Raphael, Donatello, Titian, Rubens, Van Dyck, Velasquez, and Murillo, Watteau, Greuze, Reynolds, Gainsborough—the list is long. There is not one among them a sincere advocate of present century modernism should tolerate. They were conservative dealers in beauty.

At the Chicago Galleries.

Back again to the Chicago artists, unconscientiously rejoicing in those who find it worth while to create beauty.

"Dancer Resting," by Laura Knight, from the exhibition of etchings and drawings by Miss Knight now current in the east wing galleries of the Art institute.

The most important opening of the week was that of the Chicago Galleries association at 220 North Michigan avenue. There is found the painting "Where Dreams Are Made," by Gerald Frank, a canvas that is a return, after a fashion, to his rather symbolic paintings of several years ago. More recently he has confined himself to brilliant flower pieces and for that reason, as well as for its intrinsic dramatic merit, this present picture of green lake and woods and gracious nymphs is the more charming.

Irving Manoir has a sun-warmed "Capistrana Mission." Anna Lynch shows a beautiful painting in "September Radiance." H. Amiard Oberteuffer has a delicate still life of the most exquisite coloring in "Study." A solid piece of brilliant painting is found in "Vavarian Village," by Carl C. Preussi. Josephine L. Reichmann has color and the hot smell of summer in her "Rhododendron Road."

Anna Lee Stacey shows one of her most beautiful canvases in "Moonlight, Granada, Spain." It is difficult to realize that Mrs. Stacey is equally successful with portraits and still life. She is in all truth one of our ablest painters.

There is not space for a detailed or even more critical survey of the exhibit. It must be sufficient to say that the average struck is high and that it is an auspicious start for this young organization to have made. Success to it.

Notes of Art and Artists.

At the Palette and Chisel club there is an exhibit of paintings by John A. Spelman and Edward T. Grigware. A number of good things are to be found. Mr. Spelman is the prophet of the wilderness and Mr. Grigware is not far behind him in revealing the charms of the out of doors. The exhibit is worth a visit.

The Arts club has an exhibit of pastels and etchings by Lucille Douglass that is more than interesting. Miss Douglass is an American artist who went out to China after the war to study oriental art. The very spirit of China has entered into her and possessed her. The pastels are longing, embodied dreams of China. They are as soft and alluring as poppy dreams. Back of their beauty is a mastery of the technique of drawing that makes their substance the more remarkable. In the group of etchings by her, which hang in the hall, this same effortless ease of achievement is seen. The exhibit is unusually satisfying.

The Arts club has also, strung along its long hall, an exhibit of prints, the fifty outstanding prints of the year selected by the American Institute of Graphic Arts for exhibition purposes. There is an immense amount of good work in evidence among these etchings. Among the artists represented are Peggy Bacon, Pamela Bianco, Edward Hopper, Ernest D. Roth, Frank W. Benson, Childe Hassam, Rockwell Kent, Ralph M. Pearson, Harry Wickey and Charley Sheeler, with a capitally impressionistic rendering of sailboats.

There opened last Thursday at the Art institute several exhibits which will be discussed later. They include sculpture by Bourdelle; etchings and drawings by Laura Knight; an exhibit of ships models; and the twenty-third annual exhibition of prints by the Chicago Camera club.

"The Tragedy of Nan" will be presented in the Goodman theater for the first time on Thursday evening, March 25.

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

What is the best joke you ever heard? If you'll write it out and it is published, $1 will be paid. No manuscripts returned. Address Best Joke Editor, The Tribune, Chicago.

Of Course.

Mr. A—Who is the happier, a man who has one million dollars, or one who has seven daughters?

Mr. B—The latter.

Mr. A—Why?

Mr. B—The man with the one million wants more, the other doesn't.

M. G. S.

Unfair Advantage.

Two Irishmen went down to the pier to fish. They made a bet as to which one would catch the most. Mike lost his balance and fell off the pier.

Pat cried, "Say, Mike, if you are going to dive for them, the bet is off."

M. M. C.

Not Bad, Considering.

Friend—What a horrible noise comes from that radio!

Radio Fan—Well, I guess you would make just as bad a noise if you were coming out of ether.

G. H.

Not to Be Outdone.

An Englishman was boasting to an American friend that he came from a long line of noblemen.

"My great-great-grandfather," said he, "was touched on the head by the king and made an earl."

"That's nothing," replied his American friend. "My great-great-grandfather was touched on the head by an Indian and made an angel."

Come to Hollywood, Florida for Your Spring Vacation in March or April

Come on the Luxurious All-Pullman Train that Relieves You of All Travel Worries

Visit Hollywood Headquarters: 108 West Madison St., Chicago

MOST people have their yearly vacation in summer. This is largely due to the fact that "vacations" used to cost more in winter—but now the Florida 10-day tours for $150 have made it possible for almost anyone to take their vacation in March or April (over the most disagreeable months) and spend them where it is really "June Weather" in Hollywood and southeast Florida.

Your business associates or employer will help you arrange matters so you may have your vacation NOW instead of next summer.

This is your opportunity to turn winter back to summer for 10 marvelous days; or stay longer if you desire—it is your opportunity to see, first hand, what so many thousands are wondering about. It is your opportunity to live right on the shore of the ocean—to travel up and down the East Coast—to feel the healthful rays of the Florida sun giving you a midwinter tan—to have your part in the gayety, the social whirl, the romance which everyone longs to enjoy.

Now—this winter—you can "see for yourself." Thousands of others have made this trip, which you are about to make—and learned the wonderful truth at first hand.

Here are astounding facts about these special trips:

1 You are absolutely sure of first-class room and meals and entertainment by this plan—and you know what it costs you before you leave home.

2 You will see all the points of interest on the famous southeast coast of Florida—Palm Beach, Greater Hollywood, Miami, Fort Lauderdale, Cocoanut Grove and other points on the Florida highways and waterways—without a cent of extra cost to you.

3 Your time is your own—you are free to go and come as you please—but the hospitality of Hollywood-by-the-Sea provides entertainment for those who wish it.

4 You can go and return during the winter season—enjoy ten days of wonderful sights—days of royal enjoyment—golf, ocean bathing, motor trips—for less than half what it would cost you to duplicate this trip traveling unattached; even if you could be sure of accommodations by such a plan.

5 You can get unlimited extension of your return trip ticket if desired.

6 You can get one-way transportation, six days guaranteed accommodations and entertainment in Hollywood, for only $100.

7 Even if you are planning to drive to Florida in your own car, see us about accommodations. This is the most important matter to arrange before starting for Florida today.

The new $1,500,000 Hollywood Beach Hotel—located on the Beach of the Atlantic Ocean, is now open, the largest fireproof hotel in Florida.

A Night Letter To You

from a Hollywood Tourist Who is Now in Florida

"I have been to the Adirondacks, to Maine, and through the Far West, but never in thirty-five years have I had a vacation to equal for charm, for originality of scenery, or diversion, this year spent in Florida and supervised by those magicians of pleasure, the men of Hollywood-by-the-Sea. Something new, something fascinating every day. Always beneath summer skies and gentle breezes. Hollywood homes, the last word in motor transportation, have taken us to Miami, Coral Gables, Miami Beach, Fort Lauderdale and Palm Beach, but the marvel of them all is Hollywood. B. C. Forbes calls Hollywood a revelation. That's a mild word. It's the ninth wonder of the world.

Golf on a course that rivals the best in the north. Daily plunges in the Atlantic Ocean surf. Rides on the canal. Gulf stream fishing. Snapping photos of pelicans. And at night bridge, dancing, orchestral music and Elsie Janis' revue. Something new every night and every day. Ten days of that and the whole cost from first to last only one hundred and fifty dollars. If men and women in the North could visualize but a fraction of the pleasures of a Hollywood vacation every train from Chicago would be going South. Not a single season's vacation, but a lifetime memory. Temperature every day I have been here, seventy-six daytime, fifty-five at night.—T. A. Ballantyne"

Call at 108 W. Madison St.

You are cordially invited to call at our offices, Hollywood-by-the-Sea, 108 West Madison Street—and let us show you a pictorial exhibit of Hollywood and we will give you any information you may desire about Florida. Phone Franklin 1026-1027.

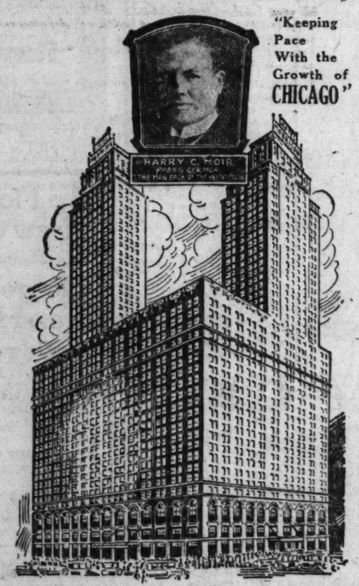
The Intimate Spirit of the Morrison Hotel

WHEN the Morrison was only an 8-story building, the tone and atmosphere were like those of a Yellowstone Park lodge, in which all the guests felt like members of one family.

But when a statelier building arose in its place, 21 stories high, travelers were delighted to find within its walls the same informal courtesy that they had known in former days.

And now, with its new 46-story section towering above all other hotel buildings in the world, and offering a "de luxe" service unmatched by many of the most expensive hotels, the same simplicity and friendliness prevail as at the beginning.



"Keeping Pace With the Growth of CHICAGO"

The New Morrison, when completed, will be the world's largest and tallest hotel, 46 stories high, with 3,400 rooms.

Rooms $2.50 Up

In the scale of rates, also, this democratic character is maintained. Rooms of a type that would cost $5 to $8 in any other front-rank hotel are obtainable here from $3 to $5. The income from valuable store subrentals at this central location pay all the ground rent, and the entire saving is passed on to the guests.

1944 Rooms with Bath, Ice Water and Servidor

Every room in the Morrison has bath and running ice water, while the Servidor, with its "grille" feature, insures absolute privacy at the pleasure of the guest. The location is closer than that of any other hotel to offices, theaters, stores and railroads. Every floor has its own housekeeper, and all guests enjoy garage service. Terrace Garden programs broadcast daily from WGES.

TO THE English Lakes BY THE ROYAL ROUTE

ENGLAND'S LAKES were an inspiration to her poets and artists in years long past. Wordsworth, Coleridge and Southey captured their smiling loveliness in gems of happy verse. Turner and Romney steeped their brushes in the beauty of fell and lake and painted pictures that make men marvel at their genius.

Travel northwards to the Lakes by the West Coast Route (the Royal Route) from Euston. It is owned and maintained by Britain's premier railway—the London Midland and Scottish. It takes you through the heart of agricultural England, across industrial Lancashire, over the crags and valleys of Westmorland, into the hill and dale country which holds the garland of the English Lakes.

L M S express trains are frequent and fast. They have restaurant cars attached for daytime journeys and sleeping cars for night trains.

Itineraries and all Details Arranged. Care and Worry Eliminated, Through the AMERICAN EXPRESS TRAVEL SERVICE

Here Is Exactly What This Service Does:—

STARTING with your own ideas of where, when, and how you want to travel, and the amount you want to spend—it lays out for you a detailed itinerary of the most desirable places to visit.

It reserves and purchases in advance all steamship and railroad tickets at regular tariff rates.

All your hotel accommodations—all transportation for yourself and baggage between stations and hotels—all sleeping car berths, reserved seats—and meals en route—all local trips by automobile or carriage—the service of guides, when desirable. And all within the price you designate for the trip.

Various tours are outlined for your consideration in these two booklets—mailed free on request.

What is a cabin ship?

A CABIN SHIP is one without first or second class distinctions. Passengers have the freedom of the entire vessel. As in an American hotel, all guests enjoy the same privileges and the same service.

Four of the finest Cabin ships in the world are—

"America"
"Republic"
"President Harding"
"President Roosevelt"

The President Harding and President Roosevelt are the fastest Cabin Liners to Europe. The America is the largest and the Republic is one of the most popular.

Each is beautifully equipped and appointed. The lounges and smoking rooms are like those of an exclusive club. The state-rooms are large and very comfortable. The cuisine is the best on the North Atlantic.

RATES
$145 and up
("Republic" $140)
Tourist III Cabin $95

The United States Lines also operate the mighty Leviathan and George Washington, two of the most luxurious First Class liners to Europe.

Go Early

The big rush is during June and July and already it is very difficult to obtain accommodations for those months. To travel at your ease and to see Europe at its best, go just as early as you can.

PERSONNEL DIRECTOR.
Large corporation doing national business of $10,000,000 annually and using over 200 salesmen in Chicago at present desires services of high grade man who can double this organization, who has had experience in hiring and schooling men in direct selling of electric appliances for household use and retailing for $40 or more.
Work will be entirely in Chicago; remuneration satisfactorily adjusted for the man we hire. Must be able to sell himself, his company and a job to applicants.
We prefer a man between 28 and 35 years of age and married; state in your application past experience, education, age, telephone, address, and past and present positions and

PROMOTION AND PUBLICITY MAN.
Large educational institution in Chicago desires man, Protestant, between 30 and 35 years of age, with ability to write letters, assist in preparing folders and booklets, select mailing lists, write simple news stories, establish personal contacts with employers and alumni groups, and handle the many other details of a school advertising and publicity department. Preferably this man should have a college education. He must be versatile, adaptable, willing to read and study, have an analytical mind, and be able to work at times under high pressure. This position will offer a starting salary around $3,000 per year, with unusual opportunities for self-development and continuous advancement.
After a period of training this man may take full charge of the department and be given a chance to work out his own ideas. In reply please give complete details about your education, experience, social status, religion, and age. Address S E 477, Tribune.

ARE YOU THE MAN?
We will consider the confidential application of a thoroughly experienced salesman who has successfully sold insurance, securities, advertising or has had kindred experience.
Must be of the executive type, have personality, initiative, and energy, be able to hire men, direct their efforts and get results.
The right man when found will be placed at the head of a new dept now under organization. The selling is to be done by a group of dignified salesmen, who work with inquiries provided by newspaper advertising.
No need not be experienced in our business.
Compensation is on liberal commission basis with drawing account. If you have these qualifications and want a permanent connection with an established real estate company,
Call Room 903, 109 N. Dearborn. Mr. Evans.

A
QUESTION.

What kind of subdivision property is easier to sell?

Property improved with sewer, water, sidewalks, gas, electricity, paving, curbs, trees and shrubs, or bleak prairie staked off into lots away from nowhere?

We know that property like our Devonshire Manor, with all improvements in and paid for by us, sells easier.

You need no experience to sell our property. Capable executives assist you in every way. Extensive advertising campaign to support you.

We want no drifters from other organizations; only those seriously interested in a real estate selling career.

Our active subdivision selling season is now under way on a big scale. Busses leaving every day at 11 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. will take you out to see our property.

DISTRICT SALES MANAGER WANTED.

An established manufacturer has an opportunity for you to earn from $15,000 to $25,000 annually if you can show a successful record of hiring and managing highest grade specialty salesmen and if you are over thirty years of age and a Gentile.

After over three years' preparation we are now equipped for quantity production of a new patented labor saving device that fills a long existing need in an essential industry; one of the few sellers ever put into the specialty field. Absolutely no competition. Just enough sales made to establish substantial background. 95% of potential prospects yet to be called on.

Product installed on trial results in 99% sales without further sales effort. Sales run from $200 to $10,000 each. Strictly a special line. Live inquiries furnished.

Strong advertising support—complete salesman's kit, showing photographs of prominent installations, and hundreds of letters from satisfied firms stating device pays for itself in from three to twelve months.

Our salesmen are earning at the rate of $8,000 to $15,000 annually.

To receive attention your answer must supply enough details to give us line on specialty selling experience, lines sold, age, and ability. Address S E 457, Tribune.

Salary
Bonus
Commission

OWING TO our steadily increasing volume of business, already averaging a million dollars a month, we will employ and train a number of refined women, 21 years or over, to fill well paying, permanent positions.

No Experience Necessary.

YOU CAN make money now. You need not waste time experimenting.

IN OUR 27 years of proven judgment we have evolved the most scientific, productive and best paying plan for our women to follow. This experience, combined with our great cash buying power, enables us to secure and merchandise the choice locations demanded by Chicago's growth. Naturally our volume of sales is enormous and the remuneration to our women proportionately large.

OUR WOMEN ARE MAKING BIG MONEY ALL YEAR ROUND.

NO DULL season. Incomes as high as $20,000 a year to workers who had no more experience than you in this business.

LIVE LEADS DAILY.

OUR DIRECT inquiry advertising is flooding our office with hundreds of leads daily.

AS ALL executives are selected from the sales force you can obtain quicker promotion here than you might expect from any other concern as well known and firmly established as we are.

STOP READING help wanted ads. Come in and start work at once. You can't begin to make money any younger than you are today.

Miscellaneous.

THE REASON FOR SUCCESS.

I have the most successful Ladies' Department in the City of Chicago. This is a broad statement, but I am willing to prove it.

The reason for this is that I select only those ladies for our special work who after being analyzed, possess the ability of handling our particular line of business.

Most large corporations select their employees after having a Character Analyst look them over. This is just what I am doing.

If you are not employed now or if your present position is not satisfactory, call on me and let me assist you. Perhaps I have a free reading and tell you frankly whether you can make good in a big way with my company. Call after 10 a. m. Monday.

LILA FARRELL,
Character Analyst,
Room 922,
77 W. Washington-st.

WOMEN—WHO ARE TIRED OF SITTING around at home and want to get back into business life. To such women, provided they know how to make their personality felt, we are prepared to make an offer that will enable them to hire a maid to do their housework while they go back into business life. If you like the give and take and excitement of business and feel that you can hold your own with an up to the minute modern office with other women who are making good incomes and enjoy doing it, we will be pleased to make an appointment for you to meet our director in charge of this department. She will be pleased to entertain your application whether you are at present employed or not and same will be treated in strict confidence. Address H X 275, Tribune.

CO-OPERATIVE APTS.
It costs us $18 per month to pay the taxes, janitor service, repairs, furnish the heat, hall lights, and water for a 4 rm. apt. We have a mtge. from a life insurance company of $3,976.33 at 5½% interest on this apt., which means $18.21 interest per month. This apt. is rented until Oct. 1 for $100. We will sell it to you on the co-operative plan for $5,600. If you have not got the $5,600, but have good references and a determination to own your home we will sell you this apt. or one like it for May 1 occupancy for a small deposit down and give you a long time to pay the balance.
The bldg. is at 2820 Cambridge-av., 1 blk. east of Broadway at Diversey parkway, a location which is bound to increase in value. This bldg. is 2 yrs. old, modern in every detail, large rms., with spacious closets and with extra in-a-dor beds in the living room.
Why buy an apt. for your landlord with your rent when you can buy it for yourself?

26 YEARS IN THE AUTO TRADE.

Chandler Distributors

2519 Mich.-av. Victory 8200.

A Safe Place to Buy Good Used Cars.

We do not, under any consideration, buy a used car to resell for profit. Every car in our stock was taken in trade on a new Chandler or Cleveland.

We use our many years of experience in selecting and reconditioning these cars and then sell them to the public at cost. We make no profit on used cars.

We invite you to come in now while our stocks are complete and prices are low to make your selection. Open evenings and Sunday. Liberal terms to responsible buyers.

CHANDLER SEDAN, 1925 model, 5 pass., in excellent paint, coach and mechanical condition; all good tires and full equipment; has the famous Pike's Peak motor and traffic transmission; priced low, $975.

HUPMOBILE SEDAN, 1925 model, 4 cyl., 5 pass. This car looks so good that it would take an experienced automobile person to distinguish it from new; used very carefully and has every conceivable accessory; price $985.

NASH 1925 two door sedan, original dark blue duco paint, 4 wheel brakes, balloon tires, disteel wheels and all accessories; mechanically excellent and looks very new; price $875.

JEWETT BROUGHAM, reconditioned and refinished; has new head covers and looks exactly like new; all excellent tires and full equipment; price $675.

CHEVROLET SEDAN, 1924 model, in excellent condition; just refinished a beautiful sarebrush green. See this little bargain today; price $395.

MAXWELL SEDAN, 5 pass.; has all new tires and full equipment; motor as quiet as a mouse; a dandy little family car; very economical to run; price $495.

FORD SEDAN, 1924 tudor; is in fine condition; paint like new; has bumpers front and rear and extra equipment; price $375.

FLINT TOURING, 1924 model, 5 pass.; looks and runs like new; disteel wheels, bumpers, motometer, spare tire, etc.; price $650.

DODGE COUPE in good mechanical condition; just refinished standard dodge blue-black; has disteel wheels and other equipment; price $350.

CHANDLER TOURING, 5 or 7 pass., in very good condition throughout at a very special price, $125.

YOU CANNOT GET AWAY FROM THE FACTS.

For several months we have been selling Used Motor Cars on an absolute Money Back Guarantee.

We offered to refund the full purchase price on any used car purchased from us that was unsatisfactory within seven days from date of delivery.

In the sale of over two hundred cars it has been necessary to refund in only two cases, both of which bought from us later.

To say that we are pleased with the results is putting it mildly. It has doubled our business. We have no used car problem and will continue this policy indefinitely.

GET THIS

Any Used Car purchased from us can be returned within seven days if unsatisfactory in any particular and full refund is available on demand. Prices will be higher next month.

SPRING

WHEN "BIRD-SYKES" SAY REBUILT

they do not mean merely "shined up," "tightened up," and "tuned up." Rebuilt in the Bird-Sykes shop means inspecting engine, transmission, rear axle and other vital parts and completely rebuilding the same, using new parts where necessary.

Coach work, which includes removing body and fender dents, renovating worn tops, repairing and fitting of curtains, also upholstery, etc., is accomplished by experts in our shops.

Every "Bird-Sykes Rebuilt" car is given a high-grade burnt-off paint job. Every rebuilt car is thoroughly tested to meet our rigid standard and is guaranteed by Bird-Sykes. If anything turns up unsatisfactory within a reasonable time Bird-Sykes Co. will make good without cost to purchaser.

We are not financed by so-called "automobile bankers." Purchaser deals direct with Bird-Sykes Co., throughout and consequently is not charged exorbitant "finance" rates.

MISS BERYL HALLEY

MISS YOVONE GRAY

MISS BEATRICE ROBERTS

MISS KATHERINE BURKE

MR. FLO ZIEGFELD, after a study of the neighborhood, decided that what Florida really needed was his personal process of glorifying the American girl. To that end he has established down there the Palm Beach Follies, which is a cross between his celebrated annual revue and the roof-garden shows he gave in pre-Volstead New York as the Midnight Frolics . . . And the ladies pictured here are among those in process of glorification at Palm Beach.

FOWNES Gloves

-for the smart Easter fashions

The fine, careful Fownes finish is well illustrated in this glove of glace kid, with charming, reversible two-in-one cuff designed in two shades of one color and embroidered to match.

Fownes silk is always pure silk, woven evenly and firmly. The Fownes Silk Glove above is a delightful spring and summer model, the reversible cuff smartly embroidered in color.

With their new spring suits, the fashionables are wearing doeskin gloves like the above, which —in the beautiful Fownes quality, impeccably finished—are exceptionally smart and correct

With the new spring colors—bois de rose, navy blue, the grays and greens—will you wear gray gloves or beige gloves? And will you choose them plain in the strict manner of the mode or with a fancy cuff, piped, embroidered or lined with a touch of color?

Ask to see Fownes Gloves in these colors at any important store or shop. The woman who enjoys fine gloves will be delighted. They are shaped cleverly—fingers just long enough, wrists just slender enough. They flatter the hand. And many women who have trouble with gloves find in them that smart and perfect fit that is half the charm of a glove.

Once fitted you can wear the same size in any Fownes style because each glove is made to a uniform standard. The sizes do not vary. Note the workmanship. The exquisite, careful finish. The splendid quality of leather and fabric. This is genuine glove craftsmanship, brought to its present excellence by 149 years' experience in the making of fine gloves.

1777 Fownes Brothers & Co., Inc. 1926

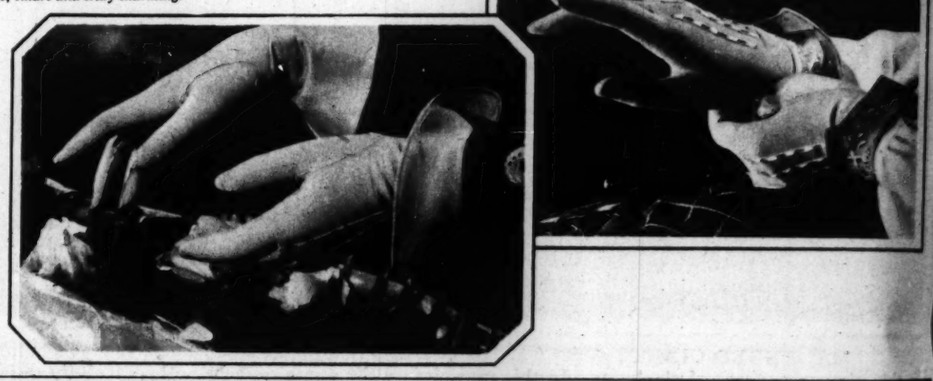
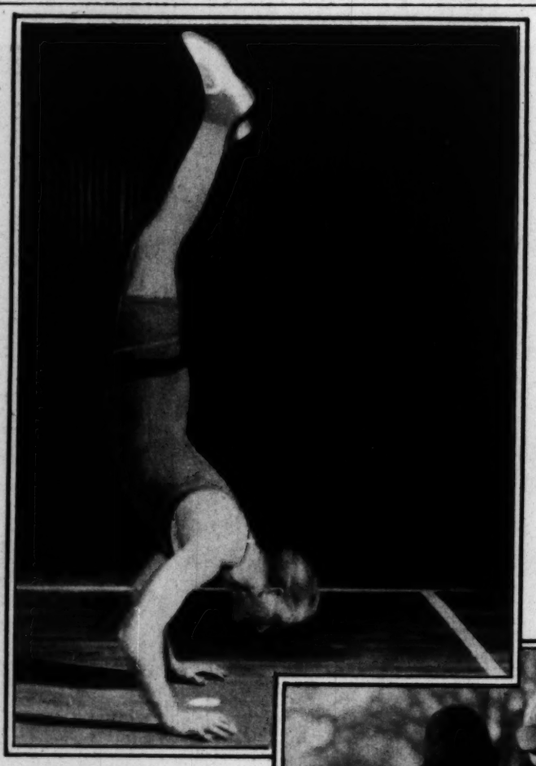
In Paris and well-groomed New York, the plain suede slip-on glove is smartest for costumes of elegance and distinction. And it is smarter still if it has the exquisite quality of this Fownes model.

Washable gloves of Fownes Filosette attractively designed in two-toned effect and finished with a dainty touch of embroidery. This special Fownes fabric will not shrink or change its shape in laundering.

A beautiful new Fownes Glove of soft kid, the reversible cuff lined with finest suede in soft, delightful spring colors, like lilac, rose and blue. Different, smart and truly charming.





"AN ATHLETE and former physical director of the Cincinnati Gymnasium, during the war I served as a director of an aniline dye plant. When I returned to my old active work, I found that I was not really fit. I was easily tired. I suffered from disagreeable acidity of the stomach. Then I discovered Fleischmann's Yeast. Every day, faithfully, I ate my three health-giving cakes. Results came quickly. I no longer suffered from an acid stomach. The Yeast actually toned up my whole system. I am really fit again. And I enthusiastically recommend Yeast to the men who come to me to be kept fit."

Frank Mills, Cincinnati, Ohio

RIGHT

"MY LITTLE DAUGHTER eats Fleischmann's Yeast as though it were a bar of chocolate. When she was run-down, it gave her strength and energy. She has perfect health, amazing vitality and her complexion is a joy to behold."

Mrs. C. A. Palmer, Brooklyn, N. Y.

BELOW

"FOR YEARS I had pimples all over my face and body and was also troubled with constipation. I thought I would try Fleischmann's Yeast. In two weeks I could see the pimples drying up and no signs of others coming. I am never troubled with constipation any more. I look like a different person."

Mrs. James E. Knight, Toronto, Ont.

"I WAS WORRIED, nervous and irritable. My skin broke out in ugly blotches. Eating irregularly caused stomach trouble. Then I became constipated. During the day I felt listless and sleepy, but at night I could not sleep. This condition continued until I thought I should go insane.

"One day a friend advised Fleischmann's Yeast. Those two words meant nothing to me, but I bought a cake, little realizing what a treasure I had purchased. I started the Fleischmann's Yeast treatment. I slept soundly that night for the first time in weeks.

"In a month's time I was a new person. Every blemish had vanished from my skin. My eyes sparkled. My appetite was excellent. I felt strong and slept well. There was a general improvement, physically and mentally. All as a result of Fleischmann's Yeast."

Ethel Patrick, Boston, Mass.

The Joyous Business of Being Well

Constipation conquered, skin and stomach disorders corrected—youthful energy renewed—by this fresh food

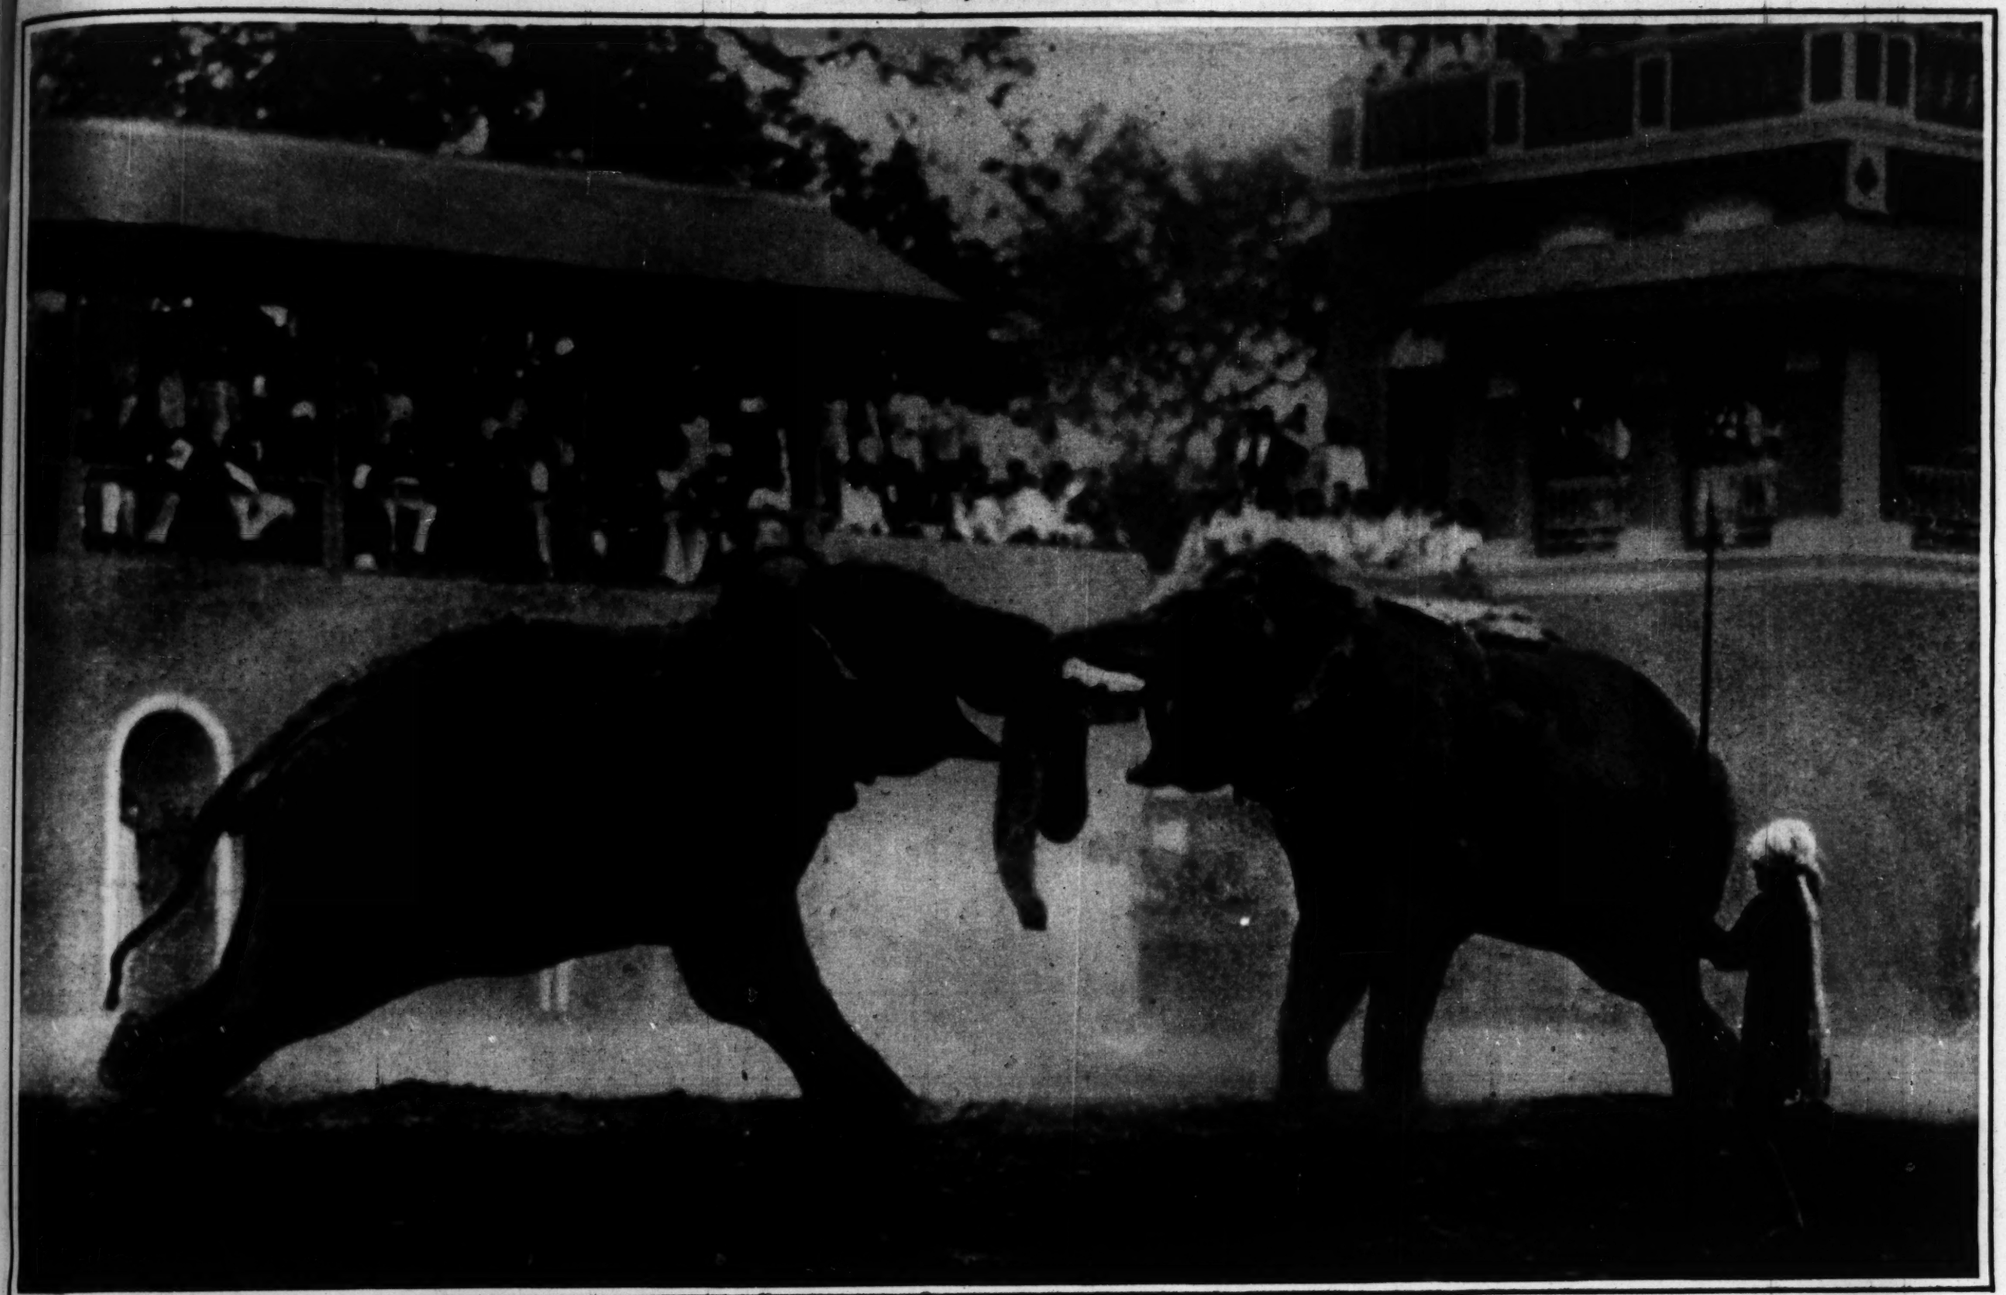
Not a "cure-all," not a medicine in any sense — Fleischmann's Yeast is simply a remarkable fresh food.

The millions of tiny active yeast plants in every cake invigorate the whole system. They aid digestion—clear the skin—banish the poisons of constipation. Where cathartics give only temporary relief, yeast strengthens the intestinal muscles and makes them healthy and active. And day by day it releases new stores of energy.

Eat two or three cakes regularly every day before meals: on crackers—in fruit juices, water or milk—or just plain, nibbled from the cake. For constipation especially, dissolve one cake in hot water (not scalding) before breakfast and at bedtime. Buy several cakes at a time—they will keep fresh in a cool dry place for two or three days. All grocers have Fleischmann's Yeast. Start eating it today!

And let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Health Research Dept. N-756, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York.

THIS FAMOUS FOOD tones up the entire system—aids digestion—clears the skin—banishes constipation. Eat two or three cakes regularly every day.



MADDENED GIANTS WENT INTO A DEATH BATTLE to make a viceroy's holiday recently when the city of Baroda, India, climaxed a day of entertainment for the visiting British overlord with this picturesque war of elephants. In this rare picture the opposing behemoths, carefully trained for the feature bout, are locked in the first round of their combat. Their trainers goaded them to more spirited efforts while a distinguished Anglo-Indian gallery cheered the stirring struggle. (Photo from Pacific and Atlantic)

164 WOMEN GUESTS at the

Ritz-Carlton and the Ambassador in Atlantic City say this soap is best for their skin

DANCING every night, beginning at midnight and ending with breakfast at dawn; teas, receptions, private theatricals, the opera, the theatre, the dressmaker, the caterer, engagements packed one into another like a conjurer's puzzle . . .

Until the society woman, abandoning her calendar, takes a run to Atlantic City for a few days' perfect relaxation in that golden air.

FROM New York, Philadelphia, Washington—even from as far as Pittsburgh and Chicago they come—celebrities of the social season, lovely creatures in Paris frocks, thronging the brilliant foyers of the Ritz and Ambassador hotels.

How do these women, who can afford the most costly personal luxuries, take care of their skin? What soap do they find, pure enough and fine enough, to trust their complexion to?

One hundred and ninety-four women stopping at the Ritz and the Ambassador at the time of our inquiry, answered our questions.

One hundred and sixty-four—over three-fourths—said they use Woodbury's Facial Soap for their skin.

"My skin was so irritated by any ordinary soap."

"Because of the amount of soap necessary for use, living in Pittsburgh. I find Woodbury's leaves the skin as smooth as possible."

"Other soaps which I had given a fair trial had failed—Woodbury's has greatly helped me."

"All my friends who have good complexions use it."

A SKIN SPECIALIST worked out the formula by which Woodbury's is made. This formula not only calls for the purest ingredients; it also demands greater refinement in the manufacturing process than is commercially possible with ordinary toilet soap.

A 25-cent cake of Woodbury's lasts a month or six weeks. Around each cake is wrapped a booklet containing special treatments for overcoming common skin defects.

Within a week or ten days after beginning to use Woodbury's you will notice an improvement in your complexion. Get your Woodbury's today—begin, tonight, the treatment your skin needs!

In the Spring a housewife's fancy
Lightly turns to thoughts of—CURTAINS

No mere man can understand the cosmic urge expressed in these lines. For only a woman knows the rising passion for a change in window draperies that comes with the first breath of Spring.

Spring, beckoning outside, draws winter-weary eyes irresistibly to the windows.

Your attention is fixed on your curtains. They certainly must be changed! They must be new, with some lovely touch of color, to match the Spring. Something that suggests the flame-tipped, goldy-green banners that Spring is waving outside your windows.

While you are in the mood, go to your favorite store and ask to see the new Scranton Lustre-Laces. Their delicate tracery of design, their gossamer silken loveliness will enchant you. And the Scranton name, woven in the top of every curtain, assures you that they will wash, and wear.

Other beautiful Scranton fabrics are: Filet Net, Lustre Marquisette and Lustre Bedspreads. Your best stores will gladly show them to you.

who has the coloring of a "strawberry blonde," blue eyes, delicate fair skin and red-gold hair, is particularly charming in this smart sports costume of a light but brilliant green.

Miss BARBARA STREBEIGH daughter of Mrs. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte points out that the care of the skin is an important social duty

JUST a year and a half ago, Miss Barbara Strebeigh made her bow to Society. She adored the deluge of parties that followed almost as much as she adores the out-of-doors.

But whether in the formal atmosphere of her mother's New York drawing room, on a steamer de luxe bound for Europe or engaging in the sports she loves so well, Barbara Strebeigh takes those subtle pains with her toilet that the well-born girl is taught to know.

"THERE is one personal obligation" she says, "that follows a girl wherever she goes—the care of her skin. With Pond's Two Creams this is easily and simply accomplished. Swiftly and surely they work to keep the skin exquisite. That is why their use has become a habit with the girls of the younger set."

During the day, when your skin needs cleansing, particularly after exposure, apply Pond's Cold Cream. Leave it on a few moments so that its pure oils may penetrate every pore. Wipe off cream and dirt and repeat the process, finishing with a dash of cold water. At night give your skin this same cleansing. If it is dry pat on more Pond's Cold Cream and leave until morning.

After every such cleansing except the bedtime one, apply Pond's Vanishing Cream to your skin. It gives you a soft, even finish, a freshened, velvety look—and your powder goes on better and stays longer with this delicate Cream as a base. Furthermore Pond's Vanishing Cream acts as a protection against weather, dust and soot. The Pond's Extract Company, 131 Hudson Street, New York City.

Here's new dental way to Gums like Coral

Also lightens cloudy teeth remarkably

Accept, please, full 10-day tube of this scientifically-proved, film-removing dentifrice, urged by world's dental authorities. Note the great difference in your teeth and gums.

GLORIOUSLY clear teeth, gums like coral to contrast them! Add their attractiveness to your smile. Do this for social reasons, for business reasons.

Modern dental science now proves teeth seldom are naturally "off color"—simply clouded with a film coat that ordinary dentifrices do not clear off successfully. Clouded teeth now are given sparkling whiteness, and one's whole appearance thus often changed.

Accept, please, a full 10-day tube of this new way. A way scores of motion pictures' noted stars use to whiten teeth before going on a scene. A way leading dentists of the world now are widely urging.

Just a film dulling them and inviting gum troubles

Dental science now traces scores of tooth and gum troubles to a germ-laden film that forms on teeth. Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel it—a slippery, viscous coating.

That film absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. And that is why your teeth look "off color," dingy and unattractive.

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are a chief cause of pyorrhea and decay.

Old ways won't clear it off

Ordinary dentifrices and cleansing won't fight film successfully. Feel for it now with your tongue. Note how your present cleansing method is failing in its duty.

Now new methods are being used. A dentifrice called Pepsodent—different in formula, action and effect from any other known.

Largely on dental advice, the world has turned to this method.

Clears film off—Firms the Gums

It accomplishes two important things at once: Removes that film, then firms the gums.

A few days' use will prove its power beyond all doubt. Send the coupon. Clip it now before you forget and mail at once.

CROSSED WIRES

BY JOHN T. McCUTCHEON

THE STORY SO FAR:

A WEALTHY American family, the Craytons, are in Paris. A worthless Frenchman, Pierre de Barsac, tries to win Virginia, the daughter, using the dollar sign glittering before him. The mother is agreeable, but Mr. Crayton is suspicious. He becomes wrathy and twice disappears for days, only to return to find De Barsac more and more firmly entrenched with his wife and daughter. He cancels sailing reservations when he learns the count is also booked for the same boat. The count, therefore, sails alone. In order to divert Virginia, Crayton cleverly arranges to have another young man, an American whom he has met in Paris, sail with them on the Leviathan.

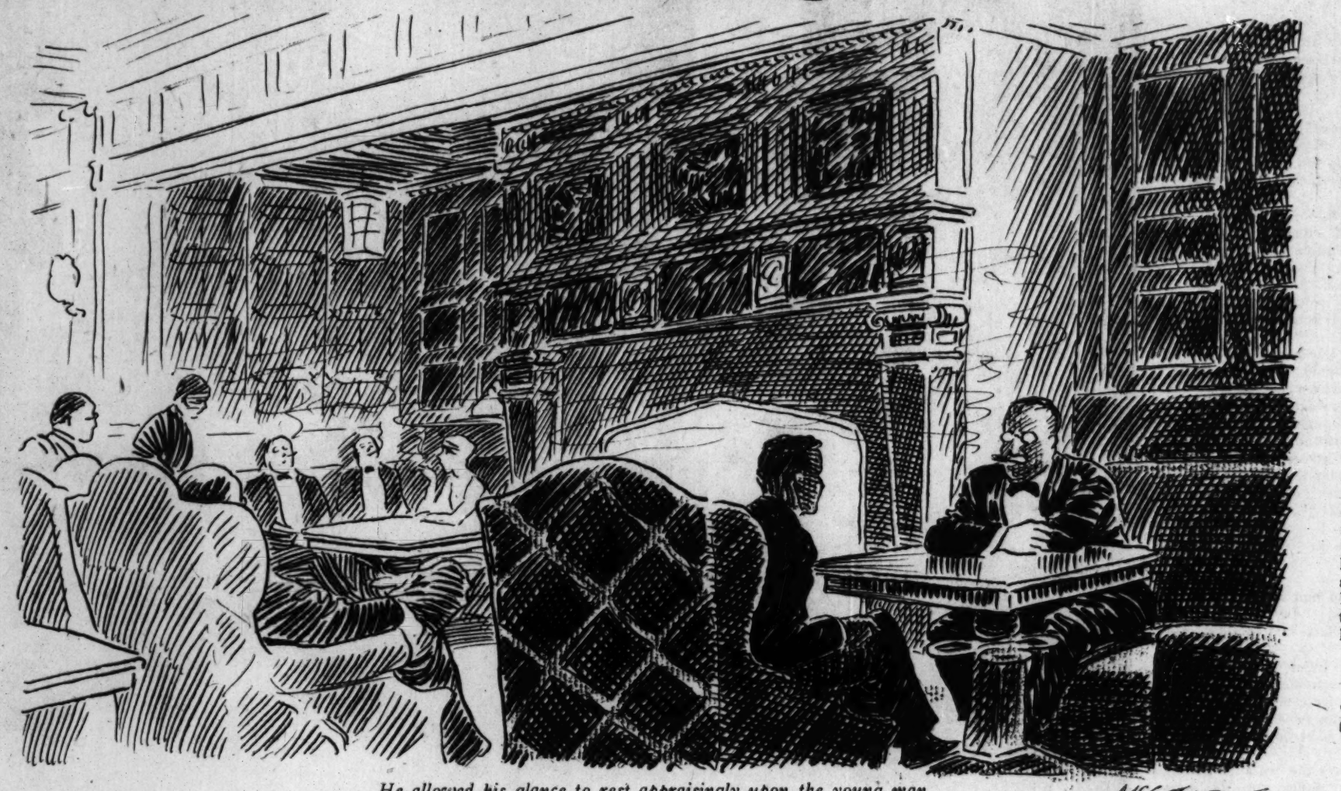
- INSTALLMENT VIII.

IT was dark when the passengers embarking at Cherbourg went on the Leviathan. Mrs. Crayton, who was not a good sailor, inquired whether it was likely to be a rough crossing, and, receiving the usual encouraging assurance, went at once to her stateroom, where she became alertly introspective, awaiting each dreaded little symptom.

Virginia, armed with the usual novel, vanished with the promise to reappear at luncheon next day, and her father, thus left to his own devices, sought the chief steward and saw to it that a table for four had been reserved, and gave his new young friend's name in addition to his own, his wife's, and his daughter's.

"Please see that he is assigned to my table," he said, and was assured that all would be arranged as he desired.

Making his way slowly and observantly along the docks and through the lounges, he at last located the object of his search in the half darkness of the great assembly hall where the movies were showing.



He allowed his glance to rest appraisingly upon the young man.

"Please see that he is assigned to my table."

"Well, well," he exclaimed, "I've been wondering if you were somewhere around. I've been looking for you, hoping you might be on board. Surely you will join us at our table in the dining room—that is, if you have no other plans?"

"I'll be glad to. It's very kind of you to ask me," the young man answered.

"It's number 16. I'll speak to the chief steward."

After the pictures were over and the dancing had begun the two strolled up to the smoking room. It occurred to Mr. Crayton that it might be well to find out something about the man who, if his plans carried, was to make his daughter forget the elderly and odious Count de Barsac. As they sat smoking and chatting he allowed his glance to rest appraisingly upon the clean limbed strength and frank young face, slightly sobered, as in one who has known a sorrow or a deep disappointment in life.

"And, of course," he said jokingly, when the opportunity offered, "after the war you went home covered with laurels and promptly got married, as so many of our boys did."

"No. I guess I'm the exception."

"O, well, there's plenty of time."

"I have no intention or desire to get married."

"That's a strange thing for a healthy young fellow to say," said Mr. Crayton. "Pardon me, if I seem unduly curious, but what can have led you to such a fixed determination?"

The young man hesitated, as though seeking a way to evade an answer, but at last said in a low voice, "I was engaged once, but the girl died on the day set for the wedding."

Mr. Crayton, embarrassed at having touched upon an awkward subject, murmured his sympathies and steered the talk into other channels. However, he had learned certain things he wanted to know. In the first place, it was safe to throw this interesting person in his daughter's society: in that state of mind about matrimony there would be small danger of complications of that sort. And, secondly, that little touch of sadness in his face lent a romantic appeal that a girl would readily respond to. There was a good chance of Virginia's forgetting De Barsac. And that was all Mr. Crayton wanted at present. Later he would endeavor to learn something about the young man's means. Perhaps he could help him.

At luncheon the next day he was found at their table when Mr. Crayton and his daughter came down to take their places. Mrs. Crayton was still analyzing her symptoms and decided not to brave the dining room. Virginia looked surprised and a shade annoyed to find that a stranger was sharing their table. She wondered that the steward had done such a stupid thing. But her father's first remark exonerated the latter.

"This is a friend I met in Paris, Virginia. I thought it would be nice to have him with us."

He located the object of his search.

"Your father very kindly took pity on me, Miss Crayton."

She smiled and sat down. Although she had given him only the most fleeting glance, she had noted that he was good looking, quiet, unostentatious, and that his clothes indicated good taste, even though they revealed nothing of his station in life. Perhaps he might prove diverting. But although Mr. Craytone kept up a lively conversation and made heroic efforts to draw him out, he answered only when necessary, and made no attempt to engage Virginia in direct conversation. Mr. Crayton was annoyed, and Virginia, after a first relief that at least he didn't seem like the pestering sort who pursued one about the decks, was also slightly annoyed that he did not show even the faintest sign in recognition of charms and beauty which experience had led her to expect.

At dinner Mr. Crayton wore a coat and Virginia a simple semi-evening dress, but the young man wore his daytime clothes. Was this a barometer to his condition in life? He did not appear in the least uncomfortable in the presence of more formal dress. And the dinner conversation was a repetition of that at luncheon.

"How charming your friend is! If he keeps on at this rate he will have made about six remarks by the time we get to New York. Why on earth did you ask him to sit with us? And, by the way, who is he, did you say?"

Mr. Crayton consulted his little notebook.

"Rasher," he read; "Harry L. Rasher."

"What an odd name," was Virginia's comment. "Certainly not very distinguished sounding!"

(To be continued next Sunday.)

MUSA of the SEVEN GOATS

by

ACHMED ABDULLAH

A Tale of an Afghan Tribe, with Its Jaunty Men, Tall Women and Musa Khan, the Giant Leader

OF ALL the lawless Afghan clans that had once roamed the mountainous Durrah Youssef wilderness southwest of the Russian central Asian border only a few were left, still roving like gypsies; preferring the deer and wolf trails to the smooth roads and the forests and moors to tight, warm, stone built houses; plunging to the knees at icy fords below the shadow of the bridges they looked on askance as meant for women and Persians and swag bellied bazaar traders; mocking at the proper, decent toil of the fields and cattle pens; living—as the Afghan saying has it—on the wind and the pines and the gray rock's lichen.

Even these clans, scanty in numbers, grew smaller year after year as brazen freedom gave way to barter and the age of steel to the age of coined silver. And while their fathers had felt a fidget in their scabbards and their sword arms, they felt a fidget in the waist shawls where they hid their money. While their fathers had hunted men, they were satisfied with pilfering the farmers' chicken roosts and sheep folds. While their fathers had danced over crossed blades and roared defiant war songs to the disgrace of his highness the Amir's very nose, they crooned more sober melodies and stepped more gentle dances for the price of clipped rupees at village fairs or of some rich peasant's marriage feast.

The freest of the remaining wandering tribes was a band of twenty men and women led by Musa Khan.

Jaunty, ragged fellows they were, lean as rakes, a bit hard in the look, a bit braggart. Tall, supple women, unveiled, loud of voice, stag sure of step. And Musa Khan himself a grand six feet of brawn and muscle. His beard was long and curled and russet red, sticking out like a battering ram ahead of his thick chest or, if the wind veered, fluttering across his broad shoulder like a banner. His eyes were chilly and gray; his nose was an eagle's beak; his mouth was wide and crimson and with ever a laugh lurking at the corners; in the shadow of his huge, shaggy fur cap an old scar slashed livid through the sunburned brow; and his was a trick and twist of putting large, hairy hands upon whatever he fancied with a certain insolent possession.

Musa-of-the-Seven-Goats they called him, because—for which he had been soundly bastinadoed by an Afghan judge—he had stolen that same judge's seven goats in one memorable night's exploit. Musa-of-the-Seven-Heads had been his grandfather's proud nickname, because the latter, in one night's scarlet encounter, had sliced off the handsome, pallid heads of seven Persian gentlemen—and he alone and armed with nothing but a short dagger, and the seven Persian gentlemen with iron bossed bucklers at their left elbows and curved Bokharan scimitars circling from their right wrists!

But while Musa Khan was more peaceful than his grandfather, he was still a man of the hidden glens and the high, torn crags. There lay his kingdom—and his subjects the fish of the pools, the dappled deer that roamed through the laurel wold, the birds that ducked and chirped in the thickets, the brown foxes that barked in the underbrush. Winter and summer, with sky serene or dark clouds surly and threatening, with the sun's rays like molten gold or the snow thudding down in blinding, white eddies, he would lead his band through the mountains, the forests, the moors.

His work—besides stealing—since man cannot live by stealing alone?

"I have played at seventy-seven things," he would say, "and tired of them and finished nothing. And if I be tinkering above an anvil I would be dreaming of herding cattle up there in the northern steppes, and if I be driving cattle perhaps I would be dreaming of climbing a tall, tall mast on one of those ships in the south the Hindu traders speak of. Hai! hai! It is because I am free! As free as the storm which—so my mother told me, and she the most truthful woman in all the Afghan hills—was my father! I am a perfect master only of myself. But it's a fine, glorious thing, is myself. And you can buy me for a spice of love and friendship. Or maybe—if you be the other sort of man or woman—I would not sell myself to you for all the treasures of High Tartary!"

Still, he did work—at times. And there was none like him to mend a pot or shape a horseshoe, to sharpen a knife or weave wicker or carve wood; none like him to catch a hare with his bare hands or plunge these same hands into a pool and grip the brown, speckled trout by their gills and jerk them out on the bank; none like him, finally, to tell the many tales.

Tales—may Allah forgive him!—of his own prowess as often as not. Tales—may Allah forgive him again!—that were mostly lies.

But they were splendid lies, with a swing and a clank and a way to them; and so, when he stepped out of the wilderness, with his tail of twenty lusty followers, walking one behind another, all bearing weapons, smelling of leather and heather, taunting the echoes of the Durrah Youssef peaks with their roaring, guttural voices, there would be a great shouting of welcome and the peasants' laughing demands:

"Sing us a stave, O Musa-of-the-Seven-Goats!"

Or:

"Tell us a tale, O son of the world!"

"Tell us how you battled with the Shirazi giant for the necklace made of phoenix eggs and dragon teeth and green diamonds from the mountains of the moon!"

"No, no, no! Tell us how you fell in love with the red haired Badakshani woman, and she, on the wedding night, turning out to be a vampire with bird's claws for feet, and in back a little furry tail she gestured with as mere humans use their hands!"

"And a true tale it is, too—may I eat dirt if it is not!" he would begin. "True—by the honor of my beard, O Moslems!"—and already the peasants would loosen rupees from their knotted waist shawls and the women would kill and pluck a brace of fat fowls and set them to simmer in an iron pot with saffron and honey and eggplant.

MOST welcome was Musa Khan at the ancient, feudal castle of the Ghilzai Tartar lords that topped the crest of the Durrah Youssef range with an avalanche of square granite blocks and bold masonry and had been built, many centuries earlier, by copper faced Tartar freebooters out of central Asia who had scarred and conquered the land as far as Balkh and Kandahar with torch and rope and the crackle of steel.

But Uzbek Khan Haydar, last of the line of feudel lords, was even less like his ancestors than Musa-of-the-Seven-Goats was like Musa-of-the-Seven-Heads. He had forgotten the haughty, cruel prowess of his race in the pleasures of the flesh pots, the wine jugs, and the soft, silken divans. He was valiant with steel only where the carving of juicy mutton joints was concerned, and there was malicious gossip in the bazaars that it took seven yards of muslin for a shawl to twist about his enormous stomach.

Quick at forgiving he was, good natured, easily moved to laughter, fond of a jest and a song and a salty tale—and who was there like Musa Khan to warble and rhyme and string together a grand lilting of words?

"Who is there like him in all the world's hills?" he said to the girl who sat curled at his feet.

Umteyra was her name, which means Born-in-the-Rain. She was his second cousin and, since her parents had died, his ward, and he loved her very dearly.

Her looks?

There we have a triple testimony.

For Usbek Khan Haydar, who was as sentimental as he was fat, compared her to a light burning in a dark house, a jewel to be worn in the turban of his soul, a precious casket filled to overflowing with all the arts and charm and grace and coquetry.

Many other compliments—stilted, extravagant, old-fashioned, for he was nearer fifty than thirty—he paid her; and when Habeebah, his wrinkled, berry brown old housekeeper, overheard him, she would interrupt impatiently:

"Wah! You are a fool, O my master! A soft hearted, pot bellied fool! By Zulzaban, son of the devil! What do you see in her? Why do you let her step on you with the impudent stepping of her feet? And she nothing but a wisp of a girl—nor her nose very straight—nor her ears very small!"—which, being the second, was also perhaps the more truthful testimony as to Umteyra's looks.

There was finally Musa Khan's judgment.

He said that her face was like a baffling, sweet melody of spring floating on the current of a far wind, that all Allah's mountains must have stood around to shelter her birth, and that a glance of her black eyes was like the sudden unsheathing of a sword.

But this he said afterwards.

For that day, when Uzbek Khan Haydar spoke to her of Musa, the two were unknown to each other, since the girl had only arrived at the castle a week earlier—a week during which Uzbek Khan Haydar had told her of his love over and over again, to hear her smiling reply:

"I like you, cousin mine. O, so much! But—no—I do not love you. Shall I ever love you? How am I to know, Love is like the flying of the wild goose. It is a sending of fate—fate which is written on the foreheads of all of us!"

"Will you be angry if I tell you again—many, many times—that I——" he slurred; stopped.

"That you love me? Why—I like to hear it!"

"Of course you do! Pah! Little Tartar cat!" came Habeebah's screeching comment. "Young girls are like young fleas—eager for blood! And is there blood sweeter than a man's heart blood? And——" turning to Uzbek Khan Haydar—"as for you? You, O, by my teeth!—you are old and not lean! Only your waist shawl and the Lord Allah know how not lean you are! What do you want with love? What does a bald headed man want with a hair comb? Nak na kan, bali ke arman—you are like the noseless and earless one who yet desires nose and earrings!"

And, squatting in a corner, she would glower and grumble and storm and pull at her waterpipe until it gurgled with splashing, sucking protest.

She did so today, with loud, contemptuous shouts of: "Yahoo! Yahee! Y'ellah! Errahman! Irramin!" as her master repeated:

"Who is there like Musa Khan in all the world's hills?"

"Who is this Musa?" asked Umteyra.

"He might be your twin brother," suggested Habeebah. "He is another one of Allah's useless creations. At times I wonder why Allah, being All-Wise——"

"Peace!" he commanded, and he explained to Umteyra that

NEXT SUNDAY

THE REMARKABLE ASTUTENESS OF POLICE CONSTABLE CHOPPING

Another Corking Short Story of English Countryside Life at Melhampton

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

the other man was a man of the wilderness. "The day's work," he added, "has no great hold on his fancy."

"Nor the day's honesty!" interrupted Habeebah. "Father and mother he is of seven times seven unmentionable sins!"

"But also," smiled the Tartar, "of seven times seven glorious songs, of seven times seven spiced jests, of seven times seven splendid and incredible tales! Ah, listen!"

SUDDENLY he was silent. He pointed at the window as, nearer and nearer, drifted a fluting voice with the tail-end of an Afghan war song that was the rage of all the bazaars—for those were the days when the English, to the sorrow of their women and children, had invaded the hills, had been slaughtered in the hills:

They say: Dost Mohammed makes ready for war at Kabul!
Loud is the crackle of steel in Kabul, the king's town!
Dost Mohammed is a master of the sword in battle!
He is a reckless man at sword-time!
He is a keen gambler at sword-play!
He has girt on his shining Persian weapons!
He is a killer of the English, the eaters of pig's flesh!
They say: Dost Mohammed makes ready for war at Kabul!
Hai! Loud is the crackle of steel in Kabul, the king's town!

The song finished on a high, throaty yell.

"Ah!" sighed Uzbek Khan Haydar, "I wish I had him here with me in this castle, always, as my ancestors in the olden olden days used to hire bards and jesters!"

"Is he rich?" asked Umteyra.

"As poor as a rabbit in the bracken!"

"Then," she suggested, "ask him to live here. Pay him well. Your wealth is great."

"He is as free as a bird. He would not live in a cage."

"Even an eagle would live in a cage of gold. Ask him, cousin mine!" For she imagined that thus, by Musa's coming to live in the house, Uzbek Khan Haydar would cease a little from his love making and give her time for her own thoughts. Not that her thoughts were much. Just a young hill girl's thoughts: a mingling of misty desires for something she did not know—and misty melancholy for something she did not understand.

Just then above the window sill showed the top of Musa Khan's shaggy fur cap, and the Tartar cried: "Hey! Come up, Musa-of-the-Seven-Goats!"

A moment later the Afghan appeared on the threshold and bowed politely.

"You called, my lord?"

"I did." And Uzbek Khan Haydar told him what was on his mind. "Leave your wild tribe," he invited. "Live in my castle. You shall have whatever you wish. A silken bed to sleep in—money to spend—rich food."

"I have what I wish now!" replied the hillman. "I have the heather to sleep in during the burning of summer, and a camel's hair cloak in the biting of hard winter. I have money enough—" he slapped his waist shawl so that the rupees—three of them—clicked and clanked. "And as for food, I have fish and game."

"Fish and game are scarce at times."

"My hands are clever. There are always the peasants' goats."

"And always," laughed the Tartar, "the punishment—the soles of your feet to be slashed to ribbons by the bastinado!"

"The soles of my feet heal again. I know a salve of wild herbs that is cunning and soothing."

"Stealing is a bad deed."

"What of it? If other folks could get as sound contentment out of their good deeds as I out of my bad deeds, it would be the happy, happy world to live in a while. I shall sing for you any time, my lord. I shall tell you all the tales you desire. But live here—between these cramping, stifling walls. No, no! It would kill me!"

He was on the point of leaving when Umteyra moved a little from the shadowy place where she was curled at her cousin's feet. A ray of sunlight danced in. It cut across her small face.

Musa Khan looked at her. Their eyes met; and quickly he turned back and spoke once more to the Tartar.

"And yet—" he said, and sighed, and was silent, and bowed his head as though ashamed.

"And yet—what?" demanded the other, who had not seen the byplay.

"And yet," continued the Afghan, "perhaps you are right after all. Stealing—may Allah forgive me!—is wicked indeed. There may be soft, golden truth in the soft, golden summer days. But there is also the bleak, bitter truth in the bleak, bitter winter days! Homelessness and cold—and the foe of hunger on the heels of me! And here—in this place—food and warmth and——"

"Then why hesitate?" exclaimed Uzbek Khan Haydar. "Live with me, O son of the world!"

"I shall! Allah—but this will be the grand, grand palace for my father's only son!"

"And the sorry, sorry day for the palace itself and its master!" grumbled Habeebah.

"Bite off your tongue, thus giving to your pinched belly a square meal, O, misbegotten daughter of a drunkard and a spotted, odorous she-hyena!" laughed the Afghan. "Be quiet, O, mother of no children at all!"

He walked over to the window. Outside, his ragged followers were waiting and clamoring.

"The day is open and wide and far!" they shouted. "Come with us, Musa-of-the-Seven-Goats! The wilderness is lonely for the treading of your feet!"

"Hereafter," he replied magnificently, "the wilderness shall know me no more. Hereafter my feet shall tread on silk and velvet. Begone, children of polecats!"

He closed the window with a bang, and turned to his host.

"And now, to seal the bargain," he announced, "I shall sing you a song the like of which has not been heard in these hills since the red Tartar giant ate the bull elephant and choked to death on swallowing the trunk!"

"Good—by my beard!" Uzbek Khan Haydar was delighted. "Let me hear the war song—how Dost Mohammed defeated the English."

"Pah! A silly bazaar ditty! I shall give you a song of my own—a song of love! Wait, my lord, until I find the proper rhythm and rhymes!"

Again his eyes met Umteyra's, and a few minutes later he lifted his voice in sweet melody:

Since my sight fell on those dark eyes of thine,
Never can I forget those lovely eyes of thine.
Of the hawk's are they? The peacock's or the falcon's?
Or of the soft eyed antelope's? The glances of thine eyes?
As the lambs crouch hidden in the pasture,
From the shade of thy tresses look those gentle eyes of thine.
As the armed trooper stands, his lance in arm beside him,
Thus stand the long lashes round those warring eyes of thine,
Ah! on each one's heart they feed, those cruel eyes of thine!
Yet whatever thou wouldst gaze on, look well upon me,
O child! while there is power of seeing in thine eyes. . . .

The song finished suddenly, on a high, quavery note. The Tartar applauded violently until his immense stomach shook like jelly. Umteyra was strangely silent, and Habeebah broke into cackling laughter—laughter repeated, reverberating, bloating grotesquely, as Uzbek Khan Haydar turned to Musa with a question:

"A song to a girl you love?"

"No, my lord. A song to a girl whom I shall love—presently!"

So the hillman came to live in the proud castle, and he used to walk about the splendid rooms with an air and a swagger and say to himself: "Allah! Am I not the sturdy fellow come into his own?"

AND at night, when his clansmen would stop before the room where he slept and call to him from the dark with the crane's call and the eagle's, and some of the younger lads would scurry up the outer wall like weasels and stick their tousled heads above the sill, he would mock them and say: "Go away, O creatures! You reek of wood fire and gutted fish!"

"Come back to us!" they pleaded. "Few are our tales and meager our songs since you took to living in a great stone house."

"No, no. Leave me in peace!"

"Come with us to the peaks, the cleft and torn! Last night we heard a stag there roaring to his queen."

"A song to a girl you love?"—"No, my lord, a song to a girl whom I shall love—presently."

"Let him roar! What have I to do with brown, antlered stags and such savageries? Am I not the fine gentleman who sleeps on silk—and silk beneath and—hayah!—above him?"

"Come back to us, O our hero! Think of the brooks mumbling and the purple deeps of the woods! Think of the scent of the moist, gusty forest nights! Think of the horned, far moon sitting in the skies and the wonderful, ancient wilderness!"

"Hai!" he laughed. "There is a wonderful new wilderness within these walls—where wonderful new things happen! You cannot tempt me! Begone! Go you to your jaunting and scraping and scrambling!"

They left. They mourned him as one dead, and they wondered what heathen spell had bewitched him until one day—a day of late autumn, with winter already in the air and a wind out of Siberia booming down and sweeping the north of all its chill and piling it, drift white, drift wide, in the jagged higher crags—an old woman of the tribe returned from her berry gathering and stepped up to the ruddy camp fire with excited words: "I have seen our Musa."

"Where?"

"Far off in the Valley of Seven Spears. A woman was in his arms."

"Who?"

"Umteyra, the Tartar's ward."

A young girl looked up.

"He is lost to us for good," she sighed. "He has taken the soft, warm, silken road."

"A good road for winter," laughed the old woman. "But winter will end. Spring will come back—and spring always brings the riddle of new lips to kiss."

SO for many months the clansmen were seen no longer about the castle, and Musa Kahn had almost forgotten them, had almost forgotten the wilderness. For there were so many tales to tell and songs to sing—to the Tartar, who would laugh and clap his hands and toss him purses filled with clanking silver rupees; and other tales to tell and other songs to sing—to Umteyra, who would look at him starry eyed.

"You love me, Musa? Really—really?"

"Do not my lips say so?"

"But your heart? How can I read its secret?"

"You can read it wherever you go! You can read its secret in the nightingale's cry, in the blowing of the south wind, and in the throbbing, winglike call of all the unborn children of the world."

"And still I do not know if you really love me."

"Why not?"

"Maybe because my own love is too clamorous—because it deafens the song of yours. Ah"—she whispered—"there was never greater love than mine. And I am ashamed that I must say it to you with words."

"Ashamed? Allah! Is the queen bee ashamed of her honey—the jasmine of its scent?"

"You have loved before, Musa?"

"Let me tell you how it is with me." He smiled. "In the past it was always the way my fancy went—went the one way or the other. And at times my fancy wandered alone; and at times it sought a fine marching company with men of hard daring; and at times it danced down the road, with a woman's subtle feet echoing alongside. But"—he lowered his voice, took her hands in his—"it is now the final way my fancy has gone—straight to your soul, child—to the fresh, sweet wilderness there—and the birds in it chiming and warbling—and the sun above it shining polished and hearty!"

So they kissed.

So it was day after day.

Habeebah knew. But she never spoke of it to her master. Perhaps she did not want to make him unhappy. Perhaps she imagined that thus, because of her love for Musa, Umteyra would step out of Uzbek Khan Haydar's life. Perhaps her knarled, tough old heart softened at the sight of the lovers' happiness. Not that she ceased from her grumbling and storming.

Often and vociferously she berated the Afghan as a vagabond, a tramp, a ne'er-do-well, and the father of seventeen pigs; and one day, seeing Umteyra come from Musa's presence with shining eyes and heightened color, she said to her: "Wah! The dinner over, an ungrateful dog values not the spoon! Have you already forgotten how my master picked you, a scrawny and most disgusting child, from the gutters of nowhere"—a slight exaggeration, since Umteyra's parents had been rich and noble Tartars—"and raised you to a high seat of dignity in his own castle? And here—like a shameless Persian bazaar goat—you come from your lover and . . ."

"No, no, no!" exclaimed the girl, blushing a deep, even rose. "I did not."

"You did! The tale of it is in your eyes! Do not lie to me!" And, with a sudden change of manner and accent: "Child! A drop of peach perfume on the back of your hand—behind your ear! It is that a lover likes. I know. I, too, was once desired in the hills and the fine houses."

But never a word did she say to Uzbek Khan Haydar, and it is a debatable point whether, at least at first, he knew what was going on. If he did, he was wilfully blind—because, in the great, simple, ludicrous gentleness of his soul, he did not want Umteyra to know that he knew, for fear of hurting her fluttering young heart.

There was, of course, gliding, malicious gossip in the village below the castle.

But there was also his own ancient, racial pride; and one day, when a peasant made a slurring, malicious allusion, he replied: "I am of the Ghilzai Tartar lords. We are the sons of kings. The tree is not more old than we, nor yet the mountain, nor yet the sky. I am fat—yes—and I am old. But I am still and always of the Ghilzai lords. If sorrow must happen to me, let it happen with banners and steel and the roll of drums—not with the twisting of unclean, whispered words!"

And he smote the peasant heavily across the face, and hereafter there was little gossiping in the village.

So the long winter months passed, and spring came—suddenly, almost overnight, as it does in this northern land.

"And what sort of a heart is it," said Musa to himself, looking one night from the window, "that would not lift and soar to see the fresh, moist green blown upon the gray oaks—to see the hedges burst white and pink—to see the young firs prick up proudly and insolently among the slower, elder pines?"

And, the next morning, to Umteyra, who vaguely understood, vaguely feared: "There are places in the high hills where the most startling and varied things are ever happening. Once I saw a white hare up there play hide-and-seek with a white fox—and once I saw a heron's nest, with seven eggs, blue-green like Persian jewels of great worth, and I saw the eggs burst and seven quaint, gray birds come out—and each with a fluffy little tuft on its head. And I know a pool up there that is like a piece of the sky tumbled among the grasses—and to fall into it, on a night, would be to get all tangled up with the moon and the stars."

"Take me there, Musa."

"No, no!"

"Why not?"

"I cannot!" And when she insisted he repeated a little impatiently: "I cannot! It is not for you—this far, wild place. It is only for"—he said it thoughtlessly—"my own people."

"O——" She was hurt. "Your own people? And am I not?"

"Of course, you are! Please—child—forgive me!"

"You do not love me!"

"I do!"

"You do not!"

"I do!"

"Then take me with you! Up to the pool that is like a piece of sky!"

He shook his head.

"No, heart of my heart," he replied. "Your feet are too small and tender and white. They cannot step the wilderness road."

At last they made up. They kissed.

BUT fear grew in Umteyra's heart, and in Musa's a deep, welling restlessness, and that night when he was alone in his room and stared from the window toward the purple silhouette of the hills and the forests, he sighed.

"O my grief!" he whispered. "Am I not the poor caged one that I must live in this grand stone palace—and me aching for want of air? That I must sleep in a silken bed—and me aching for a couch of spruce bough?"

He leaned a little from the window to drink in the fresh air; and suddenly he heard a faint, throaty laughter out there in the dark and the sound of bare feet running away—turned as something, thrown from the outside, missed his head by a hair's breadth and dropped on the floor behind him.

He bent. He looked.

It was a young eagle his tribesmen had caught. They had tied its wings and claws and beak, and had tossed it into the room.

He laughed as he read the silent message.

He picked up the bird, put it on the window sill, and cut its bonds. He watched it try its wings, then suddenly whir away into the night.

"It is thus my way lies," he said. "Let the eagle show it to me!"

And he swung himself from the window and went out into the woods to look for his own people.

Half an hour later he found them.

The men were there, jaunty, ragged, lean as rakes, a bit hard in the look, a bit braggart; and the tall, supple women, loud of voice, stag-sure of step.

They hardly looked up when Musa Khan loomed into the ruddy light of the camp fire.

Only one young girl spoke.

"So you have come back to us, Musa-of-the-Seven Goats?" she asked.

"I have never been farther than the width of a passing thought, O child of the moon!" he replied; and he lay down on the ground with his tousled head in her lap.

Neither the next day, nor ever again, was there heard the sound of his voice echoing through the Tartar castle, except far, far off drifting from the hillside with the tail-end of a riotous, carefree song; and as the weeks passed, and never a sign of him, fear and anguish grew in Umteyra's soul until there came a night when she sobbed out loud in an agony of despair that shook her from head to foot.

It was at supper time. She was sitting across from her cousin, while Habeebah was bustling about with steaming platters of rice and curried mutton.

UZBEK KHAN HAYDAR rose. He walked around the table. He put his fat, clumsy, gentle hand upon Umteyra's shoulder. His heart was filled with love and pity. But he could not think of anything to say. He might have said a dozen things to her—stilted, extravagant, old fashioned—in an hour of gladness. But not in an hour of sorrow.

He turned when he heard Habeebah's gruff voice:

"Be pleased to go away, O my master! What good are men in time of trouble?"

She took the weeping girl to her room.

She went on in the same gruff voice: "Be quiet, little Tartar cat! Hey! What is the matter, O Quite Useless? Are you crying because of that tramp—that vagabond—that hound of the wilderness? Allah! A fine thing it is to redden your nose—see such a small nose—and your eyes—nor such large eyes—for his sake! Wah! There are other stout lads—and no lack of them—to be picked up hereabouts by a shrug and a glance. Come—tell me—what is the matter?"

"I cannot tell you," stammered the girl.

"You must. Am I not your friend? Has not my old heart—and Allah alone knows why, O Less than Nothing!—gone out to your young heart? Come—tell me—tell me."

She folded the girl to her lean old breast. She paled when Umteyra sobbed out the full tale of her shame and despair.

But she spoke with the same sort of negligent, passionless ferocity: "And what of that? Why are you ashamed, small fool? It is the way of God—the way of nature—the way of fate. A life must aye bring forth a life—it is so written!"

And she sank on her knees by the side of the weeping girl and prayed to the Lord God: "By the night when she spreadeth her veil—by the day when it is manifested—by what made the male and the female—I beseech Thee, O Allah, protect Thou this girl! Praise be to Thee, the Lord of the Seven Worlds, the Compassionate, the Merciful! Thee I worship, and Thee I ask for help! Thou art God the Eternal! I beseech Thee—protect Thou this girl, the apple of my eye!"

She rose. She returned to her master.

"Tomorrow," she said, "I shall go to the village. I shall bring back Mustaffa Aziz, the man of the faith."

"The priest?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"To make you and Umteyra man and wife—according to the teachings of the blessed Koran."

He shook his head.

"No," he replied. "She does not love me. You saw, old woman, how she grieves for Musa-of-the-Seven-Goats?"

"She will grieve for him in vain. The snake back to the cactus hedge—the dog back to the dung heap—the vagabond back to the wilderness! But"—and in these words, calm, slightly disgooning, she said it—"it is not proper that a woman of your flesh and bone, cousin to you, a Tartar of the blood, should become a mother—and no father to give to the child name and inheritance!"

He looked up. His face was like a carved ivory mask.

"It is not proper indeed!" he said; and, haughtily: "It is the pride of me which stiffens me from heel to hip! I am of the Ghilzai Tartar lords. We are the sons of kings. The tree is not more old than we, nor yet the mountain, nor yet the sky!"

And the end of the tale?

For this happened many, many years ago, at the time when the English, to the sorrow of their women and children, had invaded the hills, had been slaughtered in the hills.

The end of the tale is not yet.

But in the ancient, feudal castle that tops the crest of the Durrah Youseff range, lives a wrinkled old woman. She is Umteyra, the widow of Uzbek Khan Haydar.

She has forgotten the past. She has forgotten Musa-of-the-Seven-Goats. She—and this is a truth which all women know and the few men to whom women speak with free hearts—has forgotten him completely.

And when her only son, a burly man with ruddy hair and chilly, gray eyes, comes into her presence and bows courteously, she will exclaim: "Look at him! Is he not a Tartar of Tartars? Is he not exactly like his father—like Uzbek Khan Haydar? Hai!—may my lord's departed soul have its full share of Paradise!"

BARRACUDA

By Will Payne

THE STORY TO DATE.

DR. LEWIS LATHAM settles in Indian Ledge, Fla., where his uncle runs the local bank. He becomes interested in the new tenants of an old estate known as Little Bayou. Uninhabited for years because of the bad reputation of the former tenants, a family named Snyder has recently rented it. There is an air of mystery about them.

WHILE taking care of his uncle's bank the doctor meets Mrs. Snyder and her stepsister, Louise Sheldon, who call to deposit some bonds. A stranger comes to town who introduces himself as Donahue. He tells the sheriff he is on the trail of a man who is supposed to have absconded from New York with a million dollars. Donahue suspects Snyder as the guilty person.

THE Snyders entertain a man from the north who calls himself Andrus. He and Louise take a sail on a Friday afternoon, returning late that night. Sunday Dr. Latham finds the body of his murdered uncle in the bank. Evidence points toward Andrus, and the search for him starts.

SNYDER goes to Crab Island, home of the unsavory family of Judds, under the influence of liquor. The doctor questions Louise about Andrus and she, resenting it, slips away and swims to Crab Island for refuge. Andrus vanishes. Louise is tortured by a man with pinchers, who is trying to trace Andrus' papers. Latham rescues her and Snyder from the Judds. Then he keeps watch over her after the same man has tried to torture her again.

AND THEN—

INSTALLMENT XI.

The Meeting.

AFTER two hours' sleep and a bite of breakfast Dr. Latham went to the real estate office, where Lem White was waiting for him, and for complete privacy they withdrew to the small parlor at the rear. This gangling ex-sheriff whose leathery and beardless face oddly resembled that of a horse was a crotchety man in some respects, with set notions and pugnacious as a bulldog when once roused to a fighting pitch—also a solid piece of human integrity, dependable as a rock in any case where his lights were clear. One might object to the lights. For example, it was highly probable that in an exigent case Lem would cheerfully assist in stuffing a ballot box. It was well known that in the furious county seat contest of a dozen years back Lem and Ab Teller and Cap Dolliver heroically risked their digestions in getting the election watchmen from Plainview dead drunk so that the balloting might proceed without inconvenient remonstrance from them. In short, no amount of oratory on civic righteousness could cure Lem of his idea that politics was a game. But where the lights were clear—say, for a friend whose cause he believed in—he would face an army and die in his tracks. And he was Mark Egan's friend. With that assurance Latham simply and clearly related his experiences of the night.

"I know how it sounds," he admitted. "I'd say myself that it sounded fishy. But I believe that girl is telling the truth. I believe something has happened to her, as she says. She was drugged over on Crab island. I know that. This morning she shook hands with me, lying in bed. Her sleeve fell back. There are three purple blisters on her arm here." He touched his own arm on the inner side, between the shoulder and elbow. "It all turns on your impression of the people involved. I believe her, Lem. Against her we've got Donahue. All we know about him is that he followed them down here—after something in their house. You know what he said about it—promising a lot of money to get what he wanted. I don't think Donahue's looks inspire any particular confidence. You can't say that a man's lying just because he has a mug that looks like a surprised fish. But, looking at Donahue, you wouldn't be especially surprised to find out that he'd been lying."

"But, see here, son," Lem interposed, "if there was any gent with a red beard over at Crab island it wasn't Donahue. That's sure as shootin'. Donahue was with Ed Worrel and me all night. And he wasn't at your office at eleven o'clock last night. He was out with the sheriff. Ed mentioned it to me this morning—that they didn't get in till after eleven. Probably looks is all right to go on for marryin', doc; anyhow, that's what marryin' mostly does go on. But you can't go on looks in a murder case. Donahue's no man with a red beard."

"I know," Latham assented. "I don't doubt he was with the sheriff and you that night, nor that he was with the sheriff last night. All the same, he may have a confederate here."

Lem replied dryly, "This ain't such a whale of a town that strangers go unnoticed. Red whiskers ain't so danged common, either. How would a stranger be around here confederatin' with Donahue and nobody see him by daylight?"

"I know the difficulties," Latham confessed. "I've thought about it all night. But, Lem, that girl is telling the truth. I know that, too. Something has happened to her, as she says. There's the candle and the candlestick. What do any of us know about this mulatto woman? She's big enough, dressed in a man's clothes, to pass as a man. . . . You see, there must be some explanation that lets the girl out. That's what I want to work on. I don't want her taken to jail now. She can just as well stay in my office. Don't let Worrel take her away." He had been trying to proceed coolly, but his voice showed rising agitation and he wet his lips:

"Lem, I thought I'd killed her—driven her into the bay that night—and she had died in the water. That's not a good thing to have on your mind. I don't want it on my mind again. I know somebody's abused her. I don't want it to happen again. It can do no harm to keep her in my office for the present."

"No," Lem admitted, "I don't see's it can." He thought he understood the young man's case, and sympathized to an extent. Of course, nobody would want a girl's death, or brutal misuse, on his mind—particularly if he had fallen in love with the girl's yellow hair and blue eyes, as young men will.

"I want to know she's decently used," Latham urged. "I haven't any confidence in Donahue now. He's got hold of Worrel. I saw that yesterday. He's a clever man, and Worrel isn't a very clever man. Donahue's running this case for him. Now suppose they take the girl over to jail. Donahue can get around the sheriff; he can send somebody in to her. A clever man could manage it. You see, Lem, I want to be sure of her for the present—sure she's not abused again. And then I want to see what I can make of this case—this damned, tangled case! I want to go up to Little Bayou now and have a good try at Mrs. Snyder. Whatever else there may be about her, she's fond of Louise Sheldon. I want to tell her what happened last night. I want to show her that it may go hard with the girl—and if the girl is innocent she's got to clear up some of these things."

HE was speaking anxiously and passionately. "I knew I ought to have done it before. I ought to have pressed her day before yesterday when she mentioned the subject. But I was too uncertain then—and I felt frightfully guilty because I thought I'd lost her sister in the water. And yesterday I was too uncertain, too. But now I propose to put it up to her squarely. If we can get the right thread to this business, Lem—well, it may lead us to the man we want. I can't feel that we are going right now. You hold Worrel off the girl till I've been down there."

Lem felt that, at least, the young man was very earnest and deeply agitated about it. He wanted to content him, even though powerfully suspecting that he was misled by an emotional interest in a pretty face.

"Well, son, I'll do what I can," he promised. "Ed Worrel's a stubborn sort of cuss—but I don't see's 'twould do any harm to let her stay in your office a spell longer. I'll do what I can."

"Thank you, Lem," Latham said. "And look out for Donahue. I'm not satisfied about him. I'm going up to Little Bayou now. . . . I don't want to talk to Snyder if I can help it. I'm banking on his wife."

Lem's faint grin seemed to suggest that the wife was a handsome woman, too—and the person who addressed him was a young man, presumably with a young man's susceptibilities. But he only repeated, "Well, I'll do what I can, son. Come back soon's you can."

Driving up to Little Bayou in his uncle's car Latham revolved it—how best to impress Mrs. Snyder with the necessity of speaking frankly; wondering whether fortune would favor him with a chance to talk to her alone without obliging him to say pointblank before her husband that he wished to see her privately. He was really banking on the pretty brown eyed, genial woman, if he could get her alone.

His car left the narrow brick pavement, following the old rough shell road into the tall pines with clumps of shoulder high palmetto at short intervals in every direction. A little later he was plowing along the mere rutty wagon track. Here, where vegetation choked the road on both sides, was the spot where Charley Teller's abandoned jitney had stood on the previous Friday afternoon when Louise Sheldon had been bringing the young man she then called Andrus downtown to take the boat for St. Petersburg. That afternoon's scene came back to him vividly—for it might be called a prologue to the tragedy which followed. His face darkened; dear old Uncle Mark had been alive then, working his head off and running his legs off to get the stalled car out of the way and give Louise and Andrus a lift to town. He had heard Uncle Mark speak of the pair as "Miss Sheldon and her young man." . . . "Her young man." And there had been a woman's lacey handkerchief in his pocket. . . . Was he playing into the hands of Uncle Mark's murderers?

But he shook that blackness out of his mind as the girl, reaching up a hand to him, her yellow hair spread over the pillow, came back to his memory. Yet a while, at any rate, he'd do all he could to protect her.

"We're crooks, too. But there are crooks and crooks."

He left his car beside the rude roadway before the heavy gate to the old Yates place and went in afoot. It was a devil of a place, with those monstrous bignonia vines spreading their gorgeous yellow flowers to the sun above a death struck convolution of growths which the innumerable tendrils, twisting and thrusting everywhere, had choked the life out of—soft tendrils, too; one could break them with thumb and finger; lovely with their green leaves and graceful, rich colored blossoms. Yet they had finally choked the life out of everything that supported them, or were choking the life out. Was there a symbol in that of colorful, passionate grace and beauty softly destroying all to which it clung? Give it time and this clinging, colorful bignonia would kill the biggest oak. . . .

Luck was with him at the start, for there was Mrs. Snyder down at the dock giving some directions to a slattern and tattered Negro. Her back was turned and she did not see him until he was near at hand.

"Yaas'm; Ah sure onnerstan'; Ah sure doo," the Negro was drawling in that soft, languid accent which was like one of those sluggish costal streams. An experienced ear could have foretold at what speed the speaker would work. He was a lean, loose lipped, vacant faced young Negro—no doubt that same Sam who, Latham believed, had put the sting ray in Louise's boat. But if he had done that some far more vigorous intellect had impelled him to do.

"Good-morning," Latham called.

Mrs. Snyder turned, with welcome in her face, and the matter was easily arranged. A ruinous rustic bench between two water oaks and facing the bayou had been repaired so that it would stand up under the weight of two persons. Mrs. Snyder led him thither and sat down, attentive. He told her first what had happened in his office.

"She says it was the same man, and the candle was on the floor. Now, Mrs. Snyder, he couldn't have got into the house unless your cook let him in, and he couldn't have got out unless she let him out. Miss Sheldon must have been given a light opiate. Your cook must have given it to her."

After a moment, in an absorbed confidence, she said: "It must be true, then. I hated to believe it; but it must be true. . . . I questioned her about the sting ray, you know. She said Sam told her—Sam's the young colored saurian over yonder—told her that a couple of Negro boys rowed up to our dock that day and caught a sting ray near shore. He said they were holding its tail and plaguing it with a stick, and that's the last he saw of them. He went back to his work, you know, and left them there, and they must have put it in the boat. I questioned Sam and he repeated that story, and I believed it."

EITHER she was acting a part with much skill or she had made up her mind to take him into her confidence, for without any prompting she went on in a persuasively candid manner:

"We picked Selma up in Jamaica three years ago. She had been in Haiti at one time. She's a great fraud. She's got a wonderful rigmarole of voodoo stuff. She says her mother was a mammaloi—that's a voodoo priestess, you know—and she was brought up to the trade. She's got a lot of stuff about it, incantations, and sacrificial black cocks, and so on. And she's got the obeah business—that's praying people to death, and putting charms on 'em so they'll lose all their money, and love charms, and all that. She talks about it even to us with a perfectly grave face—big and black, you know, like an idol right out of the African jungle. Really, it does give you a fit of creeps to listen to her sometimes. We never laugh. We don't want to hurt her feelings.

"You see, Selma's really very intelligent; she's got a good brain. Sometimes I think she's a young woman and sometimes I think she's a hundred. I haven't a doubt that, in fact, she's a perfectly good mulatto Jamaican cook, who's heard this voodoo and obeah stuff talked among her own people and picked up the lingo and the rigmarole. She was in Haiti once, but she's rather vague about it—went over on an excursion, maybe. But don't you think a good deal of African jungle lurks around in most African brains? I do. I'd bet Selma's mammaloi stuff was all bunk; but probably when she gets herself properly worked up to it she almost believes that she espoused the sacred snake in the dark of the moon, or whatever it is you do that makes a sure enough voodoo priestess of you. And it's amusing to have a cook that's even a fake voodoo priestess. We've got a lot of amusement among ourselves out of Selma—and she can cook, doctor. It was a stroke of humor in the first place—our engaging her. She fell in love with my husband." Mrs. Snyder made the statement quite soberly, but she laughed at Latham's incredulous stare.

"Fact! You haven't seen my husband at his best. His upper lip isn't very good. Shaving off his mustache didn't help his appearance; but he's still a very handsome man, I think." She seemed to invite Latham's opinion, and he replied, "Oh, yes, decidedly."

"He was better with the mustache. When Selma offered to go to New York with us it was perfectly clear that he was the attraction. Well, that was amusing, too. We had a good many laughs over it—a voodoo priestess." Latham's faint smile admitted that one could extract humor out of a cook who was a voodoo priestess and in love with one's husband. But Mrs. Snyder at once became serious.

"That's the only explanation, doctor. Frank is fond of Lou, too. Selma must have grown jealous of her. A dog may be that jealous of its master, you know. Such cases have been known. Selma must have accepted me as part of the situation; but when Lou came in she must finally have grown jealous of her. I can't see any other explanation." She lowered her voice a little, as touching on sinister things. "A lot of African jungle in her brain, maybe, in spite of her intelligence—something dark and crawly, you know, that set her on to attack Lou underhand. . . . You can't tell, but it looks that way now. So maybe we've got an enemy in our house—a spy that's been giving information. I've thought of that. It could be nobody but Selma. The jungle part of her brain may have turned in that direction. Donahue, as you call him, may have got hold of her."

"But Donahue wasn't sure of your husband when he came here," Latham remarked, "not sure of his identity. He had a photograph of him that he wanted me to identify, after I came here to treat Miss Sheldon and had seen him. He said the true name was Fink."

He thought she looked startled. "Donahue had a photograph of my husband and said his name was Fink?"

Latham nodded.

She thought it over a minute and replied, with decision: "His name is not Fink. I will tell you who he is and why we came here."

The woman whom he had known as Mrs. Snyder then went on with an air of such simple candor that she was either skillfully acting a part or had made up her mind to throw down the bars and take him into her full confidence:

"My husband's name is Frank Kridel. You won't find it in the hall of fame or in the newspapers, except maybe once in a while in an incidental sort of way. When he got up to the point of making a living—which was eighteen—he went to work for Thomas Hallertan, and he kept on with him; grew up in his office, you might say." Her voice softened a bit.

"Tad Hallertan's got a bad name, now, doctor—and he's dead. They've unloaded things on him that he wasn't to blame for. There's a world pretty well filled up with worse men than Tad Hallertan—and not many that are much better. At first, you see, it was a good bucket shop. You know what that is?"

"In a general way."

"Well in a general way a good bucket shop is just as honorable as a fair faro bank. You make your bet; if you win you get the money; if you lose the bank wins. I don't know why it isn't a perfectly good man's game. But it's under the ban. It would take a week to tell it all, and there's no use. Four years ago Tad made a partnership with Luther Fink." The dark, intelligent eyes regarded him thoughtfully a moment, and she gave a considered judgment:

"Fink's a rat—so when it's all over he'll probably come out with a lot of money and a whole hide while better men will be under the sod. . . . Queer world, doctor. Luther Fink is a rat; but everybody took him for a silver fox till it was too late. Tad Hallertan was generous, loyal to his friends, generous to people he liked. He was always fond of my husband—and generous. While the money poured in we had our share. You see what I mean, doctor? I wouldn't think of denying that Tad Hallertan did all kinds of scandalous things in his business—finally. He was always a scandalous kind of man—hearty, fearless, reckless; he wanted a heap of money to blow in and to divide with his friends, and he just went out and got it. Scandalous, of course; but there was warm red blood in his veins, while Fink had only ice water—dirty ice water, too.

"But Tad Hallertan had friends. When it came to a pinch in his business he persuaded a couple of them to put up a good bit of money. . . . The plain English of it is they took a share in the business on the quiet. By that time, you see, thanks a good deal to Fink, the business was crooked as a corkscrew. This was a secret between Hallertan and these men, you understand—supposed to be a dead secret between them. But Fink nosed it out—trust him! Then Fink made a few passes of his own, and the concern blew up. There was a lot about it in the newspapers. And Tad Hallertan cut his throat." There was a little catch in her voice; then silence for a moment.

"Now, doctor, I'm going to tell you all I can tell anybody. Tad Hallertan loved a woman. Probably he hadn't any more right to than he had to do a million other things. Poor Tad, you see, never could bother his head about rights and wrongs. He loved this woman and was sad about her—leaving her unprovided for, because when the smash came he hadn't a dollar left. It was Fink who'd foreseen the smash, not Hallertan. He was very sad about her, doctor—and terribly worried about the two friends whom he had got into the business. . . . And good old Tad was even worried about Frank and me—fond of us both in his disreputable, warm hearted way. And he was on to Fink by that time."

She looked puzzled for a moment, her brows knitted; and confessed: "You see, you can't figure it out in rights and wrongs. It don't go that way. Tad had no head for those things. The two friends have a great deal of money and some reputation, too. They'd gone into the business on the quiet. If it could be proved that they were partners in the business, then they would be liable for some eight or nine million dollars of debts of Hallertan, Fink & Co., and their reputations would look like a flivver that's been hit by the lightning express. See? Hallertan didn't propose that should happen to them; but he did want them to make some provision for this woman and even some provision for Frank and me—only kind of legacy he could leave.

"He gave my husband some papers and told him to keep 'em tight, and he left a letter where Frank would be sure to get it, and then he cut his throat. Those papers were everything that would connect these two men with Hallertan, Fink & Co. He wanted them to give this woman one hundred thousand dollars and fifty thousand to us, and then to get those papers back. Protecting 'em with one hand and, you might say, blackmailing 'em with the other. That muddle, do you see, doctor, was the best Tad Hallertan could do to wipe his slate of all the other muddles. No right or wrong about it; but generosity. These two men will never miss a hundred and fifty thousand. We came down here with those papers. Fink must have nosed it out and sent somebody down here to get them. To that rat they'd easily be worth a million, two million, three million; because with them in his possession he could blackmail the two friends of Tad Hallertan. For money you can hire men in New York to do anything."

"THEN these two men you speak of, friends of Hallertan, sent Andrus down here to get those papers?" asked Latham.

Mrs. Snyder answered promptly: "His name is Billy Wheedon. He was in Hallertan's office, too. He knows the lady very well who is to get the hundred thousand dollars. He brought us fifty thousand in Liberty bonds. That ten thousand I put in the bank was all we had left before he came. Now, I've thought a lot about that, doctor. Billy was going to take the afternoon boat back to St. Petersburg. There was a stalled car that they couldn't get around. Then you and your uncle came along. That stalled car in the road may not have been an accident."

Latham also had thought about that. He replied, "There's a duffer from Pittsburgh down here named Benson. He's been looking for an orange grove. In fact, he bought one the other day. He's interested in orchids, too—the sort of talkative blockhead, you know, who tells you all about his family history and his business the second time he sees you. He hired Charley Teller to drive him into the woods two or three times—doesn't know how to drive a car himself. But he scraped up an acquaintance with Donahue at the hotel. He'd scrape up an acquaintance with a tombstone if there was nobody else to talk to. Well, it seems that Donahue offered to drive the car for him. He was driving it that day. He said that he let this man Benson out, then he drove on a ways until he found a place where he could turn around, and when he got back to that narrow place the car broke down. So he left it and went over in the woods to find Benson—tell him not walk too far, because they'd have to walk back to town. They took a circuit through the woods, looking for orchids and heading south, and by and by got back to town—in time to see Miss Sheldon and Andrus go to the dock. The stalled car might not have been an accident. This man from Pittsburgh is just a loquacious chucklehead. A clever man like Donahue could lead him by the nose. He might have suggested this excursion into the woods at this particular time in such a way that Benson would think he had suggested it himself. Left to himself, after Benson went into the woods, he could have tampered with the car any way he pleased. But Donahue is not the man with the red beard."

"You're sure?"

"Positive. He was with Lem White and the sheriff all the night that Miss Sheldon was at Crab island. Lem White couldn't be mistaken about that. And he wasn't at my office last night. He was out with the sheriff until after eleven. Now, here's another point. Donahue hired Lem White to help him recover money or bonds from your house, saying they were stolen and he was a detective hired by the creditors to get them. That's why Lem brought him here that day in the guise of an electric light repairman. But nothing happened and Lem got rather suspicious of Donahue—thought very likely Donahue was throwing him over. So he kept watch, more or less.

"One day he trailed Donahue into the woods, and then he saw a woman in a blue skirt—or rather a woman's blue skirt—following a path through the bayhead that a person coming from this house would naturally take. There's a tumbledown shack there. Lem stepped into it, looking for this woman—pitch dark inside. Somebody knocked him cold with a punch on the chin. Lem's a pretty tough old rooster. I doubt that Donahue could have delivered that punch. There was no bruise on his hand. Of course, he might have used brass knuckles, but even so I doubt that he could knock Lem stiff with one punch. Probably that woman in the blue skirt was Selma; but it all looks to me like somebody we haven't seen yet—a confederate hiding over on Crab island, say. Nobody ever goes there. Of course, the Judds could be hired to keep their mouths shut. They have been hired. We know that from what happened to Miss Sheldon. It's only a half mile from shore. After dark anybody could easily slip back and forth. With that, and signals, and through the Judds, Donahue could easily keep in touch with him."

"That's true," she said.

"There's no other way to account for this man in the red beard," Latham persisted. "It would account for Lem's punch on the chin. And now, Mrs. Snyder, there's another big difficulty to be got over. Say two cutthroats came down here, sent by Fink to get papers worth millions—Donahue in plain sight, operating on shore, and another man in hiding on Crab island. They get in touch with Selma through the Negro Sam, or some such way. That would not be difficult. She keeps them posted by some blind telephone messages and meeting in the bayhead and so forth. There's no difficulty about that. They know Andrus, or Wheedon, has the papers. They know the papers are in the bank."

He leaned a little toward her, forgetting her true name in his absorption:

"Mrs. Snyder, I saw the bank that morning. It was ransacked from end to end—vault and safe wide open, drawers pulled out and all that. It's only a little place, with only a little furniture in it. We've searched it all over since then. Either Andrus himself got the papers Saturday or they were in the bank Saturday night. A stranger like Andrus could hardly step on the street without being noticed. Careful inquiry has been made. Nobody saw him in town Saturday. The papers must have been in the bank Saturday night. Whoever killed my uncle must have got them. But here is Donahue to this day, almost a week after the murder, hanging around here—keeping the thing stirred up. If he killed my uncle and got the papers why would he be doing that? Here is the man with a red beard questioning Miss Sheldon—taking big chances in order to question her. Why should he be doing that when, if he killed my uncle, he already has the papers?"

She was regarding him with a questioning suspense, and asked, "What's your answer?"

"Say these men are cutthroats. They've got their hands on papers that may be worth millions in blackmail. The only answer I see that they are throwing Fink down, trying to make him think the papers are lost. Very likely they have good reason to fear Fink's vengeance. If Fink could hire a cutthroat to kill my uncle he could hire another to kill the first one, if the first one proved false. They may be afraid of Fink, and building up an alibi to fool him—and everything that's happened since the murder is hocus pocus—a blind to throw somebody off the scent."

She considered it and murmured, "That might be."

"Whoever killed my uncle got the papers," he insisted. "Why would these men be hanging around here unless they were trying to fool Fink?"

"Their staying here does need accounting for," she admitted.

"Yes." He looked her in the face a moment and spoke fairly in a tone of entreaty. "Mrs. Snyder, I believe you. I believe your sister. I've made up my mind. I must have some way to account for this beastly murder which leaves both of you innocent. 'I know you are innocent of that, . . . but you are mistaken about the man who called himself Andrus. He and Donahue came to an agreement."

Before she could speak he made a little gesture for silence, and went on: "I know you believe in him, Mrs. Snyder. I believe all you say about him—up to the crucial point. His fingerprints were in the bank. His cigaret stub was in the grate. My uncle was the best natured man alive, but he would not have carried good nature to the point of getting up in the night and opening the bank for a stranger. What could a stranger have said that would have led Uncle Mark to do that? It's impossible. But he knew Andrus. Miss Sheldon, whom Uncle Mark liked, had introduced him. Andrus had left the papers with him. He would have got up and opened the bank for Andrus. Do you see, Mrs. Snyder; even apart from those finger prints Andrus was necessary to the plot. I know you like him and believe in him; but it's impossible for me to."

She shook her head and pleaded: "O, no, doctor! Not Billy! It's out of the question. Such men don't do such things."

But Latham persisted: "He was a man who was used to crooked business; a man who was used to spending money freely. Probably the failure of this firm left him stranded, too. He knew what those papers meant. You admit all that yourself. He brought fifty thousand in bonds down here to you. Very well; he would bring fifty thousand or one hundred thousand dollars faithfully. But this other meant millions. You say so yourself. That's different——" He hesitated to say it because of the obvious implication, then added, doggedly, "The man was a crook—used to crooked business."

She gave him a candid, dolorous little smile, and replied: "We're crooks, too. My husband and I knew, finally, that the business was crooked, yet we kept in it. But there are crooks and crooks, Dr. Latham. Billy Wheedon is our kind of one."

It was embarrassing, but he persisted: "Those papers meant millions. He put them in the bank under Miss Sheldon's eyes. He may have had good reasons for fearing vengeance—and it would be of you that the men up north would inquire. He needed to throw dust in your eyes. Depend upon it, Mrs. Snyder, he somehow came to an understanding with Donahue. There was a plot inside of a plot. You can't account for Donahue staying here any other way."

But she repeated, "No, doctor! Not Billy Wheedon. That's impossible."

DANDERINE

"BRINGS LOVE TO YOUR FACE"

NEW Face Powder—Rouge
Lipstick . . . for evening wear

At glittering Paris Cafes . . . in smart London Night Clubs . . . an entirely new, separate face powder is being worn for evening.

No matter what powder you're now using—no matter how satisfactory you find it for ordinary use—you cannot, today, be correct without a separate make-up for the evening.

The Reason for this

You wouldn't go to a party—to the opera—with your ordinary street clothes. Why, then, wear the same powder and make-up you use all day? Artificial lights require a special shade of make-up.

Every actress knows this. That's why complexions are always beautiful on the stage. Daytime powder—rouge—lipstick, will not blend with artificial light!

Tonight—try this

There's a new shade of face powder, rouge, lipstick, lip rouge. The name—TRUVY SPECIAL evening shade. A new ingredient makes the powder stay on longer.

Wm H Roche

31 W. Illinois St., Chicago, Ill.—This man is friendly, stubborn, ectrospective, direct and materialistic in his thoughts. His writing shows that he has power of execution, but with it, as his chief weakness, undeveloped ability to co-ordinate. He scatters his activities, where if he were to concentrate on one thing, his stubbornness would be his greatest advantage. He likes people so much, and spends so much time with them, that he does not develop his abilities.

Marion Bergen

6151 May St., Chicago, Ill.—This writing shows a mind that is still growing. It is changing, receiving new ideas and putting the old ones into new orders. There are no set opinions visible in the writing. This is hardly to be wondered at, because opinions are not worth much, nor do they affect character until the mind his taken one definite mold. This character is vigorous, bold, with a strong will and abundant energy to use wherever mind and affections direct.

Chas. W. Forskelock

Route No. 4, Muskegon, Mich.—A calm man is here, slow to make up his mind, slow to form opinions, and slow to place his will unreservedly behind any project. This is what the writing shows. He has great generosity and a deep grasp upon human understanding. He is slow because he is conservative. He makes sure of things first. But when he has made up his mind and has set his heart in one way, he is equally slow to unmake them. His signature shows an unusual degree of constancy.

Vivian King Wilson

422 W. 47th St., Kansas City, Mo.—There is vigor in this writer's personality. See with what heavy, forceful strokes all the letters are made. Here is a mind that does not hesitate at decisions. Here is a mind that has grasp. A visitor talking to this writer would be at once impressed with what is called "personality," which is an aggregate of opinions boldly outlined and strongly put. The upslant of the bases of the words shows that the writer is hopeful and not easily discouraged.

A. A. Kimmel

1308 Central St., Dodge City, Kan.—Here is a man whose mind moves rapidly. He is impulsively generous. He acts on the impulse of the moment and no appeal to his emotional nature is ever passed by. Material things, conditions and abstractions mean little to him. To his eyes it is personality alone that counts. He does not arrive at conclusions by orderly thought, for this seems unnecessary to him; he finds that intuition is his best and truest guide.

Julian L. Roland

Box 32, Logansport, Ind.—This person has the mind of a genius. A genius in character analysis is a person whose thoughts run unusually strong in some one direction. A genius has "talent." Looking over a number of signatures of persons who were talented, this sample was picked as the most interesting. Her mind is inclined toward people; she has a poetic viewpoint and a good understanding of dramatic values. She likes art and expression, nature and strange happenings.

William Melvin

Illinois Soldiers' Home, Quincy, Ill.—Here is the signature of a man whose mind is definite and precise, and whose thoughts are well reflected. He ventures an opinion only after he has given the matter due deliberation. This can be seen from the slant of his letters. His views are inclined toward precision rather than ruggedness, and he is apt to be conservative. He is generous where his emotions are touched, but otherwise he keeps things to himself.

Mrs. L. S. Furry

1146 Kern St., Waterloo, Ia.—These letters denote emotions. The writer is almost all emotion. She does not get her own way by carefully schemed plots, nor by taking shrewd advantages. She does not meditate ways of overcoming other people's wills. This would be foreign to her nature. Her generosity is great, she gives without stint, and without a thought of what possible advantage she may get for herself. Unselfishness is her outstanding characteristic.

Thayer Divers

1315 2nd St., S. W., Canton, O.—The man who wrote this is an aesthete. He likes beautiful things for their own sake. This can be told by the lightness of his touch, and by the ornaments with which he adorns his name. He is a quick thinker and a quick doer, fonder of deeds than he is of reflection, but nevertheless a man of some shrewdness. His desire for generosity is held in balance by his feeling for acquisition, so that he thinks carefully before committing himself.

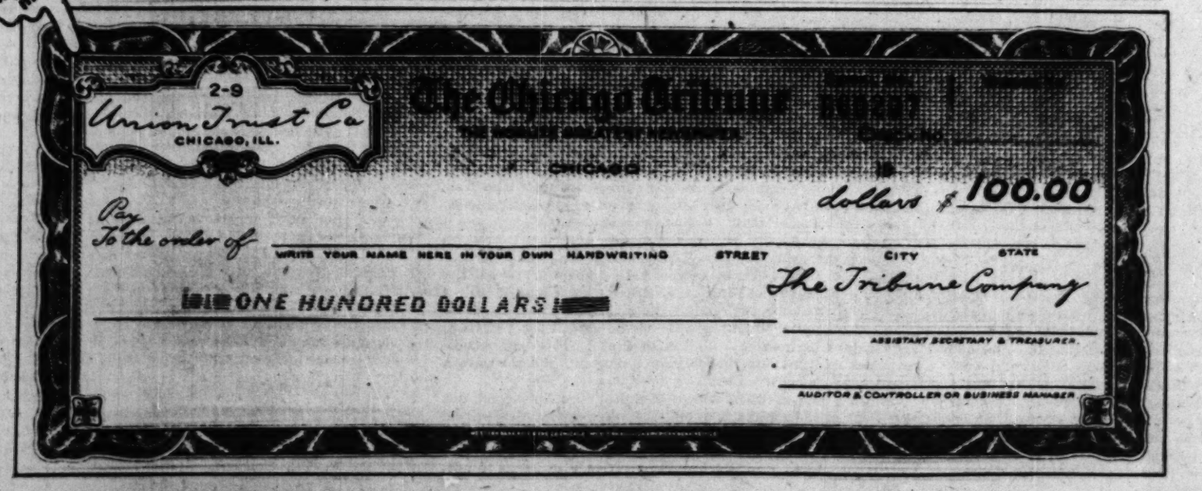
Chas E. Welbourn Jr

954 Second Ave., Kenosha, Wis.—This man likes to do things with speed. Impetuosity of mind is apparent in every letter of this signature—a willingness to attempt actions on the hope alone that they may turn out well. That they do not always turn out well is also apparent, because he has had enough disappointment to give his mind a somewhat moody, downcast and introspective outlook. He is as impetuous with his emotions as he is with his actions, feeling intensely and often being hurt.

THE FINAL TEN MOST INTERESTING SIGNATURES WILL BE PUBLISHED NEXT SUNDAY.

SIMPLY TEAR OUT THIS CHECK, FILL IN YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS, AND SEND TO DORIS BLAKE, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, POSTOFFICE BOX 1539, CHICAGO, ILL. IF YOUR HANDWRITING REVEALS UNUSUAL CHARACTER, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE WILL REDEEM THIS CHECK FOR $100.00 IN CASH.

WRITE YOUR NAME HERE

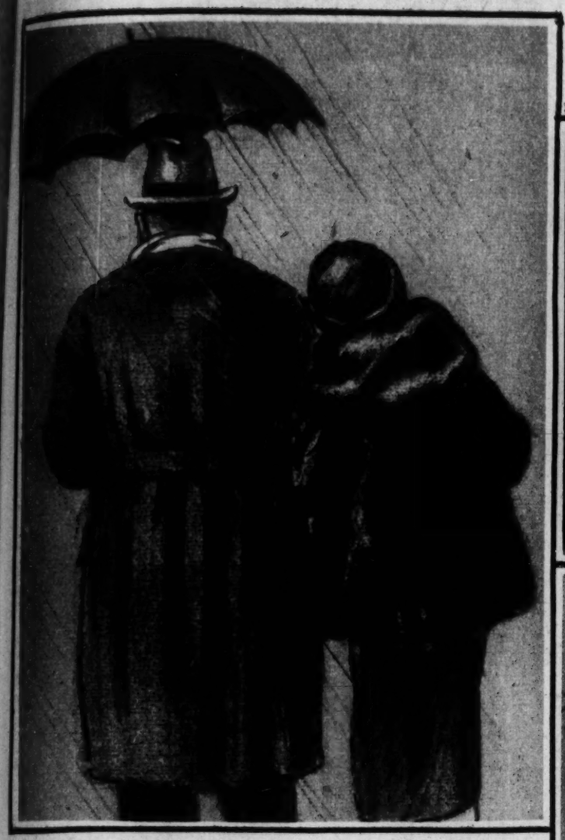


The RULES

1. The public is invited to submit specimens of handwriting to Doris Blake of The Chicago Tribune for character analysis. The Chicago Tribune will pay $10,000.00 in cash for handwriting specimens which, in the opinion of Doris Blake, reveal the most interesting characters. $1,000.00 will be paid each week in ten cash prizes of $100.00 for each handwriting specimen selected.
2. This offer is open to everybody except employes of The Chicago Tribune and their families. It does not matter where you live.
3. A blank check will be published in The Chicago Tribune every Sunday. All that is necessary is to fill in your name and address on this check and send it to Doris Blake, The Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. The check is published for convenience. You may use this or write on a separate sheet of paper.
4. Write with pen and ink in natural handwriting. Plain, everyday handwriting will count just as much as trained or excellent penmanship.
5. The Chicago Tribune will redeem each check selected by Doris Blake for $100.00 in cash.

WIND AND RAIN

By W. E. HILL



This man has been joined in holy wedlock to the wee wife for many a year. You can tell by the way he holds the umbrella in a rainstorm.

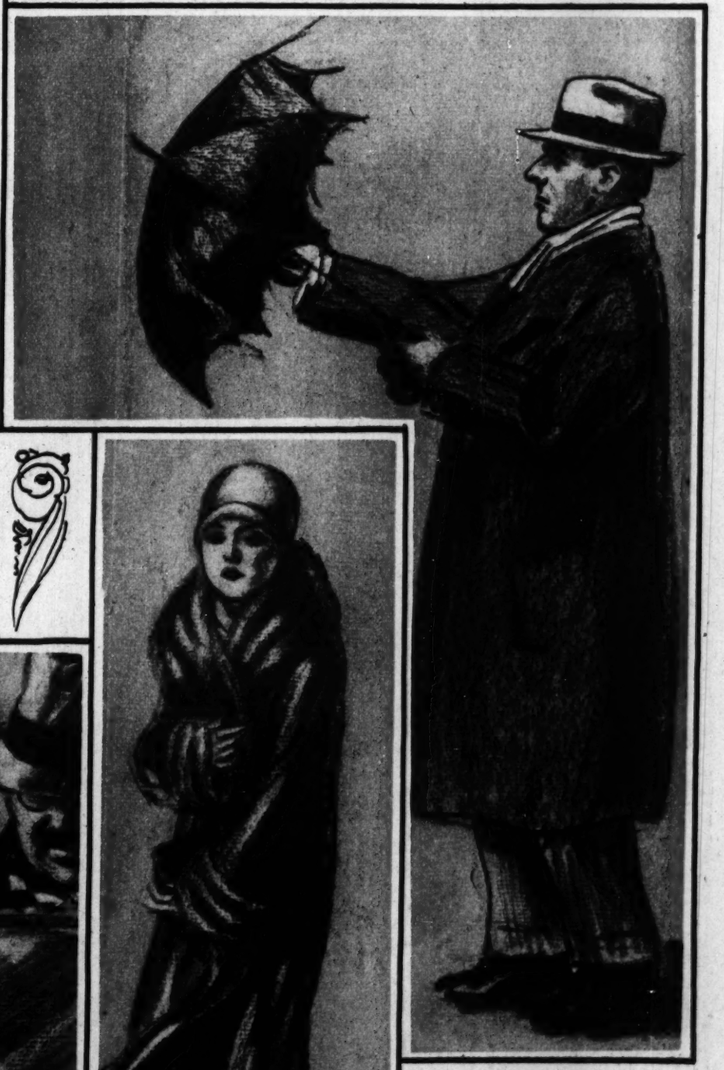
"Hey, wat's a matter wid youse, anyhow; wha'd youse think this is, a hearse?" This, then, is the final word in an argument between the handsome boy at the wheel and the lovely fare on the subjects of slowing down, skidding and wet pavements.

The 4:55 traffic jam, under the hurricane awning outside any theater on a stormy matinee day. Each and every matinee girl is hailing the next taxi in sight.

Any one who has tried to nab a taxi on a stormy day knows only too well that wind and rain make taxi drivers too proud and haughty for words. Unless they take a liking to your face they drive right on past! And nothing can be done about it.

From top to bottom, we have with us this stormy day: First, the lady who is tousled and mousled by the wind and rain till you'd think she'd been in a free for all; next, the chilled young man with the dripping derby, to say nothing of a red tipped nose; and last, the sweet young thing on whom the March blasts make no impression —nothing short of a tidal wave can injure that school girl drug store complexion.

Loreni, the fair co-ed, out braving the angry elements in her roommate's slicker. All slickered up, Loreni is traveling the distance between Sheepface hall (chemistry 2) and Mary E. Dolan memorial dormitory, with only a minimum wetting.



The borrowed umbrella and the wind and the rain! "Now this is an old umbrella," they said, "and you won't have to worry about returning it."

O, to be back home and in bed! Poor Lillian White. Aren't you sorry for her on this rainy, windy morning, on her way to work, when any one can see that she is simply worn out from entertaining the Zion Euchre club last night! She might just as well, advises her friend Viola (Viola works in the same apartment house), take the next car back home and get some sleep. "Let 'em," says Viola, "get their own breakfast —you should think of your health first!"

Just a beautiful girl in a fur coat and flesh colored stockings on a stormy day. The stockings will be a deep mulatto polka dot after one more mud puddle!

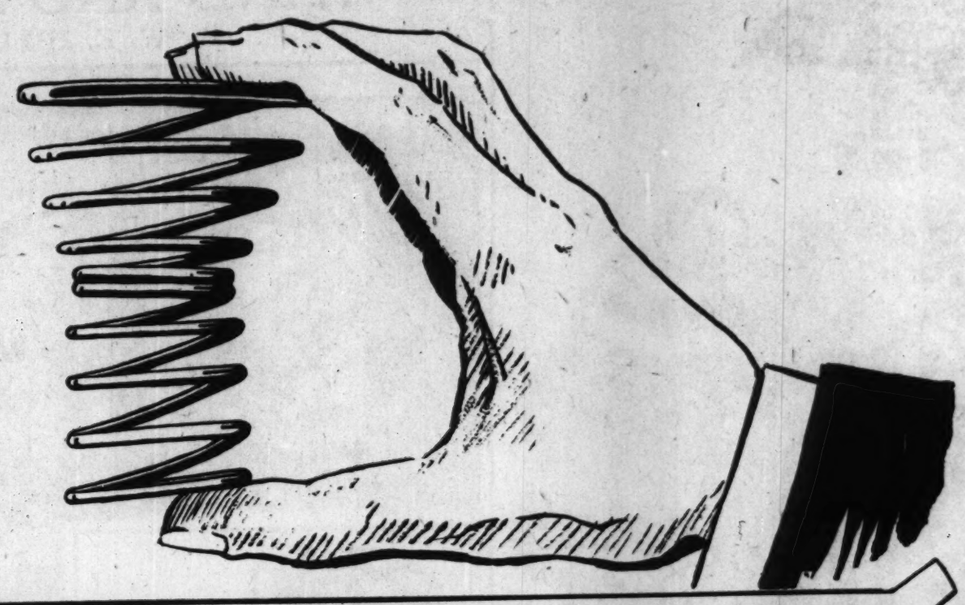
Soft



"Soft?".... Luxuriously!
"Silent?".... Completely!
"Comfortable?".... Deliciously!

YOU'LL ask these questions whenever you buy a bed spring. Find the Downy Rest trade mark and you'll have the right answer to all three of them. Each one of the coil springs is so sensitive that it yields easily to the slightest pressure. Scores of these gently resilient coils give you an ideal sleeping surface, that fits cozily up to every curve of your body. Now you can lie with every nerve and muscle restfully relaxed, in any sleeping position. And in the morning you'll wake up clear-eyed—refreshed—ready to make the most of the day.

We are all apt to be pretty careless about our health. We are much too busy to worry until we find ourselves all tired out, and half sick from the strain of busy, hurried days. Yet we know perfectly well that nothing is quite so important to us as good sound sleep.

You'll find it is real economy to give up "getting along" with the old bed springs. Go to see the Downy Rest Dealer in your neighborhood. He will show you the Downy Rest that fits your bed, and explain to you just why it is a better bed spring. You can pay more, but you can't get greater value for your money.

The time to Begin is in the Beginning

"Teeth are Like People

"YOU wouldn't let your boy play with bad or diseased older boys. Yet you have let his second teeth grow up with diseased first teeth. No wonder some of them are spoiled.

"Teeth are a good deal like people that way. These permanent teeth have to associate with the first teeth which haven't come out yet. They pick up the germs of disease and trouble from these companions.

"Probably you thought those first teeth were unimportant—since they were temporary—but now you see why you should have kept them clean."

THE CHILD'S FACE GROWS TO FIT THE TEETH

Mouth breathing, enlarged tonsils, adenoids—result from the stream of poison from decayed baby teeth. The child is weakened—made an easy prey to all the ills which ravage childhood.

And decayed first teeth lead to permanent teeth diseased and crooked. The child's face grows to fit those second teeth. If they are sound and straight, the child can develop in the normal health, intelligence and appearance nature provided for.

Only clean baby teeth can thus guard the future—and only you, Mother, can see that those baby teeth are kept clean always.

Mother's Duty made Easy by these New Methods

KIDDIEKIT for Babies and Children
4 months to 5 Years

Baby swims the soothing KiddieKit method. Massages the teething baby's gums with the KiddieKit Applicator and pure, mild Cream. The gums are kept pink and healthy and the new teeth helped to grow into place. Up to the age of five, keep baby's teeth clean and free from the germs and stains of decay by regular use of KiddieKit. The complete set costs one dollar and lasts for months.

CHILDENT for Children
5 to 12 Years

Childent is a mild, cleansing, protecting cream with the delightful taste children love—in wonderful full-size Toy Tubes. Teeth cleaning time is play time with Childent. No longer need Mother force the unwilling child to use adult tooth pastes.
Childent costs no more than ordinary tooth pastes—50c in a big Toy Tube.

Butterfield was first in America to make Mercerized Sateens!

CONTRARY to popular belief, mercerized sateens are a comparatively recent product—the first in America being Butterfield's Amiisilk created in 1899.

A "Butterworth Calender" essential to the finish of sateens, was specially imported to America for this purpose.

The process was so successful that it has never been varied tho' results have been improved—due to the better application of dyes—producing the brighter, softer tones of today.

"Amiisilk"—the original American mercerized sateen, has never been surpassed for quality, luster, and softness. Other sateens have since been added to meet various needs. Each is offered in no fewer than sixty-eight colors.

As you SMILE - LAUGH - TALK

Are you proud of your Teeth?

With Pebeco your smile will always be admired

BEHIND your smile—the very essence of it—are your teeth.

Learn how to keep your smile charming, your teeth always white and sound by restoring the cleansing action of your own salivary glands.

Our soft, sweet foods cannot sufficiently exercise the all-important salivary glands. Their work of bathing the teeth—neutralizing with alkaline fluids the ever-forming acids of decay—gradually stops.

More and more the plaques of tartar form—the bacteria accumulate—the pus-pockets multiply—your once shining teeth are on the way to dullness and decay.

It is a waste of time to brush away the acids by ordinary methods. To thwart decay, to keep your teeth permanently white and clear, you must restore the cleansing, protective action of your salivary glands.

The greatest dental authority of modern times in his latest book—"The Prevention of Dental Caries and Oral Sepsis," says, "Some substance which is a salivary stimulant should be used in order to promote and educate the activity of the salivary glands."

To keep teeth glistening, safe—restore the cleansing action of your glands . .

Pebeco counteracts the acids of decay

PEBECO is a marvelous salivary stimulant. As soon as it enters your mouth the salivary glands flow more freely.

With regular daily use Pebeco entirely restores the normal, protective flow of your glands. Their alkaline fluids bathe your teeth day and night and prevent the formation of bacterial plaques or film. The acids of decay are neutralized as fast as they form.

Pebeco polishes beautifully without using any gritty substance. It keeps your teeth beautifully white, your gums firm, your whole mouth healthy.

Guard your complexion against soft coal soot

Don't think of soft coal soot simply as a nuisance to be endured until winter is over. It is a real menace to the complexion. Unless you take extra precautions your skin may lose much of its lovely clearness. Guard against this with Daggett & Ramsdell's Perfect Cold Cream.

Use it generously—more than under normal conditions. The usual nightly cleaning, of course, but also several times during the day. When you come in after shopping or walking or motoring, remove all traces of soft coal smoke and soot with this pure cold cream—it takes only a minute or two to spread a bit on and then wipe it off. Then you are sure that your pores are free of clogging grime.

It is wise to apply a little Daggett & Ramsdell's Perfect Vanishing Cream before going out. Not only does this new vanishing cream make an excelent base for powder and rouge—it also serves as additional protection to your skin.

A little care, with the aid of these fine creams, will keep your complexion lovely through the most trying conditions.

For three minutes every night do this—

1. Smooth a coat of Daggett & Ramsdell's Perfect Cold Cream over your face and neck with your finger tips.
2. Leave on the Perfect Cold Cream for a minute to sink deep in your pores where the unseen dirt is lodged.
3. Now wipe off the cleansing cold cream and the dirt that clings to it with upward strokes of a soft cloth. Then smooth on a little more and leave it there to revive your skin through the night.

Before Powdering

Smooth a very light coat of Daggett & Ramsdell's Perfect Vanishing Cream over your face before you powder. It disappears almost instantly leaving your skin velvety smooth and even in appearance. It is the perfect base for powder and rouge.

Soot Protection

Daggett & Ramsdell's Perfect Vanishing Cream should be used, too, just before you go out-doors as it provides a splendid protection against dust, wind and soft coal soot.

Sold wherever toilet goods are sold. If you ask for Daggett & Ramsdell's Creams by name, you can and should get them.

Up-to-date Chicago Chooses Colgate's

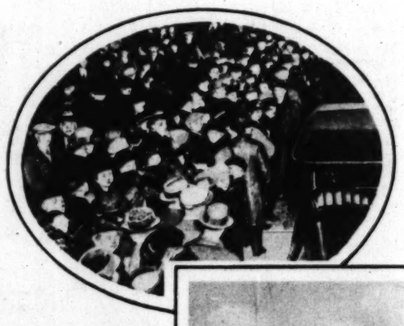
—and Chicago is the dental center of the world

Larger dental meetings are held here—authoritative facts about teeth radiate from Chicago to help guide dental opinion all over the world.

And surveys prove that Colgate's dental cream is Chicago's favorite. Everywhere—west side—south side—north side—up and down the "Gold Coast", more Chicagoans use Colgate's than they do any other dentifrice.

The principal ingredients of Colgate's are mild, tasteless soap and fine chalk, the two things that dental authorities say a safe dental cream should contain. The combined action of these ingredients washes, polishes and protects the delicate enamel of your teeth. Thus Colgate's removes causes of tooth decay, and protects against the germs and poisons that may shatter both good looks and health.

COLGATE & CO.
North American Bldg., Chicago



(Left)—In this typical group of busy Chicagoans there are more people who brush their teeth with Colgate's than with any other dentifrice.

(Below)—The world famous Drake Hotel where the American Dental Society recently met.

This might have been prevented

The most dreaded disease of humanity—cancer of the mouth—can be the result of bad teeth. The American Society for the Control of Cancer charges abnormal tooth conditions with being the chief cause of this fearful affliction. Here is their emphatic statement in the Bulletin, VI, No. 12:

"People who will not attend to their teeth, by periodical visits to the dentist or the dental clinic, and by daily brushing of the teeth, should know that they, and almost no others, suffer and die from cancer of the mouth region. . . . Too much emphasis cannot be laid on the fact that the prevention of cancer in the mouth rests largely with the individual himself, and is to be accomplished first by the maintenance of cleanliness of the mouth and teeth, and secondly by the prompt seeking of competent medical advice."

These statements prove how extremely dangerous it is to let the poisons and germs of tooth decay linger in the mouth. A small cavity . . . the presence in your mouth of insidious poisons . . . and in the end your health shattered.

Use Colgate's—Give yourself a chance!

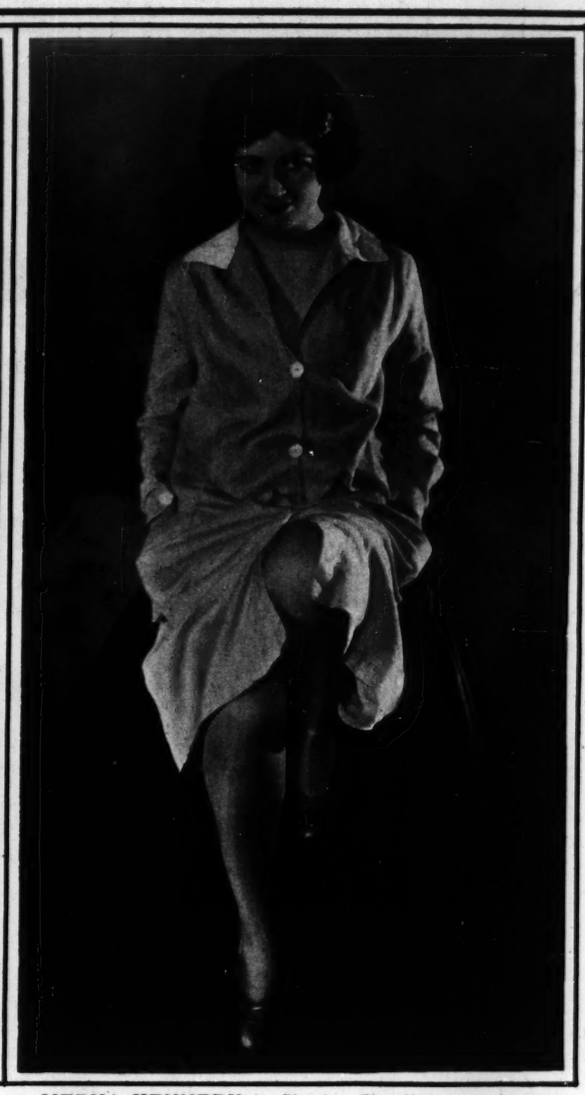
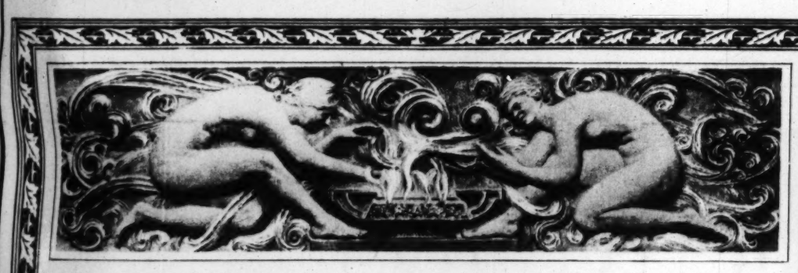
PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE is said to be one of the most feminine of women—a heartbreaker in laces and graces. Be that as may, she's mighty stunning here in this riding costume that she wears in "The Skyrocket"!

COLLEEN MOORE has a new dress and a new hat. We think she is something to see in the outfit. That you may feast your eyes upon her we obligingly print her picture this morning. Y'wekkum!



MERNA KENNEDY is Charles Chaplin's new leading lady, and, looking at her, who will say that Charlie is not some picker? A little on the order of Lita Grey (Mrs. Chaplin), don't you think?



LES PASTELS COTY

The most perfect rouges in all the world — created by COTY to fulfill the demand of millions of women for rouges as supremely fine in quality as the COTY Face Powders. Their glorious colourings in eight tones for all types harmonize in exquisite effect with the COTY powder shades.

"Isn't it wonderful to be getting ahead in the world!"

THAT'S what pretty Mrs. Williams thought. Wonderful to have Jim Williams making such splendid progress in business. Fascinating to see the happy change in their social life.

With important new friends to entertain, she realized that if Jim's business success were to be made the most of, their social progress must keep up with it. In a few years they would build a new house, but until then she must make their present home as attractive as possible.

Mrs. Williams was an adept at this. Simple as it was, people began to consider her home quite charming. "Guests notice things so," Mrs. Williams told Jim, "and they appreciate the little refinements. Jim, I wish we had a better looking bathroom. I see such wonderful ones in other women's homes; all white tile and white fixtures, like 'palaces of cleanliness.' I don't think it would pay to have ours made all over now; we'll build soon. But I wish I could find an easy, inexpensive way to make it look better. It's my greatest problem."

"You'll solve it," Jim told her. And as a matter of fact, she did. In the simplest possible way. Simply by replacing the old dark-colored toilet seat with a handsome, modern all-white "Church" Toilet Seat.

Quickly installed; lasts years

THE improvement which this made in the appearance of the bathroom was astonishing. Its beauty and refinement are qualities which every woman wants in her bathroom—a room she can be proud to have guests use. Its price makes it a bathroom luxury everyone can afford.

The "Church" Seat stays permanently white. Its handsome ivory like surface won't crack, splinter, chip, wear off or stain. It washes as easily as porcelain. You can install it yourself on any toilet in a few minutes. Obtainable at any plumber's.

Are you satisfied with your bathroom?

IF YOU have sometimes wished that your bathroom looked a little more attractive and up-to-date, send for a free copy of our attractively-illustrated little book of sixteen pages, which tells how one woman discovered how to make her bathroom a room she would be proud to have guests use. It will help you. To secure it promptly, use the coupon below. We will mail it free and without obligation to you.

It's the scurry of their active feet . . that hurries up the shoe bills

Thirty-five years have taught us a lot about making shoes for boys and girls

HUMAN dynamos! Where healthy youngsters get their boundless supply of energy sometimes passes all understanding. And how they do "go through" a pair of shoes!

But—maybe the shoes are largely to blame. There's something wrong when seams rip, leather breaks or soles go flap-flapping before your pocketbook has recovered from its latest trip to the shoe store.

Here are shoes that are shoes

Try Endicott-Johnson shoes. See what a difference there can be in shoes. We specialize in shoes for active feet. Never in our thirty-five years' experience have we lost sight of the fact that shoes for boys and girls should be different from those for grown-ups. That leather must be specially tanned to make it tough and strong—and good-looking too. And that the development of growing feet must be considered.

Endicott-Johnson shoes embody all these considerations. When we design a type of shoes, we test them. Put them on actual boys and girls. Watch for possible weaknesses. Remedy them. See that designs are right. Then, step by step, we build into them wear, comfort and style.

We tell our workers what these shoes must do. We give them special incentives to put their best workmanship into every pair. They know what you expect. They have an interest in seeing you buy these shoes time after time. They do make better shoes for men and women, as well as for boys and girls.

Prove the quality of these shoes yourself

See them. Examine them. Try them on your children. Compare them with shoes you've bought before. Consider the extremely reasonable prices.* Sold by 50,000 stores. Scores of styles—for school, dress and play. Beautiful patterns. Handsome finishes. Comfortable shapes.

There is almost certain to be a store in your neighborhood selling Endicott-Johnson shoes. If you don't happen to know where it is, write us.

ENDICOTT-JOHNSON

1. GEO F. JOHNSON—Smart calfskin Oxfords for young fellows who want the latest in style. Swagger "blimp" last, and the popular new shades of leather.
2. WILDFIRE—A patent-leather Charleston pump. A touch of grown-up style added to an immensely serviceable little shoe.
3. HI-KICK—Boys' knockabout shoes made from sturdy golden elk leather. Nothing like them for steady, every-day service, or for solid comfort.
4. ENDWELL—One-strap pumps decidedly in favor with high school girls. Patent leather in a dainty, practical model.
5. EVERYBOY—Boys' sport Oxfords in rich golden leather. Crepe soles make feet believe they're on balloon tires. For school, dress and sports wear.

Sold at The Cutler Store in The Loop
New Palmer House and at other leading stores in Chicago and elsewhere

HO-HUM! THINGS ARE SO QUIET AROUND HERE I'M GETTING SLEEPY - I THINK I'LL KEEP MY APPOINTMENT WITH MISTER SANDMAN -

ALL YOU'VE DONE SINCE DINNER IS YAWN - EVERY TIME I LOOK AT YOU YOUR FACE REMINDS ME OF THE ENTRANCE INTO A TUNNEL -

WHAT'S THE MATTER? WHAT HAPPEND TO THE LIGHTS? WHAT'S WRONG?

THEY'VE GONE OUT AGAIN - THAT'S THE THIRD TIME THIS MONTH -

WAIT A MINUTE TILL I LIGHT A MATCH - I'LL SPEND A NICKLE TO TELL THAT ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANY WHAT I THINK OF THEIR SERVICE -

YOU STAY WHERE YOU ARE - IF YOU GO FOOLING AROUND IN THE DARK - YOU MAY FALL AND HURT YOURSELF - I'LL CALL THE COMPANY UP -

CAN YOU FIND THE TELEPHONE MIN?

OUCH!! I BURNT MY FINGER -

DON'T LET ME STAND HERE IN THE DARK - LIGHT ANOTHER MATCH -

WHERE ARE THE MATCHES, MIN? THAT WAS THE LAST ONE I HAD IN MY POCKET - YOU'LL FIND SOME ON THE SMOKING-STAND NEAR THE MANTLE PIECE -

C!

BAM!

THAT'S A FINE PLACE TO PUT A ROCKING CHAIR - THERE ARE NO MATCHES ON THE SMOKING-STAND - I MIGHT HAVE KNOWN THERE WOULDN'T BE -

THERE IS A BOX OF MATCHES ON THE GAS STOVE IN THE KITCHEN BUT BE VERY CAREFUL -

HELLO! IS THIS THE ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANY?

TELL THEM NOT TO FORGET TO SEND THEIR BILL ON THE FIRST OF THE MONTH - TELL 'EM NOT TO WORRY ABOUT GIVING US ANY LIGHT AS LONG AS THEY SEND THEIR BILLS IN PROMPTLY WE'LL BE SATISFIED -

WHAT'S THAT? YOU SAY A FUSE BLEW OUT AND YOU WILL HAVE IT FIXED IMMEDIATELY - THANK YOU -

OH, WELL, THAT MEANS NEVER - I'LL GO IN THE KITCHEN AND GET THE MATCHES AND FIX IT MYSELF - I'LL GET SOME ACTION -

TEXAS SLIM AND DIRTY DALTON

STAGE A BIG CLEAN-UP.

WOULD YOU MIND CLEANING THE RUBBISH OFF THE BACK PORCH, MR. DALTON?

WITH PLEASURE, MISS JESSIE!

HO HUM— GOSH THIS SPRING SUNSHINE CERTAINLY MAKES A FELLOW DOPEY-TEXAS- I GOING TO TAKE A NAP.

WELL SWEET DREAMS, DIRTY— MISS JESSIE IS WAVING FOR ME TO COME OVER AND I'M GOING TO SEE WHAT SHE WANTS.

YOU GO TAKE MY NAP FOR ME, KID- SHE WOULDN'T WASTE HER TIME WAVING AT A SAP LIKE YOU.

IT'S SO NICE OF YOU, MR. DALTON TO COME OVER- I WAS JUST HOPING SOMEONE WOULD HELP ME WITH MY SPRING HOUSECLEANING.

HA HA HA HA

BAH!

WHY, YOU BIG BUM— I MUST SAY YOU HAVEN'T MUCH OF A SENSE OF HUMOR.

SURE I HAVE, TEXAS- HA HA HA

DIRTY DALTON, THAT'S ABOUT ENOUGH FROM YOU— DON'T EVER DARKEN MY DOOR AGAIN. I'M GOING TO LET TEXAS FINISH THE JOB.

AW-

GOLLY THAT CHAIR SURE IS A WRECK- I'M GOING TO SURPRISE HER AND MEND IT.

HELLO, MISS JESSIE- LOOK— I'VE FIXED YOUR OLD CHAIR!

OH FOR PITY SAKES, TEXAS! YOU WENT AND RUINED THAT ANTIQUE CHAIR.

BOO HOO HOO— AND IT WAS A REAL ANTIQUE TOO- MY GRANDMOTHER BROUGHT IT WEST IN A COVERED WAGON.

HA HA HA HA

NOW WHAT IS HE UP TO?

CRASH

THERE YOU ARE, MISS JESSIE— I'VE FIXED IT UP JUST AS GOOD AS NEW.

IF IT'S A BURGLAR I'M READY FOR HIM.

DID YOU HEAR IT TOO, MISTA WALT? MEBBY IT'S SOMEBODY GETTIN' INTO THE BASEMENT.

GOLLY I WONDER IF I LOCKED THAT WINDOW IN THE COAL BIN.

YOURE A SWELL WATCH DOG, PAL! WHY AREN'T YOU UP AND AROUND LOOKING FOR THE BURGLAR?

I DIDN'T FIND A THING, RACHEL.

I THOUGHT MEBBY I HEARD SOMEBODY ON THE BACK PORCH.

SOAK HIM BEFORE HE SOAKS YOU, MISTA WALT.

I'LL GET HIM!

HALT!

NO SIGN OF ANYBODY, RACHEL.

YOU DON'T SPOSE NOBODY WOULD PUT UP A LADDER AND TRY TO KIDNAP SKEEZIX UPSTAIRS?

IF ANYBODY TRIED THAT I'D ANNIHILATE 'EM

OH! SO THAT'S THE DESPERATE BURGLAR I'VE BEEN TRAILING!
